Oshawa Ekes Out a 4-3 Win To Lengthen Series Margin

Oshawa Merchants staved off a ninth-inning threat by the Petes here last night to eke out a 4-3 win and take a lead of three games to one in their best-of-seven Viaduct Baseball League final series. They play tonight in Toronto, with a sixth one in Peterborough Saturday night and a seventh in Toronto on Sunday afternoon, if the series lasts that long. A big crowd saw the local fixture last evening.

The pitching was pretty even with Darrell Thompson of Oshawa and Doug Plunkett each allowing 11 hits and fanning four. Plunkett was taken out in the eighth for a pinch-hitter, Gunner Whitehill finishing up. Thompson had the tying run aboard in the ninth when he retired in favor of Jerry Creasy, who got the next two out to give the visitors the victory. The Petes had three errors to two for Oshawa.

Extra-base Hits

The winners clouted a homer, two triples and two doubles to come through in the right spots for the close win. Roger Wood led at bat with two triples and a single in five. Darrell Thompson had two in four, Paul Thompson a double and single in five, and Vic Napolitano a homer to left centre. Aaron Bitman hit a two-bagger. Bud Harrison led for the Murphyites with a triple, double and single in five, Joe Stewart having two singles in four, and Howie Dalton a triple and single in five tries. A pickup by Danny Brown, a local double-play and a catch by Ted Barnes were fielding features.

Oshawa got a run in the first when Paul Thompson singled moved up on a hit by Wood and raced home on Harry Hill's single. The Petes got it back next inning when Bill Edger singled, took second as Fred Garvey was hit, advanced on Paul Estlick's sacrifice and tallied on a single by Stewart. A double by Paul Thompson and a triple by Wood in the third added one for Oshawa. They went up 3-1 in the fourth on Napolitano's homer. The Petes whittled it a bit in the sixth when Estlick strolled, advancing twice on an out and an error and tearing in on a three-bagger by Dalton to left.

Made It Close

In the seventh Oshawa scored their last run on a triple to centre by Wood, and a two-base blow by Bitman. Harrison's three-bagger in the seventh was wasted but the Petes kept fighting and made it close in the last of the ninth. Dalton led off with a single and, after Brown flied out, he raced to third on a double by Harrison. Creasy came in then and Menzies rolled out, Dalton scoring on the play. Ed Murphy, batting for Bill Edger, ended the game by flying to right.

Royals Down Toronto 6-5

By The Associated Press.

The International League play-off picture is just about complete today. Montreal is within a game of clinching second place and Baltimore a game away from third.

Montreal downed Toronto Maple Leafs 6-5 Thursday night while Baltimore trounced the fourth-place Jersey City Giants 9-2.

Omar (Turk) Lown went all the way for his 13th victory for Montreal. The Royals piled up a 6-2 lead and then weathered a three-run Toronto rally in the eighth inning.

Veteran Russ Bauers also turned in his 13th victory in stopping the Giants. Bauers granted seven hits while his mates pounded out 15.

The pennant-winning Rochester Red Wings divided a doubleheader with the last place Buffalo Bisons. The Wings took the opener 12-7 and the Bisons trounced the Wings 17-7 in the second game.

Syracuse moved to within half a game of fifth place Springfield by beating the Cubs 6-3.

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press.

Johnny Mize, Cardinal first baseman, set a major league record 10 years ago today when he hit three home runs in a game for the fourth time in his career. Mize, now holding first base for New York Yankees, got his homers in successive trips to the plate in a game against Pittsburgh Pirates, but the Pirates won, 16-14.

Oshawa Takes First One Over Orphans

Dez Seles displayed exceptional form last night at the Bowl as Oshawa juniors defeated the local Orphans 12-1, in the first game of the OASA junior series before a small gallery. The second go will be Monday or Tuesday at the Motor City.

Seles struck out 11 and walked but three, allowing six scattered hits while his mates pounded out 16 safeties for a dozen runs off Lefty Doris, who also twirled the night before. Berwick and Peters led the visitors with four solid smashes apiece, the former also pulling the feature catch of the game off Thompson in the third, while the entire team looked good afield. Despite the score however, Orphans were better than appears at first blush having over a dozen runners stranded. It was an off night for Harold Dormer's fighting lads.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

A few weeks or so back we were winding up the puck wars and watching for the first buds as spring promised. In two and a half weeks' time, there'll be ice again at Civic Arena. But what the deuce happened to our summer this odd year? Yeah, they'll be installing artificial ice down there, Walt Smillie says, by Sept. 27 on account of there will be a three-day figure skating revue Sept. 28-29-30. A Barbara Ann Scott ice show without Barbara Ann, who is presently in England. Eileen Seigh, USA Olympic star, takes Barbara Ann's place, and it should be quite a feature to indicate that winter is not afar off.

Another indication is the early return to Peterborough of the pro wrestling fraternity. Yes, sirs—and all you excitable young girls who go for these huge hunks of grapplers Promoter Frank Tunney of Toronto sends word that regular mat cards will be run on Tuesday this coming cool season, starting probably on Sept. 26, a little more than two weeks away. "All big fellows again," says Frank, "the same wrestlers who perform in Toronto Maple Leaf Gardens." And they're really big; any mat applicant to that chain who scales less than 220 is rated too small. They throw him back and look for another. Mayhap a 280-pounder.

It's Off To University

College calls, and many fine young summer athletes depart from our midst. Quite a few will be seeing senior college grid action this autumn again. We note a folder from Western U. in which Jack Matthews is listed once more. The 185-pound punter is in his final year and is rated highly for plunging and tackling. We should be hearing, too, of Blair Thomson at McGill, Jack Sisson, Don Griffin, Moe Richardson, Jim Swanston and others at Queen's or other universities, and no doubt different local chaps we haven't mentioned doing their stuff in football shortly.

The OLA senior "A" Petes are off tonight for Owen Sound with their best-of-seven quarter-final series tied at a game each. Fourth fray here on Monday. The Creighton crew will have Joe Nolan back in the lineup from here on in. They're trying to get Jerry Fitzgerald for remaining games, though Jerry is at Western now and it's tough to get him away. St. Kitts found that out last fall when they needed him. However, the Petes did mighty well without him Wednesday in downing the OLA champs 7-3, and they'll be fighting hard tonight and Monday. Wouldn't it be a grand upset if they knocked Owen Sound out? Zowie!

With Backs To The Wall

The baseballic Petes really have to pull up their sox—and their socks—tonight in Toronto, or they've had it. That 4-3 win for Oshawa here last eve (before a big crowd) gave the Merchants a three-one margin in the best-of-seven Viaduct League finals. If there's a sixth, it'll be here Saturday night at 8.30, Manager Ed Murphy insisting on having another home game, should it go that far. Seventh, if necessary, is in Toronto on Sunday. Pitching was pretty even last e'en, but the locals didn't come through a couple of times with hits. Oshawa hit hard and timely, but it was plenty close at that, especially in the ninth. Bud Harrison hit well again, with Dalton and Stewart okay, too. Joe Lowrey was out with a side injury.

Three OBA games will go at Riverside Park tomorrow afternoon, if it isn't raining felines and canines. Oshawa clubs form the opposition in the playoff triple-header, their bantams opening at 1.30 against Ed Woodcock's local lads. This one is followed by the Motor City midgets against Ray Pammett's pack. Third one is betwixt Oshawa juves and Bill Murphy's hustling chaps. These latter teams tied 1-1 in the first fray at Oshawa, while the local midgets dropped a 6-1 decision and the Peterborough bantams lost 8-4 to open their best-of-three playdowns. Some good minor ball should be seen and the boys rate lots of fan support. Bill Post's peewees may playoff with Toronto shortly.

Grid Prospects At Work In High Schools

By DON GRANT.

Back to school for 114 athletes from St. Peter's High School and PCVS also meant back to football, running, pushups, smacking dummies and human bodies.

Instead of the usual three teams two PCVS and one St. Peter's squads, there will be four teams waving the two schools' colors throughout Ontario this year, St. Peter's jumping into the senior bracket for the first time.

Fred Allore, physical director, at St. Peter's, has 18 huskies jockeying for places on his new squad which will be playing in the senior "B" bracket of the Ontario Catholic Athletic Conference with St. Mike's and De Lasalle grid teams of Toronto.

This senior group is mostly composed of last year's junior first string. Allore has lined up so far Carl Brioux, Harold O'Neill, Gerald O'Reilly, Tom Cavanagh, John Armstrong, Laverne Jones and John Jones to build his light, but fast squad around. This league hopes to have Sunday afternoon games this fall in Toronto. St. Peter's open league play October 1.

Dick in Charge

Richard Ouimet, formerly coach of the Panthers has taken over the reins of the St. Peter's junior edition. He has 28 working out nightly at the Orphanage grounds, most of the boys in the 13, 14 and 15 years age range. As the senior squad this group will be quite light. From last year's juniors he has Murray Byrnes, Frank McGillen, Jim Hull, Bob Fitzgerald, Paul Crough, John Hickey, Clare Hickson, John Harrington and Jim Clarke.

With a week's pre-school practising under their belts 36 senior age footballers are under the watchful eye of Coach G. B (Bev) Goulding each day after four at the Oval. From last year's senior COSSA finalists he has 11 players while several stars from the COSSA junior champions have joined the senior crew.

Triple threater Al Northcott [illegible] squad to join old members of the senior Garnet and Greys, Bus Jenson, Jim Galoska, Bill English, Bob Gandy, Warren Brown, Jim Grant, Grant Burns, Jim Telford Don Curtis and the plunger, Roy Armstrong.

Bryan Young, quarter of last year's junior champs, leads his junior mates into position-battle with the seniors. Behind him he has Al McIlraith, and Art Galley, both ends, Bob Craw, another backfielder, and lineman Don Clapper, all trying to pry a position with the seniors.

New Players

Coach Alex Londry probably has the toughest chore outside of Coach Ouimet. Thirty-two, most of them greenhorns, are shouldering their way to positions on the 24-man junior PCVS squad at the Oval. From last year's champions, he has backfielders Dave Langhorne, Reg Fowler, Bill Stewart, Murray Grafstein and Dan Guffin to carry the mail. Back in harness along the line are Hugh Outram, Larry Forbes, Creighton Johnson and Don scriver.

Just when the Lakeshore group will commence play is expected to be decided next week. The collegiate squads may have an inter-squad game, Garnets vs. the Greys, a week from Saturday. Mr. Goulding hopes to open the local grid season here either Friday, September 22, or Saturday, September 23, against the Toronto Riverdale squads. The following week PCVS will meet the East York Goliaths in Toronto.

Red Sox Polish Off Yanks For Second Straight Day

By RALPH RODEN
Associated Press Sports Writer.

Detroit Tigers are back on top in the pulse-pounding American League pennant race, but they have one eye cocked on Steve O'Neill's Boston Red Sox, moving up fast on the outside.

The Red Sox, who polished off New York Yankees Thursday for the second straight day, are the hottest team in the league. The Sox have won 20 out of their last 23 games, including 18 out of 19 in their own Fenway Park.

Their two victories over the Yanks knocked the New Yorkers out of the lead and restored Detroit to the top by the skimpy margin of two percentage points. The snorting Sox are third, 1½ games behind. Cleveland is fourth, four games off the pace.

Creating almost as much furore as the Red Sox are Brooklyn Dodgers in the National League chase. The Brooks have knocked off the league-leading Philadelphia Phils three straight times to move to within 4½ games of Eddie Sawyer's whiz kids.

The Sox and Yanks are idle today while the Tigers take on the sixth-place White Sox in Chicago. Dizzy Trout 11-4) was to pitch for the Tigers against Lefty Bob Cain (7-10).

Get Those Hits

Both the Red Sox and Tigers had on their hitting clothes on Thursday. The Sox outslugged the Yanks 10-8, while the Tigers battled Cleveland to a 13-13 10-inning tie that was halted because of darkness.

The Red Sox pounded four Yankee pitchers for 12 hits with big Walt Dropo leading the way. Dropo drove home five runs on a double and his 31st and 32nd home runs. The Sox employed six pitchers to stem the bombers with Walt Masterson gaining the victory.

Ted Williams of the Sox made his first appearance since he was injured in the all-star game. He batted for Mickey McDermott in the fifth and was intentionally walked.

Uphill Battle

The Tigers waged an uphill battle to tie the Indians. The Indians jumped on Art Houtteman for seven runs in the first inning with Al Rosen and Bob Feller highlighting the uprising with homers.

Detroit came right back and disposed of Feller in their half with four runs and squared matters at 7-7 at the end of the fifth. After that neither side could hold the lead.

In other American League games, Dick Starr pitched St. Louis Browns to a 6-0 victory over Chicago White Sox and Philadelphia Athletics downed Washington Senators 4-2.

Branca relieved winner Carl Erskine in the eighth inning after Richie Ashburn tripled to begin the frame, and promptly struck out Willie Jones and Del. Ennis and got Jack Mayo to foul out. He nailed the Phils in order in the ninth.

Stop Giants

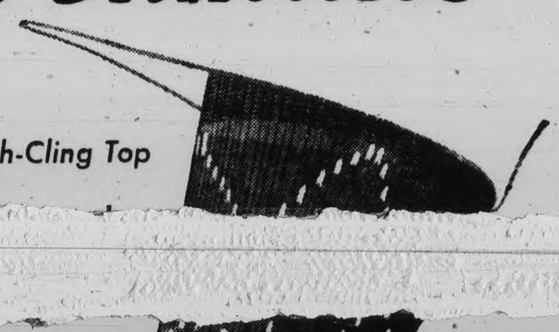
The third-place Boston Braves also gained ground by stopping New York Giants 6-4. The Braves scored all of their runs in the seventh inning.



Cincinnati edged Pittsburgh Pirates 6-4 on Ted Kluszewski's 10th-inning home run off Red Barrett. Ralph Kiner slugged his 43rd homer for the Pirates.

Bob Rush pitched Chicago to a 4-2 victory over the Cards in a night game at St. Louis.

Toronto Contest Key Game For Football

By The Canadian Press.

Montreal Alouettes' clash with Toronto Argos Saturday is shaping up as Eastern football's key game this weekend.

On the basis of two lop-sided wins last weekend, the undefeated Hamilton Tiger-Cats are favored to beat the winless Ottawa Rough Riders.

That would put the winner of the Toronto-Montreal game all alone in second place in the Big Four.

In the West, both Saskatchewan Roughriders and Winnipeg Blue Bombers each make road trips into Calgary and Edmonton. Either Winnipeg or Saskatchewan could take over first place in the Western Conference from Edmonton Eskimos with a pair of wins.

In the other Eastern game, Windsor Rockets open their senior Ontario Rugby Football Union season against Sarnia Imperials.

Coach Frank Clair of Argos on Thursday night dropped from the squad Bill McCormick of Hamilton, O., a man Clair has described as the "outstanding lineman in Canada."

Have to Meet Limit

McCormick was dropped to permit Argos to get within the seven-imports limit and Clair — with such stalwart Canadian front-wallers as Les Ascott, Pete Bennett, and Shanty MacKenzie on the squad—decided he needed a good end like Marvin Whaley more than he needed another lineman.

In Montreal, Coach Lew Hayman's Alouettes are reported in far better condition than they were when they took a 26-6 licking from Argos a week ago. Despite an injury ace back Bob Cunningham is expected to play. And fans are hoping that Virgil Wagner, leading scorer last year, will finally hit his scoring stride against Argos Saturday.

Coach Carl Voyles of Hamilton Thursday night put Merle Hapes, dropped last week as a half-back, into an assistant-coaching spot. Hapes was released as a player when an injured ankle slowed him down. Voyles reported his squad in top shape. His two ace running backs, Edgar Jones and Bill Gregus, appeared to have recovered from minor injuries last weekend.

Jack Jacobs, who with Tom Casey has scored all of Winnipeg's points this year, picked up an injured shoulder against Regina on Monday. It is expected to keep him out of action for at least one week. Pete Petrow, Winnipeg quarter playing his second year of senior ball, likely will fill in for the game at Edmonton Saturday.

Bethany Defeated

BETHANY, Sept. 8 (ENS). — Two champion teams, Kendal, on top for South Durham, and Bethany, winners of the Duncan trophy in North Durham, played the first of a two out of three series for the Durham county finals here on Wednesday night, with Kendal winning by an 8-3 score. They got two in the first, two in the second and one in the eighth. Bethany followed with two in the second and one in the fourth.

Quantril looked good on the mound for Kendal with Winters receiving.

Edmunds hurled steady ball for Bethany, Reynolds receiving; poor support in the seventh inning losing the game.

Lowes went best in the field for the home team, also at the bat with a triple and a double. Edmunds had two doubles and Sisson a double. The teams:

| Kendal | 202 000 4—8 |
| Bethany | 020 100 0—3 |

Umpires: Cameron of Port Hope at the plate; Borland and Billingsly of Peterborough on bases.

Foresters — Parnell, Collins, Doughty, S. Tyndall, Roberts, C. Tyndall, Dewart, Millar, Daniels, Reid.

Stukus Threatens To Steal Football Glory

By GRAHAM TROTTER

EDMONTON, Sept. 8—(CP)—A 35-year-old playing coach who ambles onto the gridiron only for point-kicking attempts without benefit of pads or a helmet is stealing the spotlight in the Western Football Conference this season.

Now in his second year at the helm of the Conference's leading Edmonton Eskimos, Annis Stukus is also threatening to steal the scoring title without making a single touchdown.

Back in 1945 with Toronto Indians, one year before he retired for four years, the lanky Lithuanian won a league scoring championship solely by booting placements and converts. Some Western fans see a repeat performance in the offing.

There are few thrills in the Western game today to match the sight of the bareheaded, padless coach—looking mighty frail in a game of padded gladiators—going in at a crucial moment to help his team with his peerless kicking.

In Second Place

Stukus has made good in 11 of these 14 appearances in four league games to date. Official scoring statistics show him in second place in the point race with eight converts and two placements, one point from the top. His placement kicks turned the tide in two of Edmonton's four victories in league and exhibition action.

In a league game at Calgary, big Stuke pulled off a masterpiece of deception. Once he came on the field Stampeders got set to block what they thought would be an attempted placement. Instead, Stukus faked his kick and Bob Pafrath, holding the ball, jumped up and heaved a touchdown pass.

"When I go in there I remind my boys that I have no pads and tell them for gosh sakes don't let anyone through or I'll get killed. So far I've managed to come out in one piece.

"Not wearing any pads, I'm not tempted to stay in for more than the one kicking play. I was hit by three tacklers once and had to throw a block on that deception play at Calgary. If ever I had any idea of staying in there longer, those plays ended it. I let my quarterback run his own game.

"Getting in there like that I feel more a part of the game. I used to get the butterflies from just standing on the sidelines. It's a good morale booster—for the gang and myself."

Stukus, who turns 36 next month, has had his share of grief in 12 active years of organized football—three bones broken in his back, nose fractured four times, jaw dislocated once and all but four teeth knocked out.

Here And There in Sports . . .

By The Canadian Press

Toronto Peoples won the first east-west Dominion softball championship with an 11-inning 3-2 victory over Vancouver Firemen at the Canadian National Exhibition Thursday night. The victory gave the Toronto club the best of five series in three straight games.

An error by Vancouver shortstop Frank Ambler put the winning run on base in the 11th. Leftfielder Jimmy Rhodes followed with his first hit of the game, driving home Bill Kelly with the tie-breaker.

Ted Kroll of New Hartford, N. Y., shot a record-equalling 64 Thursday to take a two-stroke lead in the $15,000 reading open golf tournament. Kroll put together a 30 and a 34 to tie the 18-hole competitive course record set two years ago by Ben Hogan.

His 64 was good for a two-stroke edge on Glenn Teal of Jacksonville, Fla.

Brian Kelly of Niagara Falls, Ont., Thursday night retained his Canadian amateur featherweight boxing title by knocking out Dave Craddock of Windsor, in a St. Catharines fight card.

In the semi-final, Gene Poirier of Niagara Falls, decisioned Andy Hefel of Kitchener.

A pitcher's duel between Norm Bagnell of Oshawa Pedlars and Gordie Wright of Toronto's Ideal Hustlers ended in a 15-inning, 1-1 deadlock when the Canadian National Exhibition championship semi-final game was called after midnight, to be resumed Saturday

Bagnell fanned 29 men and gave up only three hits in the diamond marathon. Wright struck out 24 and yielded nine safeties.

Believes Movies Better Than Ever Now

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 8 (AP)—Are movies really better than ever?

The film industry—producers and theatre men alike—are putting on a big campaign to interest the public in the new crop of pictures. The blast is keyed to the tune of "movies are better than ever." Since I was taught not to write anything that isn't provable true I decided to analyze the slogan.

Movies better than ever, hmm? Well, let's see. That covers a lot of ground. Certainly movies are better than they were 20 or more years ago. With only a few exceptions (notably the great comedies), any picture made over two decades ago would be hooted by today's audiences.

Lillian's Plight

Your ma and pa wept over the plight of fragile Lillian Gish when she was beaten by Donald Crisp in "Broken Blossoms." But today that film's sentimental moments would bring snickers.

We can also say that movies are better than they were five years ago. In that heyday of the pin-up girl, any film with actors, scenery and dialogue could make a profit. It was the hangover from those days that almost ruined the industry.

Let's pick another year, say 1939. These were the big pictures of that year: "Gone with the Wind," "Goodbye Mr. Chips," "Mr. Smith goes to Washington," "Wuthering Heights," "Pygmalion," "Stagecoach," "The Wizard of Oz," "The Women," "Dark Victory," "Juarez," "Stanley and Livingstone."

Not Favorable

Now compare those with the current crop. The comparison is not too favorable. Today's pictures are good.

But the pictures of 1939, seen through the sentiment of memory, seem more basic and more important.

In Hollywood's defence, I can say that the general quality of films is better than in 1939. We forget the duds of that year, the vast number of program pictures that are best forgotten. So maybe the slogan would be more truthful thusly:

"Movies, as a whole, are better than ever."

Mount Pleasant Wins To Oust Canoe Crew

Mount Pleasant yanked out a 6-5 fastball win last night to eliminate the Canoe Co. in a nifty playoff fray. The winners got a run each in the first and ninth and four in the third, their last heat marker doing the trick. Canoe Co.—who went down fighting and then congratulated the winners — tallied three in the third and one apiece in the fourth and eighth. K. Bryan, Doughty and Crawford hit doubles and the latter also got a triple. Parker fanned eight and Quigley whiffed five. Teams:

Canoe Co.: Hopkins, 2b; Henry, c; Doughty, 1b; Killingbeck, 3b; Quigley, p; Brooks, rf; Caccavella, ss; Moore, lf; J. Bryan, cf.

Mt. Pleasant: K. Bryan, 1b; Crawford, 2b; Evans, lf; Mitchell, ss; C. Bryan, 3b; Parker, p; McKnight, cf; Fee, rf; R. Bryan, c.

County Farm Notes

By HARRY THEOBALD

Junior Winter Wheat Club Formed With 24 Members . . . Subjects Announced for the Farm Radio Forum Series Beginning Oct. 30 . . . Canadian Holsteins at Top Prices at Franlo Farm Sale in Minnesota . . . Campbellford Juniors Visit Peterborough Industries.

The Junior Winter Wheat Club got under way Tuesday night with a membership of 24 boys and girls of a broad area from Asphodel to Emily township in Victoria.

Alan Stewart of Indian River was elected president; Archie Davidson, Otonabee; vice-president and Don Chambers, Otonabee, secretary-treasurer.

These youngsters are tackling their wheat growing project with enthusiasm and the best Cornell 595 seed available here. It was grown from elite stock by Robert Armstrong of Cavan, and is costing the juniors $4 a bushel. Sowing two bushels to the acre their investment will be $8 in cash plus the use of the land, some fertilizer and the management of their grain until the harvest of 1951.

Bob Bell, assistant agricultural representative, expected at the outset that the Club might attract fifteen juniors, and gauged his seed order on that anticipation. Apparently Mr. Armstrong made an elastic arrangement for the sale of some of his Cornell seed to the Club, and set by additional bushels for a larger estimate than fifteen members. That was a sample of the co-operative way in which he responded to the Club venture when its seed requirements were first mentioned to him by Mr. Bell.

The Club was organized Tuesday night at the office of the Department of Agriculture. The seed has been delivered and the young cereal farmers are ready for action.

The Club members are: from North Monaghan: John Waterman, Howard Johnston, Neil Whitfield.

Smith: Donald Irwin, John Sanderson.

Emily: Dorothy Jackson.

Asphodel: Orland Brown, Eldon Van Volkenburg, John Crowley, Margaret Whitred, John English, Gerald Coughlin, Harvey Cut Bertson, Elwood Begg, Shirley Brown.

Douro: Gerald Bolton and Guelda Bolton.

Dummer: Delwyn Stinson.

Incidentally, Mr. Bell reported that G. A. Brethen of Norwood interested himself in the Asphodel group who have come into the Club. So the youngsters are "away and winging" and Frank Paterson expressed today the wish that autumn would bring vigorous growth and the winter lay a protective blanket of snow on these 24 acres of Cornell.

One of the obligations of the juniors is to keep an account of cost of their enterprise. They will be instructed in that bookkeeping as a means of determining a year hence the cash return from their investment. This record is regarded as highly important, implanting in their first actual practice the seed of accurate financing based on tabulated outgo and income.

WHEAT SEEDING TIME

"Too early seeding of fall wheat is not advisable," Frank C. Paterson, agricultural representative, said this week. "The Hessian fly is more likely to become active on early sown wheat. This enemy was reported in some part of the province this year, including our own district.

"About Sept. 10 appears to be about the average time for sowing, and the 15th is all right. We have all seen some wheat sown in October do well.

"Wheatland should be in good tilth. Practically all of it should be fertilized. If there is no soil test, you haves to depend on a guessed at application. Around 300 lbs. of 2-12-10 to the acre has usually produced good results.

Wheat needs some nitrogen to help start the plants, phosphorus to develop the root system and potash to strengthen the straw and fill out the grain.

Then, we must consider the seed. Nothing poorer than No. 1 Commercial should be sown. To provide against stinking smut some of the mercuric compounds can be used effectively. For loose smut the simplest course is to sow seed that is clean. The hot water treatment is not very practical.

As to variety of seed, Dawson's Golden Chaff is still good, but it is being rapidly superseded by Cornell 595, which is smut resistant and gives a higher average yield.

Wheat is a valuable crop in this country. The land and climate are suitable. General experience has proved that it produces a better crop than the spring grains. In the last ten years the yield of fall wheat has been greater than the average of oats. It serves as a cash crop for farmers who wish to sell it to the millers. If there is some loose smut, wheat can be used for feeding poultry, hogs and cattle with proper balancing. We are inclined to promote wheat growing because of these facts which are generally recognized by our farmers.

Because of the economic importance of wheat we believe in the advantages of wheat clubs, and Robert Bell is organizing a club for juniors. The very first registered Cornell seed that has become available has been secured for this club's members.

Wheat follows sod in rotation, and when sod is plowed down in the summer it becomes a source of humus for the land."

J. M. FRASER AT CNE

J. M. Fraser, Streetsville, won unique honors in the Holstein class at the CNE. For the sixth consecutive time he was awarded the Premier Exhibitor Banner, and this year also received the Premier Breeders award for the third straight competition at CNE.

Hon. T. L. Kennedy, Ontario Minister of Agriculture, also congratulating his long connection with agriculture in which any breeder had carried off such honors at a show of the calibre of CNE.

CNE was designated regional championship Holstein show for the West-Central Ontario district, and accounted largely for doubling the number of entries at 336 head, although they were not restricted to that area.

Fraser's winning dry Aged Cow, Spring Farm Juliette, who was All-Canadian aged cow in 1949, was named senior and grand champion and won the Wm. J. Murphy trophy for "best uddered cow" In addition she combined with her maternal brother Spring Farm Fond Hope, the junior and grand champion bull to take the Progeny of Dam class. Old timers at the show could not recall a similar case where a brother and sister had combined to win both grand championships and the progeny and dam award.

Runner-up for Premier Breeder was D. S. Dunton, Brampton, with Albert Seiling, Elmira, a strong third. The Rosafe Farm entries of Hector I. Astengo, Brampton, provided the closest competition to Fraser for Premier Exhibitor.

FORUM SEASON OPENS OCT. 30

"Can we farm on shorter hours?" will be the subject of the Farm Radio Forum broadcast opening the new season Oct. 30. It will be followed weekly by "Who should pay for soil conservation?", "Forests—slash or save?" and review night of reports from forums.

The second group of topics will be under the general heading "Health and Social Security."

Market subjects begin Jan. 8; international problems Feb. 5 and education March 5.

The series of health and security are announced "What's happened to the country doctor?"; "A Pension for Everyone"; "Security for Farm Labor."

Newfoundland farmers are joining the Canadian farm forum national audience this season Floyd Griesbach, national farm forum secretary, on his recent return from Newfoundland, reported arrangements have been made to organize groups this season on an experimental basis under the direction of Dr. Florence O'Neill, director of adult education. The broadcasts last year were heard on the island, but no attempt was made to form listening groups.

The subjects for the new fall and winter series were based on choices indicated by the Farm Forum groups and by the delegates that attended the National Farm Forum conference in Brandon, Man., last June.

CLUBS VISIT PETERBOROUGH

The competent farmer can sell wheat at $3.50 a bushel by feeding it to hogs, James R. Turnbull, grader at Canada Packers, told Campbellford club members here last Friday.

Mr. Turnbull said meat production on the farm could be regarded normal in relation to previous years, but that Canadians were now eating 27 pounds a year more than before the war. With the population of North America increasing about two million a year, it could be readily seen "that we are in for some scarcity in meat for a number of years."

The visitors were entertained at a chicken dinner at Kawartha Country Club, arranged by Gordon Marshall of CPC. Mr. Turnbull was the speaker.

Campbellford swine club under the leadership of Will Curle and the calf club in charge of Lindsay Anderson met Ralph C. Banbury, Northumberland agricultural representative, at the De Laval plant at 10:30.

Mr. Banbury writes: "An interesting trip through that factory showed some of the precision detail in making all things relating to the dairy industry. Guides explained that the company was exclusively active in manufacturing dairy equipment. This varied from small appliances through milking machines, cream separators used on the farm, and big churns and pasteurizers for the creamery, and vats for cheese factories. Bottling and pasteurizing equipment was a feature for the whole milk trade."

The junior groups returned to CPC after lunch and saw the actual operations of the plant. Many were surprised at the large number of cattle handled in Peterborough. Observation afforded the young people a new appreciation of the meat processing business. A later call was made to District Co-Op Services.

At the luncheon Reg Seymour, president of Campbellford Fair, thanked CPC and the other organizations for their profitable visit to the several industries. Archie McCook, president of the swine club, thanked Mr. Marshall for the fine dinner.

The club groups will show their calves and pigs at Campbellford Fair, Wed. Sept. 27.

118 HOLSTEINS AVERAGE $1088

Brown Mistress Corrine, bred by Brown Corporation, La Tuque, Que., topped the dispersal sale of the Franlo Holstein herd at Hopkins, Minnesota, at $6,750 on the bid of C. M. Bottema & Son, Indianapolis, Ind.

A daughter of Montvic Rag Apple Master, she was in 1945 honorable mention All-Canadian two year heifer; in 1946 reserve grand champion at the Royal Winter Fair; in 1947 honorable mention All-American four year old; in 1948 first aged cow in milk and best uddered female at the Royal; and in 1949 honorable mention aged cow.

A yearling son of "Corrine" brought the second highest price of the sale at $6,250 paid by Hansen Bros. and Henry Bartel of Raymond, Minn.

Third high of the sale was another Canadian-bred, Rosehill Wayne, three times All-American aged cow, and All-Canadian aged cow in 1946. She was twice Grand Champion at the Royal Winter Fair. She was taken by Henry Bartel for $6,250. "Rosehill" was bred by Nelson Bechtel, Hespeler, and developed by J. D. Innes, Woodstock, Ont.

The seven year old Franlo Chieftain Victoria, bred by Mount Victoria Farms, Hudson Heights, Que., brought $2,200 on the bid of Martin Buth, Jr., Comstock Park, Mich. She is a daughter of Montvic Chieftain Abbekerk. Her five [illegible] ters, that followed her, sold for a total of $8,000.

Mr. Buth also paid $1,000 for Expectancy of Baker Farm, an eleven year old cow bred by Chas. W. Carney, Georgetown, Ont.

One of the remarkable prices of the sale was $1,000 paid by C. H. Mueller, Lewiston, Minn. for Betsy Roebuck Dixie, bred by George Nichol, Listowel, Ont., and developed by Lloyd Turner, Stouffville, Ont. This cow is now sixteen years old, and was Grand Champion at the U.S. National Dairy Show in 1941.

The Franlo sale was the biggest of the year in the USA. The 118 head totalled $128,450 for a general average of $1,088. Forty-one head sold for more than $1,000 each.

"Tested at various experimental stations under varying soil and climatic conditions, this variety has been found to be a high yielding hay and seed producer, and to ripen uniformly under most conditions. DUTCH ELM DISEASE

Twenty-nine trees in the Windsor area have been found this season infected with Dutch Elm disease. There were also two identifications in Ottawa. Immediate steps are being taken to remove and burn all diseased trees. This information comes from the plant protection division of the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

Trail Of The Empty Fertilizer Box

This should have been a picture of an accidental demonstration of the merits of commercial fertilizer in a field of wheat on the farm of Harold Millen. But, all it graphically demonstrates is that wheat is not photogenic.

Most farmers have had the experience of discovering in after results that they had run out of fertilizer before the seed box was empty of grain. That happened when Mr. Millen was sowing the field in this photograph.

Frank C. Paterson, agricultural representative, called at the Millen place when the wheat was still green and the heads were filling, and the 40 acres or thereabouts were flying signals of an abundant harvest.

Up the centre of the field was a scrawny swath, the width of the seed drill and several hundred yards in length. That contrasting strip was eloquent of the value of fertilizing. There was objective evidence of what a mixture of nitrogen, phosphorus and potash can do for grain in a field that needs such a stimulant.

Mr. Millen had used the formula 4-24-12 at the rate of 150 pounds to the acre, and for all the work and other preparation and investment he had put into the land he had a grand showing of wheat, except this lean and starveling specimen of neglect.

Mr. Paterson was keen about a photograph of the contrast which nature itself had set up for any doubting farmer to see for himself. There might still be a few, he remarked, who were not yet convinced of the investment value of fertilizer in circumstances that recommended it. Here was proof of all that he had been advocating.

The grain which had fallen on ground that had been skipped in the fertilizing of the field wasn't half the height of its fortunate companions. Generally it looked as if it hadn't much interest in life and the reproduction of its kind.

Both the Examiner and Mr. Paterson expended two or three rolls and various plates of film on this object lesson in field husbandry, but in their photograph worth they could be compared to the weakling wheat. In the ABOVE snap shot there's a dull spot in the centre that tells [illegible] pictorially.

Any way, Mr. Millen must have taken off a lot of wheat and other grains this season. This field probably averaged 40 bushels. All told he had around 75 acres in wheat.

September The Matron

The fragrance of the year and its song are now only memories of Maytime. The heavy scent of the locust bloom and the milder bouquet of apple blossoms, lilacs and syringa have drifted far on the wind that dispersed their beauty and the ecstasy of spring.

Where petals fell, September finds their fruit. The berries of the hawthorne are red, the wild grapes are putting on color and, with the first frost, will be ready for the wine keg. The choke cherry trees and a lone surviving red plum are bearing ripeness. The wayside pedestrian discovers, too, a flush on the swelling clusters of alderberries.

Along that dusty way, bees hummed when the year was young and lilting, rapt in the magic of life's beckoning. The hardwoods were vibrant with the melodies of migrant birds amid the fresh green leafage. It seems long since the violets and trilliums were flowering, as if they had merged with their kind in springs that are gone.

With the approach of the harvest moon, the woods have become silent. Their songbirds have taken wing. Of the music of the bobolink in the meadow there is only a fading echo of his tinkling attendance upon his nesting mate in the hay. The bluebird and the brown thrush are still there, but even they are tuneless in their flitting through the roadside shrubs.

The gay and zestful questing of May has lapsed into the serenity of September. This is the matron month, reflecting on the experience of the year, its fruitful achievement and the wisdom that comes of living. The purpose and the scheme of the seasons are disclosed, and their fulfillment leaves belated perception and understanding.

Experience, after all, brings its rewards. Of such are knowledge and patience and poise. But, it is expectation that gets life's work done. It is the spirit of Maytime that provides the dynamic of the year, that zestful overplus of confidence which eventually wanes into wisdom and philosophy.

Planning To Launch Campaign For Onions

LEAMINGTON, Ont., Sept. 8—(CP).—A campaign has been launched in the black-earth flats of Essex and Kent counties to help Canadians to know their onions. A coast-to-coast onion feast week was announced Thursday by A. H. Wilford of Toronto. It will be from Oct. 23-28.

Mr. Wilford, who represents growers in Essex and Kent counties and in the Holland Marsh area north of Toronto, said the campaign will be carried on by wholesalers and retailers. Plans call for a cavalcade of trucks loaded with onions to leave southwest Ontario onion centres for Toronto and other big Canadian cities.

200 Students Continue Strike At Two Schools

GREENWOOD, B.C., Sept. 8—(CP) — Two hundred students Thursday struck for the second day protesting what they described as "deplorable" conditions in the two Greenwood schools they attend.

While the boys and girls picketed, roamed the streets in jalopies and placed protest notices around town, their parents met with school board officials to seek a promise of a second money by-law financing a seven-room school. Such a by-law was defeated earlier by the rural vote in the school district.

Strikers have threatened that until satisfactory arrangements have been made, classrooms will remain empty.

Denies Offer Made Strikers

OAKVILE, Sept. 8— (CP) — Company spokesmen said Thursday night that a suggestion for a five-cent wage boost for striking employees of the Oakville Wood Specialities Company came from the Ontario Labor Department—not from the company.

D. L. G. Jones, counsel for the fruit-basket manufacturers, said in a statement that no offer had been made to the 128 striking members of the International Woodworkers of America.

Earlier, Tim Cooper, union president, said the company had offered to re-open wage negotiations providing the strikers went back to work.

The union walked out a week ago, demanding a 20-cent hourly boost and a 45-hour week in place of the present 48 hours. Mr. Jones contended that wages now being paid average 20 cents an hour more than those paid by other basket makers in Ontario.

Compulsory Training Advocated For Quebec

TORONTO, Sept. 8 (CP)—Col. W. Goforth, former Deputy Director-General of Defence Research, advocates compulsory military training for Canada—but with Quebec excepted.

He told the Toronto branch of the United Nations Association of Canada Thursday night that Canada will need 100,000 men in the regular army and special forces within another year.

He said that during the second world war the number of volunteers for the armed forces from Quebec was four times greater than during the first world war.

"That was because there was no compulsion attached to going overseas."

Lindsay To Find If Chief To Do 2 Jobs

Citizens of Lindsay will decide at the next municipal election whether they want a separate Chief of Police and Fire Chief or not. At a council meeting this week, the town clerk Wm. R. Allely was instructed to draft a by-law to this effect to be submitted at the next municipal election.

Up until the present time, these two positions have been held by Chief Webster. When the matter was brought up at the meeting a heated discussion followed as to whether the two jobs were too much for one man to handle.

During the discussion Mayor Charles Lamb stated that at a recent Municipal Convention in Sudbury he couldn't find one municipality of more than 400 people that had the offices of Police and Fire Chief combined.

Public Library Circulation Up By 6,859

An increase of 6,859 in the adult department circulation of the Peterborough public library to the end of August this year over the same period in 1949 was revealed in the circulation report given by Librarian W. Graff at a meeting of the library board Thursday night.

An increase of 3,149 was registered at the main library and an increase of 3,710 at the branch library.

There has been a decrease of 1,500 in the boys' and girls' department circulation. Mr. Graff explained that this decrease in numbers was due to the fact that circulation figures have not yet been received from the city playgrounds.

During the summer, books were supplied to six of the eight playgrounds and distributed to the children by playground directors.

Chairman of the finance committee W. A. Richardson reported receipts this year were $800 above estimates and expeditures were $920 less than expected.

Mr. Graff reported that Miss Jean Henderson will be taking over the branch library on September 18. Since the branch was opened in 1949, Miss Henderson has received her Bachelor of Library degree from the University of Toronto.

The librarian also gave a verbal report to the board of the Canadian Library Association annual conference in June.

A south-end working man was touched by the plight of Nancy McNabb, 13, who lost almost $10 given to her by her mother for school fees and books on the opening day of school Tuesday.

Reading about the youngster's plight in the Examiner, the man was concerned about the girl losing the money which she had prob money which he felt she had probably worked hard to save and sent her a cheque for $10 "to help her out."

Nancy and her father, Earl McNabb, Burnham St., visited the generous donor at his boarding house and thanked him for his warmheartedness.

"GOVERNMENT PROPERTY—NO TRESPASSING" warn signs on doorways of several stores on the south side of Charlotte St., as far as Louis St. corner. Sale of buildings is being advertised by the Government to-day, first step in preparation for the proposed Post Office-Customs Building. Examiner Staff Photos

All Buildings On Federal Lot Put Up For Sale

Site of the proposed postal-customs building on Charlotte St. is to be cleared by October 31 as intimated in a government advertisement in the Examiner today.

Crowngasse's Dispatch Corporation is inviting cash offers for the ten-apartment terrace on the east side of Louis St., and the other brick building at the corner; the former Lansfield dry cleaning building at the corner; and a short string of old roughcast stores on the south side of Charlotte St.

The entire block west of the creek is to be levelled of buildings, indicating that government departments are no longer considering any further shuffle or transfer in fixing the location of this federal building.

The advertisement includes the information that these buildings are to be sold for removal and restoration of the sites. Work is to be completed Oct. 31.

Ready For Construction

Presumably construction of new federal building will not be begun so late in the season, although it is understood that the government has completed plans through its public works department. Some time ago, incidental information suggested the official intention of making the new Peterborough postal-customs building a model for future building in that service throughout the country.

Whether the scarcity of materials, war expenditure and the present volume of employment will have any effect on the undertaking of construction here is not known.

The first move for a new federal building was made just before the war of 1914-18 by the late J. Hampden Burnham, then Member of Parliament for Peterborough.

US Exchange Rate Rumor Killed; Caused Slight Panic

Fear that the premium on the American dollar would be lifted caused a minor panic among local businesses over Labor Day weekend and the effects are still being felt. James Fraser, manager of the Chamber of Commerce, said today that each holiday this summer has caused rumors to circulate throughout the area that the premium would be taken off. The situation became worse over the Resort operators in particular were cautious about accepting American currency. One operator was so concerned over the matter that he did not accept American funds for expenses but offered to drive 14 miles to Peterborough to change the money to Canadian.

Mr. Fraser pointed out that the average resort owner has about $400 in his pocket for change when his guests are checking out. If the government did take off the premium, he explained these operators would stand to lose about $40, roughly the profit on the American tourist party leaving.

There are still many American tourists in the Kawarthas at the present time, he added. This makes it necessary for the operators to still have American funds and to accept American funds.

Garages Affected

Resorts are not the only businesses affected by the holiday rumor. Refreshment booths and garages also are cautious when accepting the American money with the premium added because they too don't wish to be caught. It is understood some garages in the Kawartha area over the week-end would only accept American money at par.

"Americans are not getting a fair deal on the American currency because those serving the tourists are afraid to accept American funds in case the Canadian government should take off the premium," said Mr. Fraser.

The situation reached the position last week-end where Mr. Fraser contacted Mr. D. Leo Dolan, head of the Canadian Government Travel Bureau, Tom C. McCall, deputy minister of Travel and Publicity, and Gordon K. Fraser, local member of parliament.

To Mr. Dolan he telegramed rumours American currency problem to be discontinued causing serious harm in Kawartha area; many resorts being caught with considerable American dollars on hand; suggest minister finance issue assurance notice will be given or that premium will stand until the season ends.

McCall Replies

Mr. McCall replied to a similar request by Mr. Fraser saying: "Infractions in foreign exchange control regulations, continually brought to the board's atention by the Department of Travel and Publicity during the past several weeks, have apparently failed to produce definite statement on currency situation. Suggest your problem be referred to Federal Minister and D. Leo Dolan since entire matter is completely under dominion jurisdiction."

In reply to a letter from Mr. Fraser, Gordon K. Fraser explained that Rodney Adamson, of York West, asked the question regarding foreign exchange. Prime Minister St. Laurent replied that no consideration has been given to the matter.

Mr. Dolan said in a telegram to Mr. Fraser that unfortunately the rumors cannot be stopped but that the statement ought to have satisfied anybody.

Tuesday a roundup of the Peterborough banks by Mr. Fraser showed an increase in American currency in Peterborough this season. This is a definite indication, he said, that the Kawartha area has had a good tourist season.

Induct Tonight New Minister At George St.

REV. ARNOLD MATHEWS

Tonight the Rev. Arnold A. Mathews, B.A., B.D., will be inducted as pastor of George Street United Church. He succeeds the Rev. Dr. James Semple who held the pastorate for the last six years.

Mr. Mathews exchanged pulpits with Dr. Semple after a seven-year pastorate at Trinity United Church, North Bay.

The Rev. M. J. Aiken, president of the Peterborough presbytery, will conduct the induction service in George Street church at 8 p.m. The Rev. Walton Tong, Lakefield, will preach the sermon and the Rev. Dr. Bruce Gordon will give the charge to both Mr. Mathews and the congregation.

After the service there will be a social gathering in the sunday school hall under the direction of Mrs. Charles Elliott and other members of the Women's Association.

Academic Studies

Mr. Mathews attended McGill University and the United Theological College in Montreal, proceeding to Mansfield College, Oxford, under the "Travelling Fellow ship" from the Co-operating Colleges in Montreal.

He was ordained in 1930 and has held pastorates in Drummondville, Montreal, St. Catharines, Sarnia and North Bay.

While at North Bay he took a special interest in young people and the Young Married Couples' Movement. He married the former Evelyn Craw, B.A., and they have three children—David, Rosemary and Nancy. All three are pupils at Central public school.

Three Other Brilliant Scholarship Winners

JESSIE BLACKWELL — RONALD McGILL — JOAN SEYMOUR

The Dickson scholarship, awarded annually by Trinity College of the University of Toronto, has been won by a PCVS student, Miss Jessie Blackwell. Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Blackwell, 200 O'Carroll Ave., Miss Blackwell was given the scholarship for her work in English, French, history and Latin.

The scholarship is in the form of $160 with free tuition for four years, a possible value of $880.

While at PCVS Miss Blackwell won the second Nicholls scholarship for general proficiency in Grade XI. Last year she was awarded the school's high award for extra-curricular activities, the gold letter, for her work on the school magazine, the Echoes, and with the Library club.

Ronald McGill, another of last year's Grade XII students, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stewart McGill of Millbrook, was awarded a W. P. Firth admission award of $100 by the University of Toronto. He plans to enter the commerce and finance course this fall.

Awarded a Dominion bursary of $400 last week Miss Joan Seymour, daughter of Mrs. Mary Seymour, 221 Engleburn Ave., also received a W. P. Firth award of $100. While in Grade XII she won the middle school Latin prize.

No Price Jumps In City Yet Dealers Wait Factory Nod Before New Taxes Applied

Still reeling from a big jump in the cost of living, the taxpayer took another punch to the chin Thursday night, in Peterborough as elsewhere across the land. Finance Minister Abbott presented one of the shortest budgets on record, but one in which there were a lot of new taxes and some old ones that haven't been used for some years. Peterborough retailers have received no confirmation of increases from manufacturers, but expect word momentarily.

In the meantime, city soft drink firms are putting out no trucks today. Some pop sellers say they won't increase the price of their drinks on present stocks, holding them at five cents.

Car Prices

Excise tax on cars went up five per cent and will mean an increase to the purchaser of varying amounts around $100. According to one Peterborough dealer, Osnawa increased its prices $50 to $90 this morning. Local used car dealers are perplexed about the situation. "Any increase in your prices?" one of the biggest Peterborough dealers was asked. "No, not on my lot. We'll keep our prices steady on cars we have in hand".

The cost of liquor is expected to go up from 12 to 15 cents on a 25-ounce bottle. Liquor taxes were increased from $11 to $12 on a proof gallon.

On malt used in beer, tax was upped five cents a pound and the taxpayer won't be so eager to cry into his beer. At the time of going to press the local brewery warehouses had had no notice of change in prices, expected to be about a cent a pint.

Chocolate bars, chewing gum, and all candies, as well as soft drinks, are in for an increase. Dealers expect the price of drinks up one or two cents, and that gum will cost six or seven cents instead of five. It was only a few weeks ago that chocolate bar companies raised their retail prices from five to seven cents.

One dealer predicted a switch by manufacturers to a 10-cent chocolate bar. Not too many people will want to buy an eight-

Most city firms are waiting for the word from manufacturers. They don't know yet what increases will be and most say they will not jump their prices until the increase is confirmed by the makers.

Car Turns Over Seven Times Three Hurt

Hilliard Little, 22, of RR 2, Warsaw, is in Civic Hospital and two companions are nursing minor injuries after their car turned over seven times late Thursday night on the second line of Dummer.

Little was one of three passengers in the car driven by Donald McCracken, 21, RR 2, Lakefield. He received an injured spine and bruises. His condition today is "fair."

McCracken had a cut on his right leg that required seven stitches to close, and his brother Kenneth, 19, received knee bruises and a scraped forehead. Both were treated by Dr. Donald Munro of Warsaw.

A third passenger, Mrs. Alice Hendren, Warsaw, escaped unhurt.

The four were driving south along a straight section of the 2nd line of Dummer, a mile north of Warsaw, when McCracken for some reason applied the brakes. The car slewed violently, struck the shoulder of the road, and then rolled over seven times, ending up on its roof.

Provincial Constable Jack McKendry investigated.

Chasing His Dog Boy Hit By Car

Chasing across Parkhill Rd. after his dog, Robert Elliston, 6, ran into the path of a car and was knocked down about 8.40 a.m. today. The youngster had two teeth broken, his mouth was cut and he was scratched and bruised.

James Craig, 290 Hunter St. W., was driving his car east on Parkhill Rd. when the boy ran out from the south curb just east of Elcome Crescent.

Dr. L. Zacks was called and ordered the boy taken to hospital for examination. Traffic Officer Gordon Trennum, who investigated the accident, drove the youngster to St. Joseph's Hospital.

Anxious To Try New Classes At Exhibition

TORONTO, Sept. 8 (CP)—The Canadian National Exhibition agriculture and livestock committees are anxious to provide new classes that will encourage competition from all types of growers and breeders, Sam Foster, CNE agriculture manager, said Thursday night.

In a prepared statement, Mr. Foster said such classes in the livestock program would "have to be recommended by various breed associations who from time to time draw up classifications for the CNE agriculture prize list."

However, he added that no special classes are provided for novice classes in dairy and beef cattle.

"The place for these is at the smaller fairs that are held throughout the province. The present classifications for dairy and beef cattle are intended to bring out the best quality animals available for a show of such high standards as the CNE."

Try Innovation

An innovation tried this year was the dividing of beef and dairy cattle into two showings. The move "did not entirely please visitors from rural districts" said Mr. Foster, since many were unable to see both types. Plans next year call for dairy and beef cattle to be on display at the same time.

Another change anounced for next year is regulation requiring all steers to appear in the show ring without horns. The regulation will not affect breeders of Aberdeen Angus, Red Polls or Polled Herefords, all born without horns. However breeders of horned cattle now will have to dehorn all their show steers.

The ban on horns does not affect beef or dairy cattle.

Norwood Society Win In Toronto In Grain Classes

NORWOOD, Sept. 8—(ENS)—The East Peterborough Agricultural Society (Norwood Fair) won first prize for the best sheaf of barley, wheat and oats in the Agricultural Society section of the Canadian National Exhibition this week.

The Norwood society also won second prize for their exhibit of grains, comprising five lots of various grains grown by individual members of the society.

Because of soil and climate differences in Ontario, the province was divided into three sections for the competitions. Norwood Agricultural Society, competing in the eastern section, was lined up against entries from York and Simcoe counties and all the counties east of York to the Quebec boundary.

Members of the Norwood group showing in the sheaf section were Ronald Webster, Barboff barley; G. A. Brethen and L. R. McMillan, Cornell 595 wheat; all of R.R. 1, Norwood.

In the grain or seed section, the five Norwood members exhibiting were Milford Parker, Beaver oats; Gordon Stinson, Horton rye; Charles Lobb, Barboff barley; G. A. Brethen and L. R. McMillan, Cornell winter wheat, all of R.R. 1, Norwood; and Wm. G. Barrie, Timothy seed, Norwood R.R. 2.

Rising Costs Hamper Housing

OTTAWA, Sept. 8 (CP). —A housing official said Thursday night rising costs and official administrative action have already partly eliminated the government's 1949 move to cut by half the down payments on new homes. He said that if prices keep on going up as they have been they could wipe out the benefits of the step entirely.

Finance Minister Abbott drew attention to this in his budget speech and gave his approval. He said the government's Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation has already taken action to limit the dollar value of its housing loans "by not recognizing re-[illegible] in establishing the lending values of new houses."

The housing official said this was an "automatic" administrative action. The agency simply kept at Jan. 1, 1950, levels its estimate of the value of a house in deciding on the amount of a loan. It ignored the five to six per cent increase in costs that had emerged since.

Ask Parliament Give Howe Extra Powers

OTTAWA, Sept. 8 (CP). —Parliament will be asked at this emergency session to give Trade Minister Howe powers to direct essential materials into the production of defence equipment and necessary civilian goods.

The new legislation was forecast Thursday night by Finance Minister Abbott in his budget speech to the Commons.

He said the legislation will give Mr. Howe "standby powers." This indicated the powers to direct the distribution of essential materials will be used only if efforts to have them channelled voluntarily into essential industries prove unsuccessful.

Must Pay Alimony

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 8 (AP) —Xavier Cugat, the rhumba man, must continue alimony payments of $2,000 a month until his estranged wife's suit for separate maintenance comes to trial. Superior court Thursday rejected a plea from Cugat's lawyer to set aside the alimony order, on the ground the band leader had not been properly served with the suit of actress Lorraine Allen. The wife contends Cugat is deliberately staying on the road to avoid legal processes in her suit.

Dealers Sure Sales Unaffected By Budget

TORONTO, Sept. 8 (CP). —Electrical appliances dealers said Thursday night the new 15 per cent excise tax announced by Finance Minister Abbott will have little effect on sales.

One dealer, Leonard Wilkinson said: "It will slow down purchases for a week or so, but not to a major extent. After that, people will buy the same as before."

Radio dealers said the five per cent increase to 15 from 10 per cent—on radios and phonographs will mean an extra $3 on each $100 of the present purchase price.

Chocolate Bars Likely Go Up

OTTAWA, Sept. 8 (CP)—The days of the 10-cent chocolate bar may be just around the corner.

A five-cent package of chewing gum may become a thing of the past.

That's what Finance Minister Abbott's "baby" budget has done to the gum-chewer and the candy-eating kid.

A finance department expert said Thursday night that the 30-per-cent tax levied on this sweet stuff may mean a one-cent increase in candy-bars. It is applied at the manufacturer's level.

Some candy manufacturers recently raised the price of their [illegible] bars from five to seven cents. The tax could bring it up to eight which the department spokesman pointed out wasn't far from 10.

Presumably gum will be upped too from five to six cents.

Life's also going to be tough for the youngsters who hang around the soda-fountains. The same tax applies to bottled soft drinks. And a tax of 50 cents a pound has been levied on carbonic acid gas used in preparation of fountain drinks.

Slashes Off Leg

PORT ORFORD, Ore., Sept. 8 (AP)—A logger slashed off his employer's leg with a woodsman's axe Thursday to free him from a burning tractor. But the grim task that put logger Arlo Gore on the verge of collapse, was in vain. Gordon Johnston, the employer, died in hospital of burns and shock. Johnston had pleaded with his logging crew to cut off his leg, caught when the tractor overturned on a steep slope.

Not Expecting Much Buyer Resistance

By The Canadian Press

Canadian business men indicated today that they expect the public will absorb the higher prices caused by tax increases with little buying resistance.

There was no immediate comment from either the Canadian Manufacturers Association or the Canadian Chamber of Commerce. Officials indicated they wished to study the budget before estimating its possible effect on business.

The special budget brought down by Finance Minister Abbott Thursday night boosted corporation taxes and provided for new or higher taxes on cars, trucks, some beverages and a wide range of electrical appliances and luxury goods.

But a soft-drink manufacturer said the new excise tax of 30 per cent on bottled soft drinks would be a "serious blow."

E. P. Fox of Montreal, general sales manager of the Pepsi-Cola Company of Canada, Ltd., said "this item of the budget has dealt us a serious blow." G. E Mitchell, sales manager of the Orange Crush Company, said in Toronto his product would be increased to six cents from five cents a bottle.

Beer Increases

Predicted, too, were increases in beer prices, the result of an increase in taxes on malt to 21 cents from 16 cents a pound. A brewing official in Toronto said an increase was "inevitable" while in Montreal, a meeting was called of brewing associations and breweries to discuss the new tax.

The excise tax on cars was raised five per cent to 15 per cent but officials said it would have little appreciable effect on sales. A Chrysler Corporation spokesman said in Windsor it would boost the retail price of the average car about $75 to $80.

Dealers said, however, there still is a strong demand for new cars, and they expect sales to be maintained.

One labor spokesman, C. H. Millard, Canadian director of the United Steelworkers (CIO-CCL), immediately protested the budget. He said: "In view of the unprecedented profits, it seems that one would be able to guard against inflation and meet the added burden of increased defence expenditures with an excess profits tax."

Chess Masters Plan Congress In Britain

LONDON —(Reuters)—Twelve of the world's greatest chess masters from abroad and four British masters are to be invited to play in a congress in Britain next year for the centenary of the first international tournament ever held.

The tournament is being organized by the British Chess Federation to coincide with the Festival of Britain and will be held in May and June. It will be held in Cheltenham, and two other places yet to be decided.

The federation will offer $2,800 in prizes and it is hoped to include world champion Mikhail Botvinnik of Russia and his challenger David Bronstein, also of Russia.

The first international congress was held in London.

Fire Damages Arnprior Paper

ARNPRIOR, Sept. 8 (CP). — Fire of undetermined origin on Thursday swept through the offices of the Arnprior Chronicle, a weekly newspaper in this town 40 miles west of Ottawa.

Presses, typesetting machines and other equipment were heavily damaged while an apartment above the office, occupied by Charles Moffatt, an employee of the Chronicle, also was damaged considerably.

This week's edition of the Chronicle was off the press and mailed before the blaze started while the employees were out to lunch.

Indian Operetta May Go On Tour

VANCOUVER — (CP) — An operetta concerning "early Americans"—believed the first such ever attempted—may soon hit the road on a professional basis.

The story is an Indian legend handed down among the Cowichan Indians of Vancouver Island. The cast is all-native.

Frank Morrison, arts instructor on the island, conceived the idea of seeking for plot and music in the native culture, rather than seeking a plot in fables from other lands.

After convincing the suspicious Indians of his sincerity, Morrison assembled a cast of 25 and an Indian orchestra. He wrote the music based on native songs and adapted the story of the thunderbird and the killer whale.

The operetta tells, in sorrowful strains of an Indian village reduced to starvation by the ravages of a giant whale which destroys all the fish.

The village prays to Tzinquaw, the thunderbird. Tzinquaw hears their prayers, swoops on the whale and carries it off in his huge talons. Then he deposits the killer on the village beach as food until the fish returns.

Morrison's operetta has been performed and acclaimed in Duncan, BC, and funds now are being raised to finance a professional tour.

Calgary's Cavies

CALGARY (CP).—The Calgary Zoo claims to have the only adult cavies in Canada. The animals, which are native to the Argentine, look something like a cross between an antelope or small deer and a rabbit. Recently Patagonian Cavy (that's mother's name) gave birth to two baby cavies, something unusual because the female seldom breeds in captivity.

'Grandma' Moses Fine at 90 Works on Paintings Daily

By SAUL PETT

EAGLE BRIDGE, N.Y. (AP)—I came up to this little farm community near the Green Mountains of Vermont to see what 10 years of success have done for Grandma Moses, who has just turned 90.

Grandma, in case you haven't heard, is the lady who lived and worked all her life on farms, raised a large family and then at the age of 80 became a renowned "primitive" painter. With no training at all, she paints warm, colorful country scenes which have been sold for as much as $3,000 each, have been exhibited in the best museums and have become Christmas card classics.

Two or three of her pictures brightened the walls of the living room. A pot-bellied oil stove stood in the middle of the room. Against the opposite wall was an old upright piano. A small television set stood in a corner with a photo of grandma on top.

I asked the artist's daughter-in-law, Dorothy Moses, a slender, blonde woman who is a grandmother herself, what grandma had been doing lately. "Painting mostly," she said. "Also some sewing. She sewed herself a dress."

Visits Family

Grandma also spends much time visiting with her family. She now has three children, 11 grandchildren and 15 great-grandchildren. She lives with Dorothy and Dorothy's youngest daughter. Grandma's husband, a farmer, died in 1927. Their farm, about 150 acres of corn, is cared for by her sons.

Dorothy Moses recalled how her mother-in-law was discovered. In 1938 grandma had some pictures displayed at a drugstore in nearby Hoosick Falls. They were priced at $3 and $5, depending on the size.

An art collector bought them all. Then he went out to the white farm house at Eagle Bridge. He bought 15 more paintings—all she had done.

"The next year, grandma had her first real exhibition in New York and became a big success," Dorothy said.

In a short time, Anna Mary Robertson Moses entered. She is tiny, and she said "hello" in a small, clear voice. She wore light-rimmed glasses, a long black lace dress, black cotton stockings, flat black shoes, a white lace collar piece and a dainty black velvet ribbon around her neck.

Paints Every Day

Grandma sat erectly on the couch, smoothed her dress, folded her hands in her lap and apologized for not being able to get the green paint off her finger tips.

She said she felt fine. She wasn't thinking much about her birthday. She was painting every day—not anything in particular, "just pictures." She paints almost entirely from memory.

We talked about her working habits. She rises at 7 or 8 in the morning, comes down "as soon as I smell the coffee," returns to her room and works four or five hours a day. She quits whenever she tires. "I'm pretty good to myself," she said.

I asked grandma if she thought her painting had improved since became famous.

Gets Better Paints

"Yes," she said, "because I'm getting better paints now from New York City there was a time I couldn't get small brushes. Now I can, and now I can paint any eye on a face. Before, I had to use a pin to make eyes on my little folks."

What did she think of the modernists, the abstractionists and the non-objective painters?

"I don't like them," she said. "Oh, that sort of thing would be good for a rug or piece of linoleum."

I asked what pleased her most about her success.

"Hasn't anything pleased me particularly," she said. "I wish it had happened to somebody younger. Oh, there's been some money, but what's money when you can't use it. I wanted to go to Ohio last year for a family reunion but I couldn't.

"Everywhere I go I'm a drawing card. I don't like it much either you know, grandma Moses is just a common everyday body. I don't see where it's any boast to say you shook her hand."

Veterans Welcome Old Friend From Scotland

TORONTO, Sept. 8 (CP). — "Canada is just like the wee laddies said it would be."

The speaker was a sturdy Scots woman, Mrs. Ella Bailey, one of the world's foremost authorities on Scottish tartans and lineage and "Mum Bailey" to thousands of Canadian servicemen during the Second World War.

With the frugal, canny business acumen for which her face is renowned, Mum Bailey is combining business with pleasure on her first visit to this country. She is operating a concession at the Canadian National Exhibition.

There was nothing frugal, however, is the welcome Canadian servicemen received between 1939 and 1945 in her gift shop on Edinburgh's Princes Street.

Scores of Letters

And the scores of phone calls and letters she has received since arriving here about two weeks ago provide ample proof her "wee laddies" havn't forgotten the woman who often closed her busy shop to show a group of Canadians around Edinburgh's historic spots; who, despite rationing, managed to serve afternoon tea to sometimes a score of men at a sitting; who turned her apartment over to men recuperating from war wounds; who lent them money when they were broke; and who, most important of all, gave them the kind of advice and encouragement she felt their own mothers would have given.

"I've been intending to visit Canada ever since the war ended but never seemed able to manage it until now," Mrs. Bailey said in an interview.

She operates a concession displaying Scottish tartans, bagpipes and clan emblems.

First of the "wee laddies" to get in touch with Mrs. Bailey on her arrival was Curtis Ross, formerly of Calgary and now living in Toronto, who heard her speaking [illegible] phoned daily to see if he can be of any assistance to "Mum."

Hand-cut Brilliants By Local Man Feature Show

Gorgeous necklaces, sparkling earrings and other eye-taking costume jewellery designed and executed by Meredith (Bud) Miller of Brock St. have been featured at the Canadian National Exhibition.

He has two exhibits at the big show, one at the Coliseum, the other at the Manufacturers' building. At the latter every evening Kate Aitken has put on a fashion show, and "Jewellery by Meredith" adorns the models who promenade about the dinner tables in the balcony restaurant.

Mr. Miller, who gave up his lectureship at McGill University to devote all his time to jewellery designs, works at his Peterborough home.

Of Interest to Women

DOROTHY DIX

Middle Aged Wife Seeks Good Time With Other Men

DEAR MISS DIX: My marriage of twenty-five years has come to an end. My wife and I are close to the 45-year mark, but she says that she is a young woman and that there are plenty of thrills in life left for her. She says that she never got to go with anybody else but me as a girl and couldn't do the things she wanted to do, so now she is tired of marriage, our home must be broken up, and she has sued for divorce. And when I try to talk and reason with her she goes into tears and threatens suicide. She says that there is no other man and that she does not want to marry again. I am all broken up over the affair and sick from worry. How can I make her see that I am the best friend she will ever have? Will she be happy in the course she is pursuing?

AN UNHAPPY HUSBAND.

ANSWER: Your wife is a pathological case and should be under the care of some good doctor. She needs to be saved from herself and prevented from committing folly of breaking up her home and divorcing a good husband.

It is bad enough for the man who thinks that he can regain his lost youth by divorcing his old wife and marrying some girl young enough to be his daughter, but it is far worse for the middle-aged woman who deludes herself into believing that she can go back and gather up all her girlish dreams again and have the romantic experiences of 16 at 46.

Past Is Over

It cannot be done. What is past, is past. No miracle is going to happen that will give her back a girl's heart any more than it will give her back her girlish figure, or her childish face, or the innocent child's eyes that looked on life with awe and wonder. She has seen too much, known too much, experienced too much ever to palpitate again over the things that thrilled her in her early youth.

So the woman's dream that she can go back and have all the experiences that she missed in her girlhood can never be realized. She who has known marriage and child-bearing and work and worry and struggle can't be carefree and light-hearted as she was as a girl. She who has been to a thousand parties can't be excited as she was when she went to her first ball. She who is no longer young nor beautiful cannot hope to have men flocking about, eager to marry her.

So when she has got her divorce she finds herself with the door of youth closed behind her, with no home, no husband, a forlorn and lonely creature.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am a boy of 19. I have been going steady with a girl who loves me dearly, but I have lost interest in her and want to leave her, but do not want to hurt her. She would feel terrible if I stopped going with her. Can you tell me a painless way of separation?

JOHN R.

ANSWER: Perhaps the easiest way and the one that will hurt the girl's pride least is just to let her down gradually. Go to see her less often. Slack off in your attentions. Treat her coolly. That will, in a way, prepare her for the knowledge that you have grown tired of her. But if the girl really loves you there isn't any painless way of ridding yourself of her. Breaking a heart always hurts.

But of one thing I am very sure, and that is that the kindest thing is to end the affair as soon as possible. Don't let the girl go on in a fool's paradise, believing in your love when it is dead, thinking that you enjoy being with her when she bores you, building her hopes upon you when tney can never come to any fruition.

And there is this consolation for you, that in the teen's hearts heal almost over night, and probably the girl can forget you as easily as you will forget her. Few people marry their first loves.

DEAR MISS DIX: Can you advise a girl what to do when she is in love with a boy who does not care for her? I am deeply in love with a handsome 20-year-old boy and feel that no other one could ever enter my heart, but he is not at all interested in me. How can I find out whether he cares for me or is in love with someone else?

V.L.P.

ANSWER: You've already found out that he dosn't care for you. If a boy doesn't date you or even come to see you, you have all the proof you need to know that he is indifferent to you. If he were in love with you, he would be camping on your doorstep.

My advice to a girl who is in love with a boy who does not care for her is to forget him and turn her affections toward some more responsive subject.

Specialties of the House For Real Cooking Pride

By MARY MOORE.

Every household takes pride in its particular cooking specialties, and ours is no exception.

I do not mean such novelties (atrocities?) as Pete's split bananas spread with peanut butter and strawberry jam, but I do mean such things as my Sunday sausage rolls and Apricot Kuchen.

These are the type of thing some of my uninhibited friends demand to be served before they have sense enough to politely accept my invitations to supper.

You talk yourself into planning a party; you decide who to invite; you invite them—then they have the unrestrained nerve to tell you what to serve them. Woe is me. It's enough to make a body bitter.

However, Pushover Mary does it (and loves doing it) like this:

Sunday Sausage Rolls

Rich Pastry: Let ¾ cup lard or good quality shortening stand in a bowl at room temperature until it is soft. Add one egg, one tablespoon lemon juice and beat smooth, then add ½ cup ice water. Beat until perfectly smooth. Add 2½ cups flour which has been sifted with ½ teaspoon salt and stir with a knife until well mixed. For best results chill before rolling out.

Roll out on floured board. Cut paste into five-inch squares. Place a sausage catty-cornered on each one; fold two of the corners overlapping on top, leaving ends open. Bake on flat pan at 450 deg. Fehr. for 15 minutes, then at 375 until sausages are done.

Emem's Apricot Kuchen

Place sifter over mixing bowl and put into it 1½ cups flour (preferably bread flour), 1/3 cup sugar, ¾ teaspoon salt and 3 teaspoons baking powder. Sift. Cut into this 3 tablespoons margarine or butter and then beat in 1 egg and 1/3 cup milk. With palm of hand press this dough onto generously buttered round pan to thickness of ½ inch. Have ready 8 or 10 quartered apricots (or peaches) and arrange in close rows on top of dough. Cream together ¼ cup butter and 2/3 cup sugar and 2 tablespoons flour. Sprinkle this topping over the apricots. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 30 minutes.

Important Note: 1. As noted this may be used with peaches. Stewed apricots, cut with sharp knife to prevent them looking mushy, and fresh plums may be used too. If desired sprinkle top with freshly grated nutmeg. 2. Boxed cake mix can be used and makes this into a particularly fast and effective dessert. If boxed cake mix is used, use less liquid than it calls for on box.

Dorothy's Cucumbers in Sour Cream Dressing

(Very Special and highly recommended).

Cut up finely an onion size of 50-cent piece (if you can't find a 50-cent piece you are out of luck), to it add ½ cup sugar, generous shake of salt and stingy shake of pepper, and ¼ cup white vinegar. Let stand all afternoon. It becomes quite liquid. When it is about time to take the roast beef or pork from the oven with which this is to be served, slice one slender cucumber thin, after paring it. Add anywhere from ½ to 1 cup sour cream to the sugar-vinegar mix, then fold the cucumbers (how are you at folding cucumbers?) into this.

In leaf lettuce season, use it instead of cucumbers. If you ever have leftover butter beans, cut them at an angle and use them sometimes. Spoon the juice left in dish over your roast beef and potatoes. Any way, it is out of this world.

ATTENTION EXAMINER READERS: As you are aware we are giving you Mary Moore's column daily instead of weekly now. On Saturdays our readers' letters will be printed in this column along with Mrs. Moore's answers. If you have a canning or pickling problem send a letter to Mrs. Moore and look for her answer in this column in about two weeks. Address your letter to Mary Moore, care of The Examiner.

COOKBOOK OF THE WEEK

Learn to Broil and Roast Successfully

The key to successful meals lies in knowing how to buy meat and how to prepare it after you have selected the correct cut. You can learn all about these facts from the charts, pictures and step-by-step instructions and recipes in "250 Ways to Prepare Meat," the eighth cookbook in the series of twenty-four Culinary Arts Institute Cookbooks being made available to readers of The Examiner by the release of one cookbook a week.

In this invaluable cookbook you will find suggestions on how to prepare a roast for the oven, how to season it, correct temperature and time charts, and many suggestions for gravies and sauces.

But everyone needs to know how to make less expensive meals than can be done with roasts and the Meat Book is full of flavorful ideas for budget meals also. Here is an excellent suggestion that can be made with a very inexpensive cut of lamb:

Lamb Curry Pie

2 pounds of lamb (shoulder or breast)
1 onion, diced
1 tablespoon fat
3 cups hot water
¼ teaspoon thyme
2½ teaspoons salt
2 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon curry powder
¼ cup water
3 cups cooked rice

Cut lamb into 1-inch cubes. Brown lamb and onion in fat; add water, thyme and salt; simmer 1½ hours or until meat is tender. Combine flour and curry powder; add cold water and mix to a smooth paste; add to lamb. Line greased baking dish on sides and bottom with rice, pressing rice firmly into place. Fill centre with lamb mixture and bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 20 minutes. Serves 6.

Omit rice and cover top of curry with baking powder biscuit dough. Bake in hot oven (425 degrees F.) 15 to 20 minutes.

To get the Meat Book or any of the earlier books of the series all you need to do is clip a coupon from any issue of this newspaper—one coupson for each book—and present it with 25 cents to The Examiner office, your Examiner carrier or Braund's Food Market. It is easy to catch up on the earlier titles, Snacks, Leftovers, Cakes, Poultry, Pies, Soups and Salads, because a coupon appears daily. If you wish to send for your cookbook by mail enclose each book (3 cents additional for postage and handling) to Cookbook Department, The Examiner, Peterborough.

6—In Memoriams

CROWE—In loving memory of George Alfred Crowe, who passed away September 8th, 1946.

I cannot say and I will not say
That he is dead; he is just away.
With a cheery smile and a wave of the hand,
He has wandered into an unknown land.
And left us dreaming how very fair
It needs must be since he lingers there.
And you—oh, you, who the wildest yearn
For the oldtime step and the glad return
Think of him faring on, as dear,
In the love of there, as the love of here
Think of him still as the same, I say,
He is not dead—he is just away.

Ottie, Keith, Clinton, Lou.

Many Attractive Meals Can Be Cooked On Grill

By KAY REX

OTTAWA, Sept. 8—(CP)—If home to you means "one room with grill privileges" then a few tips on how to prepare small quantities of food tastefully should prove helpful.

Health and Welfare Department officials say that even for working people keeping house alone can be easy and interesting. A little thought given to planning can make the preparation of varied, nutritious meals a pleasant hobby as well as an aid to health and vitality.

A double-boiler is the first "must" in every miniature kitchen. A pressure cooker also is invaluable as a time and fuel saver.

Cooking Hints

Here are a few cooking hints which might prove useful:

Always remember that too high a temperature shrinks meat. Tougher cuts may be cooked slowly in tomato juice, canned tomatoes or water. Make gravy with the liquid later.

When frying meat, cook in a hot uncovered frying pan with fat. Sear on both sides and turn frequently.

To braise: brown meat in hot fat, cover and cook slowly in its own juice or in a little water or liquid from vegetables.

To stew: cover with water and simmer. Add vegetables.

Fish may be served several ways.

To fry: roll in flour or cracker crumbs; fry on both sides in well-greased pan. It's cooked when it flakes.

To boil: wrap in parchment paper, tie with string and boil in salted water. Allow five minutes a pound for fillets; eight to 10 minutes a pound for thick fish, serve with a lemon wedge or white sauce with hard-cooked eggs.

Left-over fish may be served creamed in white sauce; added to mashed potato and fried as fish-cakes; or used in salads.

Do Not Overcook

Vegetables may be cooked together to save space and fuel. Put those requiring the longest cooking in first.

Pudding can be cooked in the top of a double boiler while vegetables cook in the bottom.

Many left-over vegetables may be browned in the frying pan, creamed, or served with cheese sauce. Left-over beets may be pickled in vinegar.

The Health Department has other homemaking hints for the single person or working couple in its booklet "Meals for One or Two."

Put Regiments On Gravestones

OTTAWA, Sept. 8 (CP). — Defence Minister Claxton said today in the Commons he has issued instructions to have the names of regiments placed on the grave stones of Canadians who lost their lives overseas during the Second World War.

Replying to Maj. E. D. Fulton (PC-Kamloops) Mr. Claxton said that before the instructions were issued some 4,000 gravestones had been erected without showing the name of the deceased's regiment. These gravestones will be changed or replaced.

He has asked that in the case of French-Canadian soldiers their gravestone inscriptions be in French as far as possible.

Use Guardsmen As Guinea Pigs

LONDON, Sept. 9—(Reuters)—An air-conditioning engineer put half a battalion of British guardsmen into the new House of Commons building to find out how to keep members of parliament awake. But today he's doubtful that fresh air is the answer.

Dr. Oscar Faber thought plenty of ozone would cure the notorious dozing tendencies of M.P.'s who frequently nod off during debates.

He tried his theory out yesterday on 400 deep-chested guardsmen, who, as guinea pigs for the experiment, filed into the new chamber built to replace the historic old house blitzed during the war.

They took their places and waited expectantly.

The experiment started when an engineer began reading a boring lecture entitled "The Law Courts of England."

It was Dr. Faber's big moment. He pulled the switch on his air-conditioning unit and shot a great blast of fresh air into the room.

It should have electrified the "members" but one private gently closed his eyes and dozed off. Across the chamber, another private sitting in the seat that will be Prime Minister Attlee's, frowned and then seemed to lose interest in the proceedings.

The verdict on the proceedings was that more trials are needed.

Keep Your Dogs On Leash Yet

A flood of complaints from all parts of the city that dog owners have released over the weekend their dogs after keeping them tied up during the summer has been received by Humane Society Inspector Gerald Dunford.

Flower gardens are not finished yet, Mr. Dunford commented and he warned that there is a city by-law which prohibits owners letting their dogs run loose all year round. But dogs are not generally considered such a nuisance after frost has killed most flowers about October 1 or 15.

Almost Got Away Without Tax On Fur

OTTAWA, Sept. 8 (CP). — Milady almost got away without an extra tax on that new fur coat.

Finance Minister Abbot announced in his budget speech on Thursday night that the tax was going up to 15 per cent from 10 per cent, but someone forgot to include furs in the formal resolution making it legal.

Overnight, the error was spotted, and today Mr. Abbott moved in the Commons to include furs in the increased tax list.

JOSEPH CROCKFORD, son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. S. Thompson, 531 Douglas Ave., joined the Canadian Special Force in August. He is now training at Camp Borden. His wife has returned to her parents home during his absence in service.

Carl Monk, a former announcer here and lately commercial manager at CKWS in Kingston, has taken over as manager of the Sarnia radio station, CHOK. His place at Kingston has been filled by El Jones who until recently was commercial manager of CHEX.

Parliament To Decide Destination

St. Laurent Pledges No Troops Sent Without Approval

OTTAWA, Sept. 9—(CP)—Parliament will make the final decision about the destination of Canada's special army force, Prime Minister St. Laurent said Friday night, and it might or might not be Korea.

No step taken by this special session will authorize Cabinet to send the force anywhere but Korea, he assured the Commons. If it goes elsewhere, the final decision will be Parliament's at a later session.

He spoke late in a three-sitting day that saw the Commons approve the second and third of the major measures placed before members less than two weeks ago.

The first bill approved was the one that got the railways running. The second was one to authorize the government to spend $850,000,000 in this and future years to rearm Canada, to build up the forces and to ship arms to Europe.

The third, passed late Friday night, was the bill to authorize the government to place any part of the armed forces on active service—roughly a war footing—to fulfill Canada's obligations to the United Nations.

Still Have Howe's Bill

That left members still confronted with Trade Minister Howe's bill to give stand-by powers over prices and direction of strategic materials, with Finance Minister Abbott's budget and certain less-important measures.

Mr. St. Laurent intervened in debate on the active service measure to tell how the government plans to authorize dispatch of the army's special force.

Under present circumstances, he said, Korea still is assumed to be the theatre where the brigade will fight when it is ready.

Orders-in-Council covering the legal step to place it on active service and the authorization to dispatch it to Korea would be placed before this special session:

Up To Parliament

But if events indicated it could serve the United Nations' cause better elsewhere cabinet would make its decisions and submit it to parliament.

U.N. Troops Close Gap On War Front

Lost Battle Mountain To Superior Communist Forces

TOKYO, Sept. 9—(AP)—Allied troops closed a dangerously big hole in the northeastern Korea war front today. But they lost scarred Battle Mountain again in the southwest to superior North Korean forces.

The five-mile gap in the northeastern front was closed by South Korean troops, backed by American planes. They linked forces in moves between Yongchon and Kyongju, road junction towns east of Taegu, central front imperilled by 50,000 Communists from the north. The closing of the rupture in the line eased some of the pressure on Taegu.

On the red-hot southwestern front a full North Korean regiment drove outnumbered American troops off Battle Mountain Saturday in a battle that raged all day. The heights has changed hands five times in two days, 12 times in three weeks.

A spokesman said American forces failed to recapture outpost lines lost yesterday two miles southwest of Haman, in the southwest sector.

On the northeast front he said two South Korean attacks were made near Yongchon. One was seven miles north of the rubbled city and the other was four miles southeast of Yongchon.

Skies cleared late Saturday and U.S. fighters and bombers flew 140 sorties in close support of Allied troops in the Yongchon-Kyongju area. Other sectors were so quiet the U.S. 8th Army in Korea omitted its Saturday night communique.

Trying Close Gap

While the Yongchon troops drove eastward, another Allied force pushed northwest and west from Kyongju, road junction 25 miles east of Yongchon.

The two forces were trying to close a six-mile gape in the Allied northeastern line along the 120-mile Korean warfront. They moved fast to beat an anticipated new Red drive on Taegu, main Allied central front base.

The South Korean advance gave Taegu a breather. Defenders of the city, largest left in the Allied defence perimeter, have dug foxholes for street fighting if a 50,000-man Red force north of the city rolls down from the mountains.

Under Shelling

The Communist radio in Pyongyang, North Korean capital, broadcast that Yongchon was in Communist hands. Allied sources said the South Koreans firmly held the junction but were undergoing Communist shelling.

On the rain-lashed southwestern front before Masan port, heavy fighting prevailed between the U. N. TROOPS

Cafe Manager Shoots Two Robbers

WINDSOR, Sept. 9 (CP)—Two Windsor brothers were shot today by the manager of an east side restaurant when he discovered three men robbing his shop.

Sidney Bell, manager of the Dot Restaurant, Walker and Tecumseh Roads, using a .22 rifle, fired three shots into windows of the restaurant and wounded two of the three men who were inside attempting to rob the restaurant.

Police were on the scene moments after the shooting and they [illegible] side and arrested the men who were trapped in the kitchen.

In Metropolitan General Hospital under police guard are the two wounded men identified as James and William Cosgrove, 1847 Albert Road.

Taken For Questioning

The third man involved, Terance Brady, 37, 1757 Byng Road, was taken to police headquarters for questioning.

Most seriously wounded is William Cosgrove who was shot through the thick part of the neck. His brother James Cosgrove was struck in the arm and thigh.

A burglar alarm system on a swinging door in the Dot Restaurant sounded a buzzer in the adjacent office building where Mr. Bell was resting.

He grabbed up his .22 rifle and went ouside in time to see a man inside the front part of the restaurant taking items from a counter.

Mr. Bell called police and then went back outside and fired a warning shot through a side window into the front of the store.

This sent the one man scurrying back into the kitchen. Mr. Bell then went to the rear and looked into the kitchen of the restaurant and spotted three men inside the kitchen.

He let fly with two more shots, firing through the glass.

At this moment a police cruiser arrived with police constables C. S. "Butch" Collins and Ray Wyley. Collins went to a back window where he spotted the three men inside.

In the front part of the restaurant, lying on the floor beside a counter police found a potato sack partly filled with butter, ham, a clock, cigarettes and cigarette papers.

India's 6-Year Plan

NEW DELHI, Sept. 9—(Reuters)—India's proposed six-year development plan involves the expenditure of about $3,864,000,000, it was reliably learned here Friday.

Will Bring Out Remainder In Groups Of Three Try To Beat Deadly Gas

New Effort Will Take Time, Be Dangerous But Fans Too Slow; Hundreds Keep Vigil Outside Scottish Pit

NEW CUMNOCK, Scotland, Sept. 9—(AP)—The first of 118 men trapped in the Knockshinnoch castle mine since Thursday was brought through a gas-filled escape tunnel to safety shortly after noon today. Rescue workers fitted the man with air breathing apparatus to protect him from a wall of deadly black damp gas before helping him out. He was examined by doctors in the abandoned mine shaft being used as a rescue tunnel before being brought to the surface. Word reaching the pithead from the bottom of the 720-foot deep mine was that the rest of the trapped men would be brought out in groups of three.

A National Coal Board spokesman said the new rescue effort would take some time and would "provoke some risk." The miners were trapped by a sea of mud when a field caved in Thursday above their workings.

Grouped around the pithead of the Knockshinnoch Castle mine, red-eyed relatives and friends waited for word that the men had been released. Salvation Army lassies led prayer services and sang "Nearer My God to Thee".

Run Canteen Service

The women of this mining village of 6,000, 30 miles south of Glasgow, opened a canteen service. Bakery shops emptied their shelves of bread and rolls to feed the waiting hundreds.

Thousands of tons of mud and peat blocked the main shaft of the mine when a rain-soaked field above the workings suddenly sank. The 10 missing men are believed to have been caught in the avalanche. Mine officials said it may be months before the shaft is cleared and they are found.

Except for the missing men and the eight who escaped, the others of the night shift found safety together in the chamber where they are still caught. A six-inch gap between the blocking earth mass and the mine roof assures them a steady flow of fresh air.

Fears were expressed for the safety of 10 of the trapped men. Isolated from the main party, no word has been heard from the 10 since their exit route was cut off by the cave-in.

The coal board said that because of slow progress clearing this gas the men would be brought out wearing breathing apparatus.

Not Trained

Earlier, Dr. William Reid, vice-chairman of the National Coal Board, said the anti-gas equipment would only be used in an emergency because most of the men had not been trained in wearing the respirators.

The gas-masked rescue team, working in relays of five, drilled their way upward through a 30-foot wall of coal from a nearby abandoned mine Friday night to reach the trapped men. They opened a hole big enough for a man to crawl through. But the exit was blocked by a 1,000-foot layer of colorless, odorless black damp gas.

Giant fans were set to work clearing the escape hatch but it was a slow job. Colliery officials said it might be hours before the men could be brought out safely.

Cordova Man Killed On Marmora St.

MARMORA, Sept. 9 (ENS). — Michael Coules, 67, a Cordova employee of George Edwards of Hastings, was killed on Main Street, Marmora, 15 minutes after [illegible] from the village.

A car driven by Leo Willman, of Madoc, coming south, hit the elderly pedestrian in swerving to avoid Coules, who apparently walked in front of the oncoming car. An inquest is being held today by Dr. S. Beatty of Madoc.

As the Willman car was coming south, another car driven by Gerald Caverly of Marmora Township was proceeding north. Coules walked in front of the Willman car which swerved to the left in a vain attempt to avoid him. However he was hit by the right front of the car.

Head-On Crash

In swerving Willman had a half head-on collision with the Caverly car. Damage to both cars was cost of $150.

Two passengers in the Caverly car were slightly injured. Eileen McPherson, 20, had her chin lacerated, knees bruised and suffered from shock. The other passenger, Mrs. John McGregor, of Marmora Township, suffered a bruised left leg and shock. Both were treated by Dr. H. G. Parkin.

Provincial Constable H. Gould of Madoc investigated, assisted by Provincial Constable Tom Lumiss and village Constable P. Embury of Marmora.

John Anderson, a Cordova neighbour identified the remains. The coroner's jury was sworn in at 10 this morning and the inquest adjourned until September 18 in the town hall. It is under stood that the victim of the accident has a married sister in Carleton Place.

Union President Hurt In Scuffle

HAMILTON, Sept. 9 (CP) — In a picket line clash between police and civic workers on strike at an east-end garbage dump, William Patterson, president of the striking union, today was injured about the head. Two other strikers were arrested.

About 1,000 civic workers, including garbage collectors and grave diggers, have been on strike for more than four weeks to back wage-hours demands, including a request for a 40-hour week.

Tax Evasion Immoral Church To Rule

TORONTO, Sept. 9 — (CP)—The United Church of Canada may ask its ministers to tell their congregations that tax evasion is immoral—as well as illegal.

A resolution to be presented to the 14th meeting of the Church's General Council next week will express concern with such examples of "social dishonesty" as income tax evasion by individuals and companies; violation of foreign exchange regulations and reported expenditures of unnecessarily large amounts of money during election campaigns.

The resolution was drafted by the Church's Board of Evangelism and Social Service. It will be considered when the meeting opens Tuesday.

It calls for a greater willingness by individuals and corporations to pay taxes, a more thorough supervision of unemployment insurance payments and a declaration by all political party leaders that their organizations have been told not to accept campaign funds from liquor companies and gambling syndicates.

Other resolutions to be considered are: A suggestion that all Canadians receive a pension of $40 a month without means test after 70; endorsation of a resolution passed by the World Council of Churches that the use of the hydrogen bomb would be a sin against God; and that members of the church should be asked to take oaths to refrain from the use of alcohol.

Soap Rationing Ends

LONDON, Sept. 9— (AP) — Soap rationing, which went into effect in Britain in February, 1942, ends tonight. Shortages of fats and oils had limited each person to 21 ounces of soap every eight weeks.

Ontario Ready To Curtail Works Program If Needed

TORONTO, Sept. 9—Ontario is ready to shelve some of its plans for public works if Ottawa asks that they be postponed in the national interest, Premier Frost said Friday night. Finance Minister Abbott in his budget address of Thursday night asked industry and governments to forego expenditures on matters that might be held off. While Ontario was not anxious to delay its public works program, it was ready to do anything necessary to meet the current situation, the premier said.

One place where he felt there could be no postponement was in hydro development. The major expenditures already have been made on such plants as Chenaux, La Cave and Des Joachims on the Ottawa River, and Mississagi and Pine Portage. The new Niagara development lay ahead and, although it was a tremendous project, its output was vital, he said.

"Looking forward to 1953 or 1954, which isn't so far away, we simply have to go ahead with power," the premier said.

Ready Anytime

Noting an Ottawa despatch outlining a proposed bill which would give the federal government power to control certain materials and services—steel and electrical energy were specified—the premier said: "If Ottawa wants to discuss power with us, we will be there in a matter of hours. We will fly down and take with us some of the best hydraulic men in the world to talk it over with them."

Ontario had a very large public investment program based on the development of the province, the Premier said. There was, for instance, the highway-building program. This had been curtailed during the war and, with the increase of car ownership here and of visiting motorists, development of the road system was necessary.

The Federal government, the Premier pointed out, had decided

Cripps Unlikely To Be Retiring

LONDON, Sept. 9—(Reuters)—Sir Stafford Cripps' three-month leave on health grounds is providing London with its biggest current political mystery, besides causing talk of his resignation as chancellor of the exchequer.

But official quarters do not support suggestions that Sir Stafford intends to give up his job.

He has been greatly overworked and in indifferent health this year, but friends predict his present spell away from Whitehall will be sufficient to restore him to normal vigor.

Speculation has been based on the decision to leave Britain's representation at the present Paris financial talks to Sir Stafford's deputy, Hugh Gaitskell. But Whitehall says it was to relieve the chancellor that Gaitskell was appointed.

Sir Stafford, resting at his country home, is pursuing his usual rigorous daily health routine.

This includes a brisk early morning walk, a hot bath, a rubdown with rough towels, then a cold sponge. He tops off with a vegetarian breakfast.

He recently cut out pipe smoking, of which he was fond.

3 Houses Collapse On 23 Sleeping Folk

SWANSEA, Wales, Sept. 9 — (AP)—Three houses collapsed on 23 sleeping occupants today, killing at least four of them. Cause of the freak accident was not immediately determined.

Rescue squads, digging through rubble, found the bodies of a man and three children. Police said two other persons, believed to have been in the houses when they collapsed, were unaccounted for.

Seventeen persons stumbled out of the wreckage or were dug out by rescuers. Fifteen of them were treat at the hospital. Neighbors said they were awakened by a "roaring and rushing noise" and ran to their windows to see the houses crumple in a cloud of dust.

Standard Equipment

NEW YORK, Sept. 9—(AP)—A Long Island builder says bomb shelters will be standard equipment in his 250-house, two-storey housing project. The builder, Milton Steinberg, said yesterday each home in the Queens development will have nine-by-nineteen-foot vaults, with reinforced steel and concrete walls, under the garage.

First UK Soldier Killed In Korea

TOKYO, Sept. 9—(CP)—First death in action of a British soldier in Korea was reported in dispatches reaching here today.

A correspondent with the British troops reported that the soldier, a member of the Middlesex Regiment, was buried today with full military honors under the United Nations flag at the cemetery of the United States 1st Cavalry Division. He was killed on patrol in Communist territory.

In Tokyo, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters today listed British casualties as two missing and 14 wounded. The announcement gave no news of the death of the Tommy.

Meanwhile, British patrols today directed heavy artillery fire on roving bands of North Koreans who had infiltrated Allied lines along the Naktong River.

A British army spokesman said the Reds sifted through a 600-yard gap to the left of the British 27th Brigade's position.

Associated Press correspondent Leif Erickson reported from Korea that British patrols dropped back as much as four miles hunting for the Reds.

Truman Granted Powers Greatest In US History

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9 (AP)—President Truman will broadcast to the country tonight a report on how he plans to use the broadest economic control powers ever held by a United States president.

The power grant became effective when the president signed into law Friday the control bill passed by Congress Sept. 1. It gave Truman somewhat greater authority than that held by President Roosevelt in the second world war.

One use—to curb instalment-plan buying—was invoked a few minutes after Truman signed the bill. This was a Federal Reserve Board order tightening, effective Sept. 18, credit terms that can be allowed buyers of automobiles and many other goods.

Truman himself has said he won't use the his new wage-price-rationing control powers in the near future. So the credit-tightening action will reach more directly into the lives of millions of Americans than any other steps now in the cards.

The credit curbs promised to clip the public's capacity to buy television sets, washing machines and other items.

Other orders to come are expected to curtail the availability of many consumer goods by directing essential materials required—such as steel and copper—to defence production.

The control program as a whole is intended to accomplish a mobilization speed-up and a check on inflation. Truman has warned that "we shall have to make many changes in our way of living and working here at home."

Glen Cove Having Trouble With Its Russians Again

GLEN COVE, NY, Sept. 9. (AP) — Glen Cove is having trouble with its Russians again.

This time they want a tax exemption on their 45-room, $350,000 Long Island Estate, "Killenworth."

Ever since Soviet officials — plus their families and staffs — have swarmed into this millionaire community, Glen Cove has had a Russian problem all its own.

Usually it's been sanitation and overcrowding. But this time it's dollars.

Three years ago the Russian trading agency Amtorg bought the estate and began paying taxes. But last June it transferred the place to the Soviet Embassy in Washington, which has certain tax privileges.

The Embassy has now asked Glen Cove to forego the $14,880 revenue it collects on Killenworth every year.

Glen Cove took this request hard.

In fact, Mayor Luke A. Mercadante wouldn't even think of it.

He gave his reasons in a letter back to the State Department—

"The 'house and lot' referred to by the Soviet Embassy . . . is adjudged the most beautiful country home in America.

"Since its occupation by Amtorg, a great number of Russians using the premises have placed added burden on the services of this city. According to the tax laws of the State of New York, such property is definitely not exempt from local taxes."

London's Taxi Drivers Find Boost Backfires

LONDON, Sept. 9— (CP) — London's taxi drivers are bemoaning a recent order that boosted fares by 33 per cent. The increase, they say, has resulted in a drop of more than 12,000 passengers a day and a disastrous slump in tips.

Journeyman H. Whelan says: "My daily average of jobs has dropped from 24 to 16. The new schedule means a loss of 30s ($4.65) a week to me and I am having to work overtime to make it up."

"Owner-drivers have been hard hit too," said Fred Curtis.

To counteract a loss of £2 in income he is now working six days a week instead of five.

4 More Planes Used In Airlift

OTTAWA, Sept. 9—(CP)—Another four North Stars and additional air force personnel will be added to Canada's contribution to the trans-Pacific Tokyo airlift, Air Commodore A. D. Ross announced Friday.

The commanding officer of the RCAF Air Transport Command told a press conference that the additional planes and men will be dispatched to McChord Field, Wash., before the end of September.

This will bring the total number of RCAF planes on the Pacific run to 12 and the number of Canadian airmen from 400 to about 430.

Roof Leaks, But Newsmen Love Happy Holler Hall

By DON WHITEHEAD

SOMEWHERE IN KOREA, Sept. 9 (AP). — It will be a sad day for UN war correspondents if the North Koreans ever capture Happy Holler Hall.

We have come to love this old claptrap of a building. It has housed us for weeks. It's the main base for most of our journeys to the front.

The rain slants through its broken windows. The bathroom facilities are crude, to say the least. And the fleas are with us to stay, despite DDT and other bug-killing wonders.

But it's home for the reporters of many nations.

AP correspondent Hal Boyle gave Happy Holler Hall its name soon after we moved into the rambling two-storey frame building. The war was new then. A few of us paunchy old grads from a Second World War put cots in one room, promptly labelled the Sheep Room. There we separated the sheep from the goats. The goats were banned to the outer darkness of other rooms.

Rules for the Sheep Room were simple: Sleep is for goats. And if you don't like the bleating, get out.

Then Frank Coniff of the New York Journal-American — an old sheep from the Second World War—had an inspiration. He proposed an "apology hour" from 8 a.m. to 9 a.m. daily. This has become the period for apologizing for all the insults of the night past.

Distinguished British and American journalists have hurled angry words at each other — but apology hour has never failed to restore calm in Happy Holler Hall.

In a room with curtained windows, typewriters are pounded throughout the day and night. Correspondents shout over the telephone, dictating stories to Tokyo, while their competitors lounge near by with ears bent to hear what is said.

Some one once commented that the last man on the telephone has the best story, because he has heard the reports of all of the others.

Although several miles from the front, Happy Holler Hall has its exciting moments. There was the time a bomb dropped near the building, and the nights that Red shells lobbed over the house.

Higher Prices If Farmer Uses 40-Hr Week

OTTAWA, Sept. 9 — (CP). — Arnold Darroch (L-Wellington North), a farmer, told consumers Friday higher prices for milk and other commodities would be higher still if the farmer figured out his costs on the same basis as industry.

If the farmer adopted a 40-hour week and, particularly if he applied it to his wife, the cost of goods would soar greatly, he told the Commons in debate on a Bill to give the government power to control certain prices in emergency.

He did not threaten an agricultural 40-hour week, but said he wanted the consumer, the city worker, to appreciate the situation in a field where a 14-hour day was no rarity.

Milk, for instance, cost 20 cents a quart. Its production costs would be considerably higher than that if the farmer took into consideration all the things industry took into consideration in setting its prices.

The trouble was that for years the consumer had grown used to cheap goods, while the farmer sold those goods at less than their real costs in materials and true wages.

The forgotten figure in all this, he said, is the farm wife. She worked long hours, often did the chores so the husband could work at farm production. None of her labor was passed on to the consuper in higher costs.

Mr. Darroch said he favored the Bill, but he wanted to interject that if there was to be any revival of the embargo that prevented post-war beef from coming into the United States that step could not be justified unless the government was prepared to grant subsidies.

Keene Man Hurt In Bridge Crash

Lloyd Paudash, 20, RR 2, Keene, was slightly injured early today when his car crashed into the north end of the Bensfort bridge and then rolled into the Otonabee River.

The front end of the car was smashed in causing $200 damage.

Although he received several cuts on his left knee and body bruises he was able to go to a nearby farmhouse and telephone for assistance. After medical treatment at St. Joseph's Hospital he was discharged.

Paudash was driving south on the Bensfort road at about 4:30 a.m. today. It is thought he fell asleep. Somehow his car ran off onto the left shoulder of the road and continued on, partly in the ditch, until it struck the northern abutment of the bridge. It rolled over and fell into shallow water at the river bank.

Provincial Constable F. M. Rawlings investigated.

First Sales Tax

Cobourg Mayor To Organize Civil Defence

COBOURG, Sept. 9 —(ENS)— Letters have been sent out to the clerks of Port Hope and the townships of Hope and Hamilton to try to lay plans for civilian defence committees of these four municipalities in the event of hostilities.

"We hope the day will never come when bombs will be rained down on our country but just in case our hopes are in vain, we should be prepared to meet the danger when it comes," Mayor Jack Burnet commented yesterday.

"We might get it in Cobourg and fires break out in several places at once. If we had a co-operative scheme with Port Hope and if Port Hope escaped the bombs, they could send their fire fighters and civilian defence units to help us out. In turn if we're lucky and Port Hope was not, we could send aid to them and the same interlocking system of mutual aid would work to advantage with the neighboring townships of Hamilton and Hope.

"We would then have four civilian defence set-ups, each able to function individually and at the same time work as a collective organization. I have had letters sent out to these outside municipalities to see what they think about it and to suggest a joint meeting to talk it over.

"We might have residential areas wiped out by bombs and might have to send families into temporary shelter elsewhere, or the other municipalities in the proposed set-up might need emergency shelter. It appeals to me as a co-operative scheme which might be very effective in the event we had air raids," Mayor Burnet explained.

Living Costs Climbing In Eight Cities

OTTAWA, Sept. 9—(CP)— Living costs in eight selected Canadian cities climbed during July, spurred ahead mainly by higher prices for meats, eggs, sugar and coffee.

Other increases, the Bureau of Statistics said Friday, were caused by higher telephone rates for Ontario and Quebec, pushing up service costs in Montreal and Toronto.

Fuel costs moved up in Toronto too, reflecting coke-price climbs. Clothing prices were higher in Halifax, Saint John, N.B., Toronto and Edmonton.

The regional cost-of-living index shows changes in living costs for each city. It does not indicate whether it costs more, for example, to live in Montreal than Halifax. The basic expenditure pattern is different for each city.

The regional index is calculated on the basis that 1935-39 prices equal 100. The index at Aug. 1 with comparisons for July 3, 1950, and Aug. 2, 1949, standings:

| | Aug. 1 | July 3 | Aug 2'49 |
|---|---|---|---|
| Halifax | 158.9 | 158.5 | 157.2 |
| Saint John | 164.9 | 164.0 | 159.7 |

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, Sept. 9 (CP) — Coarse grains prices displayed a firm tone in active trade Friday on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange. Rye also moved up, with fair advances registered on American and local buying.

Some covering was evidenced in all grains because of the return of a cold wave and reports of frost which will affect late prairie crops. Flax showed considerable activity and prices in this commodity increased sharply. Frost damage was the main factor. In export business, Belgium took 20,000 bushels of wheat, Switzerland 20,000, and British Honduras 12,000. Prices of Class 2 wheat were unchanged.

Bring Out Remainder

Everyone Helps

In some respects, the circumstances were similar to the Centralia, Ill., disaster March 25, 1947, when 111 men died after being trapped by an explosion in a gas-filled mine.

Mine officials were hopeful, however, of saving the 128 men caught in the Knockshinnoch workings by the cave-in—the size of a football field. The one known causualty was a rescue worker, Hugh Blackwood, 45, who died after a heart attack.

"Gas is raging down there," said a National Coal Board official. "It can only be moved slowly and any attempts to hasten the process might have fatal results."

Will Be Hours Yet

As the job of pumping out the poisoned, odorless gas proceeded, William Pearson, secretary of the Scottish Miners' Union, announced:

"It will be hours yet before we can get them up. The gas is moving very slowly."

The King and Queen, who are in their Scottish castle at Balmoral, were kept informed of the rescue operations. At the scene was Arthur Horner, secretary of the National Union of Mine Workers.

To guard against further cave-ins during the rescue operations, the entire countryside rallied to shore up some of the collapsed earth. Timber and newly-cut trees, haystacks from nearby farms, and even coal mine cars were hurled into the vast hole by volunteers.

The Earl of Balfour, chairman of the Scottish National Coal Board, said the miners could not pass through the gas because specialized training was necessary in using gas masks below ground. The rescuers, he said, were able to walk through and give food and drink to the miners, but were not able to bring them out.

The dramatic last-minute hitch in the 30-hour rescue bid increased the ordeal of thousands of waiting relatives.

At midnight they had been told the men would be out in 90 minutes. Two hours later the word passed around: "Another three hours."

At 3 a.m. no forecast was ventured.

At 4 a.m. reporters were told that escape through the old colliery "cannot be contemplated" because of the gas. Pockets of the gas were lingering in the roadway between the two pits.

Rescue workers in gas masks had hacked a hole through the 30 feet of coal separating the two pits. Through this the trapped miners will have to be brought out, one by one.

Fenders Tangle

Travelling in the same direction, two cars bumped fenders as the first one started to turn right from travelling east on Hunter St., into Sheridan St. Friday night. George N. Sweeting, RR 3, Peterborough, driver of the first car had about $20 damage done to the left front fender and door of his car. Gerald Turner, 390 Queen St., who had been driving behind Sweeting, had an estimated $25 damage done to his right front fender and bumper. Constable Donald Jones investigated.

Rev. A. Mathews Inducted At George St.

"The subjection of self to Christ and the need for Christians to let Christ live in them," was the theme chosen by the Rev. Walter H. Tong of Lakefield United Church in his sermon Friday night when the Rev. Arnold A. Mathews was inducted as pastor of George St. United Church.

In his development of this theme under the title "Blind Spots may be Deadly," the Rev. Mr. Tong put forward the idea that the only way to stop the spread of Communism is to infuse Christianity with new life, "by the united efforts of all Christians, devoting their lives to Christianity to wipe away poverty, suffering and social injustice that are so prevalent in the world today." It is these deplorable conditions that are proving the breeding grounds of the Communistic ideology.

The blind spots in the Christian faith are the failure of Christians to accept the responsibilities and sacrifices demanded for a true life in Christ. As a result the Christian church's influence in the world is ineffective.

Example of Paul

Mr. Tong chose the apostle Paul as the greatest example of a man letting Christ live in him. Through his vision of the Damascus Road, Paul received an experience in Christ that made him the greatest interpreter of Christian theology. Like Paul, Christians of to-day should be able to say, "I am crucified with Christ, nevertheless I live, yet not I, but Christ liveth in me."

The Rev. Dr. D. Bruce Gordon of Trinity United Church, representing the Presbytery, gave words of advice for the furtherance of a successful minister-congregation relationship.

The Rev. M. J. Aiken of St. Andrews United Church conducted the induction service.

The Rev. Mr. Mathews who exchanged pulpits with the Rev. Dr. James Semple after a seven-year pastorate at Trinity United Church, North Bay, was introduced to the congregation by the Rev. H. G. Douglas of Knox United Church.

After the induction service a reception was held in the Sunday School auditorium by the Women's Association of George St. Church.

U.S. 25th Division and 40,000 North Koreans attempting to reach Pusan seaport.

Without the valuable help of Allied air power, American troops lost and then recaptured Battle Mountain, two miles west of Haman, and a high bridge northwest of Yongsan.

It was along these critical sectors that Lt.-Gen. Walton H. Walker disclosed that the Communists came close to succeeding in their drive toward Pusan last Sunday. Pusan is the all-important United Nations supply port on the Korean peninsula's southeast tip. It is only 35 miles from the extreme southern front.

Their Worst Day

Gen. Walker, commander of the U.S. Eighth Army, including all U.N. ground forces in Korea, told correspondents that the situation looked bad Sunday — his "own worst day." That was during the Red offensive which exploded on the southern front at midnight Aug. 31.

While heavy fighting progressed on the same front today, the Communists farther north continued their pressure toward the communications hub of Taegu.

Groups of Reds were reported infiltrating across the highway between Yongchon and Kyongju, 35 miles east of Taegu, but the U.S. Eighth Army communique said the highway and both towns were still under Allied control.

Eight miles northwest of Taegu, a Red attack along the so-called "bowling alley"—a paved highway—was reported "contained." The Communists appeared to be trying to drive a wedge between the U.S. 1st Cavalry Division and the South Koreans on the Americans' right flank.

On the northeast front, held by South Koreans and elements of the U.S. 24th Division, the Reds forced a 1,000-yard withdrawal after giving up some ground. This was in the Angang sector, southwest of the rubbled and fallen port of Pohang on the east coast.

Meanwhile, off the west coast, South Korean marines landed on an island at the mouth of Haeju Bay, 70 miles south of the Communist capital of Pyongyang and just below the 38th Parallel which divided North and South Korea.

Father Gives Curse To Greek Girl

ATHENS, Greece, Sept. 9 (AP) — The angry father of Crete's Juliet confronted her at Security Police Headquarters Friday for the first time since she was abducted by the scion of a hostile clan and, witnesses said, spurned her plea for reconciliation.

The Juliet, blue-eyed, 20-year-old Tassoula Petracogeorgi, sought George Petracogeorgi's paternal blessing of her marriage to moustachioed Constantine Kephaloyannis, her jailed Romeo. The two were married 11 days after Constantine carried her off to wild Mount Ida.

Police who viewed the encounter related:

Tassoula told her father: "What's happened has happened. Let bygones be bygones. I want your blessing."

The father replied: "Instead, I give you my curse."

Has Hysterics

He then stalked from the room. Tassoula fell into near hysterics.

The powerful Petracogeorgi and Kephaloyannis families have been at odds for generations, and the abduction Aug 20 from a main street of Herakleion, Crete, fanned the smouldering feud.

Tassoula's encounter with her father followed a magistrate's hearing for her. Constantine's brother, Manuel Kephaloyannis, a Populist (Royalist) member of parliament and the chieftain of his clan, attended the secret proceeding.

The magistrate was to consult with other authorities about the final decision on Constantine — whether he'll be able to start a jail - delayed honeymoon or whether action will be taken on abduction charges. He has been in prison five days.

Parliament To Decide

No step taken by this session would authorize the cabinet to send the force anywhere but Korea.

The prime minister's intervention came after Maj.Gen. G. R. Pearkes, V.C. (PC, Nanaimo) and Stanley Knowles (CCF, Winnipeg North Centre) asked for clarification of the situation arising from the fact that it is the law that parliament must be recalled within 10 days after the forces are placed on active service.

Mr. St. Laurent said the government has every intention of conforming with that 46-year-old law. Parliament would approve or reject any warlike move on which the cabinet decided.

The bill itself did not cover the dispatch of the special force to Korea. It said the broad basis for such moves and authorization to send the force to Korea would be done by order-in-council and those orders would be placed before the House at this session. The bill established the right of the government to place any part of the forces on active service to back Canada's U.N. obligations.

An executive order by the cabinet, that is an order-in-council, would establish what forces would go and where. But those orders would be placed before parliament for approval.

The day also saw:

1. A motion by George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, regretting the government's "refusal" to appoint a House committee on defence defeated by a vote of 142 to 43.

2. A C.C.F. motion for nationalization of the "production and sale of muntions and armaments" defeated 136 to 12.

3. Clarie Gillis (CCF—Cape Breton South) call for appointment of workers' representatives to national industrial councils which would do the work dollar-a-year controllers did in the last war.

In the same way, other trunk highways might have to wait. The Premier felt it would be inadvisable to postpone highway development altogether, barring an "all-out" situation, but he added that it might be curtailed.

"The defence of Canada must be paid for by big business from the large profits already amassed and from profits they will contrive to make from your proposed defence plan."

Deny Diesel Whistle Lures Moose To Death

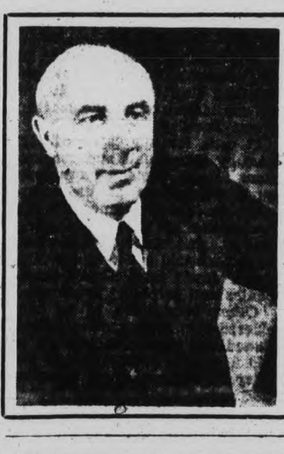
TORONTO Sept. 9 (CP) — Is the clarion call of the diesel locomotives a fatal siren song to romantic male moose in Ontario's northland?

Game enthusiasts think it is; railroad men and lands department experts are inclined to scoff.

Sudbury delegates to the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters Association, meeting at North Bay this week, said bull moose are being killed on the railroad tracks. They are attracted, it is said, by the moaning whistles of the diesels which resemble the "love call" of the cow moose.

The association approved a motion asking the lands department to obtain statistics on the number of moose killed on the rail lines. One delegate said 11 moose were killed in a week on one stretch between Capreol and Hornpayne.

In Toronto, however, a lands department official, said Friday that romance had nothing to do with it. The mating season for moose lasts for three weeks in September, yet moose are killed all the year round on the tracks.



He said most of the deaths are at night. Moose wander on the rail lines, are dazed by the brilliant headlights and, often, charge head-on into locomotives, steam as well as diesel.

Stock Markets Bounce Around During Week

By FRANK KAPLAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

Stock markets bounced around briskly this week, finishing on an upward trend.

Interest was comparatively high and business brisk over the four days. Markets were closed Monday, Labor Day.

Price movements were reflecting day-to-day events and news more quickly than in previous weeks. Most predominant feeling on markets during the week was that of uncertainty. Biggest news for Canadian investors was Finance Minister Abbott's baby budget.

Reports of a possible excess profits tax and generally-increased corporation taxes were current in Canadian business circles prior to presentation of the budget on Thursday night. As it turned out, business circles felt that they got a break.

Not Much Change

Things did not change very much. Corporation taxes were increased slightly, but there was was no price control and no excess profits tax.

However, Canadian security markets early in the week were sluggish, awaiting the budget proposals. Heavy selling pushed leaders sharply lower Wednesday in the worst market break since the outbreak of fighting in Korea but heavy buying yesterday almost completely recovered the losses.

In Toronto, the Exchange's index of representative stocks showed a small loss of .30 over the four days trading.

News of a sharp boost in zinc and lead prices brought buyers flocking into the base metal issue Friday. That list gained 2.71 on the index. Western oils attracted considerable attention early in the week for an increase of 1.46 while leading gold producers lost 1.53. Generally, gold stocks are considered a depression hedge, and are ignored by investors during rising industrial markets.

He appealed on the grounds of insanity and provocation.

Finds Pushing Gets Results

OTTAWA, Sept. 9 (CP)—H. O. White, the burly Progressive Conservative member for Middlesex East, finds that sometimes talking to people isn't enough. Occasionally they have to be persuaded with a gentle push.

Take, for example, the time Thursday when a left-wing Canadian peace congress delegate approached him in his commons office and kept trying to persuade the MP that he was in reality in favor of arbitration in Korea.

"I kept telling him I was for arbitration through the United Nations but now we've found that arbitration doesn't always work," said the Glanworth farmer.

"The fellow kept telling me that I still was for arbitration even when I told him he was trying to twist my words around."

So finally Mr. White gently propelled the young man out of his commons door.

"Mind you, I didn't toss him out," said Mr. White "I merely took him by the arm and led him to the door. But he didn't offer much resistance."

Saunders Confirms No Power Cut-Offs

NORTH BAY, Sept. 9 (CP) — Robert H. Saunders, chairman of the Ontario Hydro Electric Commission, Friday confirmed previous statements by hydro officials that no power cut-offs or restrictions are anticipated in Northern Ontario in coming months, despite growing demands for power in the province.

At the same time he urged conservation of electrical energy by domestic consumers so there might be a full supply for a stepped up industrial program in the province, especially in the Niagara area.

These Are Costly Times

All things considered, the new taxes which the Finance Minister has devised to meet our heavy bill for defence are not too bad. Not so bad, that is to say, as they would be if we were at war, and not so bad as they are likely to be quite soon. For it would be foolish to suppose that these taxes on luxuries and the increased corporation tax will end the matter; we may confidently expect that the next Budget will contain an increase in Income Tax, for it is only by taxing income that inflation can be successfully controlled and large sums of money gained for governmental use. What we now feel is a mere preparation for heavier taxes to come. Defence and the necessity to stabilize the cost of living have brought this situation about.

• • •

So far as defence is concerned, nobody grudges money which is needed to make Canada strong. Great numbers of taxpayers, however, grudge money which seems to be spent on an army of civil servants in the Department of National Defence. The present government has a bad record in this respect; all the larger departments appear to be grossly overstaffed, and none is so swollen as the Department of National Defence. It is extremely difficult to persuade government officials to observe themselves the kind of economy which they are so eager to impose upon the rest of the country.

We think that this indifference to economy can be explained, at least in part, by the fact that both Mr. Abbott and Mr. Claxton are lawyers by profession, and are unused to handling large sums of money. Undoubtedly they are good lawyers, and commanded good fees when they were in practice, but we may be pardoned for doubting whether they were ever called upon to think in billions, or even millions. We question whether the money which they administer has any keen reality for them, and whether they feel any real need to save it by cutting down their large staffs. There is a tendency for people who suddenly have great sums at their disposal to be grandiose about details, and when one deals in billions, a million can soon taken on the pallid complexion of a detail. But for the taxpaying public it is an entirely different matter; few of us ever come within hail of a million, or even a hundred thousand, and while we are ready to pay all the necessary costs of defence, we are resentful of being skinned in order to pay civil servants whom the ministers of the Crown are too hoity-toity to fire. The present Government has a big majority in the Commons, but it is not so popular that it can flout public opinion; a show of real economy at Ottawa would strengthen its position as nothing else could. We are asked to trim; let the Government do a little trimming, as well.

• • •

The increase in the corporation tax will be popular. Anything which makes the pursuit of business less profitable pleases people who are not in business. The coming increase in the Income Tax will be less popular, but the two will serve to stabilize wages. Increases in Income Tax are always followed by demands for wage increases, but if the corporation tax has also been raised, management has not the money to grant such increases. The new taxation will force it down still more. The likelihood is that buying of luxuries will dwindle, but there will still be a good deal of money which will be diverted to food, clothing and all the things which keep a household going.

• • •

Defence and control of inflation have brought about the new taxes. Very well. Let us now see something done in defence which goes beyond the swivel chair and fountain-pen, and let us see some determination at Ottawa to observe the economy and strict attention to business which is demanded of those who labour under the necessity to make a living for themselves and their families. For that necessity, whatever politicians may think, is even more pressing than the necessity of a government to stay in power.

Prime Minister St. Laurent recently told the House of Commons that he was proud of a speech which had been made by Mr. Drew. This will make Mr. Drew more careful of what he says.

Thin Footballers' Line

The line between professional and amateur sports is both pliant and hazy. It sometimes seems that the merest toddler good at playing with a yo-yo is subsidized or paid some way or other by "talent scouts" eager to lay the foundation of, say, a winning yo-yo team. Inter-collegiate football has become notorious for its lavish interpretation of the word "amateur." Not amateur in their playing abilities, members of college senior teams are far from amateurish in their wage requirements. As some people reason, inter-collegiate football matches are paying propositions, so why should the players who make them so not be paid?

We were heartened to read in the Queen's Review, a monthly magazine published for Queen's University graduates, these first three paragraphs in the section devoted to reports on athletics:

Queen's football aspirations this year will depend in large measure on the outcome of the fall supplemental examinations. Many of the men Head Coach Frank Tindall is counting on will first have to get over the hurdle of "supps".

Via graduation the Tricolour lost three good men: Al Lenard, two-time captain and backfield star; Johnny Faulkner, half, and Dave Bryane, quarterback. Lenard is joining the staff of the Department of Health and Physical Education and will coach the Queen's juniors.

Two others are definitely lost to the team, bowing out at spring examinations. These are Dick Harrison and John Welton, outsides. Harrison was voted the most valuable player on the team last fall and his loss will be keenly felt.

It seems that Queen's still believes, perhaps old-fashionedly, that a university is intended primarily for training brain not brawn. If even the most valuable football players cannot pass their examinations they are not to be allowed to clutter the halls of learning, however much they may ornament the fields of football. It is a very honest sort of decision, characteristic of Queen's. Students who are also players have been graduated; players who are not also students have been ousted.

The Sausage As A Barometer

For some reason which we do not pretend to be able to explain the sausage appears to be a rather sensitive barometer by means of which the state of a nation may be judged. If a nation is sound at heart its sausages will be savoury and tender. But once a nation becomes uneasy, its sausages will change before the politicians are aware that anything has happened.

In England in 1938 sensitive palates knew from the taste of the sausages that the convulsion of Munich was drawing near. And from the moment war broke out British sausages set forth on a decline which reached its nadir in the virtually uneatable sausage, stuffed with bad bread, of 1943. British sausage has never fully recovered, and probably will not do so until the pound is stable and exports are at an all-time high.

Knowing what we know about sausages, we expect bad news from Poland any time. The sausages there have recently been appearing in paper casings. And it is not as though the Poles knew no better. Is not that delicious sausage, the polony, named for their race? (No, it isn't, but never mind that; the point has been made.) Polish newspapers have been trying to explain away these nasty paper wrappings, but without success. All the Poles dislike paper sausage, and the shrewder Poles know that the sausage is a barometer of a nation's fortunes.

Our foreign news tip for the week: keep your eye on Poland; if the sausage improves, you may relax, but if this paper trouble continues, look out for serious upheavals!

NOTE AND COMMENT

A new spray has been invented which produces apples with rosier cheeks. Judging by what we have tasted recently, what the pomologists really need to work on is a spray which gives the modern apple a more appley taste.

The Marchbanks Correspondence

To Samuel Marchbanks, Esq.
Dear Mr. Marchbanks:

I write to enlist your support and membership in the Canadian Laudable Litter League which I am forming. Do you realize, sir, that every day thousands of pounds—nay, tons—of material of one sort and another which should be returned to the soil of our country is burned, or washed down our waterways to the sea, never to be recovered? Vital vitamins, irreplaceable minerals and animal and vegetable matter of all kinds is wasted in this way. The time has come to Call a Halt. HALT!

During the summer I have been doing my bit to preserve what is Canada's for Canada. Whenever I have been on a picnic I have taken care to throw my hard-boiled eggshell back on the land, to preserve minerals. I have thrown my banana skins and other peelings into farmers' fields, to put vitamins back into the soil. When others have gathered up their waste paper, I have left it to blow where the wind listeth, for it came from the soil and should return whence it came.

Each member of the Laudable Litter League pledges himself never again to give his garbage to a wasteful urban collector, for burning; instead he takes it into the country (preferably in the dark of the moon) and throws it into the field of some farmer whose soil appears to be impoverished. This should be done by stealth, for the League seeks no credit for its good work.

Begging you to become an honorary L.L.D. (Laudable Litter Defender) at once, I remain,

Yours literally,
MINERVA HAWSER.

To Haubergeon Hydra, Esq.
Dear Mr. Hydra:

As I have written to you so often in tones of complaint, it gives me particular pleasure to pay you a compliment on the agreeable manners of the men who deal with immigration on the international bridges at Niagara Falls. As Overseer of Conduct for Civil Servants I thought that you would like to hear about this. During the past month I had some work to do in Niagara Falls, Canada, but I was living with some friends in Niagara Falls, U.S., and I used the bridges a good deal.

Each time I crossed I answered much the same questions. "Where were you born?" "Skunk's Misery, Ontario", I would reply, in an accent which I acquired abroad, and which has at various times caused me to be taken for an Englishman, an Irishman, a Scotsman, and a native of the Scilly Isles. This accent, and an appearance which suggests an archimandrite of the Greek Orthodox Church, sometimes throws doubt on my Skunk's Misery origin. But I was always believed. Then, after a few more queries about my sex life and financial status, I would be passed through, with bows and cries of "Huzza for Marchbanks!" If I had any luggage the Customs men would finger it delicately, compliment me on the neatness of my packing and the exquisite taste which I showed in choosing socks and underpants, and wave me on.

The bridge attendants have a sterner side, however, as I saw on my last journey across the bridge. The man who came after me was elderly, with flowing white hair and a goatee—obviously a Southern Colonel. "Have you anything to declare?" asked the Canadian Immigration man. "I declare it's a mighty hot day, suh!" said the Colonel. As I drove away he was dragged into the Customs House and the thud of cudgels on pulpy flesh mingled with screams in a Southern accent rent the air. Presumably he was suspected of importing a joke, which would of course have been intolerable to our local funnymen, completely upsetting the economy of their trade.

Yours loyally,
SAMUEL MARCHBANKS.

To Chandos Fribble, Esq.
Esteemed Fribble:

I want you to look into a curious psychological twist which has recently become observable in advertisements for cars. One of these (I need not specify the maker's name) shows a young man who is about to kiss a very pretty girl, but turns his head at the vital moment to look at a passing car. The second shows a young man in the act of telling a charming girl that he loves her hair, her eyes, and her father's new car. The third shows a young couple doting upon—a baby? each other? — no, upon a bright, shiny car.

Now, Fribble, it looks to me as though the North American male were beginning to exalt motor cars to the position in his esteem once held by women. This is dangerous, and I would like to find out how far it has gone. For if this trend continues the day is not far off when the American male will mate, not with a woman, but with his car, and the result of this union will probably be a winsome, cuddly little motorcycle.

SAMUEL MARCHBANKS.

To Samuel Marchbanks, Esq.
Dear Sam:

I read an offensive little piece recently by the English critic Alan Dent, who commented upon the fact that there was an organization called the Palestrina Choir in Ottawa; he expressed surprise that anyone in Ottawa had heard of Palestrina.

I make no mighty claims for the cultural achievements of Ottawa, which are pitifully meagre for a capital city. But they are better than they used to be, like all such things in Canada. I wonder how long it will be before Englishmen (though Dent is a Scot, and Scots make the very worst sort of Englishmen) wake up to the fact that not everyone in Canada is an oaf? Of course the English are so used to being sneered at by Frenchmen and other snobbish foreigners about their own cultural backwardness that I suppose they have to take it out on us colonials in order to keep up their self-respect.

Yours in annoyance,
AMYAS PILGARLIC.

To Amyas Pilgarlic, Esq.
Dear Pil:

It is useless to be annoyed with the English; it is like spitting into the wind.

As you say, we are becoming more cultured every day. For instance I know a man—just an ordinary business man—who has been taking lessons to improve his voice. It used to be that when he answered the phone, a thin, scratchy but intelligible "Hello" was heard. Now he has such fiendish resonance that it sounds like "Boom-boom?" and all his subsequent remarks sound as though somebody had fired off a shotgun in a cave. That's culture for you.

Yours philosophically,
SAM.

"... HEARD AROUND THE WORLD"

Ottawa's Musical Athlete

(THE OTTAWA CITIZEN)

PLAYING Ottawa's 53-bell Peace Tower carillon is no job for a musical weakling. The carilloneur, so goes the word among musicians, is just about as thoroughly exercised during a one-hour recital as is a lightweight boxer after three rounds in the ring. Fortunately for Dominion Carilloneur Robert Donnell, the carillon cannot hit back.

The other evening I climbed the Peace Tower's lifts and spiral stairways to watch Mr. Donnell perform one of his popular concerts. If vicarious experience is a valid test, the boxing analogy is literally true. I was reminded of painful interludes in the amateur boxing ring, except that the offensive remained with Mr. Donnell. He is muscular and well-built, moving with the easy grace of the athlete. He has an air of youthful enthusiasm and energy, and, as the recital went on, it was evident that these attributes to body and spirit are essential to sustained performance on the carillon.

Shortly after the last note of the clock chime signalled nine o'clock, the carilloneur took his place at the Seventeenth Century keyboard of his instrument. He stripped off his jacket, rolled up his sleeves and limbered his wrist muscles and biceps. In his hands he strapped two leather guards, the boxing gloves of his strenuous calling.

Unlike the conventional piano and organ, the carillon's keyboard or hand clavier, is made up of two rows of handles like bicycle grips at diaphragm level, and a row of thick, flat pedals below. To strike a bell note of middle or high frequency, the carilloneur slashes down on the handle with the edge of his hand in a motion not unlike the rabbit punch of the wrestling mat. A low bell note of high volume requires a violent kick at the proper pedal. A trill is executed by rapid light jabs, the same tactics used by boxers in feeling out his opponent. These hooks and jabs and rabbit punches are repeated hundreds of times in quick succession. The player frequently streams with perspiration. At the end of the recital, he takes a shower like any other athlete.

The quick, arpeggio-packed "Fantasia for Carillon" by J. A. Maassen was the first selection that evening. Mr. Donnell gave the handles and pedals a pummelling that I am quite sure would have felled Joe Louis. The most difficult physical gyrations were called into being as the volume rose and fell, and the succession of tempos changed from slow to fast. All the time he slid rapidly to and fro across the broad bench. To sustain this motion for several minutes would make a man in ordinary physical condition gasp. Mr. Donnell accomplished it smoothly and, what is more remarkable, kept it up for a solid hour of the most sensitive and beautiful music.

At ten o'clock, the recital ended. The carilloneur quietly rolled down his sleeves, removed his "boxing gloves" and straightened his tie. After a short rest, he was again the suave, charming musician who had greeted me affably in his studio earlier.

Down below the walks and lawns of Parliament Hill, strollers commented on the seemingly effortless quality of the bell music as it floated out of the Peace Tower.

I felt like telling them of the exhausting bout between Mr. Donnell and the keyboard of the carillon which had transformed the ring of metal on metal into sounds of such transcendental loveliness.

Have The Scientists Finally Been Caught Without An Explanation?

(Kingston Whig-Standard)

New Yorkers last week were agog, as the saying goes, at a precipitation of corn and barley which pelted the open top of the Empire State Building, 1,467 feet above Fifth Avenue. "Construction men labouring at that height," says The New York Times, "were peppered with the seed though they heard no plane motors overhead, nor sighted aircraft. There was no wind and no storm, only thick haze and lowering overcast."

The precipitation of grain, in itself, did not constitute a turning-point in history. It may have been a miracle, and miracles have happened before. But the fact that we are on the threshold of a new era becomes clear when we realize that this is the first time in living memory that scientific circles have found themselves without a perfectly logical explanation of a phenomenon of this sort.

Bible Message

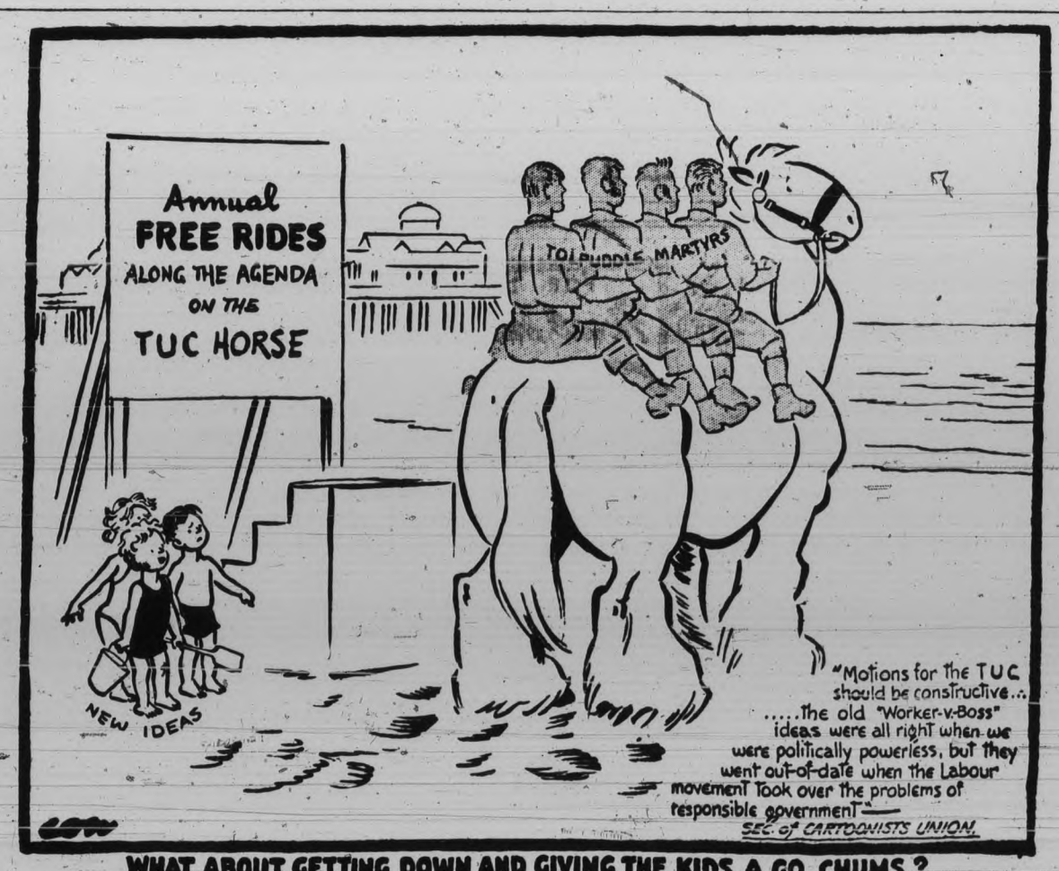
(From the Authorized Version)

And upon the first day of the week, when the disciples came together to break bread, Paul preached unto them, ready to depart on the morrow; and continued his speech until midnight. And there were many lights in the upper chamber, where they were gathered together.



And there sat in a window a certain young man named Eutychus, being fallen into a deep sleep: and as Paul was long preaching, he sunk down with sleep, and fell down from the third loft, and was taken up dead. And Paul went down, and fell on him, and embracing him said, Trouble not yourselves; for his life is in him. When he therefore was come up again, and had broken bread, and eaten, and talked a long while, even till break of day, so he departed. And they brought the young man alive, and were not a little comforted. (Acts 20: 7-12.)

WHAT ABOUT GETTING DOWN AND GIVING THE KIDS A GO, CHUMS?

AFIELD

with NICK NICKELS

Just about now tourist information centres have closed their shutters and attendants are casting up their accounts for the summer season just past. It has been a good one, according to figures trickling in. One of the most welcome bits of news along these lines comes from Welcome. The Port Hope Board of Trade, headed up by Herb Long, started a booth on the north-east corner where the road branches three ways. Sharp resort operators Metcalfe, Flowers and Nicholls of Bewdley jumped on the bandwagon and for five bucks per week each, supplied the booth with a large stock of folders. Their alertness paid off in tourists directed to their doors, and they say, so did Peterborough. It was boosted for its shopping centre.

The Jaycees' Peterborough booth had an extremely busy season. "Wonderful summer," says operator Bill Duignan, "twice as busy as last year." By twice as much, he meant that 6,440 people were given info on subjects ranging from Angling to the Zoo. That's what comes of the Jaycees smartening up and moving from the Highway into the city. What they need now is a new building.

Bobcaygeon Eye-Opener

I suggest they send a delegation to Bobcaygeon as an eye-opener There IS a tourist booth. A cut stone building on the Town's Centre Island built by the Chamber of Commerce this Spring at a cost of $10,000. Yes, sir, figure that one out. Quaint little 'Caygeon with a population of not more than 1,200 souls, at the most, makes that little shack on Charlotte St. look mighty poor, mighty poor. What's 'Caygeon got that we haven't got An intense public pride, that's what. Now if some of our big lumber companies would start the ball arolling by donating some building materials and others, supplies and/or cash, perhaps we could raise our shameful heads, come Spring. There's your winter program, Jaycees.

Lakefield would be in a mad flap, if I did not give them a mention. And they deserve a good big one, too. Custodian Buddy O'Brien found August inquiries down from last year, of course, but the overall picture is much brighter. The booth is being kept open till Sept. 15th, a wise move, for, during mid-week as many as 25 fishermen per day called for information on their way north.

Tireless Kawartha Booster

This week I had the thrilling experience of meeting "Mister Kawartha" in person. He is Albert Edward Bottum of Bobcaygeon This very genial gentleman, who celebrated his 90th birthday on Wednesday past, told me how, many years ago, he visited old Chief Dan Whetung at Curve Lake Reserve in company with editor Charles Stewart of The Bobcaygeon Independent. They discussed with the Chief a suitable name for the district. They were given the Mississauga word KAWATHA, meaning "Bright lands and shining waters." By some typographical error an "R" was inserted, making it the accepted KAWARTHA that is known the Continent over.

It wouldn't have been, however, without the untiring efforts of Mr. Bottum who, as Warden of Victoria County at the time, bombarded town, township, village and county councils with the need for using it in all their publicity and on every occasion. And so the name spread. Veteran hardwareman, steamboat captain, hunter and fisherman and raconteur, no one could possibly be more entitled to be called "Mr. Kawartha" than Albert Edward Bottum.

Autumn hunters should be the happiest people alive this year. Reports from various Conservation Officers of the Department say that partridge and deer abound. This year's broods of ruffles are more fully matured than experts have noticed for several season "An early hatch," explained one C/O. Deer are very numerous and, having thrived well during the winter of 1949-50, experts feel that the score of one deer to each 3.5 hunters in '49 will be maintained, or surpassed. Mature waterfowl are on the wing in fair numbers and from what I have heard from Hague's Marsh in Lakefield some evenings, getting used to the Big Barrage to come as poor sports pot-shot at them out of season.

I cannot shout much louder about how wonderful the fishing is. It's getting better each day. When exuberant anglers start banging at my door all hours of the night, begging me to light the lantern and come out to their cars to examine their trunk trophies, I feel that we really have something to brag about in the Kawarthas.

Responsible Government

The preceding pages have sufficiently pointed out the nature of those evils, to the extensive operation of which, I attribute the various practical grievances, and the present unsatisfactory condition of the North American Colonies. It is not by weakening, but strengthening the influence of the people on its Government; by confining within much narrower bounds than those hitherto allotted to it, and not by extending the interference of the imperial authorities in the details of colonial affairs, that I believe that harmony is to be restored, where dissension has so long prevailed; and a regularity and vigour hitherto unknown, introduced into the administration of these Provinces. It needs no change in the principles of government, no invention of a new constitutional theory, to supply the remedy which would, in my opinion, completely remove the existing political disorders. It needs but to follow out consistently the principles of the British constitution, and introduce into the Government of these great Colonies those wise provisions, by which alone the working of the representative system can in any country be rendered harmonious and efficient.

We are not now to consider the policy of establishing representative government in the North American Colonies. That has been irrevocably done; and the experiment of depriving the people of their present constitutional power, is not to be thought of. To conduct their Government harmoniously, in accordance with its established principles, is now the business of its rulers; and I know not how it is possible to secure that harmony in any other way, than by administering the Government on those principles which have been found perfectly efficacious in Great Britain.

I would not impair a single prerogative of the Crown; on the contrary, I believe that the interests of the people of these Colonies require the protection of prerogatives, which have not hitherto been exercised But the Crown must, on the other hand, submit to the necessary consequences of representative institutions; and, if it has to carry on the Government in unison with a representative body, it must consent to carry it on by means of those in whom that representative body has confidence.

—(From Lord Durham's Report on the Affairs of British North America, 1839)

FLOWERS ARE A HOBBY for the Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt of Trinity United Church, Omemee. He won more than $100 in prizes at flower shows last year and has many beautiful blooms at the present time for exhibition. RIGHT, his daughter Verna is see against a background of gladioli grown by her father, and CENTRE, Eileen, another daughter, holds a bunch of sweet peas. Mr. Zufelt is seen sorting tulips bulbs ready for planting in the fall.

Gladioli, Tulips Prized Under Omemee Minister's Hand

Few gardeners can boast such a profusion of color in their gardens as the Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt, minister at Trinity United Church Omemee. Mr. Zufelt's hobby for many years has been breeding bulbs and plants to obtain new color combinations and his horticulture has won his prizes in the past five years at fairs in Peterborough and a wide area in the surrounding country. But Mr. Zufelt, although an authority on the colors of flowers, is color blind. Ever since he was a child he has been unable to distinguish colors, but that is no handicap to him in cultivating gladioli, asters, sweet peas or tulips.

Gardening and preaching the Gospel go hand in hand, says Mr. Zufelt, whose entire life is devoted to the two occupations. "There is plenty of sermon material in the garden and its a hobby which brings one very close to God's work," the minister will tell people when faced with inquiries about his dual occupation.

It all started in the early thirties, when Mr. Zufelt graduated from Queen's University. He started experimenting with bulbs and was just getting some exciting results, when war came, and he left home to serve as an Army padre with the 2nd Light Anti-Aircraft Regiment.

At the end of the war he had to start his work all over again because after the long time away from the garden, it was no easy matter to pick up where he left off.

It takes a few years to get results, but it is just coming along nicely now, he feels, and he hopes to have several thoroughly satisfactory new species before long.

Those seem to be the words of a perfectionist, for Mr. Zufelt has at present a brilliant display of color in his back garden. And last year he won more than $100 in prizes—just enough to pay the coal bill to keep the greenhouse warm in winter. This years stream of ribbons from Peterborough, Omemee and other fairs continues to flow.

In addition to cultivating flowers, the minister has a thriving vegetable garden which keeps his family of five children well supplies in all seasons. He's had bad luck this year with mangolds and cucumbers because of a scourge of cutworms. He harvested his first cucumber today but lost seven rows or mangolds because of the destructive worm.

But cabbages have had a good year and this has been something of a compensation.

First in Minden

Mr. Zufelt's first serious attempts at gardening were during his first mission, which was at Minden. An early frost ruined the tomatoes and this caused considerable disappointment to the entire community. The minister seemed to be the only person who knew anything about hotbeds, so he set to work to show how it was done.

He got good results and that led to greater ambitions which have carried him a long way in the world of horticulture.

During his war service, his knowledge of flowers was a boom to the men of his division. He was in Holland when the fighting ended and there was little to keep the troops occupied.

Mr. Zufelt had spent his leaves learning al he could from the Dutch experts and when there was little for the troops to do after the cease fire, he conducted visits to nurseries where bulbs were being grown.

And while in England, Mr. Zufelt learned a great deal about his hobby by spending his army leaves in the greenhouses of one of the largest nurseries in the country. He formed a close friendship with Montagu Allwood, one of the horticultural celebrities of the world.

Flowers For the Altar

Mr. Zufelt was the minister at Knox United Church, Peterborough, before the war and during that time, the church was never without flowers. No matter where his charges have been, he has always supplied the flowers for the altar.

No matter what time of the day callers go to the manse, they find Mr. Zufelt at work in the garden or green house. The only help he has is between seasons when the soil needs turning and when bulbs have to be planted.

Mrs. Zufelt loves flowers no less than her husband, but with a family of five children, ranging in age from 16 to four months, she has little time left to help her husband.

"I'm no gardener anyway," she says, as she looks on with admiration, at her husband's work. While he was overseas she did her bit to make things easier for him when he returned. One day a parcel containing 1,400 bulbs arrived from her padre husband, with diagrams and instructions for the way they were to be planted. Mrs. Zufelt tackled the job "but I'm glad my husband is here to do it now—for I'm not much good at it" she says quite modestly.

Omemee has a flourishing horticultural society and there are many beautiful gardens in the village. A former president of the Peterborough Horticultural Society, Mr. Zufelt is at present vice-president of the Omemee society.

AT LITTLE LAKE CEMETERY

The weathered cross of Greying stone was celtic
In design, and I was curious to know what legend I would Find. Few were the words on Its roughened face, not even
The date, or the year of grace.
It simply said: Isabella
Valancy Crawford, Poet by the Gift of God.
'Tis peaceful here
Midst sun and cloud, surprised
I murmured it aloud: How Fared ye Poet, gifted, rare
Did friends, admirers crowd thy Chair? Or did you live as one
Apart, till death sealed up
A brooding heart.

Commerce, Schools Flourish In 1840's; Fine Houses Built

By HOWARD PAMMETT, M.A.

Rolph, the British writer, noted in 1840: "Peterborouh has a population of 1,000, two churches, several stores, excellent mills, schools, etc. A very good substantial frame bridge has been erected, recently [illegible] at this point." The "Backwoodsman & Sentinel" editorially supported local water and road improvements but opposed railways in Colborne District. "The back country is too new for railroads; all we yet need are roads for our farmers to carry their produce to market." Bletcher's stage ran to Port Hope every Tuesday Thursday and Saturday, returning Wednesday, Friday and Monday. May's "fast comfortable boat" went to Rice Lake Mondays and Thursdays in five hours, returning the same day. One advertisement stated: "GRIST! GRIST! THE FARMERS' OLD FRIEND, HALL'S MILLS, having been taken and put in thorough working order by subscriber, he invites all persons wishing to have grist well ground and good produce to pay him a visit. S. DIXON." Morris Clancy was selling a fine farm at Douro crossroads.

July 11, 1841, Bishop Strachan came from Cavan, 16 miles in four hours over "a very stony rough road", to dine with Rev. R. Wade. Next day being Sunday, he preached in newly-completed St. John's Church and confirmed "31 young people very carefully prepared by Mr. Wade." He praised the town: "A stranger is apt to think he is in an English town. The church, a very handsome building of stone and lime, . . . is beautifully situated on a commanding height near the gaol and courthouse." In October 1843 another prominent visitor Sir John B. Robinson, replying to a public tribute to his brother Peter, lauded "the capital of this fertile and extensive district . . . I shall ever feel great interest in observing the continued advancement of this town and the surrounding county—containing so many whom my lamented brother was instrumental in conducting here."

In 1843 S. M. Carver opened the new post office in a frame house on Queen Street east side That year Robert Nicholls became agent for the Bank of Montreal, at Nicholls & Hall General Store, Simcoe and Water Streets. The partners also started the Colborne District Savings Bank in 1846, but it closed in 1848; people with extra cash preferred to invest it in mills or land, rather than storing it in a merchant's cashbox. J. R. Godfrey, another British writer, noted in 1844: "Peterborough is large and straggling, containing nearly 2,000 inhabitants; yet the intervals between houses are filled with stumps still." Actually the population was about 1,200

Fire Brigade

Anne Langton noted in March, 1840: "There was a very considerable fire a short time ago in Peterborough. To be burnt out is a very common occurrence here." About that time the first volunteer Fire Brigade was organized, with a handcart to carry barrels of water and buckets. In 1846 a pumper was purchased, operated by long handles on which teams of men could pump to throw a stream of water; two small carts carried hose and ladders. "Protection No. 1," as it was named was kept in Henthorn's Livery Stable beside the market square. A letter in the Gazette Dec. 1846 called the pumper "a watering pot" for inefficiency, but others wrote in its defence. Log and frame houses usually burned quickly, before the Fire Brigade could be roused and arrive.

William Cluxton, writing in 1897, described Peterborough in the 1840s: "Between Ormond & Walsh's and the Bank of Toronto, then there was only one log house occupied by Richard Winch. Opposite, where Gough's store is [illegible] owned by Mr. Almond, a watchmaker. When I began business on my own account in 1842 we had to copy letters by hand. We had no holidays on Saturday or other holidays; it was work, work! and plenty of it. But there were some pleasures in those early days. I often sat on the banks of the beautiful Otonabee with musical companions on summer moonlight evenings playing duets, trios and airs on our flutes. All that part north of Hunter St. West to the river was covered with a thick growth of small pines. There were avenues about 15 ft. wide arched overhead . . . covered thickly by pine needles softer than any carpet. One of these walks which passed the old schoolhouse to Hall's Dam was especially beautiful. This was called 'the lovers' walk' . . ."

District Grammar School

In 1841 Rev. R. Taylor became rector of St. John's Church, and the old school became the Colborne District Grammar School, subsidized by sales of school lands in the McDonnel-George-London-Aylmer and Bethune-Charlotte-Stewart-King blocks; four of these lots were sold early in 1844 for $175-$200 each. Principal Taylor's salary was $400 a year after 1841; an early assistant master, Rev. M. H. Williamson, received $240 a year; in 1945 the assistant was Henry Baldwin, M.A. The Board of Trustees with B. Y. McKeyes as secretary, advertised in the newspapers: "Colborne District Grammar School—where children can be fitted for mercantile pursuits or the learned professions . . . Mr. Taylor undertakes to read a course of mathematics or classics with any pupil desirous of acquiring a higher degree of proficiency in these branches . . . English writing and arithmetic, 10s per pupil per quarter; Latin and mathematics 5s. Greek 10s." The attendance averaged forty to fifty students, about half of them studying the classics.

TEMPERATURE

Very high and very low temperature extinguishes all human sympathy and relations. It is impossible to feel affection beyond 78°, or below 20° of Fahrenheit; human nature is too solid or too liquid beyond these limits.

Sydney Smith: Letter to an unidentified woman, 1835

Rev. J. B. Howard, 1850 chairman of the board of trustees, reported: "There are in the town . . . two common schools, three private female schools, also one private male school; and the county grammar school." The private schools were run by learned ladies and gentlemen who made a few extra dollars by boarding and tutoring a few pupils. Concerning the common schools we have little information. Superintendent Burham in 1844 applied for a government land grant on which to build a "commodious schoolhouse" but apparently this was not affected. The 1848 census noted 267 students (167 boys, 100 girls) of whom about two hundred must have been common-school stud-

How The Town Prepared For The Prince of Wales In 1860

(ED. NOTE: In September 1860 90 years ago this week, HRH Albert Edward, Prince of Wales, later King Edward VII, visited Peterborough. Following is a contemporary account, from the newspaper of the day, of the preparations made to receive him. The second instalment of this account, reciting the glories of the actual visit, will be published on our Feature Page subsequently.)

It is impossible to speak in terms of too high praise of the zeal manifested by the citizens generally in giving to their buildings the best possible holiday appearance. Foremost, however, among the private decorations was the lumberer's arch. It was placed upon George Street, near Charlotte Street. The lumber was furnished by Messrs. Snyder and Dickson, the teams by lumberers generally. Mr. Shaw had charge of the erection, and under his guidance, the whole was completed within fourteen hours of the time of its commencement.

It was a triple arch, the lumbr being so pited as to give to the curves a beautiful appearance. On the top of it were a couple of deer, on each side of these a bark canoe, and as the procession approached, twenty-five lumbermen, dressed in red shirts and black pants, very pictures of able-bodied, well-developed men, were ranged along the top. On the face of the arch, immediately above the centre was a Prince of Wales plume, with the words, "Welcome, Prince of Wales," and on one side the words in a scroll, "The source of our wealth"; on the other, "Ships, colonies and commerce." We detract nothing from the other decorations when we pronounce this one to have been the finest, as it was the most characteristic of the place, of them all. There was neither nail nor saw used in this erection.

Spruce Line Streets

Starting from the station in Ashburnham, the streets were all lined with spruce trees, and from the buildings hung flags and evergreen festoonings. The bridge was prettily decorated with rows of flags along the different spans, and emerging from it, the Tudor arch, with its battlements and flags, loomed in view. The post office building was covered with evergreen festoonings and wreaths, tastefully arranged. Over the door was the Prince of Wales plume, and on each side the letters A.E. Above this, extending the whole length of the building, were the words, in bold letters, "A thousand welcomes to the Prince." Continuing on towards George Street, every building was decorated. McKellar and Cameron's had the appropriate motto, "Pro Regina et Patria." Ormond & Gilmour's was wreathed with evergreen and red maple bows. Facing Hunter Street were the Royal Arms and the triple plume, and the mottoes, "Our Queen and the land we live in," and "Thrice welcome to England's future King." Facing George Street were the words, "Victoria, Albert," and in the corner window, a very handsome Prince of Wales plume made with flowers.

Turning up George Street, Swayne's cabinet shop was handsomely wreathed with evergreens. Over the entrance was a triple plume of spruce branches, and above it a beaver, with the motto, "Labor omnia vincet." Opposite this, McGregor's Hotel was elaborately decorated with wreaths and festoonings of evergreens, interspersed with rosettes of red, white and blue, and having a beautiful crown, projecting from one of the galleries.

Following still the line marked out for the procession, Miss Bailey's house on Water Street displayed the words, "Welcome," in evergreen, and Messrs. Johnston's the words, "Long live the Prince." All along Water Street the same tasteful display was visible. Over Dr. Burnham's gate the word, "Welcome," was placed, and the fence wreathed; and along George Street to the arch was planted with spruce trees.

Pretty Balcony

Passing the corner of Hunter Street again, and continuing down George Street, Kempt's Medical Hall had a very pretty balcony of evergreens raised above the shop door, draped with flowers, and having upon it a very handsome crown of flowers. On the balcony were the words, "Welcome, Albert Prince of Wales." From the building was hung a handsome white banner with Royal Arms painted upon it. Cluxton's, Stevenson's and Bradburn's four-story buildings were very handsomely decorated. A large flag waved above the building, and from the roof, overhanging the street, a great number of flags and streamers were suspended. A handsome festooning of red, white and blue fell from the cornice, and along the face of the buildings; on white cloth, were the words, in large letters, "Welcome, Albert Edward, Prince of Wales." Below this were the words, "Rejoice, Canada is honored this day," and the Royal Arms with a wreath of evergreen around it.

Further down, the market block had around the roof, above the cornice, a chain of evergreens with posts every six feet, surmounted by flags. Across the street from the building to the opposite side were hung flags, one very fine one with the Prince of Wales plume upon it. From every window a flag was suspended, and on top of the building a couple of large flags were raaised on tall flag staffs. In front of the Review office was a beaver surrounded by maple leaves and a crown of flowers, and over the door of the Toronto bank was a handsome white triple plume.

Examiner Covered

The Examiner office was almost covered with evergreens It had the word "welcome" in spruce, and a couple of sheaves of wheat capped the whole. Caisse's hotel had a flag from every window, and a couple on the roof. The awning in front was handsomely wreathed with evergreens, and at intervals along it were placed colored lamps. From Ryan's and Poole's flags were hung. Going round the market square, the Town Hall was wreathed with evergreens, and along the verandah, at intervals, were placed flags.

The Bank of Montreal was very handsomely decorated. Round the door was a wreath of evergreens surmounted by an evergreen triple plume. On the face of the building, in letters beautifully formed of spruce, and placed on crimson cloth, were the words "Welcome. A. E. Prince of Wales." Messrs. Nicholls & Hall's premised were festooned with red, white and blue cloth, and flags and evergreens, and had a very imposing appearance.

Besides these, every building had something to indicate the warmth of the reception. Hosts of "Welcomes" and "Bien venus" printed on paper could be seen, and away in the country as far as the eye could stretch, flags flying indicated the loyalty of the people. Throughout the whole town there was scarcely one house without its flag or green bow; along the line of procession there was only one dark undecorated spot. It was a stone building near Lannin's hotel.

Dadson Throws One-Hitter As Petes Trounce Oshawa

By CEC. PERDUE

With Lefty Bill Dadson hurling one-hit ball, the Petes trounced Oshawa Merchants 10-1 in Toronto last night to get right back into the thick of the Viaduct Baseball League four-in-seven final playoffs, Oshawa now leading three games to two. The sixth game is being played at 8.30 tonight in Riverside Park, with no definite announcement made yet as to the date of the seventh fray, if necessary.

After giving up three walks for a run, in the first inning last evening, Dadson settled away to hurl lovely ball, being robbed of a no-hitter in the eighth inning when Paul Thompson beat out an infield roller to first. In the last eight innings, only two Merchants got as far as first and none saw second. He fanned five and issued four walks, getting fine support.

Petes Hit Hard

The Petes not only fielded in well night perfect fashion, but they hit hard and timely against the league leaders, the latter kicking in with five miscues. The Murphyites showed fight from the start, refusing to fold up after a shaky start, and they had the Merchants well beaten early, and worried afterward—so much so that it was undecided after the game whether or not a seventh tilt (if required) would be run off Sunday or left over a few days.

Tony Delaurentis pitched eight frames for the losers, being tagged for 10 hits, including a homer by Freddy Garvey and a double by Pat Wilson. He went out then for a pinch-hitter (Creasy) with Paul Michael finishing by giving up two more runs. The Merchants couldn't get a solid clout all evening off Bill Dadson's slants, their lone bingle being a dinky little roller that Joe Stewart fielded cleanly but he couldn't beat Thompson to the bag.

Led the Hitters

Al Menzies led the winners at bat (and won a sweater offered for the leading hitter of either side) with three for five. Joe Lowrey came through with two safe blows, nearly every man on the club getting at least one safety. Joe Stewart pulled off a dandy catch, a one-hand stab of a liner, to rob Vic Napolitano of a hit in the first inning. Aaron Bitman had a nice pickup once for Oshawa and he and Napolitano combined for the only twin Oshawa got their run in the first when Paul Thompson walked and stole both second and third, later being forced in on a walk before Dadson settled down to super pitching. The Petes got four in the third on hits by Dadson, Brown, Menzies and Wilson's double, with an error and a sacrifice figuring in the markers. Stewart was hit next innnig, moving up on an out and ran fast to score from second on a hit by Lowrey. Harrison singled in the fifth, moved up on a passed ball, took third on an out and home on another infield out. They added two in the seventh on Menzies' single, an error, a sacrifice and an out. Two more counted off Michael in the ninth on an error and Garvey's homer. More than a thousand saw the game.

Sadler Regains Boxing Title

NEW YORK, Sept. 9—(AP)—The bizarre wind-up of the Willie Pep-Saddler fight Friday night gave Saddler the featherweight championship and Pep a dislocated left shoulder, but it still didn't answer the No. 1 question: "Who is the better man?"

So today it appears that Wiley Willie and Slasher Sandy will have it out again for the fourth time this February at Madison Square Garden, scene of their first two thrillers. Matchmaker Al Weill of the International Boxing Club said the two gladiators are signed for a return that month.

A record crowd and gate for "little men" — 38,781 fans and $262,150 — watched in stunned silence Friday night as the skinny hard-hitting 24-year-old Negro was recrowned champion of the world while Pep sat sadly on his stool in a corner of the ring.

The surprising finish came as the bell sounded for the start of the eighth round of what had been a great scrap thus far. Referee Ruby Goldstein waved off the onrushing Saddler and announcer Johnny Addie told the puzzled throng that Pep had dislocated his left shoulder and could not continue. According to New York rules it was listed as an eight-round knockout.

Beaches Coach Teddy Morris Resigns Job

TORONTO, Sept. 9—(CP)—Where does Teddy Morris go from here in Canadian football?

The fighting 165-pounder, one of the game's greatest halfbacks and coach of three Canadian championship teams Friday night quit unexpectedly as coach of Toronto Balmy Beach of the Ontario Rugby Football Union.

There seemed no immediate place for Morris to go in the game that has been his first love for nearly 20 years.

It was little more than a month ago that Toronto Argos—where Morris broke in as a junior—took over the franchise of the Beach club to operate it as a farm team.

Morris had already been appointed coach. He turned down a job as manager of Argos after Frank Clair, formerly Buffalo Bills coach, was brought in to rebuild the Argos.

Morris offered no explanation of his sudden resignation. A friend quoted him as saying: "It's nearly 20 years since I started with Argos. I'm still too much of an Argo man to start a controversy. I'm very happy and contented at the way things have gone."

Morris, now 40, took over the Argos after the war. He built them from the ground up into a team that won three straight Grey Cup titles. And he did it without the use of American imports—at a time when more and more clubs were turning south of the border in the hunt for talent.

Last year the Argos fell apart. This year Clair was brought in to rebuild the team.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

The ex-Legionnaires—provincial senior "B" puck finalists last season—definitely intend to ice an OHA senior "B" squad this coming winter. Bob Parnell, popular forward, has been named manager for the team, and Horace Guppy will be treasurer. Haven't heard of other officials being chosen yet, nor a coach. Jim Ellis said last spring he'd had enough of coaching and preferred to be just a hockey spectator in future. Though he made a fine job and had Peterborough fans seeing some swell play much later than they ever had before. The team is reported to have potential sponsors both here and in Lindsay.

A dozen teams so far have entered the men's City Bowling League, the five-pinners who perform at Duffus' regularly. Four more teams can be accommodated, and a secretary-treasurer is needed. Applications must be in by Sept. 14 (that's next Thursday) as league bowling commences Sept. 21. Those interested should contact President Bill Harris, vice-prexy Jack Playford or Frank Wood, retiring secretary. Final meeting to arrange the schedule, rules, division of prizes, etc., will be Sept. 14 at seven p.m. in Duffus'. The first entry applicants will have the preference.

Mutuals In OASA Play

New Toronto meets Mutuals tonight at 8.15 in the Bowl to start their two-of-three OASA intermediate "A" playdown series. Don't know yet when the return is. Mutuals eliminated Oshawa Broncs in the first round, and hope to get the hop on New Toronto in this opener. It ought to be keen. East City were to have played in Oshawa last eve, but no results received at this writing. Orphans are slated for the Motor City on Monday in the second of their OASA junior playdowns. Both East City and Orphans lost out in opening jousts. Yeah, the softball season in Peter's borough is grinding rapidly toward a close.

* * * * * *

Coach Bamforth has the Orfuns scrimmaging hard these nights. No exhibition game this week-end as the schedule opens in another week. Boosters Club is going over well and it should be a dandy ORFU senior "B" season here. John Lynch, middle with Winnipeg Blue Bombers and Ottawa Rough Riders, is here, as well as Bill Dalton, another hefty ace. John Baker, end from Ottawa is back, too, as is Ken Hoffman, towering Collegiate all-star down Ottawa way. He's quite a cager, as well. These and others were trying out ere the Sept. 1 deadline and have been kept. Club is allowed three imports more up until Sept. 15, so we'll have more info on the team, locals as well as newcomers, this coming week.

Oshawa And The Petes

All roads lead to Riverside Park at 8.30 tonight when Oshawa and the Petes clash in the sixth of their best-of-seven Viaduct Baseball League finals. Should be a grand game and the Petes can sew it up with a win, or they're out for the season if they lose. They think they can take the Merchants again, after trimming 'em 10-1 in Toronto last night. Bill Dadson pitched a one-hitter and looked really good—he has been certainly starring recently on the slab—in the process. The slim southpaw had everything, after being a bit wild in the first frame. Too bad Thompson beat that infield hit out in the eighth. Bill had almost perfect support and his buddies hit hard to earn the duke handily, Al Menzies pacing the attack. Yes, a swell one to win, and the park should be jammed for tonight's tilt. Nothing definite yet on a seventh game.

* * * * * *

Like the local lacrossers, Owen Sound Crescents are tough to beat on their own floor. And they laid on the gad plenty last night to soften up the Creighton crew for a 19-3 triumph. It put the OLA senior "A" champs up two games to one in their best-of-seven quarter-finals, and a win for them Monday night would pretty nearly put them home free. The Petes weren't in peak form last eve, and they hope Monday to get back in the picture with another verdict over the Sounders. The game is at 8.45 in Miller Bowl to start off the week. Don Crowe and Mick Magee were a couple of thumpers the Crescents couldn't push around, but Petes as a whole didn't have it this game. Russ Slater scored five and aided on five more.

Down Sports' Rialto

Kingston and UE have a soccer playoff at six tonight in King Edward Park . . . City golf championships start tomorrow aft at one out at the Peterborough Golf Club, resuming next week-end at Kawartha . . . Girls' city bowling loop meeting at 7.30 p.m. Monday in Duffus' . . . A meeting of the Church Athletic Association Monday eve at 7.30 in the YMCA . . . Also a general membership meeting of Trojan A.C. at seven Monday night at Turner Park to plan the season; members and prospective members invited . . . Oshawa teams play our bantams, midgets and juveniles, starting at 1.30 this aft in Riverside, in OBA playdown contests . . . Some slipup in arrangements, so East City didn't play their OASA senior "B" joust in Oshawa last e'en; it may be staged Tuesday . . . Probably Mutuals will meet East City in a city final playoff Monday evening . . . Russ Wallace of Aces led the Viaduct Baseball League hitters for the season with .414, Rog Wood of Oshawa being next with .408; Al Menzies was fifth . . . The Petes were bunting effectively last night to cross up the Merchants often . . . OBA suddenly finds out that West Toronto isn't ready yet, so there's no hurry for a Viaduct Loop winner! . . . Ah, nuts.

LAWN BOWLING

By HERB MARTIN

So successful was the men's doubles tournament last evening that the committee is going to repeat the tournament next Friday night. It was the first time this year for play of this kind and the boys went for it in a big way. Don't be surprised to see the entry of 26 pairs doubled next week.

Tonight—the family hour tournament.

Toronto Whips Montreal 4-2

By The Canadian Press

Toronto Maple Leafs Friday night defeated Montreal Royals 4-2 to keep Royals from clinching second place in the International League standings. A win for Royals would have done it, as Baltimore, fighting for second spot, split a doubleheader at Jersey City.

The Royals now are one full game ahead of Baltimore.

Baltimore made sure of third place by beating Jersey City 1-0 before losing the nightcap of their doubleheader 4-1.

Anse Moore's 20th home run of the season in the eighth inning, first extra frame, won the ball game for the Orioles.

Springfield clung to its precarious hold on fifth place by breaking even with Syracuse Chiefs 8-3 and 12-2.

Bob Wellman smashed a grand-slam homer in the fifth to lead the last-place Buffalo Bisons to an 8-3 victory over Rochester Red Wings.

Toronto Peoples Wins

TORONTO, Sept. 9—(CP)—Toronto Peoples, Canadian softball champions, blanked the King and his Court—a touring four-man team—4-0 Friday night. It followed an 11-7 win over the barn-storming club two weeks ago. Ed Feigner allowed 10 hits for the losers—but many of them were banged out while he was pitching from his knees or from back of second base. He collected 13 strikeouts. Russ Johnson yielded six hits for Peoples.

Crescents Defeat The Petes To Move Up In OLA Series

By DON GRANT

Just plain beef did the trick for the Owen Sound Crescents Friday night in the Georgian Bay town. They thumped their way through the first three quarters of the third playoff game to walk over the Petes as though they were drifting on a cloud 19-3. The Crescents now lead two games to one, the return game here Monday at Miller Bowl.

Before the Petes had even a chance to try their cautious lacrosse the Crescents drifted in with their bodies and sticks to bat the Petes about the arena. Caught off guard the losers tried to re-organize but without success until the fourth quarter when they managed to change the style of play to their choice after they bounced a few of the Crescent ruffians.

Wooton Good

Thanks to the solid wall of muscle and bone in front of him, Moon Wooton, the Owen Sound goalie, was well on his way to his second lacrosse shut out in three years. Up to the five-minute mark in the third he had only to stop a dozen shots. Then the goose-egg was broken by Don Crowe who rapped in a short shot on a pass from Dootch Vitarelli.

This Peterborough goal made the score 14-1 no less. The Doug Gillespie - coached crew, while they shoved the locals around in the first, registered six goals and in a mad second quarter added four more to the total. After the Petes tallied in the third, two more Owen Sound goals were scored.

Peterborough began to show signs in the fourth of the club that rocked the Crescents here Wednesday. Don Crowe and Mick Magee supplied the stiff checks to start the Petes who began to roll midway through the period. Even then the Crescents edged them on the scoring 3-2

Rough Stuff

Tempers rode high throughout the tilt but reached the boiling point in the dying moments of the first half. Don Ashbee sailed into Lloyd Wooton as he rushed out of the goal crease. This check was not as hard as the one dealt Wooton by Ashbee in the opener Monday night. Bill Allum rushed to Wooton's side. The pushing and shoving was then on. Both Joe Nolan and Allum dropped their sticks and gloves but Referees Bill Fitzgerald and Gus Madsen, St. Catharines, sailed the two players away before a rumpus could get under way.

Stars on the Petes were few and far between on the night's play. Mick Magee, besides scoring a goal, combined with Don Crowe who was effective throughout to add some spark to the Petes' attack in the late stages of the game. Dootch and Lou Vitarelli worked hard but found the burly Crescents difficult to budge.

Gospel Of Mark—Account Of Life Of Christ

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

Of the four Gospels in the New Testament, the Gospel of Mark is, perhaps, the most invaluable.

Matthew presents us with the geneology and story of Bethlehem. To Luke we owe a dazzling portrait of Mary and a precious account of the birth of Jesus, overlooked by the other Gospel writers and gave us a profound interpretation of the things he knew.

But the Gospel by Mark stands out as a direct and simple account of the life, death, ministry and resurrection of Jesus. The earliest written of the Gospels, Mark's work can be criticized for its incompleteness. In fact his omission of many vital details prompted Luke to write the full story as one who knew all from the very beginning.

Mark's knowledge was mostly second-hand for he was not one of the Twelve. It was known that he was an interpreter of Peter, setting down what was adapted to the needs of his hearers. Having had no day-to-day acquaintanceship with Jesus, he did not feel qualified to author a comprehensive account and that is why we must turn to Matthew if we wish to read the Sermon on the Mount.

Yet with all of the inadequacy of his story, Mark wrote the Gospel with a vividity and directness that has never been rivaled. Again and again he employs the word "straightaway." His strong faith is always apparent in his convincing narration.

Referred to in Acts 12:12, John Mark was related to Barnabas. Accompanying Barnabas on Paul's first missionary journey, John Mark became the subject of dissention between Paul and Barnabas. When Paul was about to set out on his second missionary journey, he refused to take John Mark with him charging that Mark had deserted them on the first trip for no good reason.

In the argument that followed, Paul turned his back on Barnabas and chose Silas as his companion. Ever since, generations have wondered whether John Mark was really a quitter as charged by Paul.

Concerning that question mark in the life of Mark, I believe that he may have had a good reason for returning to Jerusalem. Then again, Paul's rigid self-discipline may have been too exacting for Mark. Even great Christians do not always see eye-to-eye.

PETERBOROUGH EXAMINER

VOL. CI. No. 58 — SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 9, 1950

No Word Yet Of Changes In Local Prices

It looks as though Mr. and Mrs. Peter Borough are going to have to bite their nails over the week-end along with auto dealers, soft drink manufacturers, candy wholesalers and those who dispense liquors and beer, waiting for word from manufacturers and Government departments about application of new taxes. A phone survey by The Examiner today drew a terse "No news, yet."

Soft drink firms which took their delivery trucks from the roads on Friday are still keeping them in their garages over the weekend. Each person in authority contacted by phone said they were hoping for some news in today's mail. There was none. Some even called manufacturers direct but no news was forthcoming and no indication was given as to when mark-up prices would be released.

'Phoney Suicide' Say Police

COBOURG, Sept. 9. — Police were sceptical when a boat was found floating yesterday morning in Burlington Bay which had been hired the night before by a man described as Albert Stinson of that city.

Stinson's truck was found empty too, near the boat livery. Police took the view that it had been planned to look like a suicide.

Magistrate R. B. Baxter and Crown Attorney Harry Deyman were also sceptical in Cobourg Police Court where Stinson was scheduled to appear yesterday on a charge of theft of outboard motors.

Crown Attorney Deyman said he regarded it as a phoney suicide. The Magistrate agreed, directing that Stinson's $2,000 bail be estreated and a bench warrant issued for his arrest. This means that the Court takes proceedings to collect the $2,000.

PLOTTING THEIR WAY CAREFULLY, their first week on duty at the YMCA, Boys' Secretary William McFarlane, Left, of Saskatoon and General Secretary Charles Forsyth of Niagara Falls, already have homes and feel they are going to be extremely happy in Peterborough.

Primate Speaks At St. John's Council Attends

St. John's Anglican Church is holding a special service commemorating Peterborough's Centennial year on Sunday morning. The special speaker for the occasion will be Archbishop G. S Kingston of Halifax, Nova Scotia, who is Primate of All Canada.

At this service the choir will sing the anthem, "I Will Give Thanks" written for the 100th anniversary celebration of this church by Mr. F. G. Mann, the organist. All the city council will attend this service in a body.

The main commemorative centennial services will be held in all the other churches on September 17. Special preachers are occupying the pulpits in the morning. The climax of this religious celebration will be a mass community worship service at the exhibition ground on Sunday evening to which the congregations of all city churches are invited.

Noted Preachers

The special speaker at Murray St. Baptist Church on Sunday morning, September 17 will be Dr. George P. Gilmour, president of MacMaster University, Hamilton. Dr. Gilmour's great-grandfather commenced Baptist work in Peterborough in 1843 with the establishment of the Gilmour Memorial Church on the Chemong Road. He also established the present Murray St. Baptist Church in 1846.

Dr. F. Scott Mackenzie, Moderator of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, will be the speaker at St. Paul's Presbyterian Church on Centennial Sunday, September 17. The council will attend the service at St. Paul's Church.

The special speaker at St. Andrew's United Church will be Mr. Alex Edmison, assistant to the principal of Queen's University, Kingston. At this service, a plaque will be unveiled in memory of Mr. Edmison's great - grandfather and grandfather, both of whom were very active in the church's work.

The Rev. George Forsey, of Wesley Church, Moncton, New Brunswick will be the special speaker of Trinity United Church.

The Most Rev. J. R. MacDonald, Bishop of the Diocese of Antigonish, Nova Scotia will preach the sermon at St. Peter's Cathedral on September 17.

On that Sunday Bishop Berry will celebrate pontifical high mass at the Cathedral beginning at 10.30 a.m., and the sermon will be preached by Bishop MacDonald, his immediate predecessor at the head of the Roman Catholic diocese of Peterborough.

Skunk No. 10

Police and employees of the Martin-Hewitt Containers Ltd. racked up their 10th skunk in about three weeks when Traffic Officer Gordon Trennum delivered the fatal shot early this morning. The end of the line is not yet in sight. Two more skunks were seen skulking about the grounds on south Park St.

Lakefield Chief Arrests Driver In 2 Car Crash

Ian Inglis, of RR 4, Peterborough, was arrested early today by Constable Garnet Samis of Lakefield and charged with careless driving and drunk driving as the result of a two-truck crash at midnight in Lakefield. Inglis was driving a truck south around the big curve on Highway 28, south of Glenwood Farms, and forced Tom Bellis of Lakefield to ditch his private car to prevent a collision.

Following the Bellis car was a truck driven by Don Littleproud of Detlor, Ont. He was unable to pull off from the approaching truck driven by Inglis, which hit the left side of the vehicle and sheared off both sets of rear dual wheels and ditched it.

The Inglis truck careened down the highway for 150 yards and came to a stop in a grove of trees on the property of Miss Emma Kennedy. Constable Samis estimated the damage to both trucks would be approximately $800. No one was injured in the collision.

East City Sewer Link Nears Juncture With Main System End of Little Lake Pollution

Connection of the Ashburnham sewage system by way of Burnham's Point to the main trunk sewer on George St. is nearing completion. This is the final stage of the council's planning of redeeming Little Lake. The work is being done by the board of works department under the direction of City Engineer Chalmers.

"You haven't seen this Ashburnham job yet," said Ald. Hurrell Dodds, chairman of the board of works, and it might as well be acknowledged that this reference was the first mention of the operation, one of the important civic improvements which the present council now has in progress.

It may be tacked on to the list comprising: construction and enlargement of the sewage disposal plant on the Otonabee side of the river opposite the foot of Park St., Hardy Construction Co.

The Park St. drain and fill, contractors—Curran and Briggs, Toronto.

Sewers on Cameron St. and vicinity: Monan Construction Co., Toronto.

New City Hall, Eastwood Construction Co.

Sewer program in Ashburnham: R. A. Blyth Co., Toronto.

Program of street paving: Bennett Construction Co., Oshawa.

That brings the total of civic projects now in progress to seven. To it might be added Peterborough Civic Hospital virtually completed except the landscaping details.

It should also be mentioned the Board of Education has under way an addition to the Prince of Wales School on Monaghan Road.

Diverting Sewage

The present Chalmers job was designed and approved as a sensible means of diverting Ashburnham sewage from Little Lake to the enlarged sewage disposal plant.

"By the end of the year both these jobs will be completed," Ald. Dodds remarked to the Examiner, "and the city council will have done its part in 'cleaning up' Little Lake and also the Otonabee River."

When the Utilities Commission [illegible] of laying an 18-inch water main across the river between McDonald's and Burnham Points, the city council decided to take advantage of that operation by arranging to lay a sewer pipe parallel with the water pipe line, and split the cost with the Commission.

The water main was projected as a major step in increasing the pressure in the Ashburnham service.

The crossing was accomplished, and the connection was laid between the point end of the sewer pipe and the main trunk sewer. City Engineer Chalmers is finishing the laying of the sewer to connect with the south end of the Ashburnham sewer on Maria St., in the vicinity of Ontario Marble plant.

Pumps Ready

The pumping plant that was built at Burnham's Point when the Wartime Housing No. 1 project there was completed. That signifies that the sewage was simply pumped into the river at the point. The pumping station has been enlarged and built of brick for permanence. The pumps are installed and ready for use.

The sewer line was laid along the shore of the lake from Burnham St. Easement was obtained from the C.P.R. to extend the line parallel with the railway from the box to Maria Street.

From there easterly it has been just another sewer job done by the city's staff.

A pumping station will still be required at the old site on the north side of Maria St. to move sewage into the new discharge line to Burnham's Point and across the river to the main trunk sewer.

What everybody knows by this time is that the old system in Ashburnham was practically nothing more than a method of pumping the raw sewage from that eastern community into Little Lake.

The present sewer is already opposite the west end of Ontario Marble plant, and is likely to be completed this month. From there on the reclamation of Little Lake for its community asset, once estimated by Reg Faryon as a casual 'million dollars' as a resource of civic beauty, will depend on further investigation of objectionable dumping, and final correction or diversion.

Fishing-Boy Up By Fall

The fishing-boy fountain for Victoria Park is expected to be in place by fall, parks superintendent Armar Butcher said today.

Concrete has to be poured for the base yet, and Mr. Butcher says he is trying to get the statue cast in Peterborough. The model is completed, and "it's really a good job."

"We've had a little trouble with one thing and another," he said, "but there's no reason it should not be up by fall. I fully expect it to be, anyhow."

Not Polio Year Says M.O.H.

"Indications are that it won't be a polio year, but we are keeping our fingers crossed," stated Dr. R. H. Kelly, medical officer of health for Peterborough, while commenting on the polio situation for this year.

The first and only case reported as yet for this year in the district is Marjory Tovin, of Port Hope, who was visiting Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Murdoff, O'Connell Road.

There were five cases of infantile paralysis in the city and a total of 1,125 cases in the province of Ontario in 1949.

According to Dr. Kelly, most cases of polio occur in the period between the months of July and October. By the end of October, the danger of contracting this disease is rare. Statistics show [illegible] under fifteen years of age. However no age group is immune from polio.

Last year at this time, only one case had been reported in the district.

Rev. Dean Dies

TORONTO, Sept. 9 (CP)—The Rev. Dr. Samuel Wesley Dean, former secretary of the church pension board of the United Church of Canada, died here Friday.

Prize For Oldest To Man 87

2 of 91 Show Up

MARMORA, Sept. 9 (ENS). — Marmora Fair held on Friday was one of the most successful in the history of the agricultural society, when some 3,000 visited the exhibits and took part in the contests.

The prize for the oldest man on the grounds was awarded to John Vanvolkenberg, 87. His supremacy in longevity was soon challenged. Not long after he won the award two other oldsters showed up, Thomas Anderson and Jack Arnold. Both are 91. They were awarded consolation prizes.

Mrs. Urena Pinner, oldest resident of Marmora, who was 86 on March 18, received the prize for being the oldest lady on the grounds. Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Reynolds received the prize for being the latest married couple in attendance.

Wanted! Scores of Criminals Stare From Police Hq. Walls

Trapped men with staring eyes look sullenly out from their pictures pinned to the notice board in the guard room of the city police station. They are the men wanted by police in all parts of Canada and some in the United States. Recorded with their pictures are their names and aliases, descriptions, occupations, their usual crimes and why they are wanted.

Some of the people pictured are not criminals, but missing persons whom newspaper readers learned about months ago and have now almost forgotten.

One of these is the young Toronto girl Mabel Crumback, whose disappearance May 28 touched off a frantic country-wide and fruitless search. She is still being sought.

Suspects of All Kinds

Most of the photos are the front and side view pictures which identification officers such as Sergeant William Aggas take when a man is brought in and charged with an indictable or serious crime under the criminal code. These photos are then available for circulation to other police departments.

One set of photos pictures a tough-looking blond man of about 35 who is a suspected safe cracker. Local police are warned to be on the lookout for him and watch him carefully when he comes to town. Another man is a known house-breaker and police are also warned to be on guard for him.

A small placard bears the picture of Melville Wilkie who used to live in Owen Sound and escaped a few weeks ago from the Hospital for the Criminally Insane in Penetanguishene.

The most gruesome pictures are the front and side views of the head of an unidentified corpse that was in the Grand River near Brantford about 10 days. Police are trying to have the dead man identified. His bloated face looks as if he had suffered a savage beating before he dropped into the river.

The men the police are looking for are wanted for all types of crimes from murder to forgery, theft and fraud. They also have a wide range of legitimate occupations which they apparently don't always stick to.

One is a male registered nurse. Another is an embalmer. Then, too, there are cooks, carpenters, barbers, bakers and even a radio technician.

Scars, birthmarks, tattooes and other permanent marks on the body are listed as means of identifying the wanted men. But the man who carries the most distinguishing trade mark is a 32-year-old negro escapee who has five bullet hole scars in his right leg.

Derby Teacher At King Edward

Miss Nellie Richardson of Derby, England, is teaching Grade VI in the King Edward School. Miss Richardson is one of approximately 44 teachers from England and Scotland who are on exchange with Canadian teachers. These teachers will spend the next year teaching in various schools in this country before returning to England. Miss Richardson is the only exchange teacher in Peterborough.

"I came over on the Empress of Canada and arrived in Quebec City on August 21," stated Miss Richardson with amiable British reserve. "Before coming to Peterborough, last Saturday, I spent a few days in New York and Montreal. Before I return to England I hope to take a trip out west."

MISS NELLIE RICHARDSON

Miss Richardson taught for several years in the Southgate Secondary Modern School for Girls in Derby, England. At this school she was a specialist in needlework.

In the King Edward School, she is taking the place of Miss Marion Mutton who is at present teaching in the Rosehill Secondary School for Girls in Derby. She is now busy scaning Canadian textbooks and pedagogic methods.

Miss Richardson, so new to Canada, felt herself unable to give an opinion of Canadian ways, but what she has seen, she seems to like.

Chosen Candidate

MONTREAL, Sept. 9 (CP) — Ignace J. Deslauriers, 39-year-old lawyer, was chosen official Liberal candidate Friday night in the Oct. 16 federal by-election in Montreal St. Mary's riding. The seat became vacant last month when former member Gaspard Fauteux was appointed lieutenant-governor of Quebec.

Died In London

The death of Mrs. Anne Seabourne Hamilton-Hill occurred in London, England, July 14, 1950. She was a daughter of the late Honorable Robert Hamilton and Anne Seabourne Hamilton whose residence "Auburn" was north of Ashburnham in the vicinity of the Peterborough Golf and Country Club. She is survived by two sons, Hamilton and Edward Hamilton-Hill and a brother Maxwell George Hamilton.

4-Year-Old Girl Lost 3 Hours

Four-year-old Patricia Ayotte, whose home is two miles south of Burleigh Falls, was lost for nearly three hours Friday afternoon. She was brought home unharmed after being recognized in Burleigh Falls by some highway workmen.

Meanwhile provincial police and Lakefield police, as well as a number of neighbors, were anxiously searching for her.

Patricia was staying with her uncle, George Ayotte, as her mother is in hospital and her father, Stanley Ayotte, was away for the day in Peterborough. After lunch she set out with her pup through a path in the woods leading to Kawartha Park. Though warned not to, she intended to follow her cousin, Mary Ayotte, who had previously gone to Dave Charlton's store for some groceries.

Somehow she wandered from the path and was picked up by a passing motorist and taken to Burleigh. There she was recognized by some workmen and returned home.

City Corners Take The Cake

"Well, I wonder how much those cost?" a citizen queried as he gazed at one of the eight birthday cakes at a George St. intersection. He wasn't the first to ask the question; others had wondered perhaps not alone, when they saw them.

Estimates on the cost of each cake varied from $25 to $100. Other citizens said the city council sure did some funny things with the money they got from taxpayers, and "what are they going to put up next?"

"Taxes, probably," answered a passerby.

Ross Dobbin, general manager of the Utilities, answered the questions on the cost of the cakes today. He said he thought each one would cost about $50 by the time it was put up.

People in the streets do look up at the 100th birthday cakes, and they add festivity to buntingless downtown. Lighted at night, too—but not the candles.

7 Witnesses Identify Holdup Suspect

SIMCOE, Sept. 9 (CP)—Testimony about the wild, bullet-punctured chase that ended with the machine-gunning of two men highlighted Friday's third day of the trial of Joseph Herbert McAuliffe, charged with a double murder.

While McAuliffe, wartime arms expert, sat impassively taking notes, Crown Counsel D. E. W. Tisdale called witnesses to describe the wild ride that began with a bank robbery in nearby Langton and ended with the June 21 death of Arthur Lierman, 31, and William Goddyn, 24.

Previously seven witnesses had identified McAuliffe as the lone bandit who held up the branch of the Imperial Bank at Langton and escaped with $23,000.

Robert Nobel, 16, who was working in a tobacco field near the scene of the fatal shooting, testified he heard a shot and saw two cars coming from the east. He said the first car went into a ditch and the second stopped right behind it.

Hears Shots

A few seconds later, Nobel said, he heard a burst of about 10 shots come from the first car. Then he saw one man, wearing a "dark suit coat and with brown hair" standing beside the ditched car. By that time Nobel "was crawling home."

During a court recess McAuliffe's father and sister from North Bay arrived at the jail to visit him. McAuliffe's defence counsel said the accused advised them not to attend the trial.

Inspector Frank Kelly of the Ontario Provincial Police told the court that he was forced to hold an identification lineup earlier than he had hoped because a photographer had taken a picture of McAuliffe soon after he was flushed from a shack near the scene of the killings.

Kelly said eight of 10 witnesses to the bank robbery identified the accused "without the slightest bit of help."

HOUSE NO. 248—This is a friendly little house, with a perky air about it, containing seven convenient rooms. And the owner says that his enthusiasm for it must have been contagious, since a brother in Quebec City built another just like it! Exterior walls are of French-grey cedar shingles, with blue-grey roof, and dark blue shutters. The almost square plan topped by a single gable roof, is economical to build. It contains about 21,200 cubic feet. For further information, write Home Building in Canada, 372 Bay St., Toronto.

Most Common Questions Of Home Builder Answered

Here are some of the most commonly asked questions confronting the intending home builder:

Kitchen Cupboards

Question: Can you give me a rough idea of what is considered sufficient kitchen cupboard space for houses accommodating 3, 4 and 5 persons.

Answer: Wall cabinet capacity of six square feet per adult should be allowed. Figure base cabinet requirements on linear front feet of cabinet, not including range and refrigerator. Here are some figures for the small house.

| No. of Persons. | Wall cabinet Shelf space. | Base cabinet Shelf space |
|---|---|---|
| 3 | 30 sq. ft. | 4½ to 6 lin. ft. |
| 4 | 36 sq. ft. | 6 to 7½ lin. ft. |
| 5 | 42 sq. ft. | 7½ to 9 lin. ft. |

These figures are of course subject to special family requirements, such as where an unusual amount of entertaining is done.

Finishing Knotty Pine

Question: What do you consider the best technique for finishing natural knotty pine panelling?

Answer: The character of the knots is brought out by rubbing with a clean rag wet with a mixture of linseed oil and turpentine, or with a varnish stain of good quality.

The surface should then be left overnight to dry, and then a light coat of shellac applied. After this is thoroughly dry — it should be given at least two hours — the wood can be sandpapered lightly along the grain and finished with wax.

What Is A "Packaged Mortgage"?

Question: Can you tell me what is meant by a "packaged mortgage"?

Answer: The "packaged mortgage" regards major items of kitchen and household equipment as part of the house for mortgage purposes. It provides for a single combined house and equipment loan enabling the purchaser to spread payments for such equipment over the life of his house.

"Spatter" Finishing Floors

Question: I have to repaint the floor of our summer cottage this spring and have been wondering about "spatter" finishing it. Can you offer any suggestions?

Answer: A spatter finish should be ideal for a summer cottage floor. It will camouflage dirt tracked into the cottage and is a surface both easily and quickly applied.

First paint the floor in the desired background color . . . usually a dark tint. When this has dried, the floor is ready for "spattering." An old brush is best for this purpose as new ones are usually too limber. Dip your brush into the contrasting color and tap the brush handle upon a piece of metal pipe held in the left hand to spatter the paint. Two contrasting colors are usually applied in this manner over the undercoat, using different brushes for each. Paints for splatter floors should be of heavy paste formula. If any thining is needed use turpentine and drier rather than linseed oil as this would make the paint too soft for floor wear.

Ink Stains on New Hardwood

Question: We have a newly laid hardwood floor on which a bottle of ink was upset and allowed to soak in. Despite a great deal of sanding it has been impossible to completely remove these markings. Is there a solution that will bleach it out?

Answer: Yes, there is. Oxalic acid will do the trick. Obtain 1 oz. oxalic acid granules and mix in 1 pint of hot water. Allow this solution to cool and apply repeated coatings with a brush.

Removing Old Wallpaper

Question: Some of the wallpaper in our home has been varnished and we are having difficulty removing it for repapering. Can you offer any suggestions that will make this easier?

Answer: As with removing all wallpapers, the problem is basically to get enough water back of the old paper to loosen the old paste. With a varnished paper, the surface should be sandpapered sufficiently to allow the solution to soak through. You can use solution of soda and ammonia to soak off old varnished papers, but care must be taken so that none gets on the floors or woodwork.

Apsley Church Celebrates 75th Anniversary

APSLEY, Sept. 9 —(ENS)— The 75th anniversary of St. George's Anglican Church here which was also the first Anglican mission in this district, was celebrated Wednesday evening.

The church, which has been recently redecorated, presented a pleasing sight with beautiful cut flowers in the windows, on the altar, and along the walls.

The church was filled to capacity with extra chairs placed in aisle and porch.

Gordon Hendra, incumbent, conducted the service.

Rev. F. C. McMulkin of Toronto, a former rector of this parish, delivered the sermon. Assisting in the service were Archdeacon Robertson, Rural Dean Gilling, Revs. C. Lord, C. A. G. Spence, and J. K. Urquart.

Music was supplied by the choir of St. Luke's Church, Peterborough, with Morley Coombs at the organ. Mrs. George Kilborn of St. John's Church was soloist.

Before the benediction Archdeacon Robertson dedicated the lights in the nave.

After the service, all were invited to a reception held in St. George's Parish Hall, which was well filled and a bountiful lunch was served buffet style.

On behalf of Peterborough Deanery, Archdeacon Robertson congratulated St. George's Church on reaching the 75th anniversary.

A history of the church was read by Rev. C. A. G. Spence with extracts from the personal diary of Canon Harding the founder of this parish.

One diary entry of 1880 related "No money, no tea, no sugar, no potatoes. Walked 34 miles in 13 hours without eating."

One Sunday in 1895 St. George's attendance was 11, and collection 10 cents. "We (Cannon Harding) gave that. No one else gave a copper," the Cannon wrote.

He lived at Cardiff and walked 20 miles to hold divine service.

Rev. Spence himself had been here for 19 years, the longest term of any incumbent except Canon Harding.

Solos were rendered during the evening by Miss N. Humphrey and Fraser Watson, of St. Luke's choir.

Gravel At Marmora To Lift Track Crossing

MARMORA, Sept. 9 —(ENS)— Five railroad carloads of gravel arrived in Marmora from the Fuller gravel pits to be used to start raising the CPR spur track here where it crosses Highway 7.

The track is going to be raised two feet at the point where it crosses the highway.

Add Hardware Allowance In Total Cost of Building

An allowance for hardware is usually established by the contractor when he builds a house. You, as a home owner, should make a list of the items you desire. Check this with your builder to ensure a mutual understanding of what he will supply in the stated hardware allowance.

Although the hardware must serve its functional purpose, it should also conform to the architectural character of the home. The color, as well as the design, of each fitting should harmonize with the decoration of each room. All hardware for doors, windows and cabinets within one room should be related in design and finish.

The operating parts of hardware are usually of iron or steel, although in some locksets bronze or brass is used. Materials other than metal, such as wood, glass or plastics are often satisfactory for knobs, push plates and cabinet pulls.

To protect the finish, hardware is sometimes covered with a colorless lacquer by the manufacturer. Periodic relacquering can prevent hardware from taking a spotty, tarnished appearance. Hardware can also be purchased unlacquered, in which case it should be kept polished or painted.

As salt air often tarnishes brass, exterior hardware exposed to it should be made of solid bronze or chromium plated bronze. Coal smoke and certain industrial fumes corrode copper and bronze on exterior surfaces and often strain light paints. Solid brass is best under these conditions. All hardware should be of the type that experience has shown to be the most suitable for your area.

Acquit Three Men Of Manslacghter

STRATFORD, Sept. 9 (CP) — Three Dublin district men, John J. Kauskopf, 21, Thomas Gormley, 39, and Ryan Jordan, 26, were acquitted of manslaughter here Friday night by a Supreme Court jury.

They were charged in the death of Bernard McDonnell, 69, at Mitchell, last Easter Sunday morning, after an alleged scuffle, when a group of young men entered the home of Mrs. Margaret Gill in search of beer.

The three were found guilty of a minor charge of being found in the Gill home; Krauskoof only was found guilty of breaking and entering the house ond of assaulting McDonnell.

Jailed Three Months For Dangerous Driving

STRATFORD, Sept. 9 (CP) — Robert C. Marran, 18, Stratford, was sentenced to three months in jail and his driving licence suspended two years by Mr. Justice A. M. LeBel at a Supreme Court session here Friday night.

A jury on Thursday found Marran guilty on the reduced charge of dangerous driving, he had been charged with man slaughter as a result of an automobile accident near Shakespeare last February in which Gideon Weber, New Hamburg and John M. Ross, Stratford, were fatally injured.

New Robbery Angle

VANCOUVER—(CP)—Purse snatchers here aren't content with pedestrians. Police are seeking a long-armed bandit who reached through the window of a parked car and snatched a purse from a woman's lap. He got away with $17 and a fountain pen before the chase could be started.

Why Did They? A Good Look At Our Special Force Men

By JACK SCOTT

PETAWAWA MILITARY CAMP, Ont. — I came up here from Ottawa in an Army staff car to have a look at the lads who will fight our next war and to find out, if I could, why they will do it.

According to the Bureau of Statistics there are in Canada 2,527,100 men between the ages of 20 and 44 years and, thus, eligible for the so-called Canadian Army Special Force.

I was interested in the 5,000 or more who responded to the call and particularly in those veterans who, having gone through one period of global insanity, are stepping forward voluntarily to go through another.

A doggerel that I once heard chanted by some Tommies in Germany had come back to my mind as we drove up the Ottawa Valley. It went:

Why did we join the Army, boys?
Why did we join the Army?
Why did we come to France to fight?
We must have been bloody well barmy!

It was the "Why" I wanted to get at. Were these Johnnies, getting their guns to fight "where required," out to save the world from Communism? Or barmy? Looking for adventure? Security? Or what compulsion did they feel that apparently was not felt by two-and-a-half million other Canadians?

The headquarters officers with me weren't sure, either. They spoke of getting "a good quality of man" with about half veterans, half civilians. Of a realistic approach to training "in the shortest possible time." But what manner of man had come forward was a mystery, the kind of question that might not be asked or answered until the first Canadian casualty list is published.

Familiar Scene

It was a dismal day with a pelting rain, but as our car went through the old familiar tar-paper barracks I saw ahead of me, on a concrete parade square, a platoon of soldiers going through a rifle drill.

They were husky men with black berets and summer drill uniforms, and they went through their chorus line ritual with the snap and dash that mean training and discipline. I asked my companions if these were members of the special brigade, Canada's better-late-than-never contribution to the United Nations.

No, one officer said, they were members of the Royal Canadian Dragoons of the Permanent Force. Then some activity across the parade caught his eye. "Here are some of the boys you want to see now," he said.

They were in threes, a long column of them, straggling down to the mess halls for lunch. They wore civilian clothes, many of them in cotton shirts without protection from the rain, one or two with the extreme tailoring of the zoot-suiter, a few in faded blue denim trousers and work shirts.

I noticed a wiry, red-faced man who seemed to be about 50 years of age, walking beside a sallow-complexioned youth who looked no older than 15, a few who swung along with the exaggerated gait of the ex-soldier back on parade.

The officer next to me said, under his breath, "September 1939."

That was it exactly. It was like looking back at an old newsreel. The strongest impression I had was of raw new men entering a strange life and the expression on most of those faces was the same, too, a kind of stoic patience or resignation.

Each man carried only one Army issue. In his hand or stuck in a hip pocket each had a knife, fork and spoon.

On Paper

This whole camp was in a kind of mild chaos or, in the Army phrase, "a snafu" because of the railway strike. From many parts of eastern Canada new recruits had come by truck and plane to Petawawa to wait here until the trains were running again to Shilo, Wainwright, Dundurn, Chilliwack and the other camps where men of the brigade will be trained.

More than 2,000 of them were here and quartermaster stores had run out of clothing. Hundreds of men arrived with only the summer wear they had on their backs, many without so much as a toothbrush or towel.

In the bare barracks they lay about on the grey palliasses, sleeping or reading pocket books or swapping stories, already getting back to the ripe Army language. In the administrative building, officers worked in seeming confusion and the men and boys lounged in the hallways in that monumental boredom every ex-soldier remembers.

I stopped to talk to one, an ex-corporal, and he said, without malice, "The Army hasn't changed a bit. Still the same old bloody hurry-and-wait system."

An officer had arranged that I could look over some of the forms that one group of men had filled out. One question was: State briefly why you wish to enlist in the special Canadian force."

I began to leaf through the forms looking at the answers. One man had written, "I believe Army life is good for a person." A 21-year-old Ukrainian wrote, "It is my duty to serve my country at a time like this."

Another: "I want to try to learn something." And another: "I like the security Army offers plus comradeship." And, in a scrawl barely decipherable, was this "For the sole purpose of helping to wipe out this Red scourage in our eastern countries."

Gov't Plans To Expand Tourist Trade In NZ

By J. G. GRAHAM

AUCKLAND, N. Z., (CP). — The government plans to hold a national tourist week in October to teach its citizens to be better hosts and to underline the need for a more friendly spirit toward visitors. The week will mark the beginning of a major drive to build up the tourist trade into one of New Zealand's biggest industries.

The government believes New Zealand's travel attractions can enormously expand the number of visitors from overseas, especially from the United States and Canada, and make the tourist traffic a big factor in closing New Zealand's dollar gap.

Amazing Material

It certainly has amazing natural material to work on. From the sub-tropical Kauri and fern forests of the north to the mountains of the Southern Alps, New Zealand packs a great variety of scenic wonders into a small space.

It has fiords that rival those of Norway, volcanoes, geyers and roaring blowholes, glaciers that reach almost to sea level, some of the world's finest trout and big game fishing fine skiing in the American off-season, scores of magnificent surf beaches and picturesque Maori villages.

Overseas Publicity

The government has embarked on a publicity campaign in the United States and Canada, and at home is concentrating on improving the standard of facilities for visitors.

In consultation with private interests, it is seeking to improve the appointments and service at hotels to bring them to North American standards. Fishing lodges are being refurnished and re-equipped. Many tourist houses have been granted liquor licences for the first time.

New ski tows have been installed at the main mountain centres.

Tourist agents from North America have been taken on tours of the country, and a series of color films is being prepared. A permanent government tourist chief has been appointed for North America. He is R. M. Firth, former director of New Zealand supply mission in Washington during the war, and twice acting-high commissioner to Canada.

Many irritating formalities which have annoyed non-British tourists in the past, such as finger printing, have been abolished and other red tape is to be cut to make visiting New Zealand as simple and trouble-free as possible.

Cool Summer Weather Helps Prevent Forest Fire Damage

By The Canadian Press

Nature took a hand this year in cutting down Canada's forest fire losses. Meanwhile, increased fire prevention measures formed the keynote of a program in almost every province to conserve timber wealth. Heavy summer rains, especially in eastern Canada, not only helped reduce the fire hazard at a time when it normally is highest, they also left moisture conditions in the bush above normal for the fall.

A survey by The Canadian Press shows that 1950's worst fire-hazard period followed a stretch of unseasonably warm weather in the spring. Forest fire-fighters were at their busiest during May in the Maritimes, Quebec and Ontario.

Nova Scotia, hardest-hit of the eastern provinces, suffered losses which might reach $8,000,000. This damage resulted from one blaze which ripped through 10,000 acres in the Musquodoboit area of Halifax county. Much of the standing timber lost was young red spruce.

The acreage burned over and damage caused in two New Brunswick May fires in the counties of Gloucester and Restigouche were greater than the province's totals for the whole of 1949: 5,000 acres burned over for a loss of $12,000.

The area burned over in Newfoundland up to Aug. 21 totalled 19,194 acres compared with 12,536 acres in 1949.

Free of Outbreaks

Rain-soaked Quebec was generally free of serious outbreaks, a welcome note after 1949—a bad year—when the province had 1,537 fires spread over 137,900 acres of which 23,155 had timber with a commercial value.

Ontario, which uses helicopters in fire-fighting and has carried out tests on water-bombing of fires from the air, also reported no large outbreak for the season. Up to Sept. 5 there were 805 fires. The most dangerous period was on May 22 when some 75 fires were being fought.

In capsule form, here are the province's losses in merchantable timber through fires in 1949: saw timber: 1,096,900 board feet, pulpwood, 19,220 cords, fuel wood, 32,671 cords, cedar posts 600, cedar poles, 41. Value of merchantable timber based on crown dues only: $36,007.72, value of property other than timber burned, $167,313.67.

A Different Story

In Manitoba, by Sept. 5 100 fires hed burned over 10,000 acres compared with 460 fires and 170,000 acres burned over in 1949.

In Saskatchewan the fire-total for the year stood at 93 as of Sept. 7. Some 113,595 acres were burned over. In 1949, the province had 231 fires which burned over 512,130 acres.

Alberta's losses in merchantable timber this year were reported negligible after serious losses in 1949.

Forest conditions were reported favorable in British Columbia which up to Sept. 5 had handled 1,164 fires. This compared with 1,473 fires the same date last year.

Use Oliver Farm As Test Ground

PRICEVILLE, Ont., Sept. 9 — The late farm of Hon. Edward Oliver, retiring Ontario Liberal leader, was used Friday as a testing ground to show Grey county farmers the newest in soil and water conservation techniques.

The farm at Priceville, 30 miles south of Owen Sound, was used to illustrate how modern machines and know-how can convert unproductive and worn-out fields to valuable pasture and crop lands.

Mr. Oliver warned the farmers, however, against indiscriminate drainage of land. He said: "Somewhere along the line there is a balance between lands which should be drained for the sake of improved productivity and these which should be left untouched in the interests of water conservation."

No Facilities

AUCKLAND, N.Z. — (CP) — When a leading gynaecologist was called in to see an elephant suffering from displacement of internal organs, he said: "Although professional ethics normally preclude a medical practioner from discussing his patients publicly, I have no hesitation in issuing a reassuring bulletin....I do not think that surgery will be necessary. In any case, I do not know where theatre facilities large enough to cope with the patient would be available."

Loudest Voiced RSM Appears New Army Film

Up guards and at 'em: Canadian veterans who obtained commissions during the Second World War by attending 161 Royal Military College OCTU in the United Kingdom, will have the opportunity of meeting once again during Army Week, September 17 to 24, the fabulous character who has probably caused more soldiers to quake in their boots on the parade square than any other man in the British Army. He is Regimental Sergeant Major Ronald "Tibby" Brittain, MBE, of the Coldstream Guards.

RSM Brittain, a soldier of 35 years service who has the reputation of having the loudest voice in the British Army, is appearing in a motion picture depicting the story of the Guards Armoured Division entitled, "They Were Not Divided." The picture will be shown across Canada during Army Week in Ottawa, Toronto, Hamilton, London, Windsor, Halifax and Vancouver. It will follow at other key centres at an early date.

Every man taking part in the film is either a serving soldier or an ex-soldier, including representatives of the Royal Canadian Ordnance Corps, United States Air Force, the Guards regiments and other units of the British Army. The film is also unique in that it has no credit titles. Director Terence Young who wrote the story and who served in the Guards Armoured Division during the war, decided that it should be an anonymous tribute to the Division's advance from Normandy to the Ardennes.

There will be a special showing of the picture at the Odeon Theatre in Ottawa on Sunday evening, September 10, when the Hon. Brooke Claxton, Minister of National Defence, and Mr. L. W. Brockington, President of Odeon Theatres in Canada, will be joint hosts to an audience of senior government officials, representatives of other countries and officers of the Navy, Army and Air Force, Defence Research Board and others. Attendance at this special showing will be by invitation only.

BORN FLIER—Miss Elaine De Lisle, 23-year-old Chilliwack, BC, nurse was tabbed by airmen a "born flier" when she first flew a plane several years ago. She was the only woman in Canada to tackle the Webster Trophy for the best amateur pilot in special tests at Vancouver last week.

Bensfort WA Holds September Meeting

BENSFORT, Sept. 9 —(ENS)— The September meeting of the Women's Association of Bensfort United Church was held at the home of Mrs. Charles Barnard this week with a large number present.

Mrs. Everett Wood was presented with a cup and saucer. Mrs. Wood is moving from Bensfort to Bailieboro. The presentation was made by Mrs. G. Beebee.

A cake plate was presented to Mrs. Joseph Bradshaw (formerly Marie Moncrief), a recent bride, on behalf of the association members by Mrs. Merton Thompson.

Plans were made for a dinner to be served to the ministers of the Peterborough Presbytery at their fall rally later in September at the local church.

YOURS TO PROTECT

The RED-TAILED HAWK is one of the most maligned birds we have. He's called "chicken hawk" by those who are unaware of his habits. He lives on mice, snakes, gophers and other pests, and should be protected at all times. His large size and red tail identify him.

Schools Flourish

ents. Annie Gow, born 1841 in the Scotch Village, went to her first school in a one-room building facing Aylmer at the corner of Sherbrooke Street; the teacher was Mr. Weatherhead a strict disciplinarian nicknamed "Fisty." Then she attended a school on Mark near Hunter Street East, and later a private school; the last school she mentioned was the union school conducted from 1852 on at the corner of Hunter and Sheridan Sts.

The Peterborough churches and clergy have already been noted. The British Methodists in Dec. 1842, as a result of a petition by Chas. Perry, P. M. Grover [illegible] thorn, Wm. Hall, Thos. Fitzgerald A. Morrow, Thos. Chambers, and about one hundred others, were granted a lot at the corner of Hunter and Sheridan Streets, where under Rev. Henry Lanton they built a chapel soon afterwards. Rev. John Gilmour gave a lot facing Aylmer midway between Hunter and Simcoe Streets on which the Baptists built a brick church in 1845 for $1,400.

Homes Erected

In 1840 Donald McFarlane built Auchinellan, a large stucco house east of Armour Road just north of Carlisle Avenue; this house, owned by Mrs. Burnham and Miss Erskine is still occupied About the same time a stucco house was built on the northeast corner of Hunter Street East and Driscoll Terrace, and a few years later William Swanston (grandfather of Mayor Swanston) bought it, erected another beside it, and opened a grocery and bakery. In 1844 John Bedford bought from the government the stone house (built a few years before) by the creek near Stewart and Murray Streets; later it was owned by H. Calcutt the brewer and in 1870 became the Protestant Home; after many transfers it is now owned by the Hilliers. In 1845 one of the Smith Edmisons built a fine stone house at 269 Edinburgh Street on Smithtown hill overlooking the city; in 1850 Mossom Boyd, Bobcaygeon lumberman, bought it and moved in with his large family, and it is still occupied by his great-nieces, Mrs George Boucher and Miss F. Belcher, who have preserved its Victorian beauty. Elias Burham bought 42 acres between Monaghan Road, King, Charlotte and Park Streets, building thereon a square roughcast mansion facing Park Street. The western section was a field where games were played, with a rink in winter; this property also has been divided into streets and lots. Thomas Eastland bought property in 1847 on Hunter St. West and built a stone house now occupied by J. J. Crowley. The same year P. M Glover built a stone house on Rubidge Street between St. Peter's and St Andrew's churches then in 1848 sold it to the Oddfell[illegible]

the river bank was also expanded to a foundry; William Malcolm built another on Simcoe Street, later bought by J Stevenson and leased to William Helm; James Hamilton in 1848 started a foundry on south George Street All of these turned out plows, harrows, castings other farm tools and machinery for mills while the larger ones by 1850 were producing carriages steam-engines and threshing machines

ANOTHER QUEEN — A dimpled smile is flashed by 17-year-old Gwen Plotts, Kingsville, Ont., high school student, who won the Miss Western Ontario beauty crown in Windsor, Ont., this week. Gwen, who wants to be a physical training teacher, was chosen from 18 finalists picked in beauty contests across southern Ontario this summer.

JACOBY ON CANASTA

One of the most important factors in a good partnership at Canasta is mutual confidence. Each partner assumes that the other one knows what he is doing at all times and that, when an unusual play is made, there must be a definite reason for it.

The following hand which John Crawford and Ted Lightner played together is a fine example.

Each side had melded out, but no one had a canasta. Crawford and Lightner held fewer cards than their opponents and one of the opponents froze the discard pile.

The Crawford - Lightner team had only one base for a canasta. This was a meld of four sevens. Among their other melds was one of three eights. After the pack was frozen, the player to Crawford's left discarded a couple of eights. A few rounds later, Crawford added a deuce to his meld of three eights.

At his next turn to play, Lightner added another deuce to the same eight meld. Then, when it got back to Crawford, he put down two eights making the canasta, and melded the rest of his cards, thereby ending the hand before the other side could do anything.

One of the spectators asked Teddy, "How did you know enough to add your deuce to the meld of eights when there were only three natural cards there?"

Lightner answered, "It was a cinch. Johnny's play of adding one deuce to the three eights told me that he thought that was our best place to make a canasta. Therefore, unless his play merely meant that he had suddenly gone nuts, he had to have two eights left in his hand. Any meld of that sort had to be a signal to me to add to the eights, so I just obeyed orders."

The spectator then asked Johnny, "Why do you put all that strain on your partner? Couldn't you have told him the same story without any possible misunderstanding by melding the two eights at the same time you melded the deuce?"

Johnny said, "Yes. But I could not be certain that my partner held a wild card. I might not be able to meld out at my next turn and the hand might develop in such manner that I might need the eights as discards later on. I knew Teddy would read my play without my drawing a diagram for him."

Which Has Best Results Meekness Or Slave Driving

What should be a wife's attitude toward her husband? Should she mount the family pedestal and require him to burn incense before her or should she make of herself a door mat for him to trample upon? A woman writes to me that when she married she was so much in love with her husband and so anxious to be a good wife that she simply enslaved herself to him. She worked in an office all day and rushed home in the evenings to prepare him dainty meals. When he lost his job she shouldered the whole support of the family. When he flew into rages she apologized for things she had not done and gave the soft answer that turns away wrath.

Dorothy Dix

She asked nothing of him and he gave her nothing, and eventually he forsook her for a woman who belongs to the well-known Gimme family and who keeps his nose to the grindstone supplying her demands. She has the temper of a virago and he jumps when she speaks, but apparently he is happy and satisfied.

Now this woman is going to be married again. She does not desire to make another failure and she wants to know how to treat her second husband. Shall she follow her natural impulse to be affectionate and considerate and unselfish to him, or shall she be the one in the family who must be kowtowed to and to whom offerings must be made?

There's No Sure Rule

I wish that I could answer this question, for there are thousands of other men and women who are wondering whether it is best to make pet lambs or goats of their mates, and no one else is wise enough to tell them with any degree of certainty which to do. Sometimes the treat-'em-rough policy seems to win out oftenest. Again it fails. That is the trouble with matrimony. For every rule there are a hundred exceptions. Each system of dealing with a husband or wife has a personal application and by the time you find out you have hit on the wrong one it is too late to change.

One thing seems certain, however, and that is that the best husbands and wives are rarely the best loved or the most considered. Occasionally you see a man and woman who appreciate the saint to whom they are married and who return devotion for devotion, sacrifice for sacrifice, unselfishness for unselfishness, but for the most part those who annex earthly angels at the altar neglect them and tyrannize over them and regard them as the dust beneath their feet.

All of us know dozens of cases of meek and humble wives who stay at home cooking and scrubbing and pinching pennies and who never have a new dress or go anywhere, while their husbands step out every evening to places of amusement where they entertain young girls on the money their wives have saved out of the baby's milk bill. And we know wives who never do a lick of work and who go about dressed like Solomon in all his glory, while their husbands kill themselves toiling to pay for the extravagance of the female parasites to whom they are married.

Selfish Man Preferred

But, strange to say, it is not the man who sacrifices himself body and soul to his wife who is the best-loved husband. Nine times out of ten it is some wastrel who is selfish and overbearing, and who never pays her the slightest attention. Doesn't even throw her a kind word as he might throw a bone to a hungry dog. And it is not the woman who has worked her fingers to the bone for her husband whose hand he kisses. It is the soft, manicured hand of the wife who has never done any work but work him.

Why this is thus we do not know. Perhaps it is because in love it is more blessed to give than to receive and we love more those for whom we do things than we do those who do things for us. Or perhaps it is because in our secret hearts we have a contempt for those who let us impose upon them and exploit them, and who have not the backbone to get up and fight us and make us treat them with respect and justice.

Nobody loves a slave. Those we adore are those we look up to, not down upon. Hence the man who lets his wife impose upon him and monopolize all the perquisites of matrimony and the woman who makes of herself nothing but a servant in her home commit fatal blunders. They write their own price-tag and are regarded by their mates at the valuation they put upon themselves. Those who demand nothing in marriage get nothing.

As a matter of fact, husbands and wives are as easily spoiled as babies and, like babies, you cannot really pamper them and be as good to them as you would like to without ruining them.

House Decoration Develops Greatly In Post-war U.K.

LONDON (CP).—Interior decorating in Britain has shown interesting developments since the Second World War. Housewives seem to have an increased feeling for mixing colors.

A fireplace will often be highlighted with a different color to the rest of the room or by a contrasting wallpaper. In a bedroom, the wall behind the bed may be treated similarly for emphasis.

Some people prefer to highlight the wall facing the bed, reasoning that this is the one that the sleeper sees most. One attractive bedroom designed recently — a young girl's room—had three white walls and one papered in blue with a white star pattern. The same paper was used on the ceiling, being brought down a few inches on the white walls in scallops, giving a canopied effect.

For rooms with a north of east aspect, pink, one of the warmer colors, is a popular choice. Several tones can be utilized in a single room. A room with pale pink walls and smoky pink carpet, for example, might have wallpaper on one wall in a pink background with a trellis design in crimson. With too much pink apt to become insipid, crimson cushions and curtains of crimson or vivid green provide a good foil.

"Tone" Important

The color of light entering a window is also considered in choosing wall colors. In the country there may be a greenish reflection from the trees; in this case blues and pinks are avoided, with the nod going to yellows. Red or yellow brick garden walls and blue water views call for completely different decoration schemes.

Color is also being applied to alter the shapes of badly-proportioned rooms or to reduce or enlarge their size. Ceilings can be "painted out" or lowered. Blue, for instance, is a "distant" color, but orange, yellow and red seem to jump towards you.

Lighting too, is being used for its decorative effects, contrasting lighting will focus attention on a particularly attractive part of the room or pieces of furniture.

What's Right

Your son wants to invite a girl in a nearby town to visit in your home on the weekend of a dance.

WRONG: Tell him it is perfectly all right and to go ahead and invite the girl, and you do nothing about the arrangements.

RIGHT: You write a note to the girl yourself saying that you would like to have her stay in your home the weekend of the dance.

What's Right

A young man your parents have never met has asked you to go to a dance with him.

WRONG: Have your parents out of the way when he arrives to take you to the dance, so that he won't have to meet them.

RIGHT: See that he meets at least one of your parents when he calls for you.

COOKBOOK OF THE WEEK

Plan Meals With Economy By Taking Expert Guidance

A good meat dish makes a good meal and for all the ideas you need to turn out meal after meal of well-prepared meat you must get "250 Ways to Prepare Meat," the eighth cookbook in the series of twenty-four being released one a week and available to readers of The Examiner.

Everything a homemaker needs to know about purchasing and preparing meats is contained in this valuable book. It is written for the novice and experienced cook alike. The recipes are concisely written and flavorfully planned to make the most of whatever meat you wish to prepare. Here is an excellent recipe for Short Ribs taken from the Meat Book.

Short Ribs of Beef

3 pounds beef short rib
1 clove garlic
1 small onion
2 cups canned tomatoes
Salt and pepper
1 teaspoon paprika

Cut short ribs into serving pieces. Rub with cut clove of garlic. Place in kettle and slice onion over top. Cover with water, cover kettle tightly and cook slowly for 2 hours. Transfer short ribs to greased baking dish, add tomatoes and seasonings, cover and cook in slow oven (300 degrees F.) about 1 hour, or until short ribs are very tender. Remove cover for last 15 minutes of cooking so that short ribs will brown slightly. Serves 6.

Braised—Brown 2 pounds short ribs, add 1½ teaspoons salt and water to cover bottom of pan. Cover tightly; cook in (300 degrees F.) oven 2½ hours. Serves 4.

It is so easy to obtain a copy of the Meat Book. All you need do is clip a coupon from any issue of this newspaper and present it with 25 cents to the Examiner office, your Examiner carrier or to Braund's Food Market. If you would rather send for your copy by mail, enclose the coupon with 30 cents (5 cents additional for postage and handling) to Cookbook Department, The Examiner.

Active at 70, Nurse Reviews A Fifty-Year Career

BRANTFORD (CP)— Seventy-year-old Mrs. Tom Kirby has been a nurse for 50 years and loved every minute of it. In fact, she expects to continue nursing for many years to come.

Mrs. Kirby who celebrated her 70th birthday recently has worked at Brant Sanatarium for the last four years and during that time had her first experience of eight-hour duty.

"I had wanted to be a nurse ever since I was knee high to a grasshopper," said the tall woman who is now a great-grandmother. "If I had my life to live over again I would certainly take up nursing as a career.

Third Graduate

Mrs. Kirby was born in Irishtown, NB, and as a child moved with her family to New England. She became a student nurse in Laconia, NH, in 1900 and two years later was the third nurse to be graduated at the hospital [illegible] tried her hand a[illegible] and then learned weaving in a woollen mill. Again her father objected to the type of work and finally consented to her becoming a nurse.

At the turn of the century a graduate's pay was $15 for a seven-day week, 16-hour duty, she said.

Joins Victorian Order

After doing public health work in Boston she joined the Victorian Order of Nurses at Toronto. Much of her work was with maternity cases, few expectant mothers going to hospital.

"We collected a small fee when the people could afford it, usually about 10 cents, and never more than 25 cents," Mrs. Kirby recalled. "That removed the sting of charity. We were allotted an hour for each case, but we sometimes had to get meals ready and that took longer."

About 1909 she became nurse in a tent hospital on the Six Nations Indian reserve near here and moved to Brantford toward the end of the First World War.

While nursing 'flu patients here she met Tom Kirby, a disabled war veteran. Her husband became ill and after nursing him for six months in a Toronto hospital the couple went to the Isle of Pines, near Cuba, to speed Mr. Kirby's convalescence. They were there 13 years when their home was wiped out by a cyclone and they moved to Havana where Mrs. Kirby was employed as a nurse at $10 a day.

Saturday Enquiry Column Conducted by Mary Moore

QUESTION: Would you please send out a recipe to do up Hungarian peppers. I read your column in the paper and have enjoyed it very much, but I have not seen a recipe for peppers. If you have one will you please send it out to me as soon as possible. You could send me one of each—hot and sweet peppe: it there should be a difference.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: The recipe I think you want I call

Stuffed Mangoes

Remove stem end of different colored sweet peppers. Remove seeds and white rib membranes carefully. Soak peppers in brine of one-quarter cup salt to each quart of water overnight. Drain. To 1 quart finely chopped cabbage add 1 tablespoon salt, 2 tablespoons mustard seeds, 1 tablespoon ground cloves, 1 tablespoon ground cinnamon and ¾ cup sugar. Mix these and when peppers are well drained stuff them with it. Replace tops and tie on. Put in clean crock and cover with best quality vinegar. Cover. These are ready to use in 2 weeks and will keep all winter if stored in cool place.

I hope I have guessed right with the above recipe but in case I have not I am giving you another pepper pickle.

Pepper Relish

Twenty green peppers, 20 red sweet peppers, 12 medium-sized onions. Remove the seeds of the peppers, and put onions and peppers through food chopper. Cover with boiling water, let stand 10 minutes, and drain. Cover again with boiling water, let stand 5 minutes, and drain.

Mix together 1 quart vinegar, ½ cup brown sugar, 2 tablespoons salt, 2 tablespoons mustard seed. Cook slowly for 15 minutes after adding to the drained and chopped peppers and onions. This must be stirred. Pour into sterilized sealers and seal. This is delicious mixed with chopped meats for sandwich fillings.

Question: (from Mrs. Gordon C. cont'd. from last week)

(Mrs. Gordon C. asked for method of using "mother" from vinegar to convert it into new and more vinegar.)

Roughly the method of making vinegar is to mash or chop fruit such as peaches, apples, grapes, oranges, etc. or other sweet fruits and adding compressed yeast to it and allowing it to ferment. It must be frequently stirred and requires about 6 days. It is then strained.

To the resulting liquid 1 part of good strong vinegar is added to 4 parts of juice This is covered, and within a few days "mother" forms on top. This mother is almost entirely acetic bacteria, and is essential for successful fermentation. Do not break it. It requires from 3 to 6 months to convert to good strength vinegar

So, Mrs. Gordon C, you see you could use your "mother" if you had the yeast fermented fruit juices and added the starter vinegar to it. Fresh pressed cider may be used in the late fall, but I feel that all of the equipment needed in the way of crocks, and filters and lids, plus the time and ingredients and patience are not worth the trouble—unless you use so much vinegar it would be an economy.

3,000 Throng Marmora Fair One of Best In Local History

MARMORA, Sept. 9—(ENS)—Marmora's annual fair held on Friday was one of the best in the history of the local Agricultural Society. From near and far, former residents of the village and relatives of present residents supplemented the large turn-out of visitors, approximately three thousand patronized the great annual get-together. President Jack McAvoy, the youthful president and his fellow directors were visibly pleased at the results.

The showing of cattle was the best for some years. Exhibits of sheep, swine and vegetables showed a falling-off but otherwise entries were good.

Horse Prizewinners

Chief winner in the draught and agricultural horse classes was Carman Downey of Crookston. In the special classes he divided honors with Sawyer Stoll Lumber Company of Kaladar which had the best team on the grounds. Wesley Finch of Campbellford took highest honors with Holsteins. Harry Neal of Marmora and Ray Ellis captured other prizes.

Elmer Wood of Crookston carried off all prizes with his herd in the Ayrshire classes. With the exception of one second prize, Norman Whytock of Madoc did the same with his Shorthorns and Garnet Kerr of Campbellford stood alone as winner in the Jersey class. Ray Ellis and Joseph O'Neill had most success with their grade class cattle.

Sheep Section

Elmer Wood and Garnet Kerr and Norman Whytock shared the specials almost evenly. Don Heath, Stirling had six firsts and three seconds with his showing of sheep and Ervin McGuire of Crookston also did well securing three firsts and four seconds.

In the swine class, Wesley Finchof Campbellford carried off six of the seven prizes with his Yorkshires. Don Heath met no opposition with his Tamworths.

In the poultry division Ervin McGuire led well in Plymouth Rocks and Leghorns. Garth Sabine and Douglas Lynch both of Marmora were chief winners with their Hampshire Reds. No turkeys were exhibited. T. J. Bateman of Marmora took firsts for geese and ducks.

Clem Ketcheson, of Belleville, meeting with little opposition in the main, was a large winner in the vegetables but Irwin McCoy and Douglas Lynch, of Marmora, and Mrs. P. Henderson, of Deloro, got in on the prize money four or five times. Clem Ketcheson sustained a big lead also in grain seeds obtaining all prizes save two. As the only competitor in the fruit class he also got five firsts.

Archie F. Pitt, of Madoc, got two firsts with his entries of butter.

Cheese Section

For best white cheese (not shown on specials) the awards were: 1, Gerald Fluke, Marmora; 2, Murray Heath, Campbellford; 3, Roy Brown, Harold. The special prizes given by Madoc Cheese Board went to the same competitors in the same order. The prizes given by Hastings County Cheese Producers' Association were won as follows: 1, Archie F. Pitt, Madoc; 2, Murray Heath, Campbellford; 3, Gerald Fluke, Marmora; 4, Roy Brown, Harold. L. E. Bryant and Mrs. G. Putnam, of Wooler, were winners with their honey exhibits and T. J. Bateman and, D. Lynch took honors with eggs.

In the Domestic Science, Mrs. Hugh Jones, of Stirling, led in bottled fruits and jams and divided honrs with Mrs. T. J. Bateman, Mrs. E. Brady and Mrs. Joseph O'Neill for baking.

The Wooler exhibitors, Mrs. L. E. Bryant and Mrs. G. R. Putnam, came to the front another year in ladies' work, closely followed by Mrs. G. D. Young, of Marmora. E. C. Prentice led in the floral classes with Douglas Lynch also getting a good share of prizes.

In the children's classes good entries were received and winners met with keen competition. Two outstanding exhibits of the fair were that of the Hi Hoe Garden Club and the Junior Club Project Calf Club.

The midway was the best in years with the chief amusements being furnished by the Casey Shows of Winnipeg. Refreshment booths were operated by three local organizations—the Women's Institute, the Catholic Women's League and the IODE.

The revival of horse races did not produce the competition hoped for. Results were:

B Class

1, Luella Guy, H. Ingles, Brighton; 2, Darky Murphy, H. Ingles, Brighton; 3, Destroyer, M. Radley, Campbellford. A class—1, Peter Aubrey, H. Ingles, Brighton; 2, Silent Joe, H. Ingles, Brighton; 3, Buddy Hal, W. Fowler, Apsley.

Running Race

Drawing Contest

Prattley pitched shut out ball for two innings, but in the seventh he lost the plate entirely and issued five straight passes, before going to the showers. B. A barnstorming crew of major league baseball players will play Montreal and Toronto during an October tour.

Teams representing the National and American Leagues will play each other during the tour, which starts in Montreal Oct. 10 and winds up in Oakland, Calif., nearly a month later. They will appear in Toronto Oct. 13.

Included among the National Leaguers are home-run king Ralph Kiner, of Pittsburgh; Sammy Jethroe, fleet Boston Brave centrefielder; ace relief pitcher Jim Konstanty and third baseman Puddinhead Jones, of Philadelphia Phillies and New York Giant hurler Larry Jansen.

Slugging Vern Stephens and Walt Dropo, of Boston Red Sox, rookie outfielder Irv Noren, of Washington, and pitcher Lou Brissie, of Philadelphia, and Dizzy Trout, of Detroit, will be among the American Leaguers.

Bobby Jones, onetime king of all golfers whose greatest effort these days is three holes of pitch and putt, met a former golfing queen in Atlanta, Ga., Thursday for the first time in 25 years.

Bobby and Alexa Stirling together grew up in golf at old East Lake Course No. 1. Bobby and his perfectly co-ordinated swing went on to 13 major U.S. and international championships and Alexa to three U.S. women's amateur crowns and a dozen others of lesser weight.

Alexa, looking much as she did in 1916 when she first won the U.S. amateur, has returned to her birthplace and the golf yard she made famous seven years before Bobby won his first American open.

Now Mrs. W. G. Fraser, of Ottawa, Alexa has come home to play in the golden anniversary U.S. women's amateur Sept. 11-16.

The grand slam king needs a cane to walk and his right leg still drags slightly. An extremely serious spine ailment and two major operations in two years have left Bobby in a condition which may never permit him to play 18 holes of golf again.

Attorney-General Harold R Fatzer, of Kansas, has called on the Western Union Telegraph Company to discontinue ticker service to 26 business establishments in 11 Kansas towns.

Fatzer said a state-wide investigation was started by his office to determine if the tickers furnishing sports information were being used in connection with gambling transactions.

Frank Kovacs, of Oakland, Calif., third seeded United States professional, led a field of U.S. and Canadian tennis players in the first round of the Canadian open professional tennis championships at Quebec today.

Kovacs, seeded No. 1, ousted E. S. Stillman, New York, in straight sets, 6-0, 6-0, 6-0. Welby Van Horne, of Philadelphia, fourth U.S. seeded player, had identical scores over Walter Debany, New York. In a second-round match, he won without losing a single game from Charles Sak, of Rhode Island.

Wooler Gets Verdict

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 9 —(ENS)— Wooler qualified for the Trent Valley Softball League play-downs by winning a sudden-death tussle 8-7 from Campbellford Thursday night at the floodlit High School diamond.

The visiting squad won league honors last season, but ended the schedule this year deadlocked with Campbellford for the last play-off spot.

Wooler claimed their victory largely on a five-run splurge in the sixth inning of the game, which gave them a wide margin on the score-sheet at that stage. However they saw their good lead dwindle to a single run, which they successfully held.

The encounter was seen by a large crowd, many of whom came with the visiting team to support them. McColl of Wooler and McComb of Campbellford were the mound duelists, but neither had an impressive record of strike-outs to show for the night's effort. McColl, however, hit a big double in the seventh inning, which was matched by McComb in the eighth. Stacey and Richards got the best hits for the winners, while O'Sullivan, Bibby and Hoard held an impressive record for Campbellford. Campbellford had 25 men on bases to Wooler's 15 during the nine-inning test.

Dick Fowler of Toronto, fresh from the Canadian Army, pitched a no-hitter for Philadelphia Athletics against St. Louis Browns five years ago today. The 21-year-old righthander, at present hampered with a sore arm, walked four men and allowed the Browns to hit only five balls out of the infield.

Phils End Losing Streak Clean Up On Brooks 4-3

By RALPH RODEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Eddie Sawyer and his Philadelphia whiz kids are looking forward today to smoother sailing.

The youthful pennant seekers were given a real scare the last few days, but thanks to a couple of old hands, Russ Meyer and Eddie Waitkus, the Phils once again enjoy a commandng 5½-game lead in the National League race.

Meyer and Waitkus teamed up to end a five-game losing streak and give the Phils a 4-3 victory over the runner-up Brooklyn Dodgers Friday night in the finale of a four-game series, after the Dodgers had won the first three games.

The Dodgers, defending champions, entered the Phillies' lair Thursday, 7½ games behind. The Brooks promptly took a twi-night doubleheader and followed up with another triumph to shrink the difference to 4½ games.

Sawyer entrusted the important fourth-game assignment to the tempermental Meyer. The 26-year old righthander, who hadn't pitched a complete game since July 5, came through brilliantly to restore the Phils to a healthy lead.

Turn Back Giants

Boston Braves, seven games behind, turned back the fourth-place New York Giants 4-3 on a three-run homer by Tommy Holmes in the seventh inning. Warren Spahn went the distance to gain his 18th victory.

Elsewhere in the National League, a scheduled twi-night doubleheader between Chicago and Cincinnati and a night game between Pittsburgh and St. Louis were rained out.

Detroit crawled half a game ahead of the runner-up New York Yankees in the nip-and-tuck American League flag battle. The Tigers edged the White Sox 3-2 in a night game at Chicago, while the Yanks and third-place Boston Red Sox were idle.

Vic Wertz singled home Don Kolloway with the Tigers' winning run in the ninth inning to give veteran Dizzy Trout his 12th victory. Lefty Bob Cain was the loser.

Knock Out Tribe

The lowly St. Louis Browns just about knocked Cleveland Indians out of contention by taking a twi-night doubleheader from the Tribe, 5-4 and 6-0. The defeats dumped the fourth-place Indians 5½ games behind.

St. Louis spotted Cleveland a 4-0 lead in the opener but fought back and tied the score in the eighth when Sherm Lollar homered. Ken Wood singled George Stirnweiss home from second with the winning run in the ninth. Don Johnson, a former Yankee, blanked the Indians on seven hits in the finale in out-pitching 20-game winner Bob Lemon.

Rookie Julio Moreno made his major-league debut and pitched Washington Senators to a 10-4 victory over Philadelphia Athletics. The Cuban righthander had a shutout until the eigth inning.

Vivien Leigh Enjoys Square Dancing

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Sept 9 (AP).—They had a press conference for Vivien Leigh and you'd be surprised at the things she discussed.

Such things as Avocados, square dancing and nonshifting cars.

A number of the press were ushered into an extra fancy dining room near the set of "A Streetcar Named Desire," Miss Leigh's first American film in 10 years. She soon appeared, dressed in a faded dressing gown and a blonde wig for her role. She proved to be more down to earth than the classy surroundings.

"We discovered square dancing," she reported, speaking of herself and her husband, Sir Laurence Olivier, also here for a film role.

"It was the first we'd ever done and we found it great fun.

Wonderful Time

"We went to a party for children at Edna Best's, intending to stay a half-hour. We stayed all evening and had a wonderful time. Square dancing seems to be the best possible way to get one's exercise."

Someone asked if she is driving a car in California.

"Oh, no," she replied. "The traffic is too terrible. And I wouldn't want to try one of those cars that shifts itself, like the ones you have here. I like to shift gears and put in the clutch, not have the car drive itself. That frightens me."

What food is she enjoying most that she didn't get in England? There was no hesitation: "avocados."

Miss Leigh dropped one remark that set the reporters scribbling. Asked about Olivier's plans to film more Shakespeare, she replied:

"I don't think he'd reveal if he did. Orson Welles might start filming the same thing immediately."

'G' Replaces OHMS Letters

By KAY REX

OTTAWA, Sept 8 (CP) — A small, black "G" at the nape of the King's neck soon will appear on some postage stamps — proof they have been bought and paid for by the government.

The "G" stands for government, and a Post Office Department official said today it will replace the letters OHMS, which for the last year have been overprinted on government-purchased stamps, below the King's portrait.

Just as some big firms have post-office permission to perforate business stamps, overprinting is the government's way of saying hands-off to employees who might be tempted to use the stamps on personal mail.

The "G" stamp has been created because OHMS was found misleading. The letters, which appear on mail going under the government franking system, have come to be regarded as "free" mail.

"We felt from our contacts there was a misunderstanding on the part of some of the public that these stamps were not paid for," said the official. "That's why we decided to change."

The "G" will be printed at the nape of the King's neck "because we don't want to deface his portrait," the official said.

The department won't be so particular about stamps on which the King's portrait does not appear. On these stamps the 'G" will be dead in the centre.

The department believes the new stamps are going to be popular with Canadian philatelists. Only the government is permitted to overprint and the departmental official recalled that OHMS stamps were "gobbled up fast." It isn't going to be easy for collectors to locate the first cancelled numbers. There's no specific day of issue.

Omemee WMS Begins New Year

OMEMEE, Sept. 9 —(ENS)— Omemee Trinity United Church WMS got its fall season started with 25 members attending the September meeting at the home of Mrs. Edith Brown.

Mrs. H. Deyell, substituted for Mrs Brown as group leader.

Mrs. C. Whitmore discussed the question "Why study Japan?" She said the time was ripe for the teaching of the Christian religion in Japan. Since the Emperor had stepped down from his role as a god, the people were losing faith in the old beliefs and some seeking spiritual security.

Miss C. Connell introduced the new study book, "Japan Begins Again," by Dr. Wm. C. Kerr. Mrs. M. J. Sandy summarised the first chapter of the book which deals with the post war condition of Japan and is entitled "The Empire is no more."

Mrs. I. S. Pogue and Mrs. A. N. Weir sang a duet

Financial reports revealed the need for an increased effort during the remaining four months, in order to reach the objective.

Baby Band Tea

Thursday, September 28, was set as the date for the Baby Band Tea. A volunteer committee of six answered to the request of Baby Band Superintendent Mrs. H. Deyell, for helpers to plan the program and act as hostesses to the babies and their mothers. Mission Band program material was discussed and the decision left to Mrs. T. J. Pogue, Mission Band Superintendent and her helpers Miss Marion Zufelt.

Lunch was served by the group in charge.

Millbrook Hydro Pioneer Retires After 43 Years

Mr. George F. Harrington, area manager for the Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission at Millbrook, has retired after over 43 years' service in the electric public utility field. Mr. Harrington was honoured by his fellow employees just prior to his retirement at a banquet at the home of Mr. James Godfrey. A large attendance was on hand to wish Mr. Harrington many more years of health and happiness.

Guests included all his former area staff and many Hydro employees from Toronto and Belleville, including Mr. Ernest Powell, Mr. George R. Harkness, Mr. Chas. O. Rowland, Mr. Herbert S. Scott, Mr. Arthur H. Richards and Mr. John J. Lunn, all of Millbrook; Mr. P. T. Seibert, personnel officer; Mr. H. K. Clifton, electrical inspection superintendent; Mr. R. L. Brown, regional accountant; Mr. J. G. Ritchie, paymaster; Mr. T. E. Flinn, line maintenance superintendent and junior engineers Mr. Harold T. Floyd and Mr. John W. Beaver, all from the commission's regional office at Belleville. Engineers from the Hydro Commission's head office at Toronto included Mr. H. B. Tett and Mr. B. E. Gill.

Fellow-Workers Guests

Mr. William H Gray, assistant patrolman at Millbrook, very capably acted as chairman and introduced the many speakers who sincerely appreciated the opportunity of expressing their good wishes. Many of the guests that evening had worked with Mr. Harrington for many years.

Mr. Harrington was deeply moved by the kind remarks and he replied in his usual capable and interesting manner that, "If he had that part of his life to live over again, he would want nothing better than to be employed by the Ontario Hydro." He advised the younger men, "to be honest and loyal to their employer and recommended that they get to know their customers in order that they may always give service at any time they are called upon to do so."

Mr. and Mrs. Harrington are taking a well-earned vacation in British Columbia. A travelling bag was presented to him by the Millbrook area staff.

Mr. Harrington was born in England and educated at Kemptville and Picton. Prior to his employment with the Hydro Electric Power Commission, he was with the Electric Power Company at Millbrook. During the first world war he saw service overseas.

Another interesting feature of the banquet was the retirement of Mr. John J. Lunn of the Millbrook area staff, who was presented with an electric clock by his fellow employees.

Fear Of War Driving Many Baltic Refugees Across Atlantic

By THOMAS HARRIS.

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 9 (Reuters)—Fear of impending war is driving some of Sweden's 27,000 Baltic refugees across the Atlantic in search of safety.

No country in Europe will be safe if the Red flood breaks loose they claim.

They are homeless today because Russia annexed their countries—Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania—in 1940 after signing treaties of military assistance and friendship with them.

The United States is the favorite refuge among the few who have money or relations already settled there. Pioneering types choose Canada—when they can get visas.

The queue of applicants at Canada's legation is a political barometer here. The darker the international situation, the longer the queue.

Try South America

Others go to South America. One group of about 60 Baltic refugees bought an old steamer last month. They have loaded seven lorries on to her decks and are setting out for Buenos Aires in the hope of going inland and starting a motor transport business.

Sweden treats the Balts well. They work on the same terms as Swedes. Their children go to Swedish schools and universities. All enjoy Sweden's far-reaching system of social service on the same terms as Swedes.

They can become Swedish subjects after eight years' residence, or earlier if they marry Swedes, as many of them have done.

Their big fear is that Russia will one day ask Sweden to hand them over as "Soviet citizens." But Sweden shows no signs of this. On the contrary, she protects them from the Soviet embassy here by making their addresses a state secret.

Canadians Take Last Look At Exhibition

TORONTO, Sept. 9 (CP) — Canadians took their last look today at the 1950 edition of the Canadian National Exhibition.

The big fair is in full swing since Aug. 25 ends tonight with a monster fireworks display, parades and speeches.

More than 3,000 navy, army and air force cadets throughout Ontario were on hand to participate in the closing-day ceremonies, with every cadet corps in the province represented.

The cadets were scheduled to parade to the grounds in the afternoon and to parade a second time during the evening grandstand performance.

A big sports program also was lined up for the last day of the 71st annual fair, including the finals of the CNE softball championships and harness horse races.

Play Continues

Play was continuing in the Canadian chess championships that Friday saw defending champion M. F. Tinsley, Columbus O., advance into the semi-finals by eliminating G. McCutcheon, Hamilton, and J. C. MacFarlane, Montreal.

A day-long program was scheduled at the CNE horse show with no less than 23 events being run off.

US Artillery Knocks Out Many Enemy Guns In Roaring Taegu Duel

New Red Koreans Smash Shaping Up Now Against Allied Perimeter; Other Thrusts Slacken Under Counter-Blows

TOKYO, Sept. 11—(AP)—American big guns today knocked out large numbers of North Korean artillery pieces in the second day of a roaring gun duel on the northwest hill approaches to Taegu. A U.S. Eighth Army spokesman in Korea said the toll of red guns was "a great many." But a new Red Korean smash against the northwest anchor of the Allied defence perimeter appeared imminent. Elsewhere on the front, Red thrusts slackened before Allied counter-attacks.

The expected Communist infantry drive on Taegu had not developed late Monday afternoon. A Communist prisoner disclosed that the Reds' time-table had called for an assault Monday on the city, northwestern anchor of the Allied line.

The Eighth Army spokesman said it was believed great numbers of Red Koreans were massed just beyond the Communist forward positions north of Taegu.

Suicide Charge

The Reds hurled two probing attacks, one a suicide charge, five miles north of the city.

One American front-line officer said "we are having a field day" with artillery against these thrusts and the Reds' big guns.

American artillery and Allied planes pounded the Red troops ceaselessly. Nearly 40,000 Reds are massed in this area, the tempting but bloody "bowling alley" corridor, for new smashes.

Gen. MacArthur's headquarters said the eastern gateway to Taegu was locked Monday by a South Korean drive northeast of Yongchon, 18 miles east of Taegu.

Secure Lines

A spokesman said the South Koreans drove more than one mile in their initial thrust and still were moving ahead. Defensive lines around Yongchon, twice held by the Reds, definitely have been secured, he said.

Associated Press Correspondent Ben Price reported from the front that South Korean patrols knifed seven miles into Red territory between Yongchon and Kyongju, but

Will Replace 3 Destroyers In Korean Zone

OTTAWA, Sept. 11 (CP). — The Navy today announced today that it will relieve and replace Canada's three destroyers in Korean waters with other Canadian naval units by next April.

"The relieving ships will be selected from destroyers now based on the east coast," the navy said in a statement.

First to become available on the [illegible] stroyers Nootka and Huron. The navy gave no indication when the actual dispatch of these warships will take place.

Present Plans

It said:

"The three Canadian destroyers now operating with United Nations naval forces in the Korea theatre will all have been replaced by other units of the Royal Canadian Navy by April 1, 1951, according to present plans."

Canada's three destroyers in action in the Korean war since July are the Sioux, Cayuga and Athabaskan. They left their west-coast base at Esquimalt, B. C., on July 5.

It is intended that after between six and eight months of operations in Korean waters, these destroyers will retrun to their home docykards for refitting, the Navy said.

It also will give the ships' companies—about 700 men—a chance to get leave and to take courses required for promotion.

Shaw Breaks Thigh In Fall

LUTON, England, Sept. 11 (AP) —Playwright George Bernard Shaw broke his thigh in a fall in the garden of his country home Sunday and was brought to a hospital here today for an emergency operation.

A hospital spokesman said the 94-year-old author and wit was "very comfortable" and had brought with him a small library of books.

Hospital officials indicated he be operated on later this afternoon or tonight. An orthopedic surgeon was busy preparing for the operation.

No expert opinion on Shaw's condition was immediately available. But it was agreed a broken thigh at Shaw's age could produce dangerous complications.

Shaw had lived more or less in seclusion at his home in the picturesque village of Ayot St. Lawrence, 40 miles from London. He maintained an apartment in London which he visited on rare occasions.

His latest dramatic effort, "Farfetched Fables," opened last week in London, but produced nothing but critical yawns.

8 Fishermen Drown When Skiff Upsets

KODIAK, Alaska, Sept. 11 (AP) Eight fishermen were drowned Sunday when their skiff overturned in rough seas, two other men aboard succeeded in swimming ashore.

The boat capsized shortly after the 10 employees of the Kodiak Fisheries set out for Anchorage Bay, south of Chignik, to help unload the Alaska Steamship Company's freighter Sailor Splice.

Police Welcome Stork

HAMILTON, Sept. 11 — (CP)—Two police constables in a cruiser car were stopped on Ottawa Street Sunday by a nervous man. He told them he was taking his wife, an expectant mother, to hospital but that the rough ride in his truck was too much for her. The officers gently loaded the woman into the cruiser and set out with sirens sounding to the maternity ward for a rendezvous with the stork. They were too late. It was a girl. Birthplace: The back seat of the cruiser.

Ready To Send 5 US Divisions Bolster Europe

NEW YORK, Sept. 11 (AP). — Diplomatic officials predicted today that State Secretary Acheson of the United States will press firmly this week to put over plans for a strong build-up of western Europe's defence forces by next July 1. His arguments will be greatly strengthened, these authorities believe, by President Truman's carefully-timed weekend decision permitting "substantial" U.S. troop reinforcements in Europe and his call for home-front sacrifices.

The troop increases—an estimated five to 10 divisions as they become available—were made dependent on matching action by Britain, France and other allies in the conflict with Russia.

Therefore the western foreign ministers with whom Acheson will be meeting Tuesday through Saturday are already on notice that the United States' contributions to their defences are based on the principle of mutual effort and not on American willingness to assume a disproportionate share of the burden.

Talks Begin Tuesday

The sessions will begin here tomorrow when Acheson meets with Foreign Secretary Bevin of Britain and Foreign Minister Schuman of France. Foreign ministers of the other North Atlantic powers will join in the talks Friday and Saturday.

Acheson set a keynote of confidence for the vital western talks late Sunday. He declared he is sure that with "modern weapons and ingenuity" the western world can build a defence that will stand firm against the superior manpower of Soviet Communism.

Powerful Weapon

He hinted on a television program that meanwhile the United States and its allies have a powerful balancing weapon in atomic superiority. Noting that the Western powers have only about 12 divisions in Europe and the Russians have a grand total in Europe and Asia of 175 to 200, Acheson said "the gap (in relative strength) is not quite as great as the figures indicate."

Acheson also said that while a great variety of diplomatic problems cries out for attention, he thinks that "we must put our major effort at the present moment into creating strong North Atlantic defence forces."

Western military leaders now have under study the maximum build-up of armed forces which

South Korean Marines Occupy 20 Islands

SOUTH KOREAN NAVY HEADQUARTERS, Sept. 11 — (AP)—South Korean marines and naval units have occupied about 20 islands, some of them by commando strikes, since the reds took the Korean west coast and part of the southern shore line.

All these islands, a spokesman told The Associated Press today, are still held by South Korean forces, and will contribute to the reoccupation when the United Nations offensive begins.

Many of them serve as means of harassing the enemy, and the occupations were strategically planned to cut Red supply lines by sea.

Put 100,000 Men In Field In Allied Test Invasion

HEIDELBERG, Germany, Sept. 11 —(AP)— The Atlantic "Big Three" powers put nearly 100,000 troops into the field here today to test their skill at repelling a mock invasion from the east.

High-ranking military observers from all the Atlantic pact countries are on hand to see how British, American and French troops would acquit themselves in the week-long manoeuvres.

The test will involve tanks, planes and simulated paratroop drops behind the front lines. A U.S. cavalry regiment is representing a mythical enemy force of some six divisions, striking into western Germany from the Russian zone and Czechoslovakia.

Officials says the manoeuvre was planned last winter "long before the Korean fighting began." They describe it as routine.

Simulating the actual comparative troop strength of the western powers and Russia in Germany, the Allies are outnumbered more than two to one by the "invading" force.

Manning the ground defences during the mock invasion are the U.S. 1st Infantry Division and the U.S. Constabulary's 1st and 2nd brigades. They are being joined by Frances 7th Algerian Regiment and Britain's 1st Royal Dragoons.

Britain and Frances each are sending a fighter plane squadron to support the all-jet 36th fighter wing and the 61st Troop Carrier wing of the U.S. Air Force.

U.S. army headquarters declined to reveal the exact number of troops involved in the exercise, but one officer estimated that it would be close to 100,000.

Canada Holds Korean Force To 15,000

Government Wants To Keep Some Men For Defence At Home

OTTAWA, Sept. 11—(CP)—Canada has placed a limited number of her armed forces on a war footing for service in Korea.

The number is limited to 15,000 men—including Navy, Army and Air Force personnel.

This was disclosed over the weekend, when Defence Minister Claxton announced passage of an order-in-council which read: "In order that officers and men of the Canadian forces, not exceeding 15,000 in number at any one time, may most effectively participate in action undertaken by the United Nations to restore peace in the Republic of Korea, the components of the Royal Canadian Navy, the Canadian Army and the Royal Canadian Air Force that are referred to in the national defence acts as the regular forces, are hereby placed on active service."

One reason for limiting the size of the force already has been announced: the government considers it needs a minimum of trained men in case of invasion.

Another reason was because of meetings which will open in New York next Friday of the North Atlantic Council.

Aid To Europe

The council is to discuss the question of military aid to Europe. External Affairs Minister Pearson, who has warned in the Commons that the next "Korea" may be in Germany, will head Canada's delegation to that conference.

President Truman has promised more U.S. troops for Western Europe, and called on other Atlantic Pact countries for similar action.

While there has been no official comment on the president's action, it is not interpreted here as a suggestion that Canada send fighting men to Europe right away. Rather, it is understood that Mr. Truman was suggesting that some of the European Pact countries take steps to strengthen their fighting forces.

Allows For Expansion

The Canadian order-in-council setting Canada's Korean contribution at 15,000 men was tabled in the Commons just before it rose Saturday. Mr. Claxton said the 15,000 figure allowed for "some expansion" of commitments already made. These commitments include three destroyers and a dozen North Star aircraft now plying the Pacific supply run.

The order-in-council has not come under any debate as yet. It specifically restricts the use of Canadian forces to Korea. If Canadian forces are needed elsewhere, Prime Minister St. Laurent has stated that parliament will be recalled to consider the matter.

At present, in addition to the three destroyers and the RCAF's airlift effort, Canada has recruited a special army brigade of three regiments of infantry, artillery and ancillary troops. Thus far, 8,300 men have been raised to this outfit.

Attlee Plans Army Statement

LONDON, Sept. 11 (Reuters)— Prime Minister Attlee is expected to tell parliament tomorrow that Britain will send at least three more divisions to join the two already in Germany.

One of the new divisions would be armored.

The prime minister's announcement is likely to be made in his speech opening parliament's three-day defence debate. It would come on top of President Truman's week-end statement that the United States is sending more troops to Europe.

Highlights of parliament's defence debate is likely to be the first details of the new army planned under Britain's revised defence program. Military experts predict that the new army will have a ratio of two armored divisions to four infantry divisions, with a strengthened paratroop force.

Bengough Demands Price Controls Used

Can Extend Social Security Despite Defence TLC Convention Told

MONTREAL, Sept. 11 (CP)— Price controls and the extension of social security were demanded today by Percy Bengough in his presidential address to the 65th annual convention of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada.

Opening the convention of his 480,000 - member organization, he blamed lack of price control in large measure for the rail strike that tied up Canada's trains for nine days last month. "Governmental failure to implement price control, and to formulate a comprehensive transportation policy, was the basic cause of the railway impasse," Mr. Bengough said.

He said the government and "its high paid servant," Donald Gordon, president of the Canadian National Railways, "must accept the responsibility and the blame for the strike and any blame for the suffering it has caused our citizens."

Mr. Bengough said Canadians wanted a comprehensive scheme of social security. And while voicing strong support for Canada's defence measures against the Communist threat, he said Canadians should not be "fooled into believing defence expenditures preclude a wide measure of social security."

Failure to make social security available, he said, would merely be unloading the cost of defence on the aged and the infirm.

Mr. Bengough struck out sharply at Communism in his speech, delivered to a convention that had undergone a purge of suspected Reds among the delegation.

Sunday the TLC's credentials committee refused registration to 20 delegates from seven unions, basically on the grounds of suspicion of Communism though it employed technicalities in some cases.

The suspects' cases were still under consideration by another congress committee at opening time today, but it appeared likely most of the banned 20 would be kept [illegible] of the convention floor [illegible] duration of the week-long meeting

Truman Orders Powerful Curbs On Pay, Prices

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11 — (AP)—President Truman Saturday night set up a powerful new wage-price-production control system to steer the United States through a defense program that may last for many years and cost far more than $30,000,000,000 annually.

Truman created a new economic stabilization agency to curb both prices and wages by voluntary means now—and by war-style ceilings when and if needed.

Warning that the fight against Communist aggression will demand sacrifices from every American, Truman declared that price and wage controls will be imposed vigorously and promptly if either wages or prices get out of hand.

He served notice that industry "to the extent necessary" will have to stop making some civilian goods and begin turning out military equipment.

Further Steps

In a redio-television address to the country, he called for these further steps to spur production, keep inflation in check and put the mobilization program on a pay-as-you-go basis.

1. Higher taxes for everybody. Truman said his call for a $5,000,000,000 rise in income taxes is only the first installment. He asked an excess profits tax to make sure nobody will "get rich quick out of this emergency."

2. Harder work and longer hours for everybody.

3. No pay raises beyond those needed to keep up with the cost of living.

4. An all-out drive by industry to produce more goods by better methods. The president said the national economy should top the $300,000,000,000 a year goal he has set for 1954.

5. No hoarding by individuals or by industries.

To co-ordinate the whole program Truman named W. Stuart Symington, chairman of the National Security Resources Board Symington thus becomes an economic policeman over the U.S economy.

Set Up Road Blocks As Wilkie Sighted

ORANGEVILLE, Sept. 11 (CP) —Armed provincial police officers set up road blocks around this town Sunday night after reports that Melville Wilkie had been seen in the neighborhood.

Wilkie, 40, escaped from the Ontario Hospital for the Criminally insane in July. He had been sent to hospital after killing his wife in Owen Sound more than 15 years ago.

Constable R. A. Cooney of the Orangeville police said he is sure he saw Wilkie standing on a side-road looking for a ride. The officer said the man fled across a field when he stopped his car.

BULLETIN

MONTREAL—(CP)—A two-alarm fire in the Roxy Theatre building in midtown Montreal was reported raging out of control through the two top floors early this afternoon. Firemen fighting the blaze in the three-storey structure were hampered by dense clouds of smoke and a huge crowd of lunch-hour spectators. They said they did not know whether any persons were trapped in the building.

Call Back Suicide Squads Seeking Last 13 Miners

NEW CUMNOCK, Scotland, Sept. 11—(Reuters)—Safety inspectors today called back "suicide" squads searching 700 feet underground for 13 missing Scottish miners as driving rain threatened to wash more mud into the slime-choked workings.

The men have been trapped in the New Cumnock castle colliery since Thursday night.

Drenched relatives, huddling in groups in the flooded fields, looked on in silence as rescuers clambered up from the 300-yard-wide originally trapped 129 men underground.

Extra pumps were rushed to the spot, but firemen were doubtful whether they could keep pace with flood water rushing down the surrounding slopes.

Access to the pit through the crater has been declared unsafe, but the search is to begin again as soon as the entrance has been strengthened.

Take Out 116 Men

Saturday 116 miners were brought up to safety after being trapped behind fallen debris and a wall of poison gas. The inrush of a river of mud had cornered them. The lost 13 were cut off from the rest.

A coal board official said this morning: "there is still hope that part of the mine workings may be reached in which there might be some of the missing men."

Some rescue workers expressed fear this morning that the missing men, trying to evade the oncoming sludge by dashing towards the pit bottom, had been overtaken and swept along.

Pilot Killed Buzzing Farm

CLOVERDALE, B.C., Sept. 11 (CP)—A New Westminster, B.C., pilot was killed Sunday while "buzzing" the farm home of his fiancee, municipal police reported.

The pilot, Tom Trowsdale, died in the arms of the man who was to have been his father-in-law. His fiancee, Irene Mitchell, was at work at the time of the crash.

Scene of the crash was a field two miles west of here and about 25 miles southeast of Vancouver.

Both Trowsdale and his fiancee were employed at the Provincial Mental Hospital.

Another air crash occurred Sunday in the lower mainland area, near Ladner, B.C., but the two occupants of the plane walked away uninjured.

Keays Waves Gun In Court

OTTAWA, Sept. 11 (CP)—J. E Keays, former Ontario provincial police constable, who figured prominently in an Ontario police inquiry, today made a dramatic appearance in county court, whipped out a Browning automatic revolver and declared himself "subject to arrest." He was immediately taken into custody.

Keays, sometimes known as Soublierre, was the central figure in the 1949 Royal Commission investigation into provincial police activities at Belleville. Although that inquiry led to his resignation from the force, he appeared in county court in full uniform.

He stood up in court just as as the session was about to adjourn, and shouted:

"Your worship, I am Provincial Constable Keays of Belleville. I am here to render myself subject to arrest."

Orders Arrest

With that he whipped out the automatic. The weapon was not loaded but Keays held a clip of ammunition in his hand. Magistrate Austin O'Connor ordered his arrest. Provincial police in the courthouse closed in on him.

Keays struggled. Two officers overpowered and handcuffed him and led him out of the courthouse.

Keays demanded of Assistant Crown Attorney Sam Tepofsky and provincial police corporal, George Nault:

"What am I being arrested for?"

"You are being arrested for carrying a concealed weapon and for causing a disturbance."

Police said they believed Keays made his appearance in court to test his belief that despite the findings of Mr. Justice Keiller McKay following the Belleville inquiry, he never had been officially dismissed from the force.

Celebrate Birthday

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., Sept. 11 —(AP)—St. Augustine, oldest city in the United States, celebrated its 385th birthday anniversary Friday. Cutting of a giant cake, adorned with 385 candles, topped off the celebration.

Fourth Member of Family Vanishes Mysteriously

BERLIN, Sept. 11—(AP)—Another member of the fast-fading Field family has vanished, United States intelligence agents report. This makes No. 4 to disappear mysteriously.

Latest reported missing is Mrs. Robert Wallach, adopted daughter of Noel H. Field, former U.S. State Department employee who was the first member of the family to disappear behind the iron curtain. He vanished in May, 1949.

Intelligence sources said Mrs. Wallach came from Paris, but they would give no details of her disappearance.

The Field case began when Noel went to Czechoslovakia in May, 1949. Later his Prague hotel received a wire that he was going on a trip to Budapest.

That was the last ever heard of Noel.

His wife, Herta, in August, 1949, asked Field's brother, Hermann, a Cleveland, O., architect then in Warsaw, to look for her husband. Hermann took a plane to Prague. When the aircraft got there, his name was missing from the manifest. Hermann was missing from the plane.

Herta had gone to the airport to meet him. When he failed to arrive she left.

That was the last heard of Herta.

The U.S. state department has called on the governments of Poland, Czechoslovakia and Hungary to give some information about the Fields. They have got nowhere.

60 Soldiers Injured In Collision

Flares Marking Train Dimmed By Fog; Last Car Telescoped

COSHOCTON, O., Sept. 11— (AP)—The Spirit of St. Louis, crack passenger train of the Pennsylvania Railroad, plowed into a troop train stalled by mechanical trouble in thick, fog early today.

Twenty-five soldiers, all members of the Pennsylvania National Guard, were killed.

Approximately 60 other guardsmen, en route to camp in Indiana to enter Federal service, were injured.

Railroad officials said "we won't have anything on cause of the wreck until after an investigation is made."

Most of the dead and injured were in an old-fashioned coach on the end of the 20-car troop train. Some were sleeping, others were being awakened for breakfast when the crash occurred at 6:15 a.m. EDT.

The rear coach looked like a pile of tin cans and rubbish after it had been rammed. Its roof, 70 [illegible] was compressed 40 to 10 feet.

Cut Bodies Out

Four hours after the accident workmen with acetylene torches still were removing bodies from the wreckage. Each was tenderly laid, covered with an army blanket, on the ground as a heavy rain fell.

The troop train had stopped, apparently due to mechanical trouble, one mile east of West Lafayette. That town is seven miles west of Coshocton.

Red flares were put out, a train crew member said, but they apparently were not visible to the engineer of the approaching Diesel-drawn Spirit of St. Louis.

The crash came five minutes after the troop train halted.

First reports indicated no one aboard the 17-car "Spirit" was killed, although its locomotive toppled over an embankment.

"We either were stopped or slowed down when the crash came," said Capt. Robert Short, battery commander whose men slept in the third car from the rear.

Volunteers Help

The crash occurred about 6 a.m. EDT on a straight stretch of track just west of Lafayette, seven miles east of here.

Union, Railways Ask Extension

OTTAWA, Sept. 11—(CP)—A joint request of the railways and unions for a 15-day extension of their 30-day negotiation period will be considered by cabinet today and likely will be granted, a government official said today.

Both factions in a rail-wage dispute which resulted in a crippling national rail strike were given 30 days under a government bill ending the strike Aug. 30 to settle their differences before an arbitrator is sent in to do it for them.

However, on Sept. 9 the railways and the unions decided to request the cabinet for an extension of the 30-day period by 15 days.

US More Vulnerable To Atom Than Soviet

CHICAGO, Sept. 11—(AP)— Five atomic bombs could cause more industrial damage in the United States than 20 atomic bombs dumped on Russia, an atomic scientist said today.

That's because the Russians have a big jump on the United States in dispersing key industrial plants and keeping their locations secret, he said.

The assertion was made by Dr. Eugene Rabinowitch, Chicago, editor of the Bulletin of the Atomic Scientists. He called for a huge effort to make the United States less vulnerable to atomic attack.

House Defeats Conservatives On Control Vote

OTTAWA, Sept. 11 (CP)—The Commons voted 137 to 33 today against a Progressive Conservative motion which would have forced the government to redraft board powers to allocate and control essential materials and services during the current emergency.

The motion was moved Saturday by John Diefenbaker (PC—Lake Centre) when the government's bill was called for second reading—approval in principle.

It asked that it "be resolved that while this House is ready and anxious to adopt all appropriate measures which will prevent economic hardship and disorder on a national scale and provide for the necessary regulation of the production, distribution and use of materials and services for defence purposes, it regrets the circumstances connected with the introduction and prosecution of this measure."

It said the government had "failed to name and declare the national emergency upon which it seeks to base authority for this bill and has not specified the materials and services which are to be subject to the provisions of the bill."

The Progressive Conservatives alone supported the motion. The CCF and Social Credit members voted with the government.

The Progressive Conservatives alone supported the motion. The CCF and Social Credit members voted with the government.

When the vote was taken, debate was adjourned on the motion calling for second reading of the bill.

Prices Mildly Higher On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO, Sept. 11 (CP). — Prices pushed mildly higher as the session progressed on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Base metal stocks held most of the limelight, continuing Friday's strong advances into new high price ground. The remainder of the list had difficulty making headway as profit-taking sales appeared on last Friday's gains.

Almost all base metal stocks trading pushed upwards. Price increases in lead and zinc Friday gave the list a strong push and buying continued today.

Market leaders like Consolidated Smelters and Quemont paced the group with gains ranging up to $1. United Keno Hill, Waite Amulet, Anacon Lead, and Ascot Corp. also attracted considerable attention.

Industrials were held to small fractional changes. Papers, utilities, steels and liquors climbed while foods and a few refining oils eased.

Western oils slipped slightly on mild pressure in Central Leduc, Calvin and Anglo-Canadian. Golds were narrow with a few junior producers adding pennies. Lomega Mines, in its first appearance on the board, traded heavily at about 20 cents.

The three appointments are effective Oct. 1.

Have You Made The Most Of The Harvest?

It's been a good farming year. Our district has been blessed with better-than-average crops, and prices for farm produce have remained firm. As a result, many farmers are now receiving a sizeable return on their year's work.

Speaking of this, Charles Cummer, Manager of the Peterborough branch of the Bank of Montreal, suggested that it is a good time to give some thought to the future. "Maybe," he said, "the years to come won't prove so productive as 1950, or the prices for farm produce may slip. The wise farmer will then be glad of a reserve fund, built up in better times, to secure the well-being of his farm and family."

Why not build up your own reserve fund by depositing some of this year's income in a savings account at the Bank of Montreal? Next time you're in town, drop in and see Mr. Cummer. He can be helpful to you in working out your plans and problems.

found little Red strength in the rugged mountains where supply problems are enormous.

The patrols spotted only two companies of Red Koreans. Kyongju is a main highway junction southeast of Yongchon.

Allied planes flushed 1,000 Red troops into the open west of Changnkong in the Naktong River bulge. Planes and artillery smacked the Communists with a one-two punch. The same double blow was levelled at Northern pocket of 3,500 Reds in the same bridgehead.

Recapture Positions

A Red Korean attack in the centre of this bridgehead hurled back the Americans several hundred yards. Then the Americans counter-attacked and recaptured their original positions.

Farther south, at the battered outer gateway to all-important Pusan port, AP correspondent Stan Swinton reported the U.S. 25th Division lines were quiet.

This was a change from pressure all along the southwest line west of Masan after a week of persistent attacks.

South Korea's president, Syngman Rhee, on a visit to the South Korean front, told correspondents the Allies are "almost ready to strike in an all-out offensive."

Form Solid Lines

The Allied line runs 7 miles north of Taegu. Correspondent Jack MacBeth said the Allies have formed solid lines in a semi-circle around a pocket of Red Korean troops.

American forces hold high ground west and south of the Reds. South Korean forces have gained dominating positions to the east.

This is the first time the Allies have formed a continuous reinforced line around the Communists north of Taegu. The Reds are backed against a hill. An American officer said: "We have got them where we want them now."

The Reds' Pyongyang radio said Kang Konn, chief of staff of the North Korean Army and Deputy Minister of National Defence, "died at the front September 8." It gave no details.

they can hope to achieve in a series of steps dependent mainly on the rate of weapons production and the speed of training.

The key planning date, it was learned, is next July 1. The date in itself is described by authorities as having no special significance in relation to what Russia may do before or after that time.

Significant Date

A later date, however, has significance. That is July 1, 1952.

It is the date after which anything may happen, in the opinion of American officials. In other words, it is a date by which a maximum build-up of Western strength should be in motion, on the tneory that by then Russia will have such military power as to be willing to pursue a much more dangerous political policy than she would follow before then.

In addition to this basic military scheduling which provides the groundwork for Acheson's policy planning, Acheson himself believes that the West must put its rearmament program into high gear with the greatest possible speed so that when the period of maximum danger comes—whenever that may be—the effort will be so far advanced that new perils will serve to stimulate than to discourage it.

Wartime Bombing Range Has Million Dollar Crop

LETHBRIDGE, Alta., Sept. 11 (CP).—A wartime practice bombing range 20 miles from here is yielding an estimated $1,000,000 wheat crop from what is believed the largest grain field tucked behind one fence in the British Empire.

Tractor-drawn combines and trucks now are conducting harvest manoeuvres over an area where RCAF practice bombs exploded and tracer bullets sizzled during the last war.

Growing inside one fence around a 38,000-acre field are 32,000 acres of beautiful golden wheat stretching as far as the eye can see. This immense field is expected to yield an average of 25 bushels to the acre for a total crop of 800,000 bushels.

A group of 34 enterprising white men and the Blood Indian tribe of Southern Alberta will reap the harvest. The 800,000 bushels, at an initial payment of $1.41 a bushel, minus freight and dockage, will be worth nearly $1,000,000. Subsequent payments probably will bring the take over this mark.

Last year the group of 34, calling themselves the Blood Farmers Association leased the acreage on the Blood Reserve.

The first two crops will net the Indians one-fifth of the yield. Each succeeding year, until the 10-year lease expires, the white men will deliver one-third of the produce to the Bloods. The Indians also get varying amounts of cash per acre for use of their land by the white men, who are grouped into 14 partnerships.

Blame Cigarette In Lab Blaze

SAULT STE. MARIE, Sept. 11—Carelessness of a workman with a cigarette caused a spectacular $50,000 fire Saturday which destroyed the Alloy Research Laboratory of the Chromium Mining and Smelting Corporation here.

Twenty-five firemen battled the three-alarm blaze for several hours. It was their quick work which contained the fire to the lab and saved the valuable work buildings adjoining.

Fire Chief Clifford Matheson said Sunday that it had been established that a cigarette butt dropped on exothermic material, which is highly inflammable, caused the plant's third fire in four years. An important experiment was taking place in the research lab at the time. Total damage of the three fires amounted to $400,000.

The fire spread quickly as highly inflammable materials caught fire like firecrackers in quick succession and shot flames into the sky for more than 100 feet and blanketed the west end of the city with dense smoke. All windows of the lab were blown out and every piece of equipment destroyed.

donors were called in from Cambridge, Coshocton, Zanesville and New Philadelphia. The Ohio highway patrol sent whole blood to the scene.

The troop train was made up of baggage cars, 16 coaches and two kitchen cars.

The Spirit of St. Louis was bound from New York to St. Louis.

A PRR spokesman at Philadelphia said members of the train crew of the Spirit of St. Louis were injured slightly. The crack 17-car passenger train was pulled by two diesel engines.

The diesels were derailed and rolled down an embankment, the spokesman said. Wreckage from the splintered troop coaches blocked the right-of-way.

Coach Derailed

A coach in the centre of the troop train was derailed by the jarring crash, but the spokesman said no soldier was injured in this coach.

The Red Cross reported that disaster stations were set up at an armory and two churches in Coshocton.

Rain began falling as the bodies were temporarily laid out in a field, 40 feet from the track. They were covered with army blankets.

Had the wreck occurred 15 minutes later, the men would have been at breakfast in the kitchen car, six cars from the rear, one soldier said.

Visibility Poor

The troop train had stopped, apparently due to mechanical trouble, and flares had been put out, railroad men said. It was foggy and visibility was poor.

A diesel was pushing the troop train and a steam locomotive pulling it as the train halted on a slight grade.

The diesel pulling the Spirit of St. Louis smashed into the other diesel, driving it into the old-fashion coach last on the track. The car of the diesel just ahead was thrown up and fell cross-wise on the third car. The pushing diesel went down a 15-foot embankment.

1,700-Foot Wall One Man's Work

LONDON —(CP)— A new embankment, built on the south bank of the Thames River for the 1951 Festival of Britain, can justly be called the wall that Jack built.

Its construction was almost wholly a one-man job. Every piece of granite in the 1,700-foot stretch of wall from Waterloo Bridge to the London county council building was laid by Jack Datson, a Cornish mason.

Datson handled more than 2,000 tons of granite and finished his job four months ahead of time.

"It took 80 masons to cut enough stone to keep me going," he said.

The [illegible] ($775,000) in materials alone, wil serve as frontage for the festival's exhibition and concert hall. It will also mark another phase in a favorite project of Herbert Morrison, deputy prime minister—to clean up the south bank of the Thames, long a London eyesore.

Youth Gambles Life And Loses

TORONTO, Sept. 11 (CP). — Ernest Hutt, 17, gambled his life in a game of Russian roulette on Saturday and lost. He died about four hours after being admitted to hospital with a bullet wound in the head.

The shooting occurred in the home of friends where the youth had been staying the last three weeks. Police said Hutt's friends reported he had expressed a fondness for the game in which a player places a revolver to his head, usually with only one chamber loaded and pulls the trigger.

Police said he had loaded two chambers of the revolver. The others were empty. No one in the house was able to say where Hutt had obtained the revolver. Police are continuing their investigation.

City Resident Delegate Blind Conference

Frank Simmons, of Peterborough, was one of four Ontario delegates at the sixth annual conference of the Canadian Council of the Blind.

The four-day convention in Montreal ended Friday.

Mrs. Sadie Bending, London, Ont., founder of the Canadian Council of the Blind, was returned as president. So were the others of the 1949 executive.

The need to raise the limit on the amount of money that blind people can earn was stressed at the conference. At present the pension for the blind is $40 a month, applicable at 21 years of age and subject to the means test.

An unmarried person is allowed an income of $700 a year, and a married person $1,200 a year. These figures should be raised to $1,000 and $2,000, the council claims.

The important thing is to get as many as possible of Canada's 11,000 blind working, stated a council spokesman, and this would be possible if the ceilings were raised. The means test and the Blind Persons' Act, embodied in the Old Age Pensions Act, are far outmoded, he declared.

A seven-point brief on blind problems has been presented to the federal government.

One of the Ontario delegates was Ivan Hunter, of Gooderham. Today he is serving his second term on the village council and is busily employed as an electrician.

THE "BEASTS" MAY BE ON THE LARGE SIDE, but they don't seem to worry Peggy Wallace, who plays the Circus Queen in the "At The Circus" production number in the 1951 edition of the "Skating Vanities", which opens a five-day stay at The Montreal Forum on Wednesday.

Seven Charges False Pretense

COBOURG, Sept. 11 (ENS), — Pleading guilty to several charges of false pretences, Gerard Martineau of Montreal was sentenced to 15 days' concurrent on each charge. Martineau collected $1.95 from each of four local residents, being the amount he said would be charged for a photo sitting, and he told his customers that arrangements had been made to take the photos in a local hotel.

Chief W J. Carey testified that Martineau was arrested when he tried to hitch-hike out of town after leaving a hotel bill unpaid. Investigation revealed that the accused had no authorization to collect for photo sittings and had not made any hotel reservation for studio purposes.

Arrest of Cobourg Man Clears Up Break-In Series

COBOURG, Sept. 11—Leonard St. Charles of Cobourg pleaded guilty here to five charges of theft and two of receiving and was remanded one week for sentence while his record is checked. With his arrest, police cleared up a series of break-ins, [illegible] automobiles parked at local tourist establishments, which have been a source of mystery for over two months. His arrest came when police compared a sample of cloth from a stolen suit with one in his possession.

He pleaded guilty to the following charges — August 25, breaking and entering the grocery store of Ernest Gutteridge where $27 was stolen; July 26, receiving a suit of clothing stolen from J. Johnston, Indianapolis tourist; July 26, receiving a suit of clothes stolen from Mrs. J. Johnston, July 24; theft of a first aid kit and an engineering instrument valued at $125 from the H.E.P.C. Aug. 19; theft of blanket and flashlight from E. Tutton, tourist; Aug. 19, theft of suit and hat from R. Runion, tourist; Aug. 19, theft of two beer mugs and china cup from R. P. Moore.

Constable H. Pearse said that after the robbery of the store he noticed the accused wearing a suit of a material and colour the same as the sample the police had and it was identified as having been stolen. Receipts in his possession plus silver in his pocket checked with the amount stolen from the grocery store. A search of his house revealed a number of articles which the accused admitted had been stolen from various cars, the constable said.

200 Million Dollar Diamond?

If a diamond as large as a baseball were ever found, it would probably be worth about 200 million dollars. But it would benefit only the person who owned it.

The amount of money which the life insurance companies in Canada invest each year on behalf of their policyholders is large enough to buy such a diamond! But this money is invested in ways which benefit every Canadian. It is put to work to help build new schools, new power plants, highways, industrial plants, homes and many other vitally important constructions. In all these ways it promotes progress and helps create jobs in communities throughout the nation.

Thus life insurance works for everyone two ways. It helps raise living standards. And it provides security by building income for old age and protection for families. Today nearly 5 million Canadians are creating this security for themselves and their families the life insurance way!

City Visitors To Caen Decorate Grave of Victimized Flier

Highlights of the tour of Great Britain and the Continent for Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Pink, Dublin St., was a visit to the grave of a Peterborough airman at Les Hogues, France.

The airman was PO Griffin James Young, 29, shot down near Caen while making a sweep over France August 13, 1944, and later killed by a German prison camp officer with a virulent hatred for Allied flyers.

PO Young was the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Young, 141 Rubidge St.

The Peterborough Spitfire pilot lies buried in a private cemetery at Les Hogues, 75 miles northwest of Paris, along with two British soldiers and an RAF officer. The fifth victim of the Nazi officer's rage was a United States airman whose remains had been moved to another cemetery before the cross and plaque at the head of the grave (see cut) were erected.

Ties of Friendship

Mr. and Mrs. Pink can testify that the ties of friendship between Frenchmen and Canadians did not break after France had been liberated and the wartime danger passed. The neatly-kept grave at Les Hogues is personally looked after by the Mayor and another resident, Monsieur Ch. Knabe.

M. Knabe corresponds with the Young family in Peterborough and knows the full history of the shooting.

He came to know PO Young three days after the airman was brought to the prison camp. The Germans would provide no food for the prisoners but would allow them to buy some from the nearby residents providing they could pay for it.

M. Knabe was not interested in payment but was eager to do his bit as a wartime ally of the Canadian. PO Young made several trips to M. Knabe's home and the two became good friends.

He is unable to account for the cold-blooded shooting of PO Young, who had previously served in North Africa and had an excellent war record, except for the known fact that the Nazi commandant hated flyers.

The other 200 prisoners were forced to retreat with the Germans as the Allied ground forces approached. Eventually a British occupation force caught up with the guilty Nazi and he was shot.

Mr. and Mrs. Pink heard the story from M. Knabe and then drove to the cemetery where they placed flowers on the grave and took photos. Later they were introduced to the Mayor and Mayoress and accepted the warm hospitality of their French hosts.

In Portsmouth Mr. and Mrs. Pink visited another grave of a well-known former Peterborough resident, the grave of Mrs. Laura Abraham, wife of James Abraham, one-time school attendance officer for the city and a prominent man in welfare work.

Like many other old country folk who have made post-war visits, Mr. and Mrs. Pink were astounded at the amount of bomb damage, particularly in Southampton, Portsmouth, Gosport and the Isle of Wight. They report that in these areas there has been little reconstruction work due to the shortage of materials.

While at Gosport they saw another work of destruction — the sinister work of sabotage. Eight ammunition barges were blown up in the harbor. After an inquiry Prime Minister Clement Attlee described these explosions as sabotage.

The blast was so terrific it shattered glass window panes for a radius of five miles. The lucky thing about it, however, was that nobody was killed and only one person seriously injured.

In their two-and-a-half month tour Mr. and Mrs. Pink visited or revisited many of the most interesting sights of England and they both put on weight.

Neither of them pretend to be soothsayers but they are confident of the ultimate economic recovery of Great Britain.

"The people are working hard, they are most hospitable and they don't want anybody's charity," summed up Mr. Pink.

VISITING THE GRAVE OF PETERBOROUGH FLIER Griffin Young, at Les Hogues, France, Alfred Pink of Dublin street lays flowers as tribute to the young Pilot Officer who was brutally killed by his Nazi captors during the war.

Spoiling For A Fight

We still shudder violently when we recall the statements made within the past fortnight by Mr. Matthews, the U.S. Secretary of the Navy, and General Orvil A. Anderson, Commandant of the Air War College in Alabama. Mr. Matthews urged that the U.S.A. should become "the first aggressors for peace", starting a war with Russia even though "it cast us in a character new to true democracy—an initiator of a war of aggression". General Anderson delivered himself of the remarkable wind-egg: "Give me the order to do it and I can break up Russia's five A-bomb nests in a week . . . And when I went up to Christ—I think I could explain to him that I had saved civilization". Mr. Matthews, for his pains, was answered by a State Department disclaimer of all that he had said, and was rapped over the knuckles by the President. General Anderson was immediately suspended by his superior, General Vandenberg.

* * *

Yet it cannot be denied that what Matthews and Anderson said was what lies in the minds of many people not only only in the U.S.A., but in Canada. There are plenty of people who are eager that we should "show Russia where she gets off" by rushing into a war. These people do not think; they merely throb. They are the worst possible supporters for decisive action of any kind. They would love to see us go to war against Russia; when we found Russian resistance heavy (as we would) their ardour would cool; if we experienced heavy reverses (as well we might) they would be the first to turn their wrath upon the politicians who had dragged us into a war. One of the burdens of a democracy is that such a large part of every population are fools, usually gifted with loud voices. One of a democratic government's tasks is to prevent the roaring of the fools from deafening it to wiser and steadier counsels. The people who yearn for a war with Russia overestimate the military power of the U.S.A., and underestimate the power of Russia. We think that in a long war, the U.S.A. could beat Russia, but we also think that it would be impossible in the U.S.A. to rouse and maintain the enthusiasm which would be necessary to conduct an aggressive war. And suppose the U.S.A. won such a war—what then happens to Russia? Occupation and administration at enormous cost, for an indefinite period. If the U.S.A. were to attack Russia, it would bring trouble upon its head which would last for a hundred years.

* * *

President Truman has said all that needs to be said on the subject. These are his words: "We do not believe in aggressive or preventive war; such war is the weapon of dictators, not of free democratic countries like the United States; we are arming only for defence against aggression." Let the belligerents chew on that.

Political Scramble In New York State

The Democratic and Republican parties have been doing some fancy political manoeuvring in New York State, with honours about even so far. The latter party had been counting on a fairly easy victory at the polls, since off-year elections in the state do not include a mayoralty election in New York City. Mayoralty contests in New York invariably bring out a heavy Democratic vote as compared with elections for governor and senator in an off-year, and the Republicans rejoiced in the belief that a comparatively light New York City vote, plus the strong Republican upstate vote, would return them to power.

Democratic strategists, however, devised a clever shift. Knowing that Mayor William O'Dwyer's health would perhaps not allow him to seek another term in office, they sought an ambassadorial appointment for him. They were successful, and the trade compelled an unexpected mayoralty election, to be held along with the other non-Presidential elections this year. And since a vote for mayor of New York on the Democratic ticket means a vote for governor and senator as well, the Democrats had gained a substantial advantage over their opponents.

The Republican Party then wiped out the disadvantage with a shrewd counter-stroke. Governor Dewey had intended to refuse nomination this year, and the prospective nominee was Lieutenant-Governor Hanley, an elderly and able politician whose lifelong ambition was to become governor. Mr. Hanley is by no means the vote-getter Mr. Dewey is, but it was felt he could win in an off-year election. Confronted with the Democratic deal, however, the Republicans drafted Governor Dewey, and he consented to accept the nomination.

It is now the Democrats' turn to scramble again to gain political advantage. Governor Dewey's action would seem to give the Republicans a slight edge in the contest, since he has consistently polled heavy voting totals in New York City, where his outstanding record as district attorney is still remembered and admired. And the Democrats are thus faced with the possibility of losing the New York mayoralty, along with the U.S. Senate seat of Senator Herbert Lehman.

Asking For Trouble

The 26,000 white voters in Southwest Africa have voted with remarkable unanimity in favour of Dr. Malan's Nationalist government in South Africa. No expression of opinion was asked from the 400,000 native Africans in that district. But they are vitally concerned, for Dr. Malan's policies condemn them to a markedly inferior status as citizens. We predict that those 400,000 Africans will be heard from eventually. Sooner or later they will revolt, and much blood will be shed.

We do not believe in sentimental nonsense about the Africans. It will be a very long time before they are capable of taking a full share in the government of their country. They will never be democrats of the British or American stamp, for their climate and centuries of habit make that improbable. But they are human beings, and they resent tyranny. Tyranny is what the Malan government provides for them.

It is one of the hardest things in the world to treat a native population decently, but it has been attempted by the British, the French, the Dutch, the Germans and the Portuguese and very often with an encouraging degree of success. Our religion and our civilization demand that the attempt be made. But the Malan government makes no such attempt. Its policies are illiberal and un-Christian. More shame upon it, for a more sanctimonious people than the Dutch South Africans would be hard to find on the earth.

By their oppression of the African natives they are asking for trouble, and they will certainly get it.

A Tax On Music

The finances of the Metropolitan Opera seem to be perpetually precarious. Last spring, it appears, the management of the Met had been led to believe that it would be excused from the 20 per cent Federal admission tax, because it is a non-profit cultural institution; but now it is doubtful if any such relief will be given to the great opera house, and the future looks dark.

Let no business man enquire angrily why the Met cannot be made to pay; the reasons are easily set forth and understood. Prices for admisison cannot be raised, for they are as high now as the traffic will bear. And as the number of people who can be crammed into even that huge theatre is limited this sum cannot be increased. In addition the opera receives income from a spring tour, from broadcasting, and from building rent. But of late years the expenses in every department have increased so greatly that the success or failure of a season is always touch and go. To be excused the admission tax would have meant much to the enterprise.

We are in no position to lecture the U.S. government on its obligations in such a matter. But we are concerned with similar problems in Canada, and we feel that provincial governments have a duty to excuse any venture from entertainments tax if it can be fairly shown that the venture contributes to the cultural life of the country. There are provisions now which enable this to be done under certain circumstances, but we feel that these provisions might be made more liberal. In such a country as this most cultural ventures are financed precariously. They usually require considerable sums of money to make them possible at all, and circumstances which cannot be controlled may bring about their failure. Canada is not so rich culturally that we can afford to put chains upon any genuine and deserving venture in the arts, and provincial legislatures have an obligation in this respect which they have not yet recognized.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A historian says that what Nero played while Rome burned was not a fiddle, but "an instrument resembling the bagpipes". This clearly establishes Nero's claim to have invented the fire-siren.

Childhood is a period when they ask questions. Adolescence is a period when they can answer them all. Maturity comes when questions are habitually evaded.

Musical Notes

By PETER PIPER

IF you were to mention the subject of incidental music to an ancient Greek he would doubtless be somewhat puzzled; for to him drama and music were inextricably interwoven. Unfortunately only one very small fragment of authentic Greek music used in the great classical dramas (from one of the choruses of the "Orestes") is extant, and it is virtually impossible to gain any clear impression from it of the nature of the music used in those days. Passing to the Middle Ages music was used extensively in the Mystery Plays: the "Coventry Carol" that is so often heard at Christmas is taken from one of the Nativity Plays of the Middle Ages. The Elizabethans and Shakespeare in particular interlarded their plays with songs, dances and processions. In the seventeenth century there was a new development. The imitation of the great achievements of Greece and Rome, manifested in achitecture by a return to classical colonnades and Roman domes, spread also to literature and the stage. In France Corneille and Racine wrote tragedies, mainly on classical themes, and meticulously observed the three "unities" prescribed by Aristotle. In spite of their efforts, however, to imitate the ancient Greeks, their tragedies are very remote from the spirit of their professed models, and music played very little part in their makeup.

* * *

ON the other hand Moliere, whose comedies are still as fresh as when he wrote them, used music extensively. In play like "L'Amour Medecin" the actual text is quite short, most of the time being taken up by elaborate ballet scenes. Meanwhile in Italy, a group of young "intellectuals", as we would call them nowadays, working on different lines, also attempted a revival in contemporary terms of classical Greek drama. Far from minimizing the importance of music as did the French tragedians, they emphasized its role, and the result was Italian Opera. It is not my intention at this point to trace the whole development of opera, except to point out that Italian opera was the parent of all the other schools of opera that came later. In England, in spite of one or two interesting and not completely unsuccessful essays, opera fizzled out. Purcell's socalled operas "King Arthur", the "Fairy Queen", and so on, were really masques (plays with a liberal allowance of spectacle and music). The masque ultimately degenerated into the pantomime, which is such a popular feature of Chrjstmas in England to this very day.

* * *

IN the eighteenth century the drama became more and more a realistic commentary on contemporary fads and fashions, and incidental music became less important. At the turn of the century incidental music once again came into prominence with the Romantic movement in literature. Famous examples of this period are Beethoven's incidental music to Goethe's play "Egmont" and, of course, Mendelssohn's music to "A Midsummer Night's Dream". The overtures to both these are often played in the concert hall, and the wedding march in the "Midsummer Night's Dream" musical is played at nearly every church wedding. Some incidental music has been arranged as suites of pieces by the composers; and has achieved a popularity far exceeding that of the plays for which the music was originally written. Grieg's "Peer Gynt" suite is an outstanding example of this. I cannot leave the subject of incidental music without mentioning Delius's exquisite music to Flecker's "Hassan" as a model of everything that incidental music should be.

* * *

RAPID skips and octave passages have always been something of a stumbling block to pianists. It should be understood that every action has a re-action. Just like the recoil of a rifle every bodily movement creates an impulse in the opposite direction. In the case of relatively feeble movements such as are involved in finger action the "recoil" is easily absorbed by the body and ultimately transmitted to the earth, where it is dissipated. But when we come to fairly vigorous movements such as are involved in the passages that we are discussing there is a very noticeable reaction which may well endanger the stability of the whole body.

* * *

HERE is an experiment to illustrate what I mean. Stand on a polished floor and extend both arms in front. Then execute a series of sideways movements, swinging the arms vigorously in the same direction to left and right. It will be noticed that each time you swing to the left the feet will slip to the right, and vice-versa. Now repeat the same movements standing on a carpet. The feet will remain steady this time, but it will be difficult or impossible to keep the body still. Now try making the same movements with the forearms only, keeping the elbows tucked more or less tightly into the sides of the body, and you will find that control over reactionary movements will be greatly improved. The trunk and legs must of course be firm. Now let us apply this to the execution of passages at the piano. You will find it a great help if you use the "leg trick". This is comprised of wedging the knee firmly under the keyboard. If this is impracticable (leg lengths and keyboard heights differ considerably!) keep one or both of the feet fairly far apart. The trunk should be tense and the elbows held as firmly in as is practicable. Practise with books under the arms (this was recommended by Isidore Philippe).

* * *

IN octave passages with skips get the spacing for the first octave right; then, keeping the fingers rigid in the same position concentrate on getting the thumb on the right notes. If you have kept the spacing the same you will inevitably get the right notes with the little finger if you have the thumb on the right notes. The wrist must not be allowed to flop, or the whole effect may be spoiled. Every opportunity provided by pauses in the music should be taken to relax (though never in the middle of a passage) as the muscles will become tired by continuous use.

PROVE IT

A man answering an ad for a chauffeur's job was being examined by the car owner. He was asked if he travelled much in other states.

"Yes sir," replied the prospective chauffer.

"All right," said the car owner, handing him a map, "let's see you fold it."

WHAT A STARTLING SIMILARITY

The Fool's Paradise

(THE TABLET, LONDON)

AS the inescapable need for re-armament forces itself on the country, no part of it is more disliked than the need to increase the armed forces. Mr. Attlee is in his way as tragic and miscast a figure as was Mr. Chamberlain, for both have had to subordinate the social policies that really interest them and are the mainspring of their public activities, in order to concentrate on meeting a dangerous international situation which can only be met by much more military preparation than it is at all convenient to do.

We wish we could see any man in the government ranks who is likely to take the true measure of the continuing crisis and express it. For so much of the nation is still in a fool's paradise, still far from estimating how great is the gulf between the pipe-dreaming which has been encouraged and the kind of world in which their lot is, in truth, cast. Neither militarily nor economically is there any justification for the fundamental postulate behind so much of today's politics and policies, one to which Christian spokesmen, from a mistaken kindness of heart, have conspicuously attached themselves.

This is the idea that it is possible to start by drawing up lists of minimum requirements, education and housing, money and leisure, and insisting upon them for everybody, in bland disregard of the underlying facts that, economically, most of our day-to-day requirements come from outside these islands and have to be secured by trade, and that militarily, a most resolute and formidable effort is being made to cut off our sources, to separate us from our overseas dependencies.

Much anger against Communism is now manifesting itself among people who for a long time wanted to think, and did think, the best they could of those other Socialists whose methods might be rough and unpalatable but who were believed to be at heart idealists with the same ideal of seeing the ordinary man enjoying bourgeois or middle-class comforts and ease, with the sense of security, political and economic, which the middle class has known. They have been forced to the conclusion that they have been much too optimistic.

The greatest industry in the Soviet Union is the manufacture, for export, of poverty and insecurity round the world, because poverty and insecurity are considered propitious to the spread of Communist revolution. Even if world revolution were to succeed, the masters of mankind would only remain in the saddle if they kept the mass of men in great poverty as well as in great ignorance; otherwise, with plenty and with knowledge, there would come aspirations to independence and diversity and an open society, and the system would collapse, and its rulers with it.

Letters To The Editor

FAVOURS CHIP WAGON

Sir: I have been following with interest the letters which have appeared in your newspaper concerning Dick Ouimet.

I'm sure the citizens of Peterborough would appreciate knowing just what the City Council has against this young veteran. If Mr. Ouimet ran for alderman I'm sure he would get more votes than any other candidate.

Dick's chips are the best in town and certainly his chip-wagon is spotless both inside and out and his courtesy and service have been greatly appreciated by many citizens.

I hope that enough people will raise their voices against the council so that they will be forced to grant Mr. Ouimet a license.

Thanking you Mr. Editor for this valued space in your newspaper, I remain,

A PETERBOROUGH CITIZEN.

DISAPPOINTED IN LABOUR DAY TALKS

Sir: From the report of the Labour Day doings at Riverside this year, carried in the Tuesday Examiner, the usual stimulating talks gave place to an attack on the U.E.W., the best union in the city and one that has put thousands of dollars into the pockets of the workers and store keepers alike. I must be one of those easily fooled workers referred to at the C.G.E. for I'm staying with the U.E., for I know what side my bread is buttered on, and from where I have received benefits. Any fool can stand up and charge 'Communist led' stuff and 'Russian collaboration' rot and Funds going to Stalin', etc., but come on now you fellows that think these things, let's have some specific charge.

I have attended 90 per cent. of all meetings of the U.E. in the past years, and I defy anyone to name a single instance of Communistic domination. Our executive has always been 99 per cent against anything that smacked of Communism. Communism thrives and readily takes a hold where living conditions and standards are low and those who should know believe the best way to defeat it is to raise the living standards and make the people happy. It is a wonder to me that Stalin would have anything to do with C. S. Jackson, our head, as an agent or apostle, for he is continually trying to boost our wages and living standards.

These troublesome times ahead should be giving our leaders lots to think about and instead of snapping at each other, should be uniting and working co-operatively for the benefit of our communities as a whole.

C.G.E. WORKER.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

The words of the Preacher, the son of David, king in Jerusalem

I made me great works; I builded me houses; I planted me vineyards: I gathered me also silver and gold, and the peculiar treasure of kings and of the provinces. I gat me men singers and women singers, and the delights of the sons of men, as musical instruments, and that of all sorts. So I was great, and increased more than all that were before me in Jerusalem: also my wisdom remained with me.

Then I looked on all the works that my hands had wrought, and on the labour that I had laboured to do: and, behold, all was vanity and vexation of spirit, and there was no profit under the sun. (Eccl. 1: 1; 2: 4, 8, 9, 11.)

* * *

O Zion, that bringest good tidings, get thee up into the high mountain; O Jerusalem, that bringest good tidings, lift up thy voice with strength; lift it up, be not afraid; say unto the cities of Judah, Behold your God! . . . All nations before him are as nothing; and and vanity. (Isa. 40: 9, 17.)

* * *

I am the Lord, and there is none else, there is no God beside me: I girded thee, though thou hast not known me; that they may know from the rising of the sun, and from the west, that there is none beside me. I am the Lord, and there is none else . . . In the Lord shall all the seed of Israel be justified, and shall glory. (Isa. 45: 5, 6, 25.)

Irish Beef

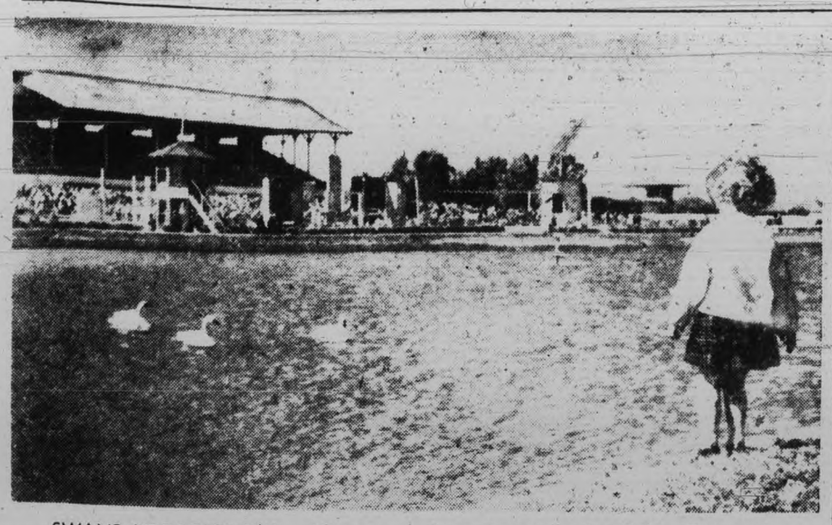
(Windsor Star)



International trade has its curious aspects. Though Britain is short of bacon, and Canada is having a difficult time filling the present bacon contract, some Irish bacon is finding a market in the United States. And, while the United Kingdom relies a lot on beef from The Argentine, an emissary of the Republic of Ireland has been in the United States making arrangements for the export of fresh beef from Ireland.

Irish beef is, of course, choice. For generations, except for domestic requirements, it was sold almost exclusively in Britain. Much of the famous English roast beef was really Irish. Now, to gain dollars, some of it is being made available for the United States market.

If the Irish are able to develop such a market, we hope they will not get so much of the same reaction as Canadians got when the embargo was removed from the shipment of our beef across the border. We soon found ourselves with a beef shortage and high prices, though our exchange situation was alleviated.

HIT OF THE WEEK

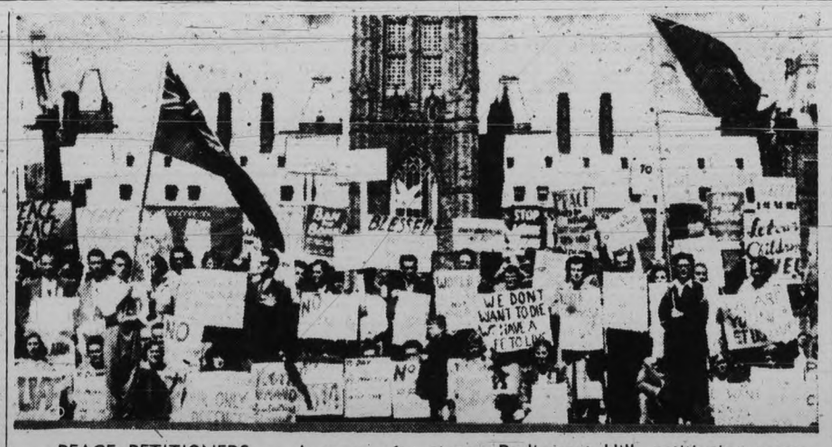
SWANS AT RACETRACK — Winnipeg horse-racing fans have fancy trimmings at their Polo Park — swans float in the infield. It all started when management decided to build up the racing strip with soil from the racetrack infield. The artificial lake, with fountains and grassy banks, occupies the hole where the soil was removed. The unidentified girl is just a curious onlooker—not a bettor.

May Tighten Up Passport Rules Pearson Says

OTTAWA, Sept. 11 (CP)—External Affairs Minister Pearson told the Commons Saturday that the Canadian government is examining the question of tightening up on the issuance of passports, particularly to persons anxious to make trips behind the iron curtain.



He reminded members, however, that refusal of a passport did not necessarily mean that "a man who wants to get to Russia cannot get there." A Canadian did not need a passport to leave the country but required a visa from the foreign country he intended to visit.

The discussion about passports was launched by Auguste Maltais (L-Charlevoix) who asked about newspaper reports of a study group going to Russia.

Mr. Pearson said that no passports had been issued by his department to facilitate the visit of any study group to Russia. Four of the persons mentioned already held Canadian passports which they had obtained in past years in the ordinary way.

Map Cancer Drive

PORT STANLEY, Sept. 11 — ((CP). — The Ontario Executive of the Canadian Cancer Society mapped its 1951 funds campaign here at a two-day conference ending Sunday. Provincial president E. S. Welch of St. Catharines, was chairman. Marshall Towers of St. Thomas, was appointed director of next year's campaign committee.

PEACE PETITIONERS — A group of left-wing Canadian Congress of Peace members from Montreal and Toronto storms Parliament Hill, petitioning members of Parliament to sign peace-in-Korea pledges. Some of them were ejected from Parliament by impatient MP's.

Jurors Handle Death Gun In Langton Case

SIMCOE, Sept. 11 (CP)—The Crown is expected to conclude its case today against John Herbert McAuliffe, 32-year-old wartime arms expert, charged with murder in the machine gun slaying of two tobacco farmers June 21.

On Saturday—fourth day of the trial—the jury handled a machine gun identified earlier by four witnesses as one found 200 yards from where Arthur Lierman, 31, and William Goddyn, 24, were found slain.

Both were cut down in the pursuit of a bandit fleeing with $23,000 from the Imperial Bank of Canada branch at nearby Langton, almost in the heart of Southwestern Ontario's tobacco-growing country.

The auburn-haired McAuliffe of Windsor, and formerly of North Bay, fidgetted nervously in the prisoner's dock as the Crown continued its parade of witnesses and exhibits.

His face twitched as the gun, exhibit No. 61, was passed to one juror after another.

Among the witnesses who identified it was Robert Holmes, 13, who said he found it in a bush on his father's farm July 3, more than a week after McAuliffe's capture in a shack 23 miles west of here. The boy also told of finding $600 in small bills concealed among leaves and ferns.

Earlier his 10-year-old brother, Larry, testified he found a blue pin-stripe suitcoat and a blue shirt at about the same spot in the bush the previous day Preceding witnesses identified these garments as those worn by the lone gunman who held up the Langton bank.

Constable Len Chambers of the Norfolk detachment of provincial police, the Crown's 47th witness, was on the stand when the court adjourned Saturday.

Defence Counsel W. E. Ross cross-examined police witnesses at some length on the system they employed to identify McAuliffe as the bandit, charging police coached some persons who viewed the police lineup from which the accused was picked.

He also criticized police for allowing a photographer to take a picture of the accused shortly after his capture.

Say Churchill Won't Challenge Defence Plans

LONDON, Sept. 11 — (CP).—Opposition Leader Churchill announced Saturday night his party will not challenge the government's motion in Parliament this week approving the national defence plans.

But he still is expected to criticize what he has called the inadequacy of the Labor Government's £3,400,000,000 rearmament drive.

Churchill's move was considered by observers as a gesture to the world that Britain is united on basic principles.

His party would have been in a strong position in next week's defence debates to force a vote on the issue, defeat the government, and thus force its resignation.

The government motion has been drafted to cause as little controversy as possible.

It approves the proposals on increased pay for the services and extension of draft enlistment, "designed by His Majesty's Government to meet the growing dangers to world peace, of which the war in Korea is an example."

in the face of death

the real-life story of a cancer victim

If you had been told last November that you had but a few months, maybe weeks to live, how would you prepare for the inevitable? What kind of life had you led? What part does religion play in your everyday living? Do you think it right that man should suffer unnecessarily? Do you believe in Mercy Killing? If you knew that your days were numbered, these questions would demand immediate answers. Mr. C. T. Russell, for whom cancer has marked a date on the calendar, has thought these things out. He has set his house in order. He tells in simple, yet deeply-moving terms, his innermost thoughts and emotions; how he has prepared to meet death with calmness and dignity.

The Standard is privileged to print Mr. Russell's story in the hope that not only cancer sufferers, but others, too, will gain from it both strength and understanding.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

The big lacrosse playoff tonight—Owen Sound Crescents vs. the Petes—will be played in Civic Arena tonight at 8.45; yes, that's right. Civic Arena instead of Miller Bowl. On account of the club doesn't want to risk the fray being rained out. So, fans get a chance to sit indoors in solid comfort and see these senior "A" squads clash on a fine floor in a hot scrap. It could be the last senior game seen here this season, as Owen Sound leads the best-of-seven quarter-finals two games to one, with the next one after tonight being in Owen Sound on Wednesday. The Petes simply have to take this, but then they beat the strong Crescents here last time out and might well do it again. The playoff should pack the place.

* * * * * *

The grid Orfuns, who open ORFU senior "B" play here Friday night at 8.15 under the arcs in Morrow Park—playing Oshawa Red Raiders—have eight imports and 25 homebrews. Chuck Paul of Ottawa isn't in yet, as he plays for the Nats in the Border Pro Ball Loop. An outstanding hoofer, he is a star shortstop in ball and a former junior "A" puckist. Might be a good bet to replace Danny Brown next year here, eh? Heavy drills for the Bamforth squad this week before the big parade and commencement Friday p.m. Johnny Giardino is another local husky back again, and the team is quite strong on reserves this season.

Merchants Earn Title

Senior "A" baseball came to a sad finish here Saturday night as more than 2,400 fans wept quietly—or felt like doing so. Oshawa Merchants mauled three home hurlers for 23 hits to win 18-3 and take the Viaduct Loop title. They earned it and we wish 'em well. Local flingers just didn't have it—Bill Dadson being the only one to beat Oshawa in playoffs, and he did it twice. Some lapses in the field, but you couldn't blame the shell-shocked gardeners as triples, doubles and singles bounced around and over them for nine long innings. A good game for four frames and then came the deluge.

* * * * * *

Too bad before such a hefty crowd, but the star-studded USA Oshawa crew had the power. Davidson also hurled a good game. Bud Harrison kept the Petes in the game for a time with a two-run homer, but it ended up on earned runs 15-2 for Oshawa as their potent bats beat out a tattoo of bingles, eight for extra bases. They certainly avenged that 10-1 beating the Petes gave 'em the night before. The Merchants will continue along the senior "A" playdown trail and they have a final series also with London Majors in the Congress tourney. Some talk of the Petes going into senior "B" playdowns, the OBA permitting runners-up to do this.

Those OBA Playdowns

Ed Woodcock's local bantams edged Oshawa 8-7 in 10 heats Saturday to even up their best-of-three OBA playdown series, the third tilt being in Port Hope at 5.30 Thursday. Bill Murphy's juvenile Petes dropped a tough 1-0 joust to the Motor Citizens, and will go to Oshawa on Saturday for a 5.15 replay of their previous tie in the stadium. Should they win that, the teams settle it the following Monday in Port Hope. Ray Pammett's midgets fell 13-1 as Oshawa swept that round in two straight. Bill Post's local peewees still await word on their first playdown round, probably against a Toronto team. More on the minor ballsters again.

In OASA play, Mutuals looked good behind Bob Greenlaw's four-hit hurling chore Saturday eve here to blank New Toronto 5-0. Bob Crowe, George Hawkes, Wimp Borland, Phil Bryde and George Hunter led the hitting attack off two visiting flingers, and Greenlaw clouted a three-bagger. Return game is Tuesday in New Toronto, the players leaving McLeod's at 5.15. Orphans have their return junior joust in Oshawa tomorrow night, also, leaving from the Sugar Bowl at 6.15. Don't know when East City play in Oshawa, there being a mixup Friday with the locals failing to show up for the scheduled playoff there—and were Pedlars ever burned up! No info yet on when the city loop finals resume.

Mutuals Take First One In Playdowns

Flies were as thick as fleas on a dog's back and grounders as scarce as a hen's teeth at the Bowl Saturday night. Except for one small miscue the Mutuals solidly backed the four-hit pitching of Bob Greenlaw to down the New Toronto nine 5-0. This game was the first in the best-of-three intermediate series.

New Toronto only reached third base four times in the nine-hitting tilt before 150 fans. In the first after a single down the third base line, Norm Sutman died on third when the next two flied out. Earl Fox dropped a double into left in the second but was caught by Borland at the plate when he tried to dash for the home when the catcher bobbled a pitch.

In the seventh Greenlaw had his busiest moment. The first batter received a free trip and managed to reach third when John Elaschuk singled after two others went out, the first on strikes and the other on a fly. Greenlaw promptly struck out the fifth batter.

In the eighth after the first batter flied out, George Wilson singled to centre and then reached third on an error and a stolen base. Greenlaw again came through striking out the next two batters, Sutman and Bill Coon.

Had Fast Ball

Jim Venner started for the New Toronto squad and held the Mutuals off until the fourth with a fast ball and a curve. George Hawkes doubled to left in that inning and jogged across the plate on a double by Wimpy Borland. Jack Carpenter whacked the ball into left but Borland was nailed at the plate when he tried to stretch out the hit for a run.

After one was out in the sixth, Nels Foster walked. Hawkes then singled to right. New Toronto tried for Foster at third and missed as he raced across with the second run. On the same play they tried for Hawkes at second and errored. He pulled up at third and later scored when Borland flied out to deep centre.

The Mutuals waved goodbye to Venner in the seventh. Reg Leether opened with a single and advanced to second on an error. Bob Crowe sacrificed shoving Leether to third. George Hunter singled scoring Leether but was out at the plate when Bob Greenlaw tripled. Greenlaw later scored as Phil Pryde singled to centre. George Dvernchuk was sent in and struck out Foster to end the rally.

George Wilson, Toronto third sacker, pulled the nicest catch of the night in the fifth when he raced up the bank after a foul ball and caught it with one hand. Jack Carpenter and Nels Foster were kept busy in the last half of the game chasing flies. Carpenter caught four and Foster two. George Hunter was good at first for the Mutuals. Besides catching foul balls he excelled on a hard grounder which he scooped up in his glove for an easy out.

Cobourg Takes Lead In Playoff Series

PORT HOPE, Sept. 11. —Cobourg Legionnaires took a 2 to 1 lead in games in the final playoff series for the championship of the OBA Lakeshore League Saturday afternoon by shellacking Port Hope Ontarios, 11 to 3.

Bill Campbell pitched a masterful game for the winners, giving up but six scattered hits. He struck out five, three of these strikeouts coming in the fourth inning, when Port Hope had the bases loaded.

Port Hope pitchers, Kevin Mooney and John Holman, gave up 17 hits between them. Five went to Cobourg's Sonnie Beckstead, who had a perfect day at bat.

One big Cobourg inning, the third, provided the margin of victory as six hits were good for seven runs.

Oshawa Knocks Off Petes To Take Viaduct Loop Title

Oshawa Merchants captured the championship of the Viaduct Baseball League here Saturday night when they hammered out 23 safe hits, eight for extra bases, to beat the Petes 18-3 and take the final series four games to two. A crowd of nearly 2,300 witnessed a tight tilt for four frames, but it blew wide open in the fifth as the Merchants pounded seven runs across the plate, hitting three hurlers hard and getting revenge for the 10-1 defeat the Petes handed them the previous night.

George Davidson scattered seven hits from the Oshawa slab, striking out eight and walking but two. His support generally was good, while the Petes were loose afield. But it was the home hurling which lost the game as the Merchants had 15 earned runs to two. Doug Plunkett lasted into the fourth on the Petes' hill, Bill Edgar taking over then but being shelled out in the fifth, and Gunner Whitehill having a tough time the rest of the route.

Comes Deluge

Oshawa got three runs in the second but the Petes got two right back in their half. Again in the fourth, after the Merchants scored a pair, the Murphyites kept close by getting one to trail 5-3 going into the fifth. But it was murder from there on in as the hard-hitting visitors scored seven in the fifth, one in the sixth, four more in the seventh and another in the eighth. Not a local player reached third the rest of the one-sided affair.

Aaron Bitman was the leading Oshawa hitter with a triple and two singles in six. Sherry Rowland smashed out two triples, and a double in five, Davidson having a two-bagger and two singles in five. Roger Wood came through with a triple and two singles for six, as Harry Hill clouted a double and single in four. Two hits each were gained by the rest of the regulars, Barnes, Paul Thompson, Walsh and Napolitano. Bud Harrison had a homer and single in four for the losers, Al Menzies one for two, and Joe Stewart a double.

Local Lapses

The victors were good in the field most of the way, as the home crew had a number of lapses, misjudging several flies which went for hits and kicking other blows around. A double-play, Harrison to Menzies and a catch by Joe Lowrey were their only fielding features. Oshawa came up with two twin killings, Rowland to Napolitano, and Wood to Bitman to Rowland, besides featuring with a catch by Walsh and a pickup by Bitman. Paul Thompson was shaken up in the seventh when he collided with Barnes, and he was replaced next inning by Hill, with Darrell Thompson going into right field.

Ottawa Whips Tigers-Cats In 23-15 Game

By The Canadian Press

There has been a lot of lop-sided football scores this season, but the race for the Grey Cup is still wide open.

Take the case of Ottawa Rough Riders. After dropping two straight, they were counted out by almost everyone but themselves. Then they came back and licked Hamilton Tiger-Cats 23-15 Saturday. And Tiger-Cats had appeared to be the team to beat.

Coach Frank Clair, of Toronto Argonauts, says that if his club can get past Tiger-Cats next Saturday, "we'll win this league."

But he said that in the flush of a 43-12 victory over the Dominion champion Montreal Alouettes. And his Argos still have the Rough Riders to meet.

In the west, it could be a neck-and-neck fight all the way to the wire. The first-place three-way tie in the Western Interprovincial Football Union will be broken up tonight, however, when Saskatchewan Roughriders play the Eskimos in Edmonton and Calgary Stampeders play hosts to Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

Saskatchewan, Winnipeg and Edmonton all share first place after Saturday's games. Winnipeg smashed Edmonton 20-6 and Calgary dropped its fifth straight as Roughriders rolled to a 16-11 triumph.

Win Second Game

In the Ontario Rugby Football Union, Sarnia Imperials won their second successive game by a 39-0 score. This time it was over Windsor Rockets. Last week it was Toronto Balmy Beach, other club in the loop. In each game halfback Johnny Chorestecki scored 23 points.

If it weren't for the fact that Imperials already have been plastered by Tiger-Cats and Argos in exhibition games, they, too, could seem world-beaters. The only All-Canadian team in senior football, they pounded the Rockets while Chorestecki got three touchdowns, five converts and a placement. Veteran Gus Scheiers and Bill Weiss got the other touchdowns.

Argos proved their superiority over Montreal in the first quarter when they rolled for three converted touchdowns—Al Dekdebrun intercepted a pass and went 55 yards for one; Ulysses Curtis raced 75 yards for another; and a seven-yard end run by Billy Bass accounted for the third after Joe Krol had picked up a fumble and gone for 23.

Bass and Curtis each scored another touchdown. Lorne Parkin and Jake Dunlop each got majors on recovered fumbles. Nick Volpe converted all seven touchdowns and Krol kicked a single.

Tommy Manastersky and Virgil Wagner went for Montreal's only touchdowns, both converted by Nick Scollard.

Come From Behind

Ottawa fought from behind twice to trample the Tiger-Cats. Fast-stepping Edgar Jones put Hamilton ahead with a first-quarter touchdown and Bill Larochelle got it back on an extension run. Then Bill Gregus put Hamilton in front again. Andy Gordon snaked across early in the second half and then tossed a touchdown pass to Larochelle to put Riders ahead again.

A touchdown by Ottawa's Paul Gibson in the final quarter clinched the game.

Oshawa Takes Title In No-Hit CNE Game

TORONTO, Sept. 11—(CP)—Norm Bagnell Saturday night hurled a no-hit, no-run game to lead Oshawa Pedlars to the Canadian National Exhibition Softball championship.

Bagnell struck out 15 men and issued only a single walk as Oshawa defeated Hamilton Slaters 6-0 in the final game of a two-week series. Bill Barker hit a four run homer in the seventh.

The spectacular mound performance came in the second half of an iron-man stunt by the slim Oshawa hurler. He tossed a four-hitter in an afternoon game as Pedlars downed Toronto Hustlers 3-1 in a semi-final match.

Kingston Loses To UEW In Close Fray

Perfect conditions prevailed for the Ontario soccer intermediate semi-final game Saturday afternoon when Kingston United lost to the Peterborough U.E. in an excellent brand of the code by a 3-2 count on King Edward Park Kingston player got the third goal against his own team; although a Petes player would have connected anyway. Best for the visitors were Neighalo, Gargaro, and H. Pyle, an old Peterborough player. For U.E.W., R. Strong, Smith and Munday, the latter two coming from Cobourg. This win gives the local boys a one-goal lead.

U.E. club introduced two new players in their line-up — A. Smith, Cobourg (late of Hamilton Acas. of Scottish League); also F. C. Munday, Cobourg, late of Ulster United, Toronto, and a Welsh Internationalist from Wales. They both scored a goal for the U.E.

Dave Folger, Kingston regular custodian, was present at the local game after having sustained a broken ankle in a recent practice match. Also Kingston's brilliant right full back took ill with the flu the night before the game.

Drove Hard

The Petes created enthusiasm as Strong rattled the cross-bar from close range. He gathered up the ball quickly to make the Kingston goalie save with outstretched arms to concede a successful corner kick which Smith stopped on the run and with deadly accuracy twirled the ball into the net. Again the Petes took the initiative through E. Downer, Steel and Craig on the half back division as they plied the ball to the feet of their forwards. Smith, Cobourg player, was on the ball to drive hard for goal as the custodian made spectacular saves. Halroyd, Boyd and Smith had drives into goal as Kingston full backs held off the steady pressure until the interval.

Kingston put on the pressure to confine the activities inside the Petes' goal. Munday, full back, along with Stan McGann battled them to the limit. A beautiful by Gargaro finally resulted in him slamming the ball against the upright from a few yards out. Again Smith came into the limelight with his accuracy in shooting. Success finally came U.E. way as Munday broke up a Kingston attack and quickly travelled down the left wing to lift the ball into the far corner of the goal to make it 2-0. Although Strong deserved a goal from the shot that hit the cross-bar, Kingston revived again to find Garagro in a brilliant movement as he bulged the net with a terrific drive to make it 2-1. Craig retired injured, H. Latham taking his place. Eventually the break went in favor of U.E. as a Kingston player scored the third one on a faulty goal clearance as Kingston battled to the final whistle to gain the second counter through Neighalo, Polish boy, to make it read 3-2.

Kingston—G. Lapage, goal; G. Grandy, and R. Mesiner, full backs; J. Polilitor, H. Pyle and V. Berryerick, half backs; R. Hutchinson, C. Heighalo, J. Gillespie, M. Gargaro and R. Dack, forwards; subs, G. Forest, A. MacGregor and J. Stanford.

Peterborough U.E.—J. Hutchinson, goal; S. McGann and F. C. Munday, full backs; H. Steel, E. Downer and J. Craig, half backs; R. Strong A. Boyd, J. Halroyd, A. Smith and A. E. Featherstone, forwards; subs, G. Downer, S. Murduff and H. Latham.

Referee—Jack Adams, Peterborough. Linesmen, Les Digby, Belleville and J. Brown, Kingston.

DiMaggio Hits His Stride Gets 3 Homers In Yank Win

By RALPH RODEN,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

New York Yankees' hopes of a second American League pennant have found a new stimulus in the booming bat of Joe DiMaggio.

The lean Yankee Clipper, a great "climax" performer who dramatically fired last year's "team of destiny" to the championship, is showing signs of doing it again in the nerve jabbing stretch drive.

DiMaggio created Griffith Stadium history Sunday as he smashed three prodigious 400 foot plus home runs into the left-field stands. His blows—the first time a player has planted three in the distant tiers in a single game—brought the Yankees an 8-1 victory over the Senators in the first half of a doubleheader.

Besides his homers, which raised his output to 27, DiMaggio socked a double and drew a walk, batted in four runs, scored four and raised his batting average to .293.

The Clipper almost found the range twice in the nightcap which was halted in the fourth inning because of rain, with the Senators ahead 6-2. Leaping catches in front of the barrier deprived DiMaggio of two additional home runs.

Closing On Tigers

DiMaggio's demonstration of his old-time power arrived on the eve of the Yankees' final and most important western trip of the season.

By taking the opener, the Yankees edged to within half a game of the league-leading Detroit Tigers, who split a doubleheader with Chicago White Sox. The Yanks also retained their half-game edge over the third-place Boston Red Sox, who turned back their Philadelphia "cousins" 6-2.

Lefty Hal Newhouser pitched the Tigers to a 1-0 and 12-inning victory over Randy Gumpert in the opener at Chicago, winning out on a triple by Hoot Evers and single by Johnny Groth. The White Sox took the nightcap 5-4 behind Ray Scarborough, who gained his first victory in six decisions over the Tigers this year.

A three-run pinch-hit double by Tom Wright featured a four-run eighth inning rally that gave the Red Sox their 22nd consecutive victory over the Athletics at Fenway Park.

Walt Dropo smashed a two-run homer, his 33rd, to start the Red Sox scoring in the fourth.

Damp Pennant Hopes

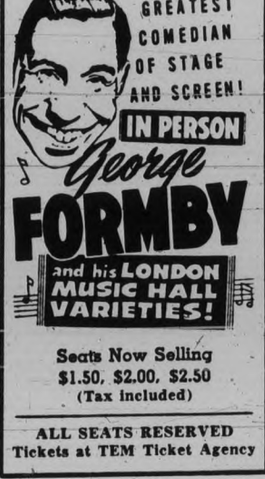
St. Louis Browns further dampened Cleveland's pennant hopes by nosing out the fourth place Indians 2-1. It was the Browns' fourth straight victory over the Tribe, who trail by seven games. Stubby Overmire scattered eight Cleveland hits in besting Bob Feller, who permitted only five.

In the National League, Boston Braves defeated the pace-setting Philadelphia Phillies 3-1 in a game that was called in the sixth inning because of rain. The score reverted back to the fifth and washed out a homer by rookie Johnny Mayo of the Phils. Johnny Sain gained his 18th victory for the Braves.



The Phils, however, retained their 6½ game bulge over the runner-up Dodgers, as Brooklyn dropped a 6-4 decision to New York Giants. Home runs by Monte Irvin, Bob Thomson and Wes Westrum featured the Giant drive that returned Larry Jensen his 16th victory.

St. Louis split a doubleheader with the Pirates, winning the opener, 6-5 in 10 innings but losing the finale, 6-2.

Cincinnati Reds took a doubleheader from Chicago Cubs, 12-5 and 2-1.

By The Associated Press.

The pennant-winning Rochester Red Wings are ruled solid favorites to win the International League playoffs Tuesday night.

Johnny Keane's well-balanced team, which won the flag by seven games, entertain Jersey City's fourth place Giants in the first game of a best-of-seven series.

In the other semi-final set, Baltimore plays host to the runner-up Montreal Royals. The two victors will meet in another best-of-seven series to determine the opponent of the American Association champion in the little world series.

Following are the dates for the semi-final series

(Next four games at Montreal. Unknown at moment if teams will have off day Friday, Sept. 15 for travelling).

The circuit completed its 67th consecutive regular season Sunday, but little of note happened.

Montreal edged Toronto 5-4 in 13 innings; Buffalo's last-place Bisons turned back Rochester, 6-4; Springfield whipped Syracuse 5-1 to clinch fifth place, and Baltimore and Jersey City divided a doubleheader. Baltimore won the first game 3-1, but dropped the nightcap 7-2.

RECORD TUNA — Cmdr. D. M. Hodgson of Montreal, Canadian Navy officer, stands beside a 977-pound tuna he hooked and boated off St. Anne's Cape Breton, which he claims is the largest ever taken on rod and line. It took him an hour and twenty minutes to land the bluefin which measured 9 feet, 9 inches, and towed his boat 12 miles before giving up. At right is Percy Macritchie who rowed as the commander fished. International Game Fish Association records show the present world record as a 927-pound bluefin caught in Ipswich Bay, Mass., in 1940.

Detroit Red Wings now have two farm teams in the Ontario Hockey Association.

Reports from Windsor during the weekend were that Oshawa Generals have been taken under the wing of the champion Red Wings. Windsor Spitfires are already a Detroit farm club.

Larry Aurie, one-time Red Wing star and a Detroit scout last season, will be the Oshawa coach, replacing Tommy Anderson.

Lloyd Pollock, Spitfires manager who made the announcement, said that despite the dual sponsorship, Windsor will get first choice of new amateurs coming into the Detroit organization.

The dual sponsorship by the Red Wings in the nine-team OTA circuit brings the Detroit system up to par with Toronto Maple Leafs who also sponsor two teams, Toronto Marlboros and Toronto St. Michaels.

Under the 50-mile zoning rule Detroit had to obtain permission from Toronto to take over the Oshawa club, which finished in the cellar last year.

Bib Jim Konstanty, the Philadelphia Phillies relief specialist, Saturday was elected Philadelphia's most valuable major league baseball player.

Konstanty got 84,332 votes of a total of 190,884 cast in a contest conducted by the Sunday Bulletin. He polled twice as many as his closest rival, Del Ennis, the Phils slugging rightfielder.

The on-again-off-again Major Series for topflight Canadian senior hockey clubs is on, says A. W. Pickard of Regina.

The past president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association made the statement during the weekend, at the annual meeting of the Saskatchewan branch in Moose Jaw.

"The only thing that can throw a monkey-wrench into the series would be the failure of the Ontario Hockey Association's Senior "A" group to operate," he told the meeting.

The major series was proposed by the CAHA as a new playoff for teams in the country's top senior circuits—the Western Canada, OHA, Quebec and Maritime leagues.

Before Pickard spoke, the latest report was that the series — born at the association's annual meeting in Banff, Alta., earlier this year—would be shelved because professional hockey interests hadn't approved it.

A two-day hockey clinic for New England coaches, players and fans will be held Sept. 26-27 at the Boston Arena, it was announced Saturday night.

Many top hockey figures have been invited to attend the clinic. Among them are:

Ted Lindsay of Detroit, the National Hockey League's top scorer last season; Chuck Rayner, New York goalie and 1949-50 winner of the Hart Trophy as the national circuit's most valuable player; Kenny Reardon, of Montreal Canadiens and Milt Schmidt of Boston Bruins.

University of Toronto's senior football team will use the "T" formation in the Intercollegiate League this season.

When the Blues arrived at their Lake Couchiching pre-season training camp last Saturday, coach Bob Masterson had not yet decided whether to switch from the single wing system he had used since taking over coaching the Blues two years ago.

After a week of seeing what talent he would have to work with he made up his mind to make the change, although he still has the problem of finding a good quarterback who can get the quick-breaking plays from a "T" under way.

Snead Breaks Course Record

READING, Pa., Sept. 11 (AP). —Samuel Jackson Snead, the golfing West Virginia hillbilly, headed for St. Louis today, his pockets jingling with cash.

It was an old feeling for Snead, biggest money winner among North American golfers, but the jingle of the coin was louder than it has been since last May.

For Snead had won his first major tournament since he took the Colonial invitation at Fort Worth, Tex.

It was quite a victory. In picking up top money of $2,600 at the Reading open, Snead shattered the competitive course record on the 6,456-yard Berkshire Country Club layout. And he set his record in a driving rainstorm.

Sunday he fired his fourth straight sub-par round to come home with his record-breaking score of 268.

Secret Parley Asked On Wool

CANBERRA, Australia, Sept. 11 — (Reuters). — The United States has asked Australia for a high-level secret conference on wool, an authoritative source here said today.

Observers speculated on the possibility the US was seeking imposition of a price ceiling on wool, acquisition of the clip by the Australian Government, abandonment of the auction sales system, and allocation of the clip by quota, Russia getting none.

The American request for a conference was said by the source to be couched in the broadest possible terms and was officially merely for discussion on wool problems generally.

The United States was known to be perturbed by the volume of Australian wool going to Russia and her satellites, and wanted to stop this leakage of a material which it regarded as a vital defence commodity.

The source added Australia would fight to retain sales by auction which the wool industry viewed as the most vital asset.

SAVE ELECTRICITY!

MAINTAIN PEAK PRODUCTION AND FULL EMPLOYMENT

The production of essential war materials to support the United Nations' fighting forces is reflected in increased activity by Ontario's industries, resulting in a sharp upswing in the use of power which has been particularly evident in the past three weeks. In Southern Ontario on September 7th, the demand for primary energy reached an all-time high of 39,000,500 kilowatt-hours, exceeding that of the corresponding day a year ago by 4,530,282 kilowatt-hours, very severely taxing available resources.

The current rate of growth is both unseasonal and unprecedented and reflects the tremendous industrial development within the province; the increase in population; and the greater demands for electricity as a result of the high rate of new home construction.

Hydro's record-breaking expansion program has already added more than 600,000 horsepower to Ontario's power supply. By early in 1951, this will be progressively increased by 300,000 horsepower. Additions during the balance of 1951 and in 1952 will provide a further 720,000 horsepower. However, even with the accelerated program to bring in new resources, the rate of growth in power demands indicates that it is necessary to avoid all waste in the use of electricity.

We urge all consumers to save power in every way possible. Please turn off lights and other electrical equipment when not required. Every kilowatt-hour that is saved will help our industries to maintain maximum production of essential materials.

50% UK Adults Believe War Coming--Survey

LONDON, Sept. 11 (Reuters)—More than 50 per cent of Britain's adults now believe war is coming, according to a public opinion survey reported by Labor MP Richard Crossman.

Writing in the Sunda yPictorial, Crossman says the survey was commissioned by the U.S. Embassy "in an attempt to determine the attitude of the British people to the Korean War."

No confirmation of Crossman's disclosure was available from the embassy today.

According to the survey, more than 90 per cent of the British people are ready, if war comes, to fight it out in full collaboration with the United States and the other members of the United Nations, Crossman says.

Sent To Washington

He says the survey's results have just been received in Washington. It was believed there that State Secretary Dean Acheson intended to use them in his discussions with Foreign Ministers Bevin of Britain and Schuman of France to show that Britons are prepared to accept even greater sacrifices to speed up rearmament.

"If he does this, Mr. Bevin has a simple reply," the article says. "It is not true, as Mr. Churchill and some Americans are suggesting, that the Labor Goernment has to be needled by Washington into producing its defence plans. On the contrary, at each state Britain has taken the lead."

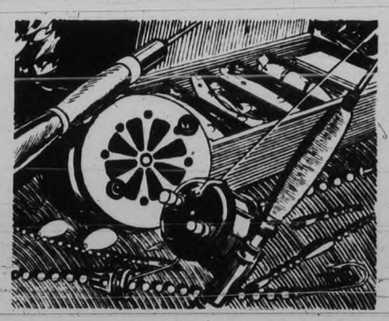
So...Nickel goes fishing



With the full power of the engine behind it, a propeller shaft has to have great strength and stiffness or it will bend or break. "Monel" shafts give remarkable satisfaction and long life.

Equipment made of Nickel alloys is used in handling and canning fish and other sea food because it is rust-proof, sanitary and stands an immense amount of wear.

Trolling lines of "Z" Nickel wire are being used more and more because they are tough, rust-proof and easy to reel in. Fish hooks and tackle made of Nickel alloys are strong as steel, and resist corrosion even in salt water.

Forty-three years of research have uncovered hundreds of uses for Nickel in the United States and other countries. Now Nickel exports bring in millions of U.S. dollars yearly. These dollars help pay the wages of the 14,000 Nickel employees in Canada and also help pay Canadian railwaymen, lumbermen, iron and steel workers and other men and women making supplies for the Nickel mines, smelters and refineries.

Need Sympathy To Help Reduce

TORONTO, Sept. 11 (CP) — Fat people need sympathy and encouragement to help them reduce, two Regina doctors and a dietitian claim.

The doctors, D. E. Rodgers and J. Grant McFetridge, and the dietitian, Eileen Price, say, too, that only a reduction in eating will eliminate weight. Pills and exercise alone won't do it.

They reported their findings, based on a study of 600 cases of obesity, in the Canadian Medical Association Journal.

They claim the diet doesn't have to be as severe as many of the prescribed diets. They suggest from 1,200 to 2,000 calories a day—most other courses of diet suggest a maximum of 1,200 calories.

The article also suggests:

1. Don't try to do it all in a couple of weeks. That's liable to increase the possibility of a heart attack.

2. The less you think about food, the easier it is to stick to a diet.

PETERBOROUGH EXAMINER

VOL. CI. No. 5 — MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 11, 1950 — PRICE FIVE CENTS

Former Resident Notes Changes Praises Progress

"The people of Peterborough are to be congratulated on the sites they have chosen for the new City Hall," said Ernest Hensley of Flint Mich., formerly of Peterborough, on his way home early this week after a two months' holiday in England. That was his ninth transatlantic crossing. Mr. Hensley was accompanied by his wife.

"After years of absence it is grand to be back in Peterborough not only to meet old friends again, but also to see the way Peterborough has progressed.

"I was much impressed with the many new stores and the general expansion of the downtown area. Civic Hospital is really a wonderful building in a splendid location, and when the grounds are landscaped it will be a place of beauty in addition to its service to the the city is making."

"That will be a fine central scenic vista when the City Hall is completed and you can look in either way through Victoria Park and Confederation Square. I think future generations will be grateful to the council and the citizens for this fine civic investment.

"As a reader of the Examiner I noted that their is some talk of pulling down the old Nicholls Hospital building because the council has not yet had any bidders. I don't think you should be too hasty in that matter. Why begin thinking of demolition so soon, especially with the progress is making?

"There is a large section of that hospital which should have many years of usefulness. It might be used for convalescents, or for living quarters for pensioners, chronic patients, or for some other groups. There are elderly people who have helped make Peterborough what it is. Many are struggling along on small pensions. Possibly the old hospital might make an ideal house of rest for them. The grounds are splendid, and the building could be made comfortable. You can't help but agree with the Examiner that there has been demolition of buildings in Peterborough some years ago that the community eventually regretted.

"So, I hope the council will go a bit slowly about disposing of the old hospital. I think we would all like to see its spirit live on in some service to the people, if it is practical.

"As one who lived and worked for years in Peterborough, I am happy to get back again, to see the way it has developed, and also to see its beauty. I was glad to see Max Swanston elected Mayor. I remember him from baseball years, and I think he and his council have had to deal with some of the biggest problems in the whole 100 years the city is now celebrating. Don't be afraid to boost Peterborough, the best little city in Canada."

On Allied Control Colonel Dies

HAMILTON, Sept. 11—(CP)—Lt.-Col. Walter Cecil Fletcher, recently retired from the Allied Control Commission in Western Germany, died suddenly Sunday. He was 60.

Jewish New Year Rites Begin At Sundown

The Jewish New Year will be celebrated on September 12 and 13 and will mark the 5,711th anniversary of the creation of the world. The special symbolic rite for the new year is the sounding of the ram's horn, the Shofar—the oldest of wind instruments. This and other observances will be carried out at the Beth Israel Synagogue, Reid St., under Rabbi J. Mayer beginning at sundown, tonight.

The celebration of the two days of the new year is the beginning of ten days of penitence, climaxed by the Herald of the Day of Atonement, which will take place on September 21.

This day is one of fasting, self-examination and prayer. The Jews throughout the world will pray to God to hasten the time when the mighty shall be just and the just, mighty; when all the children of men shall form one band of brotherhood and when national arrogance and oppression will pass away.

Great Activity On Park Street

Park St. south may never again see the volume of activity that is now bringing essential improvements to that new section of the city.

At the corner of Park and Cameron Sts. three civic construction jobs are in progress, the sewage disposal plant across the river with Hardy Construction Co. contractor; the Park St. drain, Curran and Briggs; and the Cameron St. sewer, where Mohan Construction Co. began their contract last week.

The Arnold Steele housing project is far advanced further to the west near Monaghan Rd.

Curran and Briggs are striding up Park St laying the base of the rectangular concrete. At the south end the new water course is enclosed, and the reinorcement steel rods are set up beyond Howden Ave. and McKellar St.

Mohan Construction are using a new type of equipment and practice in dewatering the path of the Cameron St sewer to a depth of 14 feet before they begin excavation for the laying of the piper.

$35 Taken From Till Service Station Theft

About $35 in silver and some three dozen packages of cigarettes were stolen from the office of Williamson's Service Station on George Street South, Saturday night.

The robbery was discovered and reported to city police Sunday morning.

The thief or thieves had broken a window at the rear of the building to get into the garage and then broke the office door window to enter the office. The silver was taken from the till.

Primate Cites Pioneers Faith At Centenary Service

It is a dangerous heresy to suppose that science can save the world or provide a wholly satisfactory solution to our present difficulties, said the Anglican Primate of Canada, the Most Rev. George F. Kingston, at the centennial service at St. John's Church on Sunday morning; the world's salvation will come only through Christ, and Christ needs not only science, but every form of knowledge and service to complete His purposes.

The centennial service was largely attended. The Mayor and Aldermen were present in their official capacities, as were also the Board of Education, the Centennial Committee, and a number of city officers. The visit of Archbishop Kingston is the first in a series of observances by Peterborough churches to mark the centennial year.

The Archbishop took as his text Deuteronomy 32:7: "Remember the days of old, consider the years of many generations." At a centennial celebration, said he, a just estimate of the qualities which had shaped the community in the past would show the direction which it might be expected to take in the future. Since the founding of Peterborough many changes in the external world had come about. The qualities which had distinguished the pioneers, however, were as important now as they were a century ago. These qualities His Grace named as courage, hard work, teamwork and religious conviction.

Courage For Future

Courage for the future was as hard to preserve, and as necessary, as it had been for those who made a home in the wilderness. Hard work was particularly important in an age when "bread without effort," and social benefits without corresponding responsibilities were offered by unrealistic political faiths. Teamwork was as sorely needed in a modern, complex city as in a pioneer community. And without religious conviction and a universal concern for religious values morals and society could not help but decay. "Let us not pretend that we do not need the guidance of God in fighting the Devil," said Archbishop Kingston.

Tribute to Archdeacons

Before beginning his sermon the Archbishop paid generous tribute to Ven. Archdeacon W. P. Robertson, under whom he had served as a deacon when the former was vicar of Truro; Archdeacon Robertson's advice and guidance had meant much to him. The Archbishop also referred to the untiring assistance which he had received from Ven. Archdeacon C. W. Balfour, when he was Bishop of Algoma, and the Archdeacon had a charge in Fort William. His Grace made a friendly reference to his visits to Peterborough when he was on the faculty of Trinity College, Toronto.

The service included prayers with special reference to the municipality of Peterborough, and the singing of the Te Deum. In the procession Ven. Archdeacon Balfour acted as chaplain to the Primate, and carried the primatial cross. The music was under the direction of F. G. Mann, L. Mus.

Boarder Did Not Pay Up

A charge against Lorenzo Dennie, Ompah, Ont., of failing to pay his board and leaving his boarding house "surreptiously" was dismissed in police court today when it turned out his landlady, Mrs. Thomas Townsend, 1065 High St., knew he was leaving.

Dennie was at first confused by the wording of the charge, but when Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw said it meant he was charged with sneaking out, Dennie said, "That's going a little too far."

Mrs. Townsend testified she knew that Dennie was leaving, in fact she asked him to go. But he moved just across the street and she thought she would get the $30 owing her."

But Dennie stayed only one night at his new boarding house and then disappeared. Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, explained to Mrs. Townsend because she knew he was leaving, there was no evidence to support the charge.

Speaking from the prisoner's box, Dennie said he had money to pay Mrs. Townsend as soon as police returned his belongings to him. The case was dismissed, but Mrs. Townsend got her money.

Former Examiner Carrier Has Screen Play Accepted

A former Examiner carrier boy, Wilfred Read, has written a screen play called "Lochinvar" which has been sold to Columbia studios. Mr. Read is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Read, formerly of Peterborough and now of Inglewood, California.

The play is adapted from a book he wrote called "Lochinvar". It will soon be made into a technicolor motion picture.

A talented writer critics have predicted that Mr Read will go far in this field. He has written several successful books which have been published.

Mr. Read was born in Peterborough and obtained his secondary education at PCVS. He is a graduate of the University of California at Los Angeles.

Plant Employees Cobourg CGE Get 12c Boost

Production workers at the Cobourg plant of the CGE, organized by Local 534, International Union of Electrical Workers (CIO-CCL), are to receive a boost of 12 cents an hour.

Terms of the new CGE agreement with the only certified IUE union in their Canadian chain have not been released. It is understood, however, that there will be a three hour reduction in the work week, bringing it down to 42 hours.

The 12 cents breaks down into two parts: six cents to maintain the same take-home pay for 42 hours as for the previous 45 hours; and another six cents, straight increase.

Tonight there will be a membership meeting of Local 534 to vote on whether or not to accept the recommendation of the negotiating committee. Its acceptance is considered little more than a formality.

Church Worker Dies At 92

Mrs. Margaret Jane Wilson, one of the oldest and most respected ladies in Peterborough, died at her residence, 243 Wescott St. on Saturday at the age of 92 years. A faithful worker of the Methodist Church, Mrs. Wilson first attended the Charlotte Street Church and the tent-beginning of St. James Ladies' Aid, now known as WA, and acted as its president until health no longer permitted her to accept the responsibility.

Mrs. Wilson was a tireless worker for many years at the Peterborough Exhibition, in charge of St. James' dining tent from which substantial funds were raised for the building of the present structure. The St. James WA honoured her with a large church tea on her 90th birthday.

Born in Newtonville, P.Q., daughter of the late George Hamilton and Mary Ann Hodgson, she came to Peterborough 67 years ago. Her husband, Alvah Wilson, predeceased her 25 years ago. Mrs. Wilson leaves one daughter, [illegible] Sound and a son, Ernest A. Wilson of Lethbridge, Alta.

Funeral will be on Wednesday from her residence to St. James United Church where service will be conducted at 2.30 p.m. by the Rev. F. W. Craik. Burial will be at Little Lake Cemetery.

Bus Drivers Suggest Completing Of Paving

Some of the bus drivers are wondering whether curbs are to be laid on Lock St. in preparation for paving, before the surfacing job is done on several streets that have been made ready for it.

These men who get around the town a lot say that both Park St. north and Monaghan Road are included in the bus routes, and so is Lock St. Their suggestion is that the paving should be well under way on the first streets before Lock is messed up.

Theirs is just the layman's view, but they are commenting that both Part St. North and Monaghan Road have been left in upset condition for weeks. In their opinion the same kind of disturbance should not be extended to Lock St. until the contractor is catching up on his plans.

TOT WINS GUN

Three-year-old Bonny Martin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Martin, Edison Ave., won a draw prize that would make many a Peterborough resident's eyes twinkle with glee. Particularly at this time of the year. But it's no good to her. The little girl's name was on the winning ticket of a UE-sponsored softball draw; and her prize was a slick hunting rifle. At her age the only thing Bonny wants to hunt is teddy bears, and her parents are a bit perplexed about what to do with the gun. Other winners were James Selman, George St., a bicycle; and T. McCartney, 264 Rubidge St., fishing rod, reel and line.

Ottawa Driver Crashes Elm

William Nolan, 22, Ottawa, escaped with only a cut forehead early Sunday morning when his car crashed into an elm tree and turned over near Kendry.

Nolan had been to Leamington to pick up a new-model car that he was to deliver in Ottawa. He was coming into Peterborough and was about six miles south of the city on Highway 28 when he apparently dozed off at the wheel.

The car ran off the highway, struck an elm tree, and turned over on its roof. It is almost a complete wreck.

Nolan was taken to St. Joseph's hospital for medical attention but was released a few hours later.

Provincial Constables Lorne Stinson and J. G. Healey investigated.

New Wage Demands By UE At Toronto

The United Electrical Workers are tuning up for another wage increase from the Canadian General Electric Co.

A meeting of the Joint UE-GE Conference Board, representing some 6,000 General Electric employees in Ontario, came to this decision at a weekend meeting in Toronto. Representatives were also present from Montreal.

Anniversary date of the present contract is not till March 27, with negotiations slated to open two months earlier, but the union is pressing for an increase regardless.

Delegates were informed that the cost of living has "run wild" during the past two months and that the workers' living standards have been cut the equivalent of 10 cents an hour. C. R. Sullivan secretary, cited increased profit figures of the American company.

Representing the Peterborough plant were President of Local 524 T. P. Davies, George Wallace, Alex Seppala, C. H. Harvey, Ray Peters and James Southgate.

Prices Of Cars Advance, Soft Drinks Up

Many Peterborough car dealers had notifications in today's mail about car price increases. They varied on Canadian-built models from $60 to $106. Prices on trucks and used cars are unchanged. English models were increased slightly to a top figure of $50. No dealers had definite word on tires but are waiting for news and expect they will be up 5 per cent.

Soft drink manufacturers who took their delivery trucks off on Friday, started them again on Saturday afternoon carrying bottles that are now selling at six cents retail. The only people who benefit from this commodity price rise are the dealers who now make four cents per case more than they did previously, one representative said.

Beer drinkers are still paying the same price for their pleasure but a boost is coming in liquor and beer prices, according to an announcement in Toronto today by chairman of the Liquor Control Board the Hon. Arthur Welsh.

"The price of both liquor and beer will have to be raised but I cannot say how much," the chairman said.

Some city operators of lunch bars have upped hamburgs to 20 cents, although packing company officials say that there has been no increase in wholesale hamburg prices to dealers for the past several weeks.

Concert Yields $92 For Food

The Graydon Sheldon concert at Warsaw Thursday night provided $92 for the Bobby Clark Fund.

Mr. Sheldon and his orchestra and CHEX staff talent contributed a variety program at the Warsaw arena. Tap dancing, vocal and instrumental music, with comedy skits were enjoyed by the large audience. There was also a quiz contest for which the prizes were given by merchants of Peterborough.

Warsaw Women's Institute are deeply grateful to Mr. Sheldon and his company for their kindness and assistance in this worthy community project.

Two little girls of Donegal St., Judy Lovitz, 7, and Sharon Griffin, 6, made paper flowers for this fund, and sold them in their neighborhood. Their contribution was 62 cents, deposited with the Examiner.

The Women's Institute also report the following gifts to the fund:

Recording department, Robert Simpson Co., Toronto, $32.45.

Returned goods dept. Robt Simpson Co., Toronto, $11.

Say Employees Should Be Kept Well Informed

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

Canadian business men got a talking-to today about the amount of information they give their own employees.

It was given by J. H. Brace, of Montreal, vice-president of the Bell Telephone Company of Canada, to the annual meeting of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce at Banff, Alta. Here is part of what Mr. Brace said, speaking in his capacity as chairman of the chamber's executive.

It is management's responsibility to provide tools and facilities to turn out a good product in an efficient manner, and to put a fair price on its product. It should provide a fair return on the investment to the shareholders. It should furnish fair treatment in wages and working conditions to employees.

Must Tell Story

It must keep all these things in good balance, yet that is not enough. Throughout the process, it must constantly present to the public, the owners and the employees a running story of what it is doing and why.

But management's first responsibility in this field (that of information) is to its own employees. Right within each organization is an urgent job which management has not too successfully carried out. It has not paid enough attention to acquainting the workers with its objective and the reasons behind its policy.

It has done little to explain its financial problems to show the worker clearly how his job depends on management's ability to finance successfully, which itself depends on the productivity of the enterprise to which the worker must contribute his share.

Keep Goal Secret

Management often fails to tell its employees of its program for the months ahead, what the score is, and the goal they hope to reach with the enthusiastic support of all concerned.

The man at the work bench today will not blindly accept leadership without knowing something about where that leadership is taking him.

Business men need a sound understanding of human relationships in industry, a personal appreciation of the worker as another person with legitimate needs, desires and hopes. The worker wants economic security for himself and his family, and this he must find i nhis job. He wants to know where he stands in his company; he desires recognition for good work done, and opportunity to show what he is capable of. The worker who is so treated takes pride in his work and is receptive to information about the business he is in.

He has a personal interest in what management plans to do, in the larger problems of business financing. He appreciates the shareholders' place in the scheme of things, and acknowledges dividends as reasonable wages for use of capital which gives him his machine or his desk as an instrument for earning his living.

I firmly believe that business is a good citizen; that industry is a good citizen. We want and need millions of people in this country to have the same belief.

See Economy Facing Complications

BANFF, Alta., Sept. 11 (CP).—The change from a peacetime way of life to a partial war economy will have many dangers, Canadian business men were told today.

This picture of the national business scene was given in the report of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce to its annual meeting presented by D. L. Morrell, general manager.

The report said that "the resiliency of our economy to readjustments and changing industrial emphasis at home is matter of sound satisfaction." Since the last annual meeting, industrial activity had reached a peacetime high; exports to the United States had increased to an amount which has almost offset the drop in Canadian overseas shipments; capital expenditures, instead of declining, had again shown further expansion; and consumer buying had been maintained at virtually peak levels.

But Canada now was faced with the need for greater defence expenditures. "Official announcements do not at the time of writing suggest that the increase will be of a size which would immediately and materially influence the trend of business. Yet there is the prospect that continuing and heavier requirements for our actual survival will defer any transition to a more normal, peacetime basis for business generally."

"The dangers of shifting toward a wartime economy are insidious. The initial effects may be seemingly stimulating. Industrial production may feel the upward pressure. Maximum employment will undoubtedly be retained. The gross national product may rise to still higher levels.

"It would be difficult, however, to superimpose a moderate preparedness program on our present industrial structure without limiting to some degree the freedom of producers to produce and of consumers to consume.

"Moreover, the burden on the national budget of substantially-larger defence expenditures and larger social and public works expenditures could become dangerously onerous.

"All of foreshadowed security legislation and spending, therefore, should be re-examined in the light of our defence situation

Says Democratic Strength Only Way To Prevent War

WINNIPEG, Sept. 11 (CP)—The Canadian army's commander in the second yorld war said Sunday night that a third global war will surely grow out of Korea unless the democracies build a solid political, economic and military barricade against the Soviet Union.

Gen. H. D. G. Crerar, of Ottawa, spoke as grand president of The Canadian Legion. He was opening the Legion's 15th dominion convention which lasts five days.

Canada, in effect, already is at war, he said. Korea was the opening battle in a long and desperate conflict "with a sphere of action probably involving the greater part of the world."

The one way to prevent world war was "to face the Soviet government with firmness and consistency, backed up by great, actual military strength."

Haven't Much Time

The democracies could parry Churchill was right in saying there still is a short breathing space to build military strength, but "surely we cannot be so completely negligent as to waste a minute . . ."

Russia and her satellites had vast military strength that could be put into action today or tomorrow. The democracies had only potential forces which would take 1½ or two years to put in the field.

"Unless we in the democracies now are prepared to sacrifice some of our comfort and our wealth in now erecting a solid, political, economic and military dike—strong enough definitely to contain Soviet Russia and its satellite states—a third world war . . . will surely break out."

Dangerous Ideas

Gen. Crerar said he has seen newspaper reports that universal military training and large armed forces in Canada would be wasteful of, and even damaging to, Canada's defence potential.

"Well," he said, "if Soviet Russia and its satellites overrun what yet remains of Europe and Asia outside the iron curtain . . . Canada's defence potential and that of the United States can be put in the wastebasket. . . .

"With the great land mass o Europe and Asia . . . under control of Moscow, the Communist plan of world dictatorship would have developed to the point of practicable attainment."

SO GREAT THE DEMAND FOR 88&98 OUR NEW REFINERY IS AT PEAK PRODUCTION

● Since the day B-A's new multi-million dollar refinery went "on stream," there has been a steadily increasing supply of the new 88 and 98 gasolines.

B-A knew these gasolines were better gasolines when they were introduced. And B-A is delighted that tens of thousands of Canadian motorists have since confirmed the fact—and continue to confirm it week after week.

Today, three months since the introduction of the new gasolines, the new refinery is at peak production.

Across Canada more and more motorists are stopping at the sign of the big B-A. They are discovering the power, economy and performance to be found in the new 88 and 98 gasolines.

Peak production will meet the continuing demand for the new gasolines. And the new gasolines will continue to demonstrate more power and greater economy from coast to coast.

Molyneux Closes Shop As Eyesight Giving Trouble

By MURIEL NARRAWAY

LONDON —(CP)— Captain Edward Molyneux, British-born dress designer of Paris and London fame, is closing his London salon.

Molyneux, who made his name in Paris after the First World War—holding his own among such names as Dior, Fath, Paquin and Balmain—has shops in Paris, Biarritz, Cannes and Monte Carlo. The London premises were opened in 1932.

After 18 years in Grosvenor Street, the Molyneux doors will finally close in mid-November. No further orders are being taken but the workshop is completing all outstanding commitments.

The designer, who lost an eye in the 1914-18 war, has recently been experiencing trouble with the remaining eye. He finally accepted his doctor's advice against the strain of maintaining premises in both countries. For many years he has travelled monthly between Paris and London, giving seasonal fashion shows in both cities.

First Break

His first break with London came this July when he found himself unable to contribute to the fall shows presented by London's big ten fashion designers.

His first trip to England since May was made for the sole purpose of personally conveying the bad news to his London staff of 350, many of whom have been with him for the full 18 years.

"He was terribly upset and returned to Paris immediately," said his sister, who has been his assistant from the start.

His departure wil make it difficult for British clients to continue as patrons. The British travel allowance is £50 ($155.). A day dress by Molyneux costs £50-60, an embroidered crinoline evening dress would cost around £160.

Among his London clients, two of the most famous are the Duchess of Kent and Princess Margaret. The Duchess has been a firm patron for many years in both Paris and London. Her wedding dress and trousseau were designed by Molyneux.

Longer Hair, Fewer Pearls, Say Parisians

By DOROTHY WADDINGTON

PARIS —(Reuters)— Women who have followed short hair styles during the summer now are resigning themselves to the troublesome business of letting it grow in again for the winter season.

Christian Dior's answer to this problem is to draw the hair back into a neat little bun at the nape of the neck. For evening, he adds a coil of hair or tulle which is swirled round into a small cone and posed just over the forehead.

Other couturiers have more flattering suggestions. Jacques Fath, for example, advises hair swept back without a parting, but curling flatteringly over the ears. Carven shows hair caught into a clip and falling onto the neck.

Many other interpretations of the 1950 hair-do are seen at the smart French holiday resorts. But all have the one point in common —straight hair with the only curl, if any, at the end.

In jewelery, rhinestones are predominant, but turquoise, rubies, sapphires and emeralds are also used. Dior uses these colored stones for choker necklaces, as well for numerous pins which have a third dimensional effect. He places his pins on shoulders and cuffs. They always match either earings, necklaces, or bracelets.

Few Pearls

Jacques Fath uses rich rhinestones all through his collection. At Lanvin's, large diamond leaves entirely cover the ears while the stems wind into the neck.

For the first time in many years, pearls play a very small part in the accessory picture. When used, they are combined with grey or colored pearls.

"Panta-judos," Balmain's name for his pedal pushers for town, home and ski wear, are trimmed with a wide band of white mink, which shows below the skirt. Mink trimmings are often found in other houses.

Newest coats are in heavy woollen materials, They are most often fur-banded down the diagonal closing to the hem. For smarter models, at least a partial fur lining is a "must."

Large pillow muffs are proposed this winter. Smartest are carried with cloth coats with matching fur collar and pill-box hat.

Dog lovers got a kick out of Jacques Griffe's forest-green wool coat with two huge pockets. From one of them, the mannequin produced a toy Doberman pincher as she swirled in the salons.

Here are Meat Loaves Worthy Of Best Company Dinner

By MARY MOORE

Having taken myself to task for not advertising the virtues of meat loaf and for not justifying my reputation as a pretty fair cook and economizer (although I do not want to be labelled Mrs E. C. O. Miser)—I am coming up with three proofs that I can do all three—advertise, cook well, and economize.

The first recipe I am giving you is for an elegant meat loaf. It is so good that it is worth the purchase of a ring mould., for you are going to add this recipe to your permanent file for meals—or I'm an ancient monkey's aunt.

For—if you have a ring mould you can fill the centre of the turned-out meat ring with beautiful white boiled rice, and surround this pretty picture with a border of fried green tomatoes or broiled ripe tomatoes.

Emem's Meat Loaf Or Ring

(For company occasions)

Have the butcher grind 3 lbs. shin or shank or flank beef with one half-pound fat salt pork. To this add 1 cup finely rolled cracker crumbs, 3 beaten eggs, 3 tablespoons salad oil or melted bacon fat, juice and grated rind of 1 lemon and 1 cup of milk. I like the addition of ½ of a finely chopped clove of garlic and 2 tablespoons of finely chopped fresh parsley. Press into a greased ring mould or loaf pan and bake at 300 deg. Fahr. for about 2 to 2½ hours (this is a very slow oven for meat). If you care to go to the trouble (and it is worth it), baste the loaf or ring with canned consomme or tomato juice. If you do not want to ask the butcher to grind this meat use hamburg and top the loaf or ring with strips of bacon during the baking period.

The next one is interesting, too, for its appearance. Serve it hot the first dinner and cold with a Potato salad the second one.

Layer Meat Loaf

One pound ground veal, 2 eggs, ¼ cup milk or water or canned consomme, 1 cup fine cracker or bread crumbs, sifted, 1¼ teaspoons salt, ¼ teaspoon each pepper and celery salt, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 2 tablespoons chopped green pepper; 1 lb. ground beef, 2 tablespoons of chopped pimiento; 2 tablespoons melted bacon fat, 1-3 cup condensed tomato soup, 2 slices fat salt pork or side bacon. Mix the veal with half of the crumbs, 1 egg, the water or milk, 1 teaspoon of the salt, the pepper, celery salt, lemon juice and green pepper. In another bowl, mix the beef with the pimiento, remaining crumbs, egg and melted fat and tomato soup. Season with salt. Pack half of the veal mix in a large greased loaf pan, cover with the beef mix; finish off with remaining veal. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for one and one-half hours.

Creole Meat Loaf

One pound ground veal, one half-pound each beef and pork (have the butcher grind these together and it will save you much trouble), ¼ cup minced or grated onion, ½ cup soft breadcrumbs, 2 teaspoons salt, ¼ teaspoon black pepper, ¼ teaspoon paprika, 1 28-oz. tin tomatoes or 3½ cups cut up fresh tomatoes, 3 slices bacon. Mix all ingredients except the tomatoes. Add only ¾ cup of the tomatoes and mix well. Pack into greased loaf pan and bake in oven of 450 deg. Fahr. for 30 minutes then reduce heat to 350 deg. Fahr. for 30 minutes. Serve. With

Creole Sauce

Stew together the remaining tomatoes, ½ cup chopped onion and green pepper (each), 1 teaspoon salt; shake each pepper and paprika for about ¾ hour.

Have you any better meat loaf recipes?

Finds 30% of US Women Bald Younger Girls Get Gray Hair

NEW YORK, Sept. 11 (AP) — Hold on to that toupee, mister. Your wife might want to borrow it.

It seems the girls are getting balder all the time and—according to one hairdresser, Donu Edmond of New York—30 per cent of American women are bald, or partially bald.

Edmond bases his startling figures on the fact that 20 per cent of his own women clients are in that predicament. He explains:

"I figure that if my clients, who are actresses, society and professional women, are in the balding stage, then certainly a much higher percentage of women who have not been able to afford conditioning treatments have lost their crowning glory."

The hairdresser believes that too many permanents on dirty heads contribute to the incidence of baldness.

Edmond claims that often he is able with special treatments to encourage the hair to grow once more—if there are at least 15 hairs left in a square inch on the head—"but once an area becomes shiny bald, nothing will help."

More young girls have gray hair today than ever before, he has noticed. He doesn't know why this is.

Edmond says that only women of luxury who can sport minks or sables should wear extreme hair shades. "It's the difference between looking like Park Avenue and a dance hall hostess," he said.

He recalls that he often dyed the long lustrous hair of Queen Marie of Romania to match her costume. On one occasion when she was inspecting her own regiment, he said, he dyed the queen's hair red to harmonize with her black tunic with baby lamb trim.

MR. AND MRS. JAMES ENGLISH pictured as the bride was signing the register in Trinity United Church after their marriage Saturday afternoon.

Barbara Cook Pledges Vows With Jas. English at Trinity

One of the loveliest weddings of the late summer took place at Trinity United Church Saturday afternoon as Miss Barbara Winnifred Cook became the bride of Mr. James George English in a ceremony performed by the Rev. Dr. D. B. Gordon. The bride is the youngest daughter of Mr. Malcolm G. Cook and the late Mrs. Cook and the groom is the only son of Mrs. William C. English and the late Mr. English, all of Peterborough.

Flame and cream gladioli, in keeping with the bridal color scheme, were in baskets lining the cancel rail. Mrs. D. B. Gordon sang the "Lord's Prayer" just after the bride reached the altar and during signing of the register she sang "Wher'ere you walk." Organist Donald Kennedy played the wedding music.

The bridal gown, with short train, was of ivory nylon and designed with a square neckline and twin frills of the material trimming the bodice front. Matching frills edged the long pointed sleeves and formed a peplum at the waistline. She wore a helmet of nylon edged with two rows of tiny seed pearls and her veil of ivory silk illusion fell in a sweeping train. A Cascade of white gladioli completed the ensemble.

Mr. Cook gave his daughter in marriage and Miss Elaine Cook was her sister's maid of honor with the groom's sister Miss Elizabeth English as bridesmaid. The attendants' frocks were of tissue faille in the new polka-orange shade and they were made with very full skirts, fitted basques with open neckline and novel collar treatment. Their matching helmets were edged with double rolls of the same material and they wore short white gloves and carried nosegays of yellow gladioli petals.

Bearer of the wedding ring was the bride's small nephew Douglas Bennett of Weston and Mr. Robert Rooke was the groom's attendant. David Bowes of London, Ontario, and Arthur Turner ushered.

At the reception in the Empress Kawartha Room the bride's sister, Mrs. N. J. Bennett of Weston and the groom's mother received with the wedding party. Mrs. Bennett was wearing an afternoon dress of plum velvet with matching cloche-brimmed hat and corsage of Johanna Hill roses. Mrs. English was dressed in emerald green velvet and wore a draped hat of matching velvet with green ostrich plume and a corsage of Talisman roses.

When leaving for their honeymoon which will be spent in Muskoka, the bride was wearing a dress of tangerine wool jersey with cardigan jacket of the same material, a small hat of navy velvet, navy accessories and a white gardenia.

Mr. and Mrs. English will live at 268 London St. on return.

Deloras Bannon Bride Of Wm. M. Bertrand

The Norwood United Church was the scene Saturday afternoon of the double ring wedding of Deloras Patricia, daughter of Mr. Richard Bannon and the late Mrs. Bannon, of Hastings, to William Mellville, son of Mrs. Gus Bertrand and the late Mr. Bertrand, of Campbellford. The Rev. E. E. Pugsley officiated.

The church was decorated with gladioli, phlox and ferns. Music was played by Mrs. H. J. Caskey and during signing of the register Mrs. F. Tredree sang "Because."

The bride was given in marriage by her father, and she wore a gown of slipper satin with nylon yoke with a lace edged train and the skirt caught with pearl clasps at front, revealing a lace underskirt. Her fingertip veil was of embroidered net caught to a pearl studded tiara and she carried red roses.

Wedding attendants were Miss Kae Bertrand, maid of honor, [illegible] bridesmaids. They were frocked in nile green, mauve and yellow organdie with hats of matching net, and carried nosegays of yellow roses and mauve cosmos. The bride's niece, Deloras Bannon, as flower girl, was frocked in a nile green sheer with matching flowered bandeau and carried a muff.

Groomsman was Mr. Kenneth Campbell, and the ushers were Joseph Bertrand of Peterborough and Leo Sheridan of Campbellford.

A reception was held at Woodlawn, Campbellford, and refreshments were served by Misses Susie Mathews, Myrtle Mackey, Hazel Kelly and Isabel Wannamaker. Mrs. Rose Mathews received, wearing navy sheer over flowered taffeta with a hat of navy felt and corsage of pink carnations. The groom's mother, who also received, wore navy crepe with grey accessories and pink carnations.

The bride and groom left for Toronto, Niagara Falls and points west. For travelling, the bride wore a pink sheer dress with black accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Bertrand will live on Ranney St. in Campbellford.

DOROTHY DIX

Take a Chance, Get Married 7-yr. Engagement Too Long

DEAR MISS DIX: My fiance and I cannot settle a question that has been worrying us. We have been engaged for four year and want to marry, but he owes some money and is afraid that if we get married he might not be able to pay it and would lose his business and then what would he do with me? So he thinks that perhaps we had better wait three years more until he pays his debt off. He owns his business and his home, and his business is prospering. I am willing to take a chance and feel that I could help him as I've earned my own living. Another thing is that his mother would have to live with us. What should we do? UNHAPPY

◇ ◇ ◇

ANSWER: Get married as soon as you can. Any engagement that has lasted four years has lasted too long and if you add three more years of waiting to it, it will just peter out through sheer discouragement. Your love promises are overdue. It's time you made good on them. If everybody waited to marry until every single problem connected with it was settled, there would be very few weddings. You have to take a chance on marriage as you do on everything else in life.

You Can Help Him

Don't let the debt keep you apart, for you will be a help instead of a hindrance to your husband in paying it off. For one reason, your husband will be able to concentrate upon his job better than he does now, when his thoughts are torn between love and longing and his business. He'll feel settled and that he has a wife to work for and it will put fresh strength and energy into him. Very few men ever achieve anything before marriage. It's after marriage that they become go-getters for the women they love.

Also, courtship is a very expensive business and it is money in a man's pocket when he can cut out the high cost of loving and not have to put up for theatres and movies, and flowers and presents and the other incidentals to taking the girl friend out and giving her a good time.

Of course, having to live with your husband's mother is your real problem and nobody can tell you how to solve that. Having to live with a mother-in-law, and especially one who is bossy and who is already installed as the mistress of her son's house, is going to call for the patience of Job, the humility of Griselda and the finesse of a diplomat and, alas, few young women are possessed of these qualities.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I would never contemplate marrying a man in moderate circumstances for I have had enough drudgery in my life. I could never settle down into being a housewife. My life has been too active. A woman can learn to love any man who is worth his salt and has the essential sugar in his pocket. What are your reactions? K. L. J.

ANSWER: It has been my observation that logic flies out of the window when love comes knocking at the door, and that the most carefully laid plains of girls go haywire when some personable youth comes whistling down the street and beckons them to folow.

Of nothing am I more firmly convinced than that you cannot respect a man for his good qualities, but it won't raise your temperature or send a single quiver up and down your spine to know that he is kind to his mother and has money in the bank. The something that makes you palpitate and thrill and that causes some one particular man to be the whole universe to you has nothing whatever to do with his virtues, or his ability to support you in the style in which you desire to live.

Of course, much is to be said for the sensible marriage, the marriage that is based on reason and not on sentiment. Undoubtedly those who pick out their mates with their heads instead of their hearts, and who select a wife or a husband because he or she belongs to the right social set or has money or because he or she is industrious and thrifty and a good manager, may generally count on quiet and placid existence and keeping out of the divorce court. Provided, of course, that after a while they do not get tired of plain bread and butter and long for cake.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: A young girl has been asked to accompany a young man alone on a long automobile trip. He is well known to her family and held in great esteem by all who know him. Upon my questioning the propriety of such a trip I was greeted with gales of laughter by both mother and daughter. Am I hopelessly archaic, or are my friends too advanced for my way of thinking? GODMOTHER

◇ ◇ ◇

ANSWER: You are absolutely right and the mother and daughter must be strangely unsophisticated if they think that the girl can violate one of the oldest and most ironbound of all conventions without having the worst possible construction put upon it. It isn't enough for a girl to be good. She has to look good.

Mrs. W. Bongard Hostess to W.A.

NORWOOD, Sept. 11—(ENS)—The September meeting of St. Andrew's Young Women's Auxiliary was held at the home of Mrs. Wilfred Bongard with a good attendance. The program was in charge of the president, Mrs. C. Cuthbertson. The Scripture lesson was read by Mrs. Burtt.

Miss Isobel MacMillan gave a very interesting topic "Dr. Fullerton's Memories" and "Life with a Capital L." This was an address by the Rev. Glegg given in Switzerland while the winter sports were in progress.

During the business part of the meeting Mrs. Rogers read a letter from the Hastings W.M.S. inviting the Auxiliary to their fall thankoffering meeting.

Mrs. Bongard assisted by her joint hostesses Mrs. J. Rogers, Mrs. E. Spencer, Mrs. G. Rothwell, and Mrs. S. McMillen served a dainty lunch for which a hearty vote of thanks was moved by Mrs. Rod. Webb.

COOKBOOK OF THE WEEK

Baked Fish Can Make Dish To Grace Any Party

For any number of ways to bake fish and any number of ideas for attractive ways of serving it, you must see "250 Different Fish and Sea Food Recipes," the ninth cookbook in the series of 24 being released weekly to readers of The Txaminer. This remarkable book, like the previous books in the series, Snacks, Leftovers, Cakes, Poultry, Pies, Salads, and Meats, concentrates on a single phase of cooking and gives you step-by-step instructions on preparation; lively, tasty, and easy-to-follow recipes; and ever so many illustrations to inspire you to serve food colorfully and attractively.

Baked fish is easy to make and if the platter is attractively trimmed it makes a dish that can grace any party. Here are the simple directions taken from the Fish Book:

Baked Fish

Clean fish, leaving heads and tails on if desired, season and place on piece of heavy paper on baking sheet or platter and bake in very hot oven (550 deg. F.) 10 to 15 minutes or until browned. Reduce temperature to hot (425 deg. F.) and bake 30 to 45 minutes longer. Allow 10 minutes to the pound for first 4 pounds and 5 minutes for each additional pound. Baste lean fish every 10 minutes or cover with thin slices of fat salt pork or bacon; do not baste fat fish. To serve, lift fish with paper and slide fish onto platter. Serve baked fish with White Sauce. White Sauce with egg, Tomato Sauce, Brown Almond Sauce, Onion Sauce, Almond Butter Sauce, Drawn Butter Sauce, Egg Sauce, Bercy Sauce, Oyster Sauce, Shrimp Sauce, Horseradish Sauce, etc.

And to add the final touch to the fish, here is one of the many sauce recipes suggested:

Tomato Sauce

2 tablespoons butter
1 onion, sliced
2 tablespoons flour
1½ cups strained cooked tomatoes or 1 cup soup stock and ½ cup tomato puree
1-3 teaspoon salt (about)
1-8 teaspoon pepper

Melt butter, add onion and cook until light yellow, remove onion, blend in flour and brown slightly. Add the liquid gradually and heat to boiling, stirring constantly. Boil 3 or 4 minutes. Season and serve hot. Makes 1¼ cups.

It is easy to obtain your copy of the Fish Book as well as catch up on any of the earlier titles you may have missed in the series. Simply clip Cookbook coupon from page 2 of this newspaper and present the coupon—one for each book—with 25c at the Examiner office or from your Examiner carrier or at Braund's Home Food Markets. Or send 30c for each book (5c additional for postage and handling) to Cookbook Department, Examiner Peterborough, and your copies will be forwarded by mail.

BRITISH MUSEUM

The British Museum may be said to date from 1753, when Parliament granted the sum of £20,000 ($63,000) to purchase the collection of books, etc., of Sir Hans Sloane.

6—In Memoriams

FORD—In loving memory of our darling twin son Raymond, who died Sept. 9th, 1949, at the age of two weeks.
The angels of heaven were robed in white,
All happy at play in the spirit of light,
When Jesus came smiling and said to His band,
Here is one more little playmate.
Give baby Raymond your hand.
—Sadly missed by Mummie and Daddy, brother Bernard and Stephen (twin).

KIMBALL—In precious and loving memory of Max Godfrey Kimball, who died September 11, 1948, in his fifth year.

Pleads Guilty Of Assault

Joseph Hill, Belmont township, pleaded guilty in police court today to charges of assaulting a man and his wife and was fined $10 and costs on each charge. Costs amounted to $14.80.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Watson also of Belmont township testified Hill had hit both of them Sunday night.

The Watsons had gone to Hill's home to bring back Mrs. Watson's brother. When they arrived at Hill's place, they found the brother asleep in his own car with his head hanging out the open door.

Watson woke up his brother-in-law and asked him to leave, but he said he wasn't able to drive. Mrs. Watson volunteered to drive the car.

Ordered Out

At this point, Hill came along and ordered them out of his yard. Watson said he agreed and started over to his own truck to drive out when Hill "hauled off and hit me with his fist on the side of the face."

Watson got into his truck and drove away. Mrs. Watson pushed her brother over in the seat and drove the car to his home. When they arrived there, they found Hill had followed them and he then hit Mrs. Watson. Her husband had not yet arrived.

When Hill was later arrested by Constable Ray Bell of Havelock, he put up a struggle and ripped the policeman's shirt. He agreed to pay for that.

Beauty Contests Rapped Sharply

RIMINI, Italy, Sept. 11—(Reuters)—The beauty contests are a social danger, three local bishops claimed today.

The bishops were protesting against the all-European beauty competition won here yesterday by 23-year-old hazel-eyed Hanni Schahll of Austria.

Warning beauty competitors against the danger of such contests to their "virginal modesty," the bishops said:

"For those who judge things with Christian feelings, these manifestations are a cause of unspeakable pain.

"It is very dangerous for society to expose young girls to the loss of their virginal modesty.

"And not only those called on to exhibit themselves to the public gaze in bathing costumes and other improper garb, but also the many other girls who attend such spectacles undergo a deformation of their christian science and lose their esteem for virginiity, so precious a quality in the life of a woman.

"Nothing, not even the most spectacular prize, can make up for such a loss."

Union Organizer Under Arrest In Montreal

MONTREAL, Sept. 11 (CP)—Madeleine Parent, Quebec organizer of the United Textile Workers Union of America was arrested today on a charge of disturbing the peace in a fight outside the Hochelaga plant of the Dominion Textile Company here.

Police also arrested two other UTW employees, Paul Croteau and William Mozder on charges of assaulting Sarto Larivier and Gabriel Cromier of the rival Textile Workers Union of America.

Police said Miss Parent and the two men clashed with the TWU representatives at the plant gate in connection with a vote scheduled there Sept. 22 to decide union affiliation of some 5,000 Dominion Textile employees.

The two locals, Local 102 of the UTW and 1107 of the TWUA have been involved in a dispute over representation for the past year. Textile Workers union officials charge that the rival union is Communist dominated.

The vote on representation was ordered late last week by the Labor Relations Board. It will be held simultaneously at each of the five company plants in the city.

Police Evidence Said Admissible

SIMCOE, Ont., Sept. 11 (CP)—Mr. Justice R. W. Trelevean today ruled admissible police evidence found in Windsor, in the Langton twin-slaying case.

John Herbert McAuliffe of Windsor and formerly of North Bay, is charged with the murder of two tobacco farmers, machine-gunned as they chased a bandit fleeing from a bank at nearby Langton last June 21.

The jury was excluded while crown and defence counsels argued the point during the testimony of Provincial Constable Len Chambers, the crown's 47th witness.

Defence counsel W. E. Ross raised the argument by claiming that the exhibits were irrelevant and would prejudice the case of his 32-year-old client.

They include parts of a submachine gun found in a Windsor garage rented by the accused and a Canadian army identification card found in his room there.

Mr. Justice Treleaven ruled inadmissible as a case exhibition a pair of blue pin-stripe trousers said to match a suitcoat allegedly worn by the bank bandit during the $23,000 holdup.

Say Johnson On Way Out Of US Cabinet

By ELTON C. FAY,

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11 (AP).—President Truman had twin crises on his hands Sunday night—a cabinet controversy at home, a military predicament abroad.

At home, there loomed the definite possibility that the storm centre of the cabinet quarrel, Defence Secretary Louis Johnson, might move out. The only formal action necessary would be White House acceptance of the resignation which all cabinet members file when they take office.

In Korea, U.N. troops fought desperately to hold massive and continuing thrusts of the Communists in a war which after 11 weeks was still running against the defenders.

Whether there was a relationship between the crises, as was charged in some quarters, and if so how much, was not clear. Truman seemed to be in position to do something about one, but not about the other.

The Communist high command controlled the latter. They continued to pour in manpower to press their offensive in Korea.

Cheerless News

All this was cheerless news for Johnson's friends who thought that a military victory in Korea could ease pressure for his resignation.

The most recent of the demands for Johnson's resignation from the job to which he was appointed by Truman, in March, 1949, came from the Marine Corps League. A resolution on the league's convention Friday demanded Johnson's ouster. It linked the Korean troubles with Johnson.

But a White House confidant, in predicting that Johnson was on the way out, did not set this forth as the reason. He traced it to manoeuvering for strength between Johnson and State Secretary Dean Acheson.

This situation, of course, is much older than the Korean war. Moreover, Acheson and his foreign policy making are related only indirectly to the prosecution of the war.

The White House aide said Truman was willing to defend an appointee against outside attacks but he was concerned over reports of defense department criticism of his state secretary.

Then this confidant of Truman added: "The President feels that Secretary of State Acheson has borne up in this case with supreme dignity and will remain in the cabinet after Johnson has gone."

He expressed belief Johnson would make his departure sooner than most people expected.

QUEEN ELIZABETH and Princess Margaret visited Dovecote studios, Corstorphine, Edinburgh, where the Queen used a silver and jewelled dirk, a family heirloom of the Marguess of Bute, to cup a tapestry of her coat of arms from the loom. Photo shows, Princess Margaret, watched by the Queen, helps cut down the tapestry from the loom, using the silver and jewelled dirk. At left is the master weaver Ronald Cruikshank.

Killed In Fall

NORFOLK, Va., Sept. 11 (AP)—A 23-year-old Norwegian seaman fell from a tree and was killed here Sunday, police said, while he tried to hide from officers to drink a bottle of wine with a shipmate. His companion was treated for possible fractures of the ribs.

Substance Is Subject Of Sermon

"Substance" was the subject of he lesson sermon which was read n all Churches of Christ, Scien-ist, throughout the world, includ-ng First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Peterborough on Sun-lay.

The Golden Text was, "Bring ye ll the tithes into the storehouse, hat there may be meat in mine ouse, and prove me now here-vith, saith the Lord of hosts, if I vill not open you the windows of eaven, and pour you out a bless-ng, that there shall not be room enough to receive it." (Malachi 3:10).

Selections from the Bible included the following from I Chron. 29:11-13: Thine, O Lord, is the greatness, and the power, and the glory, and the victory, and the majesty: for all that is in the heaven and in the earth is thine; thine is the kingdom, O Lord, and thout art exalted as head above all. Both riches and honour come of thee, and thou reignest over all; and in thine hand is power and might; and in thine hand it is to make great, and to give strength unto all. Now therefore, our God, we thank thee, and praise thy glorious name.".

Correlative citations from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" included the following: "Substance is that which is eternal and incapable of discord and decay. Truth, Life, and Love are substance, as the Scriptures use this word in Hebrews: 'The substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen.' Spirit, the synonym of Mind, Soul, or God, is the only real substance."

BIDS FORCE FAREWELL — Army Minister J. Francis of Australia, in civilian dress, shakes hands with some of the troops of the special Australian force for Korea prior to their departure. # Few Korean Force Soldiers Joined In Patriotic Fervor

By JACK SCOTT

PETAWAWA MILITARY CAMP, Ont.—Soldiers are traditionally inartiulate about why they serve, but one thing is sure about those Canadians who have come forward now to join the brigade which may fight under the UN flag in Korea, "or where required".

Not one in a hundred is joining in a patriotic fervor. Indeed, the bulk of this special force will be made up of men who are running away from boredom or insecurity.

It's interesting to note that an Army statement a few days ago emphasizes that those troops will be "thoroughly indoctrinated . . . to make absolutely sure that (they) know what they're fighting for—and against."

I spent an afternoon here talking to these new recruits and found that they fall into three general categories.

1. Men without steady employment or earning an income too small to cope with inflation. Most of these men would be in the permanent force but lack the educational requirements or are married and thus ineligible.

2. Men who were too young or short on the requirements for the Second World War forces and felt that they missed something enlisted immediately in this brigade, in which the requirements are as low as any since the American Revolution.

3. Combat veterans of the Second World War who found civilian life boring, want no part of the static life of the permanent force soldier, but joined up at the prospect of being in a fighting army.

A very small percentage are men who had good jobs in "civvy street." This explains the serious shortage now of technicians and men with the special skills the force will require.

Without Jobs

When I made my visit only one new officer was in the camp, a 30-year-old underground shift boss for International Nickle named Ivan Coady.

Coady, who comes originally from Leduc, Alberta, had been an anti-tank officer with the Calgary Highlanders in the last war and came out a captain. He is a serious-faced intense type of person and when I asked him his reasons for enlisting he thought a moment or two before answering.

"I think I'll have to be in it sooner or later," he said. "I stipulated that I wouldn't serve under the rank of captain and in the Princess Patricias with my old commanding officer, Lt.-Col. Stone. We went through the ranks together. They accepted these terms, but it wouldn't have bothered me if they hadn't. I just felt I ought to make the gesture. Besides, I'm a bachelor. I've got no desire to be a peacetime soldier, but I like the comradeship of the Army when there's action."

In a nearby barracks I talked to four men who were still in their civilian clothes.

Everett "Red" Mitchell, a 23-year-old truck driver from Mount Stewart, Prince Edward Island, said: "I was too young to get in last time. I felt I missed something and I sure wasn't going to miss it again. Couldn't get into the regular army because I haven't the education they need. Couldn't pass the tests. There's nothing doing on the island. It's hard to get a job that really pays. I figured this was my chance."

"Same goes for me," said Charlie Doyle, 25, who also comes from the island and is a veteran. "Worked a while in the gold mines in northern Ontario, but I found it tough to make a living when I got back home. I'll be better off this way and so will the wife."

A big, raw-boned, 24-year-old from Kitchener, Clarence Wallace, laughted and said: "With me it's just a plain case of itchy feet. I've been restless ever since I got out of the Army. Couldn't seem to settle down. I've got practically no sight in one eye so I couldn't get in the regulars."

Another veteran, Pete Mews, of Yarmouth, said: "I was getting 50 cents an hour in the rock mine at Yarmouth. You can't live on that these days."

For Adventure

Already in training here, as part of the brigade, is the second battalion of the Royal Canadian Regiment and officers are pleased with the way they're shaping up. "We've got some good tough cookies in this outfit," one said. "They'll do all right."

An officer picked three of these men at random for me to meet.

The first was Jack Slutsky, a 42-year-old Montrealer who served in the engineers in the last war and fought in Palestine in 1948. "I sold my sandwich shop in Montreal and got in quick. Why? Same reason any old soldier has, I guess. Adventure and serving his country. I always missed the comradeship of the army when I was out."

Corporal Fred Johnston, a six-foot-three, 27-year-old Toronto garbage collector, said: "I'll tell you honestly, I missed this life. I like the excitement of it and the adventure. I've got a pretty good job, a wife and a daughter, but I get that urge to go into action."

Another Toronto man, Herbert Patridge, 26, who was wounded at Ortona, said: "I've got a pretty good job. I make $45 a week with the Toronto street cleaning department. But I always missed the army life. Would have been in it, but the wife wouldn't let me. With this, she knows I'm not signed up for life. We're really better off financially. So she gave her okay."

Norwood Fair Doubles Animal Prizes

NORWOOD, Sept. 11 (ENS)—Prize money in the horse and cattle classes at the Norwood fair has been almost doubled following recent meetings of the board of directors.

More money has added to the harness classes, assuring an extra harness race and two extra running races, in addition to the Roman chariot races planned.

The fair opens October 7 with exhibits being displayed in the armouries. Winners of the Beaver Oats Derby will be announced and films shown.

The directors are urging more local exhibitors to submit entries in the ladies' work, cooking, flowers, vegetables and similar diversions.

A letter sent out by the public school inspector's office omitted the name of Mrs. Frank Andrews, lady director of the junior girls' projects. Mrs. Andrews, R.R. 1, Norwood, is ready to give girls interested in exhibiting in the junior girls' class help and advice.

Science of Genetics Promises Advances

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11 (AP). — The young science of genetics promises new magic.

One possibility is breeding new viruses that would destroy dangerous disease germs.

There may come new breeds of plants and animals—more giant plants for bigger harvests and cattle that resist epidemic diseases. Or yeast factories growing protein feed, or new corn so rich in sugar it might compete with sugar beets and sugar cane.

Your blood may become as unique and sure a way of identifying you as your fingerprints now are.

These are all possibilities in the next 50 years, perhaps sooner, John Pfeiffer writes in "Genetics—the Science of Heredity," a new pamphlet.

The pamphlet is the first such non-technical account of the science which partly determines why any living thing is just as it is. It appears on the eve of an international golden jubilee of genetics this week in Columbus, O. It was in 1900 that the theories of Gregor Mendel, founder of modern genetics, were verified.

Since then genetics has marked up solid achievements, through studies of inheritance and the tiny agents of heredity, the genes.

A famous one is hybrid corn, bred to grow to the same height with large ears.

Yields of penicillin were boosted four-fold by genetic research. The molds producing the drug were bombarded with X-rays which changed the genetic structure or heredity of some of the molds. Among them were molds that produced more penicillin.

From selective breeding, there are chickens that lay more eggs, pigs producing more bacon, beef cattle without horns. From human studies came knowledge of when there may be danger to newborn children from the blood RH factor.

quicken as scientists learn more about heredity, how genes control inherited traits, perhaps even how changes in genes might be controlled at will, Pfeiffer writes.

"Fifty years ago doctors could do little for victims of such inheritable diseases as diabetes and pernicious anemia. Patients were doomed by their heredity. Today their bad genes are controlled in an artificial environment of insulin or liver extract, and they live beyond their 'predestined' span."

"Fix it Daddy, please!"

MANY of the things "Daddy" must be prepared to "fix" for that son of his are so obvious that he expects to take them in his stride.

For instance — the comfort in which the boy is accustomed to live must be maintained. There must be sound home-training, too . . . a good education to fit the young man of the future for a highly competitive world.

Yet every father risks defeat of his plans until he can answer "yes" to one question . . . "Will there be a regular income to carry them through if I am no longer here to earn it?"

The one sure way to provide the right answer is through Life Insurance. It can be arranged in the form of a guaranteed monthly income to replace earnings should the breadwinner be taken away.

FASHION DRAMATIZES
the Slender Silhouette

There is a marked change in the Fall silhouette. The outline is slender, tracing a natural shoulder, a defined waistline (but watch for the effect of a lowered line); a narrowed skirt, often with low-placed godets, flares and pleats for walking ease.

The polished look of this dramatic line is reflected again in fabrics . . . very velvety and soft to touch; in vibrant colours, subtle tones; in gleaming little hats, shining leathers, brilliant jeweller's pieces.

This sleek and slender way of fashion looks new, refreshing. You'll find the version most becoming to you on the Fashion Floors at

UK SENDS MORE TROOPS TO GERMANY

UN Troops Take Part Of Vital Hill

Other Forces Trap 3,000 Reds In Deep Corridor

TOKYO, Sept. 12—(AP)—An American Cavalry battalion today stormed up a commanding hill held by North Koreans eight miles north of Taegu and seized two-thirds of it in five hours of bitter fighting.

Dug-in Communists on the hill and nearby peak threw a storm of artillery and machine-gun fire at the advancing Americans.

Casualties were heavy.

"The main threat (to Taegu) is right here," a regimental commander said.

Capture of the hill would give the American defenders of Taegu a vital anchor on their right flank.

The Americans attacked first seven miles north of Taegu. Gen. MacArthur's headquarters said they gained nearly one mile and secured high ground commanding the vital Taegu-Tabu road.

Forty thousand Red Korean troops are massed north of the city for an expected fresh assault upon the Allied northwest anchor. The dug-in hill force was a small Red advance party.

Thunderous Barrage

Communist artillery roared a thunderous barrage for the third straight day, plastering the Taegu-Tabu road.

Allied big guns and planes, striking earlier against this barrage, had counted a heavy toll of the booming Red artillery.

Such an artillery barrage usually is the prelude to an attack.

Far to the east, in the wild hill sector somewhere west of Pohang port, a United Nations task force struck swiftly to trap Red troops in a corridor deep within Allied lines.

South Korean forces already had sealed the northern entrance. The task force, striking close to the southern gate, punched 2½ miles in bitter fighting against two Red battalions.

Recapture Ridge

On the southwest front, counter-attacking 25th Division Americans recaptured a commanding ridge four miles south of the confluence of the Nam and Naktong Rivers in a bitter fight against numerically superior Reds. The Communists had hurled three assault waves and won the peak Monday night.

RELATIVES OF TRAPPED MINERS watch anxiously as two survivors are brought out of Knockshinnock Castle mine at New Cumnock, Scotland. Thirteen miners are still trapped in the mine as grim-faced relatives maintain a death watch at the muddy pit-head from which rescue workers have pulled 116 others alive. It was decided today that rescue efforts must be abandoned.

Britons Told Austerity To Increase

Planning To Channel 250,000 Workers Into Arms Production

LONDON, Sept. 12—(CP)—Prime Minister Attlee announced today Britain will send more troops to Germany as part of a vast defence build-up against Communist aggression.

Opening an emergency session of parliament, Attlee also disclosed:

1. 250,000 workers will be channelled into arms production as part of a £3,600,000,000 defence program during the next three years.

2. New austerity measures — fewer radios, cars and other luxuries—will be necessary because of the drain on Britain' economy.

3. The government is reviewing its controls over export of goods of potential war value to Russia and her satellites.

4. If necessary to keep the arms program going at top speed, the government will take over the allocation of scarce raw materials.

Wants 60 Divisions

Right after Attlee finished speaking, opposition leader Winston Churchill appealed for a "European army of at least 60 to 70 divisions," to make "some sort of a front in Europe."

Churchill said the Conservative party would vote for the government's motion asking approval of extended draft service and higher pay for the forces. But, he added, "our approval is not a vote of confidence in the government—least of all on its handling of military affairs."

Attlee told the emergency session of parliament that he had every confidence that aggression in Korea would be halted and "a salutary lesson given to would-be aggressors."

"No propaganda can alter the fact that the attack on South Korea was naked aggression," the Prime Minister said. Condonation of aggression in one part of the world raised anxieties as to what might happen elsewhere.

"This does not mean we believe that world war is imminent and assuredly wo do not believe it is inevitable," Attlee told parliament, which had been summoned from vacation to discuss the government's new £3,400,000,000 rearmament plans.

Seek Draft Endorsement

Attlee was seeking parliament's endorsement of the government's decision to extend draft service from 18 months to two years and substantially raise pay for the forces.

Winston Churchill's opposition pledged itself in advance to support the government motion which says the measures are "designed to meet the growing dangers to world peace, of which the war in Korea is an example."

Attlee told parliament that Britain was stationing another division in Germany and was bringing up to full strength the two divisions there. He said Britain

FIELD MARSHAL JAN. C. SMUTS, of South Africa, who became the symbol of the British Commonwealth of Nations, died at his home near Pretoria, Monday.

Great South African Leader Field Marshal Smuts Dies, Fine Soldier, Counsellor

World Mourns Loss Of Brilliant Man Who Helped Steer Empire Through Stormy Days of War and Peace

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa, Sept. 12—(AP)—Field Marshal Jan Christiaan Smuts, South African leader in three wars and two world peace movements, died Monday night in his 81st year. The end came as the cumulative result of pneumonia, influenza, and heart strain after a back ailment forced him to bed May 28, four days after his 80th birthday.

From around the world expressions of sympathy poured in to the family of the Field Marshal—twice Prime Minister of the Union of South Africa, statesman, philosopher, counsellor of kings, and an organizer of both the League of Nations and the United Nations.

The messages reflected the ironic contrast in Smuts' varied career, which started with his leading commando raids against British forces in the Boer War and ended with his being a bulwark of the British Commonwealth of Nations. It was Smuts who in 1917 first suggested a British Commonwealth as apart from the Empire.

This, and British honors, helped earn him the resentment of some of his embittered, die-hard countrymen. Shattering political defeats in the last two years left their physical mark.

Had League Plan

After becoming a lieutenant-general in the British army in the First World War and campaigning against German East Africa forces, Smuts published a League of Nations plan. It led to his participation in the formation of that ill-fated organization. A generation later, Smuts again led South Africa to the Allied side, becoming a field marshal in the British Army in 1941. Following the German and Japanese surrenders, Smuts joined world leaders in San Francisco, where he was a spokesman for the smaller countries in forming the U.N. Charter.

His parents were of Dutch and French Huguenot stock. Born May 24, 1870, on a farm near Capetown, Smuts quit law studies to become a guerrilla leader in the Boer Rebellion in 1899-1902.

Smuts' first tenure as prime minister after the First World War foundered when public dissatisfaction with his severe handling of 1922 labor problems cost him his parliamentary majority. Seventeen years later, in 1939, he returned to power when the government of J. B. M. Hertzog fell on the neutrality issue. Smuts' regime lasted until 1948.

Non-Confidence Vote Asked On Gov'T Budget

OTTAWA, Sept. 12 — (CP). — The Progressive Conservative and CCF parties today called on the Commons to vote non-confidence in the government because its special budget had "failed" to provide for curtailment of non-essential expenditures and for reimposition of an excess profits tax.

The parties moved the traditional non-conference motions at the outset of debate on the budget, brought down last Thursday.

The budget provided for an increase in corporation income tax and for increased levies on a wide list of luxury and semi-luxury goods. The tax on such things as soft drinks, chocolate bars, candy and chewing gum also was increased.

J. M. Macdonnell (PC-Toronto Greenwood), chief financial critic for the Opposition, charged the government with "complacency" in the present international crisis and said it had dealt in "feather duster" fashion with the cost of living.

Need Effective Steps

His motion of non-confidence expressed regret that "the government has failed to take effective steps to curtail non-essential expenditures and improve the general efficiency of government."

Alistair Stewart (CCF-Winnipeg North) incorporated the Progressive Conservative motion into a CCF motion of non-confidence in the government.

It added:

"We regret further that the government has failed to protect the people of this country from profiteering by the imposition of an excess profits tax."

The motions will be voted on at the conclusion of the debate.

Mr. Stewart, acting as the CCF financial critic, accused the government of "deliberate inflation" and predicted that its fiscal policy "must lead to widespread distress and misery."

Corporation Taxes

He called for greatly increased

Frost Damage Curbs Hopes For Wheat Crop

OTTAWA, Sept. 12 — (CP) — Prairie frost is chilling Canada's hopes of reaping an unusually-rich wheat harvest.

Government officials, now in the process of compiling an estimate of the damage, say 75,000,000 bushels of wheat may have fallen prey to the August frost siege.

If the Bureau of Statistics report to be issued Thursday bears that out, it would mean that prairie farmers, shippers and the Canadian Wheat Board would stand to lose, combined, an estimated $140,000,000 or more at current wheat prices.

It would reduce Canada's previous estimate of 544,000,000 bushels—third largest in history—to 469,000,000.

Better Than Nothing

A crop of 469,000,000 bushels is not to be sneezed at. It is better than the long-range average of 400,000,000 bushels, but frost, combining with wind damage, is expected to turn a chunk of it into poor-class wheat—the kind of wheat that is fit for livestock feed, but not human consumption.

At current prices, No. 1 northern wheat would provide farmers with an initial payment of $1.40 a bushel for wheat delivered at Fort William, Port Arthur, Vancouver or Churchill. But the poorer grades of wheat—such as grades No. 4, 5 and 6—would bring the farmer less than $1.

Extent of this poor wheat turnout is not known. Some reports reaching Ottawa say it may total 100,880,000 bushels. This could mean another heavy loss of revenue to the western farmer and reduce his exportable wheat crop from the estimate of a bumper 544,000,000 to 369,000,000—just about what it was a year ago.

Canada Unable To Fill UK Pork Orders

OTTAWA, Sept. 12 — ((CP)—Canadians are eating so much pork that export orders from the United Kingdom are going begging. Agriculture officials said today that because of increased domestic demand for pork — it jumped 20 per cent last month—purchases to fill the United Kingdom bacon contract for 60,000,000 pounds this year are being delayed.

To the end of August, only 15,500,000 pounds had been purchased but the government hopes to get the other 45,000,000 pounds in the last four months of the year.

Canadian hog marketings this year to the end of August are up 21.5 per cent over the same period in 1949. But domestic consumption to the end of last month increased 20.5 per cent.

Marketings jumped 12.5 per cent in August, compared with the corresponding month last year and eastern farms supplied most of the hogs. Marketings for the western provinces were up 14.8 per cent and from the eastern provinces 11.7 per cent, but only 26.7 per cent of the total hogs originated in the west while 45 per cent came from Ontario and 25 per cent from Quebec.

Can't Keep Up

Despite the increase in the number of hogs being marketed, purchases for export under the U.K. contract of 15,500,000 pounds to the end of August compared with 20,500,000 pounds purchased for Britain in the first eight months of last year. The British contract last year was for 160,000,000 pounds but only slightly less than 100,000,000 pounds were delivered.

Officials pointed out that 80,000,000 pounds of the contract last year was filled during the last four months. They again expect that an even bigger boost in marketing during the last four months of this year will permit the purchase of the outstanding 45,000,000 pounds on this year's contract.

Canada May Be Requested To Send Troops To Europe

OTTAWA, Sept. 12—(CP)—A considerable gap exists in the defence forces needed to meet an attack in Europe, and Canada will help fill it with the weapons of war and may even be asked to make a contribution of manpower. This was disclosed by External Affairs Minister Pearson before a Senate committee Monday. He said Canada may be asked by Atlantic Pact partners to see what she can do in the way of an Army contribution as well as the $300,000,000 earmarked in her rearmament budget for arms for Europe.

The minister did not indicate Canada's answer to such a request. But he pointed out that Europe can field armies much more cheaply than Canada.

The whole military organization of the Atlantic Pact powers will be discussed at a meeting of their foreign ministers—including himself—in New York this week. The ministers will consider reports from subordinates and the pact authorities will inform Canada what is needed most and production will be based on that.

Mr. Pearson made the disclosures in reply to a question during committee consideration of the government's $850,000,000 rearmament program.

Biggest Peacetime Force

The program calls for the raising, training and equipping of a special brigade of close to 9,000 men—including reinforcements—for Korea or elsewhere. It plans to boost Canada's standing army from its present figure of about 20,000 to about 35,000 and bring the reserve army — an integral part of the home defence forces —up to full strength of about 50,000 men.

Recruiting for the navy, army and air force will be boosted to a combined total of about 81,000, the biggest armed forces Canada ever has maintained in peacetime.

Senator John T. Haig, Progressive Conservative leader, asked Mr. Pearson if he thought he would be asked in New York what Canada could do in the way of an army for Europe. Mr. Pearson said it was likely.

Mr. Pearson said that were he asked what Canada had already done, he would tell the council she had accepted certain continental obligations for coastal and northern defence, certain radar obligations, certain air commitments in the north and the obligation to help arm Europe.

Hurricane Traps Four Vessels

HALIFAX, Sept. 12 (CP). — Four small swordfishing vessels were caught in a hurricane which struck off the southwest tip of Nova Scotia early today. A fifth vessel, the Debutante, made the port of Wood's Harbor minus her deck house, spars and dories, swept away by mountain seas and 75-mile-an-hour winds.

Each of the vessels carries a crew of five or six men. All are believed to be from Wood's Harbor area, on the southernmost tip of Nova Scotia.

The Debutante's skipper in a radio message intercepted by the marine radio station at Yarmouth, N. S., said he managed once early today to get within sight of Seal Island, His deck house and dories had been carried away. The island is 20 miles off the province's southwest tip.

The other missing vessels, the Nickerson, Afeneth, Anna Maris and Sir Echo, have not been heard from since the big blow struck.

Hearing Monday Into Quebec Fire

OTTAWA, Sept. 12 (CP).—The Transport Department today announced that a formal investigation into the destruction by fire of the Canada Steamship Lines cruise ship Quebec will be held at Quebec City next Monday at 10 a.m. EDT.

Mr. Justice Fernand Choquette of the Quebec Superior Court will preside.

The 7,000-ton cruise ship, carrying 400 passengers and a crew of 150, caught fire at Tadousac, Que., Aug. 14. Seven persons lost their lives in the blaze.

5 Red-Faced Policemen Would Like Report On Escaped Prisoner Handcuffed To Tree

MORRISTOWN, N.J., Sept. 12—(AP)—Five red-faced policemen would appreciate reports of the whereabouts of an escaped prisoner handcuffed to an uprooted tree.

Walbridge Vanderhoof, 25, charged with burglary and larceny, was taken from jail here yesterday to point out the location of a still.

Sheriff Arnold Ladd and four other officers accompanied the prisoner.

Arriving at a barn, the prisoner said it contained a still and possibly some stolen loot. But he feared to go inside, he said, because members of his former gang might be in the barn, ready to ambush him.

So the five officers handcuffed Vanderhoof to a small tree, and stealthily entered the barn.

They found nothing inside.

When they came out, Vanderhoof was gone. So were the handcuffs—and the tree.

Smuts Always Tower of Strength In Commonwealth

By RT. HON. ANTHONY EDEN.

"One man in his time plays many parts." The genius of Jan Christian Smuts is that he has played them all so mightily. In an age sometimes described as that of the common man, Smuts towers as a giant in whatever role he finds himself.

The fabric of his life is stretched over an era of momentous change. Into his 80 years of intense living Smuts crammed the lives of a hundred ordinary men. Such was his versatility, his universal genius, that time must elapse before his manifold activities can be seen in their true perspective.

In what field shall he chiefly be saluted? As a man of action, he is the natural fighter, shrewd in strategy and instant in decision. Wholly without fear, he always led his own reconnaissance during his brilliant guerrilla command in Cape Colony in the first years of the century. These tactics, with his successful campaigns in German East and South West Africa in the First World War, are military feats for which the name of Smuts will always be remembered in the annals of fighting men. He took as much pride in his record as a soldier as in any other of his varied achievements.

Courage Invaluable

In the Second World War, too, his courage and counsel were invaluable. His vigor put many a younger man to shame, and the fertile resources of his mind were a constant strength to us.

I remember one incident especially. In February, 1941, the War Cabinet agreed that military assistance should be offered to Greece. Sir John Dill and I therefore flew to Cairo for discussions with the Commanders-in-Chief, Middle East, and to Athens for talks with the Greek Prime Minister.

I saw then how the difficulties and anxious decisions were crowding in upon us, and I telegraphed to Smuts asking whether he could possibly come up to Cairo to help us with his wisdom and advice. This he immediately and most gallantly did. Such a response was generous in the extreme; for he was far too shrewd not to realize that we were so weak that there could be no escape from what Wolfe called "a choice of difficulties." But Smuts came, none the less, to take part in and to endorse what were bound to be critical and might well be unpopular decisions.

Apart from his military distinction, Smuts has brought to the field of learning a massive intellect and a cool, far-sighted comprehension. He it was who contributed the theory of Holism to the philosophy of the world, and expressed it with a richness of phrase and a delicacy of imagery that have rarely been equalled in madern times.

Kept Faith With Theory

His entire political career reflected the conviction that all advancement must derive from the formation of wholes which are more than the sum of their constituent parts. He kept faith with this theory in his early endeavor to achieve the union of South Africa, in his passionate devotion to the British Commonwealth of Nations, and in his constant support of plans for a world order.

At the heart of Smuts' deep loyalty to these greater unities lay his abiding belief in freedom. He once summarised that faith for us:

"Freedom is the most ineradicable craving of human nature; without it, peace, contentment and happiness, even manhood itself, are not possible. The fight for human freedom

Doctors later issued this bulletin: "Mr. Shaw has had a very comfortable night following his operation and his general condition is considered satisfactory."

Millionaire Quebec Ski Resort Operator Killed In 22-Storey New York Hotel Plunge

NEW YORK, Sept. 12—(CP)—Joseph B. Ryan, 46, millionaire owner of a ski empire at Mont Tremblant in Quebec's Laurentian Mountains, today was killed in a 22-storey plunge from a window of the Warwick hotel in mid-town New York.

He was a grandson of the late Thomas Fortune Ryan, multi-millionaire railroad builder and philanthropist, and a cousin of Clendennin J. Ryan, an independent candidate in New York city's special mayoralty election Nov. 7, and publisher of the American Mercury magazine.

The body was identified by Alex Stephenson, a friend of the family. Stephenson said Ryan complained recently of dizzy spells and insomnia. Other sources acquainted with the family said he had suffered financial reverses in the last year.

Ryan developed a huge property at Mount Tremblant, turning the area into one of the top ski resorts in the Laurentians. He once estimated his holdings there as worth $3,500,000.

Say Parliament Almost Finished Work

OTTAWA, Sept. 12. — (CP). — The emergency session of Parliament has just about completed its work.

Called August 29 to deal with the railway strike crisis, it now is all but through with the government's combined defence and "anti - inflationary program," leaving only one major item — the budget debate—on the order paper.

Expectations now are that it will rise—either by prorogation or adjournment—late this week.

The Chamber, stepping up its pace noticeably, Monday gave quick passage to a Bill providing for limitations—if necessary— on instalment buying and other forms of consumer credit. It gave the Bill both second and third readings in one day.

It also gave second reading and completed clause-by-clause committee work on a second measure authorizing the government to control—again, if necessary—materials designated as essential to the country's defence program.

Finance Minister Abbott piloted the Credit Limitation Bill and said it would apply to instalment buying, charge accounts and repayment of loans made for the purchase of consumer goods.

Piecemeal Basis

He did not elaborate, but government sources said the controls will be installed on a piecemeal basis, as they become necessary. They likely will call for larger down payments, large monthly or weekly payments, and a time limit for repayment.

Opposition speakers generally expressed approval of the legislation.

In the Commons, Mr. Abbott said the need for regulation of consumer credit depends to some extent on the actions of sellers and buyers themselves. Attempts to "high-pressure" customers would add to inflationary pressures and make restrictions "inevitable and urgent." Consumers for their part, should think twice.

Tower of Strength

is the supreme issue of the future, as it has always been in the past."

Smuts spoke these words in 1934; the succeeding years have served to illuminate their truth.

Despotism Strength

But what of the man himself, of the personal qualities that have cast Jan Christiaan Smuts for his long brave role on the world's stage? His critics have proclaimed him ambitious and aloof, impatient and proud, unsentimental and efficient. These may be the colder attributes, but they were relieved in Smuts by his freshness of outlook, his acute perception, and his ceaseless industry. Reluctant to delegate duties, he was prone to decide rather than to consult, but this very despotism was a source of his strength.

Smuts did not suffer fools gladly. On the contrary, he has consistently shown the most searing contempt for all forms of pettiness. Perhaps this was a reason for the unpopularity which has at times encompassed him, when he has suffered insults and abuse sufficient to provoke the patience of a saint. But libel and calumny left him cold. The brawling and the squabbling of the political market place were not for him.

In the last analysis, however, his power and influence stemmed from the peerless quality of his intellect. It was said of the movement to secure union in South Africa in the early years of the century that Botha was its heart, but Smuts its brains, and this I believe to be true. His mind was altogether extraordinary in its vast knowledge and almost unlimited capacity to absorb facts, and from these faculties his shrewd political prescience obtained.

Common Patriotism

Throughout his career, the Field-Marshal has stood for the merging of racial and other distinctions in a common patriotism to South Africa. He himself took office under Hertzog, his political opponent of many years, when he deemed such a course in the best interest of his country. The generosity of this gesture can by no means be tarnished.

But Smuts was also a patriot in a wider sense. To the strengthening of the ties which bind the British Commonwealth of Nations he had devoted most studious care and all the force of a dynamic mind. In passionate fidelity to this great family of nations he ranks second to none. He gave inspiration and loyalty to the design of international order, and was one of the first to recognize the supreme necessity to establish a working comity of all the nations of the world.

Smuts will surely go down in history as a man well matched to every task he undertook. To his own country he is the pioneer who, more than any other, shaped its destiny. The Commonwealth he served so well will ever count him one of its best loved sons. In proud affection we salute him and pay homage to his genius. So long as men cherish freedom, we shall honor Smuts always.

Police Solve Robbery Cases

He admitted breaking into the snack bar, The Pines Tea Room, owned by George Herron, on Highway 7, east of Peterborough, August 22. He admitted to breaking into the Brookside Pavilion dance hall on Highway 7 July 6 and July 27 and stealing money and goods amounting to about $125.

He pleaded guilty, as well, to breaking into a cottage owned by James Cameron in Otonabee township and taking some articles, including a camera, pen and swim suit July 24.

A 14-year-old juvenile is charged with taking part in the thefts and will face similar charges in juvenile court.

Gerald Card, 23, Otonabee township, pleaded guilty to receiving a stolen camera taken by Hubbs from the Cameron cottage. He was also placed on one year's suspended sentence.

In a $250 bond guaranteeing his good behavior, Hubbs undertook to repay the Brookside Pavilion $50 down and $15 a month from his own earnings until the full amount was repaid. He has also undertaken to repay Mr. Cameron for the articles taken.

Constable Roy Feeley, who investigated, told the court after Hubbs had been charged with theft from the Pines Tea Room, he volunteered the information concerning the other thefts.

County Driver Fined $40

A charge of Drunk driving was withdrawn, but Ian Inglis, RR 4, Peterborough, pleaded guilty to a charge of careless driving in Police Court today and was fined $40, and costs. His licence was suspended three months.

The charges were laid by Chief Garnet Samis of Lakefield following an accident in the north-end of the village after midnight Saturday morning.

Inglis, driving a light delivery truck north, struck a three-ton truck operated by Don Littleproud, Detlor, Ont., proceeding in the opposite direction and continued another 160 feet into a grove of trees beside the highway where it was wedged between two trees. It had sheared off the rear left dual wheels of the three-ton truck.

Chief Samis said the truck had been almost entirely off the road when hit by the Inglis truck. He added that Inglis had been drinking.

A car travelling ahead of the Littleproud truck had been forced to leave the road to avoid a collision.

Damage to the truck was estimated at about $500 and to the light truck about $250 to $300.

U. N. Troops

The weary Americans launched their counter-attack before dawn on the hill commanding one of the best crossing points along the Nam.

United Nations planes, in close support of ground troops, flew a record number of sorties. By midnight Monday, they had gone out in 683 flights.

"We really kept his (the enemy's) head down," an air spokesman said.

Near Pohang, the secret task force in its 2½-mile westward push reported 370 Reds killed, 188 wounded, one prisoner taken and 80 South Korean prisoners liber-

The task force's objective was to take high ground at the base of the corridor, where an estimated 3,000 Red troops have punched a deep salient into the northeast line.

The Reds were striking for the Allied air base six miles southeast of Pohang.

Associated Press Correspondent Bem Price, reporting from this front, said the Red Koreans were well dug in on bare and rocky terrain.

Seize Objective

The task force seized the initial objective and pushed on toward the second. Some Red units at the rear were slamming mortar and small-arms fire at the Americans and South Koreans. Price said casualties had been extraordinarily light, however.

Other units of the task force pushed north in a drive to pin other Red Korean units against the South Korean wall at the top of the corridor.

To the southwest, U.S. Lieut. Richard L. Dowden, a pilot-observer, saw nearly 400 Red Koreans fleeing toward Angang. Eight F-51 Mustangs, which he radioed into action, rocketed and machine-gunned the Communists.

"They had a field day," Dowden said.

South Korean forces who drove nine miles east from Yongchon in two days had established a firm line three to four miles north of the Yongchon-Kyongju highway.

Close Gap

The break-through gap torn by the Reds last week in their assault south from Kigye had been closed effectively if not completely between Yongchon and Kyongju. A few miles of extremely-impassable terrain was considered a No Man's Land.

Britons Told

considered that the eventual participation of Germany in the defence of Europe could only be considered within the framework of the common defence of the West.

This was a difficult problem which would need careful consideration by all parties, and he preferred to say no more on that point at present.

Harsher Economies

Attlee gave warning of harsher economies for the British people.

"Sacrifices now can prevent greater sacrifices in the future, but sacrifices there must be," he said.

He assailed the "continual obstruction by Soviet Russia" in the United Nations, adding, "all over the world, the aides and supporters of the cominform have worked ceaselessly to foment trouble and disorder."

Britain's six-month extra draft service would add 77,000 men to the forces during the next half year, he reported.

Attlee said there were "strong reasons" for an armed federal police in West Germany—which has been requested by West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

Serious Threat

"The federal republic is constantly faced with the threat of Communist - inspired disorders. The federal government needs some force to act speedily in an emergency.

"What is envisaged is a gendarmerie, a mobile guard under proper democratic control — not an embryo army."

Announcing a number of important immediate steps to strengthen Britain's armed forces Attlee said:

"We have large forces overseas. We have troops the equivalent of 6½ divisions. We are proposing to increase the strategic reserve so as to field a complete infantry division, an armored division and an infantry brigade, all fully armed and stationed in this country.

"An additional division will be stationed in Germany and the two divisions there will be brought up to strength."

Four existing regular divisions stationed in other parts of the world would also be brought up to strength.

During 1951 there would be a flow of fully-trained draft servicemen into the territorial divisions. There would be something like 10 regular divisions after mobilization.

Other Forces Affected

Other forces would be affected thus, Attlee said:

Navy: Substantial additional program of construction, modernization and conversion. Anti-submarine frigates, minesweepers and motor torpedo boats to be among the first items.

Air force: An increase in the strength and preparedness of anti-aircraft defences. Production of jet fighters to go up. Overall air fighter strength to be boosted. Additional squadrons to be formed in occupied territories. Aircraft and associated industries to be used to full capacity.

With cheers from the House punctuating this succession of announcements, Attlee stated:

"What is being done by the European powers is only part of the general defence of the Atlantic area. Full co-operation with the United States and Canada is essential."

Attlee said Britain now was paying her way for the first time since some years before the war and the future task would be to provide for defence without injuring economic stability—the essential basis of all defence.

corporation taxes and increased income taxes in the higher brackets. He urged reimposition of price controls, subsidies where necessary to provide minimum farm prices and action to halt monopoly practices.

Mr. Stewart said the higher taxes on candy, chewing gum and soft drinks "are another imposition on the family with low income and the regrettable thing is that the revenue could have been raised from individuals and industry without any great hardship."

The new defence purchases would pour "another substantial sum of money into the economic system clamoring to buy goods which are not available and which is bound to add to inflationary pressures."

Miss Mina Ross Ex-Teacher Dies

Miss Mina Ross, 191A Murray St., a former member of the Public School staff in Peterborough died at the Civic Hospital today following a very short illness.

Miss Ross was born near Barrie and received her education in the Barrie Collegiate and following graduation from Normal school she joined the Peterborough staff in September, 1904. She taught at the old South Central School until 1911 and then joined the Queen Alexandra staff. With the exception of a year's leave of absence 1916-17 she continued until her retirement in June 1941.

A member of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church Miss Ross took a most active part in the work of the Fraser Auxiliary of the WMS and has since her retirement given much of her time to helping with the work of the congregation.

For years her closest friend was Miss Marion Rannie who was a Normal School teacher and supervisor of music in the public schools. The two retired from teaching about the same time and had planned to spend the sunset years of their lives together. Miss Rannie's very sudden death five years ago brought to an end a wonderful friendship.

Miss Ross also took an active part in the Women's Canadian Club an organization which functioned during The First World War and for several years afterwards. She served for several years on the executive.

A member of a family of eight, six girls and two boys, she is survived by two sisters Mrs. Lowe of Sudbury and Mrs. Charlton of Galt. A brother Judge Donald Ross of Barrie died 23 years ago.

Arrangements for the funeral are awaiting the arrival of relations this afternoon.

Base Metal Stocks Chalk Up 3rd Advance

TORONTO, Sept. 12— CP) — Base metal stocks chalked up a third successive session of advance on the Toronto stock exchange today. Volume for the first three hours was 769,000 shares. # Historic Building In Montreal To Be Razed

MONTREAL — (CP). — A drab grey stone building — the fortress of early French Canada and possibly a pre-Confederation seat of government—will soon be demolished to make room for one of Montreal's new express highways.

Situated at the waterfront junction of Youville and Common Streets, near the landing place of Champlain and Maisonneuve, the Royal Building has been condemned as unsafe. Already engineers have removed the imposing 30-foot tower and heavy stone facade to protect pedestrians walking below.

Around the waterfront it is generally believed that the building was briefly the home of colonial government in the stormy days of the mid-1800's.

The rebellion in Lower Canada in 1837 and the subsequent riots over the 1849 Rebellion Losses Bill prompted the British Government to punish Montreal by moving the colonial capital to Ottawa.

In the transition period, tradition has it that the legislators made the Royal Building their headquarters.

Even before that the building had a history. In the cellar are the intricate passageways and iron-doored prison cells of Maisonneuve's old for built to beat off Indian raids. In one corner are the 20-foot square tanks used to store water for defenders when the Iroquois surrounded them and tried to starve them out.

Later, when the Indian menace was over, the building became the Orante Chateau of the Marquis de Callieres, one of the early patricians of New France sent out from the Court of Versailles.

Bailed On Charge Of Drunk Driving Grafton Man Arrested Second Time

COBOURG, Sept. 12 (ENS)—On bail on a drunk driving charge dated August 1, Harvey Lacombe of Grafton was charged with a second drunk driving offence, dated September 10, when he appeared in court yesterday. He was also charged with dangerous driving as of Sept. 10. The matter was adjourned for two weeks.

Adolf Kuno of Bancroft district, was sentenced to seven days in jail, his truck impounded for three months and license suspended for the same period when he was connected of a drunk driving charge Monday.

Provincial Constable C. Bonasteel of Brighton testified that he and Provincial Constable Cooke had received a complaint about a truck and spotted it travelling slowly on the night of July 17 in Brighton township. The truck was travelling an erratic course and the driver, Kuno, was under the influence of liquor said the constable.

The accused denied that the course taken by the truck was due to liquor. He testified that there was a lump on the front tire and the king-pin needed replacing. He said that he had had only two pints of beer several hours before he was stopped by the police car.

Further remand was given in connection with three juveniles of Cobourg, charged with breaking and entering. One of them, with a mentality of a six-year-old boy, is being committed to an institution and the other two were remanded until Friday in order that the magistrate could decide the best disposition of their case. Both were border-line mental cases, the court was told.

Assassins Kill Chinese Official

HONG KONG, Sept. 12—(AP)—Two assassins killed a right Chinese Nationalist official in Macao Saturday while his wife looked on helplessly. A Nationalist general who tried to help the victim was critically wounded.

Delayed reports form the Portuguese colony identified the official as Tseng Hen-cheng, who arrived in Macao with his wife Saturday on an unknown mission.

The general who went to his aid is Yu Yok-cheun.

Tseng's wife reportedly told police the assassins were his personal friends, Liang Ten and Shaw Yu.

Liang and Shaw invited them to dinner at a hotel. While walking home shortly after midnight, she said, Liang and Shaw whipped out pistols and shot Tseng three times in the chest. No arrests had been made up to Sunday night.

New S-W Sewers To Cost $22,213 To Lay 12-In Pipe

Construction of a 15-inch sewer on a section of Western Ave., in an estimated cost report by City Engineer Chalmers to the finance committee of the council Monday night, apeared to be a first step in providing for future volume flow on that border of the city.

The proposed program, for the present, follows: a 12-inch sewer on Chamberlain St. from High St. to Ford St.; and a 10-inch sewer on Chamberlain St. from Ford to Western Ave.

A 10-inch sewer on Western Ave. from Chamberlain St. to Frank St.

A 15-inch sewer on Western Ave. from Frank St. northerly 300 feet, and from this point an 18-inch sewer northerly on Clonsilla Ave.

The report included the following notation by Mr. Chalmers: "It would be inequitable to charge the whole of the owners' part of the cost of the Western Ave. sewer to the land abutting directly on the work, as this sewer is designed with a larger capacity than is required for the purpose of the abutting land.

"For the present, this sewer will discharge into the Chamberlain St. sewer, but provision is made for future discharge south on Western Ave. when the load is too great for the Chamberlain St. sewer.

"It is recommended that the corporation proceed under section 31 of the Act, and assume 25 per cent of the cost of the Western Ave. sewer, and the balance of the cost be assessed against abutting property."

Estimates of cost are:

| | |
|---|---|
| Chamberlain St. | $7,740.82 |
| Western Ave. | 7,333.10 |
| | $15,073.92 |
| 8 connections at $85 each | 7,140.00 |
| Total | $22,213.92 |

"Estimated cost per foot frontage is $2.87 which, when made payable in 15 annual instalments with interest at 3¼% is equal to an annual rate of 24 46/100 cents per foot frontage. # Swimming Club Elect Year's Officers

Mrs. June Storey was elected president of the Peterborough Ornamental Swimming Club at its annual meeting in the Public Library Monday night.

Other officers for the coming year are: 1st vice-president, Mrs. Betty Welsh; 2nd vice-president, Miss Beverley Rumary; recording secretary, Miss Mary Jo Dorsett; correspondence secretary, Miss Norma Delaney; treasurer, Mrs. Isobel Crary; social convener, Mrs. Marie Stone; membership convener, Mrs. Joan Craig; telephone convener, Miss Norma Gant; project convener, Miss Betty Mather.

Plans for the club's 7th birthday banquet were discussed. Several new members will be initiated then. The new show to be held next summer at the Lions Club pool was also discussed.

Cobourg Police Grab Man On Theft Count

COBOURG, Sept. 12 (ENS). — Arrested early today by Constables H. Pearse and H. Seale while cruising on the outskirts of the town, Jack Dracup of Cobourg was charged with breaking and entering, and theft. He was remanded until Friday.

Police spotted Dracup carrying several packages of cigarettes under his arm a short distance from Halligan's store and brought him in for questioning. Investigating further, they found that Halligan's grocery store in that vicinity had been broken into. Entrance had been gained by forcing a window.

Ditch, Parked Car Blamed For Bang

Construction work and a parked car on Park St. north were blamed for an accident in which two cars travelling in opposite directions scraped fenders Monday evening.

Owen A. Smith, Chicago, told police that driving north on Park St., he got over as far as a ditch dug along both side of Park St. where new curbs and gutters were put, would allow him.

A car coming in the opposite direction, he said, started to drive around the parked car, when they collided.

Driver of the other car, Robert Watkins, 639 Gilchrist St., said he had not begun to pass the parked car when the collision occurred. Constable John Morrow investigated.

Judge Refuses Handle Court

TORONTO, Sept. 12 (CP) — Mr. Justice W. F. Schroeder declined to preside over a court of the Supreme Court of Ontario Monday and adjourned hearings indefinitely although litigants witnesses and counsel awaited trial of their cases.

No judge was named to preside over the No. 2 court today and court officials could not say whether the cases would be heard.

Mr. Justice Schroeder's decision was reported to have arisen from a disagreement with Chief Justice James C. McRuer who arrived unexpectedly Monday from Peterborough. When Mr. Justice Schroeder arrived to hear criminal cases he was informed that the chief justice would preside over the court and he was assigned to civil cases in another court.

HAVELOCK, Sept. 12—(ENS)—A very successful progressive euchre party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Adams on Friday night, sponsored by the girls' softball team. Five tables were played. The first prize was won by Jack Whiteford and the second by Mrs. William White. The consolation award went to Mrs. Jack Whiteford and the lucky draw to Robert Brooks.

Mothball Fleet Soon To Be A Bad Memory

HALIFAX, Sept. 12 —(CP)—This port's "mothball fleet" of idle freighters, which reached a peak of 23 during the winter, will soon be an unpleasant memory.

Last of the vessels, the Victoria County, is being reconditioned and undergoing inspection before transfer to Honduran registry.

Ship operators blamed competition from foreign ships, devaluation of the pound sterling and labor troubles brought on by the Canadian Seamen's Union for most of the tie-ups.

But slowly, during the late winter months, the ships sailed—some still under Canadian registry but most with foreign flags.

The 12-ship fleet of Acadia overseas freighters of Halifax has been reduced to three. The others now fly foreign flags. Three were sold to Israel, two to Liberia and three are under Panamanian registry. The ninth is the Victoria County.

Operate Under Subsidy

The three remaining are operating under a $3,000,000 federal government subsidy granted to keep at least 40 ships of Canada's wartime merchant fleet under Dominion registry.

Four others tied up have been transferred to British registry, although still owned in Canada, in a move to cut operating costs.

Three Canadian National Steamships vessels, left idle for several months, have resumed runs to the West Indies.

But even with the mothball fleet gone, not all is rosy for the fleet operators.

Harry Mathers, youthful president of Acadia Overseas Freighters, said: "We have three ships left. But it's doubtful that we can operate them next year unless the government subsidy is renewed."

Selective Logging

Ensures a safe future for Timber in the County

From the forested area in which logging operations are planned the foreman selects the trees to be cut. These are felled by axe, crosscut saw or chain saw, the woodsmen having due regard to where the tree falls so that minimum damage will result to the younger growth.

Selective logging picks out the mature trees and those of commercial value, leaving the younger growth to develop for future cutting. This method conserves the forest, protects the watershed and provides for future timber in the county.

Peterborough's Public Brawling

We are rather partial to an occasional noisy brawl, viewing it from the sidelines, of course. There is something zoo-like about seeing squabbles, hair-pulling, screeching, snarling and snapping. Even if a bit of blood flows, it is probably salutary for the man and woman, or the two women, involved. The whole thing may be healthy for the observers too, or the newspaper readers: it serves to remind them humbly how near the human species is to the animal. However, there can be too much of a good thing. Some streets in Peterborough are having too much now.

• • •

Brawling in public is really indecorous. Peterborough is a decorous city. The two are incompatible. The way to resolve the situation is to make the public brawlers toe the line, or put them out of circulation; sections of the city should not be allowed to become like unsavoury noisy streets in big cities from Cairo to Toronto. If people cannot mind their own domestic or neighbourly quarrels in private, let them hire a clearing in the midst of the woods or vent their spleen in jail. It is not fair to other folk on the street or to the good name of Peterborough to have the Black Maria junketing every other evening down certain streets to pull in the screechers, swearers and ear-biters. Nor is it sufficient to have these disturbers of the peace appear in police court next morning to be bound over to keep the peace, or to pay a ten dollar fine.

• • •

The cost of living has gone up. Wages have gone up. Almost everything has gone up except the cost of breaking the peace. Twenty years ago a fine of ten dollars meant half a week's wages; it was a deterrent. Now a ten dollar fine may mean less than a day's pay. It is chicken feed compared with the joy some of the offenders seem to get from letting down their hair and raising their voices in public. These rows are offensive to neighbours and the citizenry. A ten dollar fine is inadequate compensation to society for having its sensibilities shaken. The rate of fines should be increased, and if that is not enough to cool the rowdies, or to make them keep their squabbles indoors and quiet, then give them a few days in jail.

Canadian Armed Services Change Their Enlisted Character

Three or four years ago it seemed that a young man who wished to join the Canadian army even as a private soldier had to have a university education, so demanding were the requirements. The Air Force and Navy were equally sniffy. The candidate for the service had to be in the full bloom of youth, he had to have the equivalent of university matriculation, a better than average intelligence and high physical fitness. With enlisted men of such calibre in the services the authorities hoped to build the most select corps in the world. All the men would be capable of becoming regimental or staff officers in due course. Most would be capable of university training, which many would be given at the government's expense. In order to attract the right types of men, rates of pay were raised, living conditions were made more attractive, and the opportunities for advancement in the service were stressed. What has now happened to this remarkable corps? The requirement for joining the Canadian Special Force or the active services otherwise, are the lowest they have been since the days of Napoleon. Now all that seems to be required is that a man be "mentally alert". And of course, modern recognition of disabilities such as flat feet, allergies to hard-tack and khaki, and emotional instability still exclude candidates who would serve the King.

There is no need to labour the reasons for this drastic lowering of standards. There were not enough available young men in Canada of the formerly-required qualities to meet this year's military needs. In calling attention to the new minimum requirements we do not suggest that the men now enlisting are necessarily inferior to those who joined up two years ago, or that they will not be good soldiers. Undoubtedly some among them will rise in the services to become sergeant-majors captains and generals. But we may well ask if, having set our sites too high after the war, we are now setting them too low?

Our armed services are not so large that everybody who comes along need be accepted. The rates of pay, and the conditions of service are as good as they were before; the opportunities for advancement are better, considering the rate at which Canada has been recruiting this year. But until there is full mobilization, the men enlisting in this country's armed services will be primarily a core, from which must come the platoon, flotilla and squadron leaders of tomorrow, the executives of Canada's armed might. They should therefore be men of ability.

Our Government In Simple Terms

There are twenty-one men in the Cabinet of the Dominion: How many of them can you name, with their Cabinet positions?

This is the sort of question which we do not mind asking, but which we do not like to be asked. And yet it is our business, more than that of the average citizen, to know these things. We do know them—in the sense that we can lay our hands on the information in a matter of minutes.

Comparatively few of us have detailed and accurate information in our heads about our system of government and the men who make it work. It is important that we should refresh our knowledge, from time to time, upon this matter, for it is easy to grow rusty.

The Canadian Chamber of Commerce has brought out an excellent pamphlet which explains our system of government in simple (but not childish) terms. It is called Know Your Government. Beginning with a simplified but sufficient definition of democracy, it goes on to explain our country's constitution, our Parliament, our relationship to the Crown, our judicial system, and our provincial and local governments. It contains a great deal of information in its 31 pages, and it has a supplement which lists the Cabinet Ministers, parliamentary assistants, and members of the Senate and Commons.

The Canadian Chamber of Commerce is to be congratulated on an excellent piece of work. We hope that this pamphlet will be kept in print and widely distributed, for it is something that has been needed for a long time. We have just placed it on our shelves between the Canadian Almanac and The Canada Year Book—the two books which we use most often in the course of a day's work. That shows, better than another paragraph of praise, what we think of it.

A Problem Of Etiquette

Life becomes more complicated every day. Consider, for instance, this question, which was put to Emily Post, the expert on etiquette, and Mrs. Post's reply:

(Q) My husband just had a television set installed and it is creating a disagreement in the family. When a friend telephones me while I'm looking at a program that is especially interesting to me, must I be interrupted or can the person calling be told to call back after the program? Could this be considered rude?

(A) To say "Mrs. Jones is looking at television" would seem discourteous. But to say "Mrs. Jones is unable to come to the telephone at the moment but asks if she may call you in 10 (or 20) minutes" would be quite all right.

This is a question which would never have occurred to us. Of course, like most people in Canada, we have no television, and it has not yet brought its problems into our household. But then, on the other hand, we have seen television, and the notion of a program so interesting that we could not leave it to answer the phone moves us to irreverent laughter.

Other people's tastes must be considered, however. The day is not far off when television will be widespread here, and whenever we want to telephone somebody we shall encounter a mental hazard, for we shall fear to interrupt them in the midst of some lush and treasured pipedream. We shall have to work out a new telephone formula, along these lines: "If Mr. X is not supine under the thralldom of television, may we speak to him, please?"

Of course there will be the usual people who will disregard such refinements. And they will be the sort of people who now phone us when we are in the bath, asleep, or cleaning the furnace pipes.

NOTE AND COMMENT

One of the painful things about living in a free world is the heavy expense.

A science note says that "a person talking continuously for 500 years would produce only enough energy to heat one cup of tea." Please, sir, how many fine words would it take to butter a parsnip?

The Toronto morning paper reports that "Controller John Innes officiated" at a wedding of Ming and Lulu, two monkeys in the Riverdale Zoo. Precisely what he did is not explained, but some recent statements of Toronto controllers suggest that he might appropriately have given the bride away.

PROFILE:

Chiang Kai-shek

"FIFTY or a hundred years ago," wrote General Stilwell of Chiang Kai-shek during the war, "he might have been an acceptable leader of China. But his lack of education handicapped him under modern conditions." And, with exasperation creeping into his tone, he goes on: "The picture we see clearly is dark to him. He hurdles logic by using his intuition, dismisses proven principles by saying Chinese psychology is different."

GENERAL Stilwell, whom three years of attempted co-operation with Chiang drove to a searing hatred of the man, was dismissed as just "vinegar Joe" by a public opinion fed for fifteen years with propaganda about Chiang's nobility and greatness. When, some years later, General Marshall, during his extended mission to China, came to a very similar judgement of Chiang, people still remained merely puzzled.

Then followed the climax of China's twenty years' civil war, which Chiang faced with all the trump cards in his hands: gold reserves amounting to £180,000,000, all the cities and communications of China, all the Japanese-installed industries, all the potential wealth of Shanghai and other foreign settlements made over to him, and, finally, an army and air force four times as large as that of his opponents and lavishly equipped with modern American weapons. He lost the war ignominiously.

Yet the legend that he has been a great leader and statesman lingers on outside China, despite the evidence of facts and documents—including, not least, Chiang's own speeches and writings—by which that legend could be tested. They tell the story of a man who had all the abilities needed to seize power in an anarchic time, but few of the qualities needed for government.

WHEN Chiang joined the Chinese revolution of 1911 as a young man of twenty-four, he already had to his credit a Japanese military education. By the time Sun Yat-sen named him his successor in 1925, he had proved his ability to fashion an effective army out of Chinese peasant material—he had proved his capacity for leadership. There followed the three actions which gave him absolute power in China and made him world famous: the march from Canton to the Yangtze in 1926; the coup d'etat of 1927, when he successfully ousted his former Communist allies, and, in the following four years, the gradual elimination of the northern war lords, whom he played against each other, suborned or overwhelmed singly.

The story of these exploits is naturally enough full of treachery, double-dealing, and ruthlessness. But they show Chiang at the height of his powers. There is daring in the ruthlessness and brilliance in the cunning, and all is animated by a burning patriotism and an unshakable self-confidence.

CHIANG had never had any training in economics nor made any study of sociology. He now found himself the all-powerful ruler of a nation whose fundamental problems were economic and social — grinding mass poverty, and an obsolete feudal system of land tenure. It is not surprising that he made mistakes in wrestling with these unfamiliar problems. The astonishing thing is that throughout the twenty years of his rule he never seems to have formally recognized that these problems existed. He simply refused to see them; those who persistently tried to draw his attention to them were, if they were foreigners, ignored, or, if they were Chinese, persecuted.

❖ ❖ ❖

THIS sounds unbelievable, but the proof is not only in his actions but in all his public utterances. His book, "China's Destiny," for instance—a curious book built round the central thesis that "the weakening of China's international position and the deterioration of the people's morale during the last 100 years have been due chiefly to the unequal treaties" with the West—contains a chapter "Problems of Social and Intellectual Reform." In this chapter Chiang has one single proposal to offer for social reform. "It is plain," he says magisterially, "that we cannot expect to accomplish our reconstruction work unless an improved social tone is brought about by reviving the habit of faithful work and conscientious action." After which follow a dozen pages of quotations from Chinese classics to underpin this statement.

❖ ❖ ❖

THE story is told how, in the thirties, Chiang invited a group of Western economists to advise him on how to prevent his money from losing value all the time. They told him he must stop printing money. "But I must print money to pay my armies." They diffidently pointed out that he must either raise taxes for this purpose or do with smaller armies. "I have not asked you for advice on my policy. All I have asked is how to keep my money stable. I see you have no answer to this question."

POWER, as we know, corrupts. But it is a peculiar kind of corruption which sets in when absolute power is combined with a baffled impotence due to intellectual blindness, and when to a patrician disdain for the masses is added the rage of frustration. It is fascinating and somewhat horrifying to observe this process in the development of Chiang's character over the last twenty years.

His years of rule fall into three periods. During the first, from 1931 to the end of 1936, his power is complete, though not wholly effective. His word is law, his prestige unchallengeable, his armies growing. But at the same time inflation is constantly watering down the value of the currency, the poverty of the masses is worsening, and little peasant soviets are continually reappearing in remote parts of the countryside, no matter how often suppressed. At the same time, Japan is detaching province after province from North China.

ALL this does not appear deeply to trouble Chiang. He speaks as one of the great men of the age, silencing individual critics of policy in the manner of Louis XIV: "I am the Government. Yours is a private opinion." "I am the leader of the Chinese people, and I believe my policy to be correct."

For a wider public, Chiang assumes the personality of a sage; his speeches are full of sanctimonious references to the Eight Virtues and the Four Cardinal Principles, and abound with quotations from Chinese classics. But a close observer of Chiang's court remarked of him in that time: "His motivations are in terms of himself. Ideas he must borrow. He has used Communism, Anglo-Saxon democracy, Christianity, Confucianism, European Fascism."

The second period starts with the Sianfu incident of December, 1936, when Chiang was forcibly held by one of the war-lords and re-emerged with a new policy of resistance to the Japanese. This period was the one that made him most internationally famous and ended in 1945 in apparent triumph. After the short, unaided and catastrophic campaign of 1937-38, he was driven back over the mountains to the isolation of Chungking. He retained his local command and his dignity, and was granted by Roosevelt dazzling diplomatic successes—the abolition of Foreign Treaty rights in the still Japanese-occupied ports in 1942, the grandiose resolutions of the Cairo Conference of 1943.

IT is during this frustration period that an element of pettiness and of uncontrollable rage are noticed by those who had long been accustomed to Chiang's majestic egocentricity. He begins to scream at subordinates, throw teacups and pound tables. General Stilwell has described his behaviour at a passing-out ceremony of the Military Academy. First, Chiang stopped the band and "bawled at them" for not playing correctly. Then he reprimanded the officer who made the speech of welcome for pulling his notes from the wrong pocket. Finally, somebody stumbled and Chiang "went wild, screaming that he ought to be shot."

This kind of behaviour recalls no longer Louis XIV, but Hitler. And other Hitlerian traits crowd into the picture. Chiang takes to directing military operations in detail from his desk, 2,000 miles from the front. ("I lie awake at night," he tells Stilwell, "thinking what fool things my generals may do. Then I write and tell them not to do these things.") He also begins to employ fortune-tellers.

FINALLY, there comes the last period, from 1945-1949, culminating in full-scale civil war and full-scale disaster. It is also a period of further personal decay. Chiang now becomes irrational in the one field of which he used to have a good understanding: military strategy. General Marshall's warnings that he cannot hope to conquer all the North China plain with his available forces are brushed aside. Troops are thrown far forward into untenable positions and, when isolated, told to stay and fight to the last man—an almost literal repetition of the Stalingrad story. At the same time, ruthlessness begins to change into something like insane cruelty. The burying alive of prisoners of war alternates with public executions in the streets. The secret police are given unchecked powers. A demonstration of unarmed Formosans against the spoliations of Chiang's administrators, in February, 1947, is answered with the massacre of about 10,000 people. Such extravagant acts lend credibility to the stories, told by members of Chiang's recent entourage, that after an unsuccessful interview with the Russian Ambassador in 1948, Chiang, meeting his wife's pet dog outside the door, shot the animal; and that on hearing the news of President Truman's election, he battered and smashed his radio with his fists.

In the first weeks of 1949, Chiang announced his abdication as President of the Chinese Republic, but, later in the early summer, he seized the crumbling State's gold reserve and transferred it to Formosa. There, he "reassumed the leadership of the Republic" by proclamation.

❖ ❖ ❖

CHIANG in Formosa, directing his few bombing planes, sending out orders for the arrest of Chinese diplomats beyond his reach, spinning long-range intrigues in American internal politics, and training Formosan peasants for an invasion of China, seems to be acting out the hopeless role which Hitler had planned for himself in his "Alpine redoubt." After so long a career of personal power, culminating in increasing megalomania, and now stung by numiliations and the wish for revenge, it is doubtful whether he can any longer estimate the reality of his position.

WHEN A FELLER NEEDS A FRIEND

Minority Values

(WINDSOR STAR)

Because of the disrepute which certain groups, such as the Communists, have brought to the word "minorities," we are apt to fall into the danger of regarding other minority groups only as nuisances. This would be extremely foolish.

We notice that an English writer, dealing with this subject, distinguishes between the "clamant minorities" and the "creative minorities." It is well to keep this distinction in mind. The former, in many instances, may be nuisances. The latter are essential to all progress.

Even a casual reading of history shows what the world owes to minority groups. Christianity itself once represented a small and persecuted number of people. Democracy and self-government are the result of agitation by minorities. Similarly developments in the realm of social services, education and culture originated with the few to become adopted by the many. The same applied, of course, in the field of pure science, medical, mechanical and other forms of progress. The minds of relatively few men, such as Henry Ford and Thomas Edison, changed civilization.

It is essential to respect minorities, and not simply because they have rights. It is because the course of civilization and of history will be charted by ideas and agitations of minorities, some of whom are yet unborn. We certainly should distinguish, and it's not always easy, between "clamant" and "creative" minorities.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And as Jesus passed by, he saw a man which was blind from his birth. And his disciples asked him, saying, Master, who did sin, this man, or his parents, that he was born blind?

Jesus answered, Neither hath this man sinned, nor his parents; but that the works of God should be made manifest in him. I must work the works of him that sent me, while it is day; the night cometh, when no man can work. As long as I am in the world, I am the light of the world.

When he had thus spoken, he spat on the ground, and made clay of the spittle, and he anointed the eyes of the blind man with the clay, and said unto him, Go, wash in the pool of Siloam, (which is by interpretation, Sent.) He went his way therefore, and washed, and came seeing . . .

But the Jews did not believe concerning him, that he had been blind, and received his sight, until they called the parents of him that had received his sight . . . His parents answered them and said, We know that this is our son, and that he was born blind . . . Then again called they the man that was blind, and said unto him, Give God the praise: we know that this man is a sinner.

He answered and said, Whether he be a sinner or no, I know not: one thing I know, that, whereas I was blind, now I see . . . Since the world began was it not heard that any man opened the eyes of one that was born blind. If this man were not of God he could do nothing. (John 9:1-7, 18, 20,24,25,32,33.)

As for me, I will behold thy face in righteousness: I shall be satisfied, when I awake, with thy likeness. (Ps. 17: 15.)

I will praise thee, O Lord, with my whole heart; I will shew forth all thy marvellous works. (Ps. 9: 1.)

Comfort

(The Chicago Daily News)

The Russians have been teaching us that words do not mean the same thing to all people. Such as "democracy" meaning the right to vote for Stalin, and "peace", the right to make war unopposed. However, contemplating a statement by the Licensed Beverage Industries Inc., we reflected that its vocabulary might be equally strange to the W.C.T.U. In question and answer form, the L.B.I. explains the liquor situation: "Question: Is there cause for alarm over the whisky supply? Answer: No. Supplies are adequate for about seven years."

Triple-Threat Song and Dance Team

Giant Inland Sea Created By Floods In Australia

MELBOURNE, Sept. 12 (Reuters).—The "Dead Heart" of Australia is beating for the first time known to white men. It has come to life — probably for a few months at the most — through a transfusion on a gigantic scale.

An inland sea has been created in a region which, ever since it has been known to white settlement, has been dry and sterile. Abundant bird and vegetable life has come to a tract which normally is as lifeless as the Sahara.

Depressions covering tens of thousands of square miles, expanses of sand, clay and salt, are a feature of the northern part of South Australia. All are below sea level.

To the stretches (on the map) lead rivers like the Cooper, Finke, and Warburton, mere courtesy titles. Their normal condition is a dry, sandy course snaking from the Western Queensland mountains, over hundreds of miles of desert, towards the Central Australian depression. Rarely, and then only after heavy rain, do they carry more than isolated water holes.

Near-Miracle

Yet in two successive years the near-miracle has happened. Phenomenal rains in Western Queensland and New South Wales have sent great volumes of flood water down the once-dry watercourses.

The flood waters have cut the stock route down which tens of thousands of cattle travel from Queensland Station to be placed on the railway for the Adelaide market. Pastoral homesteads have been cut off from the outside world for weeks.

Unfortunately the waters will be almost wasted.

The heavy rain in the region has produced rank growth of Mitchell grass which could fatten 10 times the few thousand cattle in stations near Lake Eyre.

But in a region in which evaporation rises to 100 inches a year, the water will be sucked up voraciously; driven hard by the wind, it will be soaked up by the sand of the lake margins. Probably in a few months all that will be left will be an expanse of brine. Another few months and that too, will have gone.

MRS. ISAAC CORNELIUS

Percy Township Woman Marks 98th Birthday

WARKWORTH, Sept. 12 (ENS)—Mrs. Isaac Cornelius is today celebrating her 98th birthday at her home near Warkworth.

Her maiden name was Sarah Adeline Haughtailing and she was the daughter of the late James Henry Haughtailing and his wife, the late Harriett Owen of Percy township. She was one of a family of eleven who have all predeceased her but a younger brother, Ezra Haughtailing now living in Cobourg.

In July, 1884, she was married to Isaac Cornelius of Percy township where all her life has been spent with the exception of one year when they lived in Toronto. Her husband died September 3, 1928.

She has one son, Ezra Cornelius with whom she lives, four grandchildren and three great grandchildren, and her brother in Cobourg.

Mrs. Cornelius enjoys good hearing and her sight is fairly good for one of her advanced years.

She has always been interested in community activities, the work of the Women's Institute, and she belongs to St. Paul's United Church. Mrs. Cornelius is very fond of flowers and enjoyed caring for a vegetable garden as well as her flower garden until a year ago.

A family celebration was held in her honor on Sunday at the home of her son, when the immediate relatives could be present.

We pledge that you will always find the newest in quality furniture, rugs, draperies, and appliances at Cherney's, and we further pledge our prices will always be consistent with good quality. # SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

A team from Toronto with the somewhat forbidding name of Green Gaels—must be from Cabbagetown—are coming here tonight for a lacrosse game. They're playing Dootch Vitarelli's local midgets to open an OLA playdown series, possibly the quarter-finals. Game is at 8.30 in Miller Bowl, with the return later in the week in Toronto. It should be an interesting struggle between two good young clubs which have ambled along quite a way in provincial playdowns, and 'tis hoped the boys get a-lot of fan support.

* * * * * *

Recreation director Alex Sinclair suggests it might be a good idea to have a Peterborough sports week every year—not just centennial year. Only stage it earlier in the summer. The suggestion is well worth considering as this is a real sports centre. It would require half a dozen full-time sports writers to properly cover and publicize local athletics. Someone else has suggested that the city council should have medals struck for individuals of provincial championship teams here—and we win quite a few Ontario titles, sometimes several in one year. Players value these mementos, especially in later years, and such recognition would be suitable but not costly.

Football Muscles In

As baseball, softball and lacrosse shuffle toward the exists, the big-shouldered footballers muscle onto the scene. Autumn is their season and they're entitled to some publicity, too. Of more immediate interest is the ORFU senior "B" opener here Friday night at 8.15 in Morrow Park. Oshawa Raiders play the Orfuns, and local grid followers will see a surprisingly strong Peterborough pack this semester. Coach Bamforth and the club executive have not spared the horses. The best of local talent, plus eight good imports from Ottawa Rough Riders. Big guys with lots of experience and still on the Riders' list. A parade, etc., before the official opening of the season.

* * * * * *

Yes, it should be a fine season, though the football season is all too short. Just a colorful interlude betwixt summer and winter. We'll have some fine high school football here, too, as Coaches Bev Goulding and Alex Londry of PCVS, and Fred Allore and Dick Ouimet of St. Peter's, are toiling hard with a bunch of prospective COSSA competitors. Probably the most colorful sport of them all, rugby football has to cram a lot into a short space. It's the hardest team game of them all with stiff body contact on every play, and it has a huge following. We look for an exciting, if short, grid season here, with several winning clubs again, including ORFU this year.

On Well-Known Spot

Nearly 1,800 fans pretty well packed the redecorated Civic Arena last night to see the Petes go down before Owen Sound 9-5 in a senior lacrosse playoff. A nifty number in a good setting, but it really puts the Creighton crew on the spot. They have to win tomorrow in Owen Sound or they're through for the season. A speedy, clean contest with the balls taking odd bounces off the floor and walls, and the fans making the place echo with their yells. The Petes certainly tried hard and made it close enough, but the Crescents had a shade more finish this time around the cage to yank out the verdict. If we were picking three local stars on the game we'd name Ralph Speck, Bob Thorpe and Lou Vitarelli.

* * * * * *

Service clubs realize the pull sports have for the general public and also appreciate the fact that athletics provide a good method of raising money for social work in the community. Just recently the Kiwanians brought the King and His Court—the four-man softball team—here for an exhibition and it drew the largest paid sports crowd in the city's history. Now, the Rotary Club is bringing Toronto Maple Leafs of the NHL here for an exhibition on Oct. 6 to raise funds for crippled children. Kinsmen, Lions and other service clubs in the past have stressed sports and no doubt will again. The Jaycees even went for the horse races on one occasion.

St. Catharines Takes Second Tilt In B.C.

VANCOUVER, Sept. 12—(CP)—St. Catharines All-Stars to date are travelling an easy path toward the Dominion junior lacrosse championship and the Minto Cup, British Columbia property for two years.

The eastern invaders moved within one game of the championship Monday night by outgunning Vancouver Burrard juniors 14-9 in the second game of a best-of-five series. They won the opener 18-9.

Third game of the cleanly-fought series is scheduled Wednesday night and the eastern team is favored to sweep the playoffs.

FIFE IN SCOTLAND—Murray (Moe) Fife, who played hockey for the Petes last season, is in Scotland to play this season for the Ayr Raiders. A son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Scott Fife of Hastings, he played for Barrie Flyers in 1946 and 1947, then going to Owen Sound Mercurys for the next two winters. He also performed for Hastings in the Trent Valley League, being a fast skater and high scorer.

Ottawa Takes Decision Over P-W Club

By C. H. IRESON

Ottawa Valley cricket council team defeated the P-W club 155 for five wickets against 61 and 46, a loss by an innings and 48 runs. Peterborough was minus the services of B. Roberts, E. Cotton, F. Dyer, T. Scott and R. Rollwagon, and it was a rather sad finale to an otherwise successful season.

The Petes batted first and lost four wickets to 11 runs, including Booth and Pope. Good batting by W. Freeman, 21, and R. Titshall, 16, made it 57 for seven but the total only reached 61. Best bowlers for Ottawa were McMillen, four for 19 and McDonald, five for 17.

On Ottawa batting, the first man, A. Cole (58) and A. Hill (40) passed the locals' mark, and they took the score to 93 for one wicket. A. Wilson scored 23 and the total was 155 for five when the inning was declared closed. A. Pope had four wickets for 44 and F. Booth one for 33. The local second inning followed the pattern of the first. F. Booth made 17 out of 34 but five wickets were down for 45, and the remaining five only produced one run. The players were entertained in fine fashion afterward.

Toronto Takes Tilt

AUSTIN, Tex., Sept. 12 (AP)—Toronto Tip Top Tailors Monday night opened a defence of their world softball title here, trouncing Hickam Field of Hawaii 5-1 in the first game of the tournament. The game was the first of the 1950 Amateur Softball Association's world championship tournament.

Owen Sounders Beat Petes To Get 3-1 Lead On Series

Nearly 1,800 fans in Civic Arena last night saw the Petes defeated by Owen Sound Crescents 9-5 to give the northerners a lead of three games to one in their best-of-seven senior lacrosse quarter-final playoff series. The next one is tomorrow in Owen Sound. The game was the first lacrosse ever staged in the ice arena and it was the first Owen Sound playoff win away from home since the 1946 season.

Apart from a fist fight near the finish between Marlow Wood and Dootch Vitarelli, it was a real clean contest with each side drawing but two penalties. Play generally was fast, though it had its stalling moments, and pretty even over the route. However, the Crescents played heady lacrosse to cash in on chances while the Petes missed some good scoring opportunities on muffed passes inside.

Lots Of Racket

The big crowd made a lot of noise in the keen going as both sides hustled in an effort to build up a lead. The floor and the wall bounces bothered the locals for a time—the Crescents being used to indoor playing—but the Creighton crew just about held their own. They were tied 2-2 in the first quarter, but Owen Sound drove hard for a 3-0 margin in the second to make it 5-2 for them at the half. They still had a 2-1 edge in the third and it was 7-3 going into the fourth, which was even at 2-all.

Arn Smith and Jack Mason counted two goals each for the visitors with a single going to Russ Slater, Bill Allum, Don Campbell, Yorky Jordan and Don McWhirter. An assist each was gained by Doug Gillespie, Harry Kazarian, Russ Slater and Jack Mason. Lou Vitarelli had a pair of goals for the Petes, Dootch Vitarelli getting two assists. Arn Dugan, Bob Thorpe and Don Crowe each tallied one, and Don Ashbee aided on one. Both goalies were good, with Ralph Speck pulling off some especially fine saves.

Scores First

Crowe counted the first from Dootch Vitarelli nearly halfway through the initial inning, with Slater scoring the equalizer shortly on Kazarian's rebound. Lou Vitarelli teamed up nicely with Ashbee to get another, but Mason evened it near the close from Doug Gillespie. McWhirter banged one home from close in to open the second stanza, and Arn Smith added on a breakaway. They tallied their third in a row this heat when Campbell's screened shot slipped through. Jordan was gated for slashing and Creighton followed for delaying the game.

Ashbee scored early in the third but the whistle beat him. Dugan dangled loose on a breakaway and he made no mistake at the net. Mason whizzed around defence to blast one by Speck and later Jordan whipped home Kazarian's pass to make it 7-3. The Petes pressed hard in the fourth and scored two nice ones, Lou Vitarelli first on a sharp angle drive, and then Thorpe from Dootch Vitarelli inside.

With the crowd roaring and both sides tearing up and down fast, the breaks went to the Crescents. Arn Smith got in close in a hurry to slap home Slater's pass, and then Allum took a corner pass out from Mason at close range to pick a corner. Dootch Vitarelli and Woods were gated for throwing punches with a minute of play left.

Owen Sound: Goal, Wootton; defence, Woods and McWhirter; centre, Shkordoff; wings, Foote and Campbell; rover, Kazarian; alternates, Allum, F. Smith, A. Smith, D. Gillespie, Slater, Mason and Jordan.

Petes: Goal, Speck; defence, Crowe and Magee; centre, Creighton; wings, Dugan and D. Vitarelli; rover, Thorpe; alternates, Wright, R. Breakspear, J. Breakspear, L. Vitarelli, Nolan, Ashbee and Edgar.

Here And There In Sports . . .

By The Canadian Press

Toronto Balmy Beach will carry on in the Ontario Rugby Football Union with quarterback Gerry Tuttle as coach, manager Paul McGarry said Monday.

In announcing Tuttle's appointment as playing coach and that of snapback Dwight Follin as line coach, McGarry confirmed rumors they would get the jobs which opened up after Teddy Morris resigned suddenly last Friday as Beaches' mentor.

Both Tuttle and Follin, American imports, were cut last week from Toronto Argonauts after failing to make the Big Four team. They turned out with Beaches, which became a farm club of Argos this year in an arrangement that calls for Argos to help the ORFU club pay its bills.

Morris' resignation came a few days after Tuttle and Follin joined the Beaches and less than a week after the team was crushed 39-0 by Sarnia Imperials in its first league game.

Morris, who coached Argos to three straight dominion football championships in 1945-46-47, said he resigned because "I was just fed up to the teeth, sick of the whole business and wanted out."

A last-minute conference Monday between the Waterloo Rink Commission and prospective sponsors of a senior A hockey team paved the way for possible representation in the Ontario Hockey Association.

Rink officials met with Bobby Bauer and Walter (Punch) Scherer, to head the proposed entry, and said ice facilities will be arranged. The new entry, yet to be named, will take up where Kitchener-Waterloo Flying Dutchmen left off last year.

If it continues, the league will include Toronto Marlboros and Hamilton Tigers.

Ray Robinson will get the next shot at the world middleweight title if the National Boxing Association has its way.

Joe Louis and Ezzard Charles signed "the papers" Monday for their world heavyweight title fight Sept. 27 at Yankee Stadium.

The two fighters motored in to New York from their respective training camps to appear before chairman Eddie Eagan of the State Athletic Commission, apply their names to the contracts and undergo physical examinations.

Jake Mintz, voluble little manager of Charles, enlivened the occasion somewhat by remarking to Louis: "Joe, Ezzard is the heavyweight champion now and he still will be after he fights you." Joe only smiled.

Bantam Colts Get Win Over Oshawa

The local Colts edged out Oshawa Bantams 8-7 in 10 innings to force a third game in their OBA playdown series. The East City Midgets were eliminated by Oshawa Victors 13-0 in two straight, while Ted Stone of Oshawa UAW rubbed out the juvenile Petes 1-0 with fine flinging to make it two in a row.

Turner's triple in the tenth gave the bantams their win as Doug. Ash hurled good ball till the seventh, when Frizzelle finished up. Dean and Brown split the mound chore for the losers Turner also hit a homer for the winners. Teams:

Oshawa: Steffen, lf; Wilson, c; White, 1b; Sharples, ss; Brown, 2b, p; Johnson, rf; Grant, 3b; McCaughey, cf; Dean, p; Knight, c; Norman, cf; Victor, 2b.

Peterborough: Kearns, 2b; Carleton, ss; Ash, p; Ball, c; Hunt, 3b; Strickland, cf; Leach, rf; Turner, 1b; Cullen, lf; Frizzelle, p; Burns, 3b; McIlmoyle, 3b; Coit, cf; Stewart, lf.

Copeland pitched three-hit ball for Oshawa Midgets as his side reached Cunningham for 16 safeties, five of them for extra bases. Copeland, Kellar, Boneham and Stroz led the winners at the plate as Pammett got two and Cunningham one for the Peterborough pack. Teams:

Oshawa: Stroz, 2b; Burr, 3b; Wodnisky, rf; Kellar, 1b; Varga, ss; Woodcock, c; Boneham, cf; Sutton, lf; Copeland, p.

Peterborough: Pammett, c; McCarthy, 3b; Withers, 1b; Scriver, cf; McGillen, lf; Byrnes, ss; Batley, rf; Langhorne, 2b; Cunningham, p.

Stone allowed but one hit in seven innings of the juvenile joust as he set down 11 on strikes. Batchelor also was in great form in the pitching duel to give but two hits, the lone run being unearned. Kellar led off for Oshawa with a single, was sacrificed, stole third and raced home on a wild throw to that base. Teams:

Oshawa: Kellar, 2b; Walker, 1b; Etcher, c; Jeffs, 3b; Stone, p; Barta, ss; Carey, lf; Twinning, cf; Marshall, rf.

Yanks Sweep Doubleheader From Senators—Go To Top

By RALPH RODEN,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

The see-saw American League pennant race roars into the west today with the pressure heavier on the invading New York Yankees and Boston Red Sox than on Detroit Tigers.

Casey Stengel's Yanks, leading by half a game, begin a nine-game tour of the west with a two-game series in Cleveland tonight. The third-place Red Sox, 1½ games out, open an eight-game road trip in Chicago. The second-place Tigers begin a 10-game home stand with Washington Senators.

The Yanks, who forged to the front Monday, by sweeping a doubleheader from Washington 5-1 and 6-2 in the only activity in either league, face no easy task.

So far the Yanks have won 21 and lost 14 in the west, with Cleveland their best stop and Detroit their poorest. The Yanks have taken seven out of nine in Cleveland but only two out of eight in Detroit.

Out For Blood

However, the Indians, virtually knocked out of contention during the weekend when they dropped four straight games to the lowly St. Louis Browns, are out for blood. The Indians, blasted by their general manager, Hank Greenberg, for "not hustling and playing stupid ball," have next year's contracts to worry about.

The Red Sox, installed by New York odd-makers as 7½ or 8½-5 favorites to win the pennant, are the hottest team in the business at the moment. The Sox have won 23 out of their last 26 games, but are known as a poor road club.

The Tigers appear to have the advantage over the Yanks and Red Sox. The Bengals have 17 games remaining at home where they have won 44 and lost 19 for an impressive .698 pace. The Tigers enjoy an advantage over all of their rivals at home except Washington.

Ed Lopat and young Ed Ford were the winning pitchers for the Yanks Monday in the doubleheader at Washington.

Ford pitched a brilliant three-hitter in the opener to post his sixth victory without a setback. The young lefty held the Senators hitless over the last five innings.

Lopat relieved erratic Tommy Byrne in the fifth inning of the second game and allowed only two hits the rest of the way to gain his 16th victory.

More Stabiliz

In the National League the situation is more stabilized. The question there is not who will win the pennant but when will the Philadelphia Phillies clinch it?

The Phils, leading the runner-up Brooklyn Dodgers by 6½ games, begin a 10-game home stand tonight with the stumbling St. Louis Cardinals as the opposition. The Dodgers engage Cincinnati Reds at Ebbets Field.

The only scheduled game in the National League Monday, a night affair between Brooklyn and New York, was rained out.

Semi-Final Round Begins

By The Associated Press

The semi-final round of the International League playoffs begin tonight with the pennant-winning Rochester Red Wings favored to win their series from Jersey City while the Montreal-Baltimore series is rated an even-money affair.

Rochester has been installed a 3-2 favorite to win the series and 10-7 for tonight's game.

The first two games of best-of-seven affair will be played in Rochester and the next three in Jersey City. The sixth and seventh games if necessary will be played in Rochester.

Tom Poholsky (18-6), 21-year-old righthander and the league's most valuable player, is expected to start for the Red Wings tonight against Jersey City's Roger Bowman (16-10).

The first three games of the Montreal-Baltimore clash will be played in Baltimore, with the fourth and any remaining games in Montreal.

Turk Lown (13-9) is expected to pitch for Montreal tonight against veteran Russ Bauers (18-6). Tonight's game is rated even money, same as the series.

The winners of the semi-final round series will meet in another best-of-seven set to determine the opponent of the American Association's playoff winner in the Little World Series.

Eskimos Crush Saskatchewan In 24-12 Win

By The Canadian Press.

Coach Annis Stukus finally got his Edmonton Eskimos in front in the Western Football Conference all by themselves. And burly Les Lear dented the win column, a trick that his once-powerful Calgary Stampeders failed to do in five previous attempts.

The Eskimos went to the top of the heap with a 24-12 victory on Monday night over the stubborn Saskatchewan Roughriders before 8,000 Edmonton fans. The Stamps put on their winning show before a similar-sized hometown crowd with a 13-6 win over Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

Although Bombers and Riders are both tied in second place two points back of Edmonton, both teams have a game in hand over Esks and the last-place Calgarians.

Home-brew talent kicked in with the pay-off punch in the Edmonton triumph. After a see-saw battle in the third quarter the teams were tied 12-12. Former Toronto Argo Mike King clicked for two Edmonton touchdowns to keep pace with two majors provided by Riders' Al Bodine, chunky import from the University of Georgia. Then the two Edmonton High School graduates—Jimmy MacRae and teen-aged Don Simon—salted away the game.

Picks Up Fumble

MacRae picked up a Rider fumble on their 25 and scooted for the winning touchdown. Simon did an expert job of swivel-hipping in the fourth quarter for 32 yards and the insurance major.

Coach Stukus trotted out on the field for the kicking chores and converted the Esks four touchdowns.

In Calgary the Stampeders and Bombers played a scoreless first quarter and then Stamps coddled a one-point margin, from Keith Spaith's kick, until the fourth quarter.

They looked like the Stamps of old in that final quarter when Sugarfoot Anderson and Royal Copeland went over for major scores. Bombers, playing without their ace quarterback Jack Jacobs were held pointless until the last play of the game. Ron Vaccher s[illegible] Bombers' lone touchdown [illegible] he took a pass over the C[illegible]ry goal-line from second-string quarterback Pete Petrow

TORONTO, Sept. 12—(CP). — If they hand out a prize for kicking converts in the Big Four Football Union this season, Nick Volpe of Toronto Argonauts is the man to beat.

Scrap, Scrap Paper? Anyway Black Maria Cops 2 Yellers

A wife was fined $10 and costs for disturbing the peace and the case against her husband, Elgin Boyer, 221 London St., was adjourned while Magistrate W. R. Philp, K.C., considered the case.

Boyer was also charged with disturbing the peace. Constable John Conlin testified he and Constable Sherman Keliele went to 221 London St., in answer to a phone call. Boyer was sitting on his doorstep "feeling sorry for himself" and complained about his wife.

The policemen told him there was nothing they could do for him, but warned him against causing any disturbance outside his house. They drove away as far as Bethune St. where they turned the police truck around and started back to the police station.

Swearing and Yelling

Reapproaching Boyer's home, they saw him out on the front lawn of the house and he was swearing and yelling in a voice that would carry half a block. By the time they drove as far as the house, Boyer was out on the sidewalk still swearing and shouting.

They stopped, arrested Boyer and put him in the Black Maria. Just as they had the door closed and the latch pulled down, Mrs. Boyer came out of the house and tried to unlatch the door.

"You can't take him away," she shouted at the constables. They told her several times her husband was under arrest and was being taken to the police station, but she protested, shouting and swearing a the top of her voice, the constable said. She grabbed them by their shirts in an effort to get at the truck door to undo it.

Arrest Her Too

After about three minutes of this, the constables said "In that case, we're arresting you." She fought against being put in the truck and had to be lifted in. She protested that she couldn't leave her 16-month-old baby, but the constables told her they would look after it.

Several people were on the street as well as a number of children, and two people had come out of their house across the street to see what was going on, Constable Conlin said.

Stayed With Baby

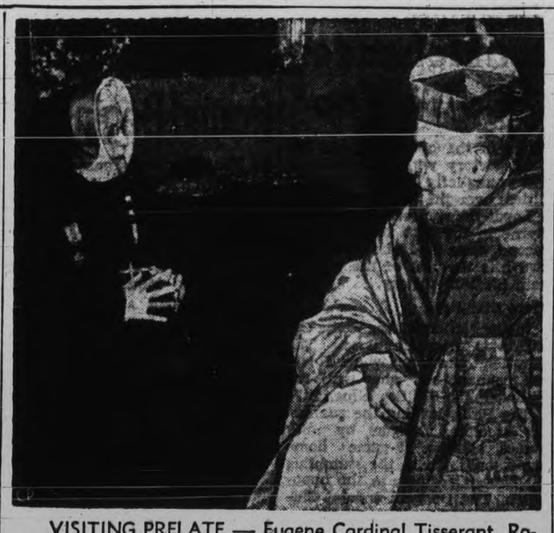
Constable Conlin said he stayed with the baby while Constable Keliele took the pair to the city cells.

Boyer testified in his own behalf that he had not been swearing or shouting at all. He had gone out on the lawn to pick up some scrap paper.

"And that was the only scrap around London St. that day?" Crown Attorney asked.

"Yes," Boyer said. "I wasn't making no noise."

Mrs. Boyer said she saw the police through her open front door putting her husband in the truck. She went out and asked them why they were taking her husband. She said she made no attempt to open the door.



"They wouldn't give me no answer," Mrs. Boyer said, but they merely told her they were taking her too and tried to put her in the truck, but she resisted.

Mrs. Boyer said the policemen didn't tell until they had her in the truck that they would not leave her baby unattended. She denied shouting or swearing at all and said she spoke only in her normal tone of voice.

"I'm accepting the evidence of the officer in this case," Magistrate Philp said.

James B. Lillico, defending both husband and wife, argued that in the case of the husband there was no evidence that anyone had witnessed any of Boyer's alleged conduct and there had been no complaints to police. He said a witness, Mrs. Katherine Flint, who lives in the apartment above the Boyers, had said she had heard no disturbance of any kind although she had seen the police there the first time.

Because no one had been present, there was no charge, Mr. Lillico argued. The magistrate said he would have to examine former cases quoted by Mr. Lillico.

Say Commission Fails To Follow Complaints Up

DETROIT, Sept. 12—(AP)—A report by Ontario Provincial Police inspectors on law enforcement in Windsor blames the city's police commission for failure to follow up complaints of law-breaking in the city, the Detroit Times said Monday in a news story from Toronto.

The newspaper said that two reports were filed six weeks ago with Attorney-General Porter by two provincial police inspectors, W. H. Lougheed and Frank Kelly. One report was a 10,000-word survey of the Windsor police department and the other was an oral recital of the law enforcement situation in the border city.

The reports, the paper said, contain documentary evidence from the police commission's own records to show that both police and private citizens complained on numerous occasions of lawlessness, but that the commission failed to act on the complaints.

The reports also said that certain courts were responsible for criticism erroneously levelled at police by Windsor citizens, through their handling of certain cases.

Blame Gangsters

The written report said it was possible that Detroit gangsters were connected with Windsor gambling and quoted statements from Chris Scroy, one-time Detroit criminal, who said that crime in the two cities was connected.

The paper said that recommendations for changes in the Windsor police were also made by the two provincial police inspectors, at the request of the Windsor police commission. The commission made the request earlier, in a report which followed a commission inquiry into allegations of corruption in the force.

Bible Society Omemee Group

OEMEMEE, Sept. 12 (ENS). — An Omemee branch of the Upper Canada Bible Society was organized by the Rev. H. E. Young of the parent body at a meeting Sunday.

Members of the former executive were re-elected. J. A. Bent was elected president; H. Hill, secretary and E. Switzer, treasurer. Herbert Jackson was appointed vice-president. Collectors who were willing to act again were re-appointed.

The treasurer reported $303.15 had been collected last year in a house-to-house canvass.

Mr. Young also delivered two addresses in Omemee Sunday: in the morning at Christ Anglican Church and in the evening at Trinity United, to which interested people of all denominations were invited.

Mr. Young stated that the Bible and the power of its message is the common bond which draws together peoples of all denominations and nationalities, because of its capacity to meet the basic needs of all human beings under each and every circumstance of life. "It speaks with ultimate authority," he said.

The society, he related, supplied Bibles for the work of missionaries of all denominations. It is the agency for translating, publishing and distributing.

Over 17,000,000 copies were put into circulation last year in 1,160 different languages and six more translations were added during the year. They have prepared volumes for the blind in Braille and other systems in 34 languages and systems.

Bibles, he said, were placed only where they were wanted and there was always a shortage in India last year where three million children and 400,000 adults learned to read, they were able to supply only one million, one hundred thousand Bibles.

Two pictures, "For Times Like This," and "Thy Word Giveth Light," were shown at the close of the evening service.

At the re-organization meeting of the local branch of the Bible Society held later in the evening, Mr. Young announced that before the 150th anniversary of the British and Foreign Bible Society in 1954 they needed £150,000 to carry out their objectives which included an African language survey, replacement of plates lost in China during the war, and helping the churches of the British and American nations to get the Bible back into its rightful place in family life.

Ontario's share would be $50,000.

Penicillin Aids Epidemic Fights

TORONTO, Sept. 12 (CP) — Heavy doses of penicillin taken by mouth may be a useful safeguard against epidemics and severe throat ailments, it is reported in the Canadian Medical Association Journal.

A team of five doctors said tests conducted at the Hospital for Sick Children here revealed such treatment protected patients from recurring throat ailments, which frequently lead to attacks of rheumatic fever.

Tests were made on 76 children suffering rheumatic fever. They were divided into two groups. The first group was given daily doses of 100,000 units of penicillin, taken in two tablets of 50,000 units each.

In the non-treated group 52 out of 576 swabs showed signs of throat infection, while only three out of 570 patients showed positive in the other.

FUNNY BUSINESS —By Hershberger

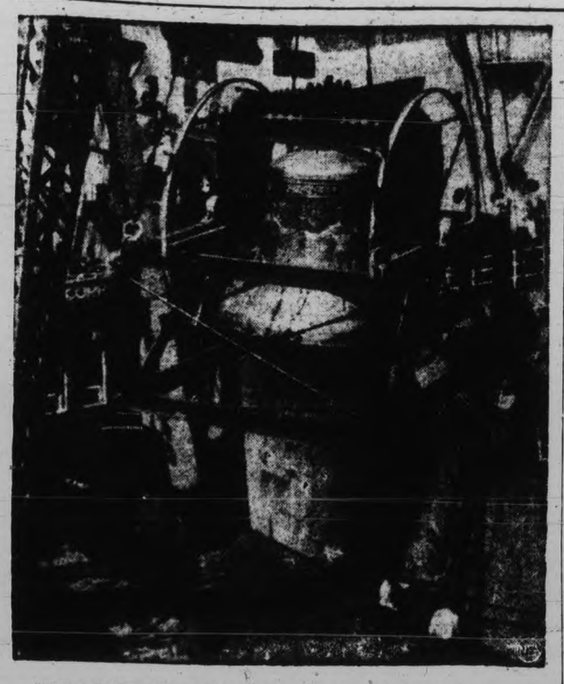
"Goodby, Dad, and write me once in a while—even if it's only a check!"

"It means a lot to me!"

"See this model? It was made before I was born, and when Arvida was just farmland. Yet I can show you on it just where our house is, and the streets along which I come to work, or go to the stores, or to church, or to play tennis or ski. And I can show you the aluminum smelter where my father works, and the powerhouse where my boyfriend works—and the house in which we're going to live when we're married.

"It's all here. This is a miniature of an up-to-date city, a city that has everything—and was born full-size. That's why I call it, 'A piece of future Canada in a glass case'.

"You see, an engineer's dream has added a city to Canada—a place where 12,000 people like me live and work and enjoy ourselves. My neighbours who have lived in other places tell me this is the nicest city in Canada. Certainly I wouldn't want to live anywhere else."



The smelter at Arvida, the powerhouses at Shipshaw close by, the wharves at Port Alfred a few miles away—these are only parts of what Alcan has planned and built in Canada during the last fifty years. The Company is still planning, still building. Its growth makes Canada a bigger, better, richer place in which to live and work—for every aluminum ingot produced in Canada makes Canada that much better off.

Spouse Prompts Jimmy Stewart To Change Tune

LONDON (CP). — Film star Jimmy Stewart, for years one of Hollywood's most eligible bachelors, would like to forget that he ever said anything in favor of single-blessedness.

On his arrival in London with his bride of one year, the former Mrs. Gloria Hatrick McLean, he ran smack into trouble over something he said on the subject more than 10 years ago.

In England to star in a new picture entitled "No Highway," Stewart quickly admitted defeat and retracted one by one the 10 hints he offered back in 1940 on how to remain a bachelor.

Now 42 and his hair thinning and grey, the film star threw up his hands in despair as the newspaper interviewers persisted.

"I give up," he cried. "You see I've been caught."

Then together, he and his wife went through the dog-eared press cuttings setting forth what 10 years ago he regarded as "sage advice."

Here is some of the inside-stuff he handed out then:

"Learn to cook and sew ;a helpless man is sunk."

"Well, you still can't sew nor cook," remarked Mrs. Stewart.

Share For Safety

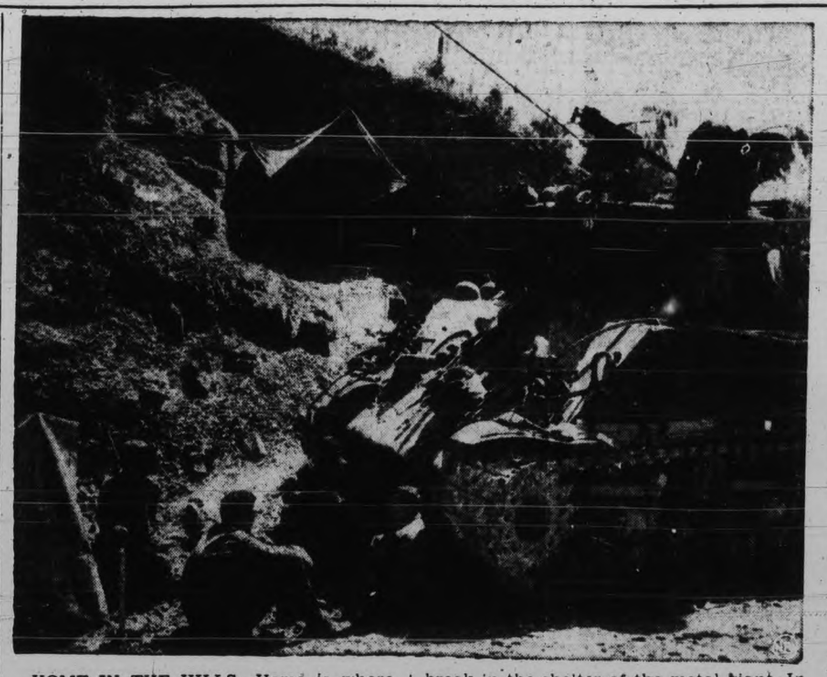
"Share rooms with other bachelors, then a girl cannot visit you 'because you are lonely'," Jimmy had advised.

There was no comment from either Gloria or her husband.

"When you dine with a girl choose the most difficult dishes—that she will never dare to say her cooking is better."



"Well, I can't cook anyway," shrugged Mrs. Stewart.

"Be gentle but firm about your great need of freedom."

Why, he just loves being married," said his wife.

But point No. 10 got him out of his difficulties. He had advised: "Wait until you meet that certain girl; then drop all pretence."

"You just saved yourself there," laughed Mrs. Stewart. Jimmy agreed and called it a day.

Auckland Leads Cities In N. Z.

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP).—Until recently, New Zealand has had four rival cities disputing supremacy; each dominating roughly a quarter of the country.

Since the Second World War, however, the Dominion's geography has altered radically, with one city growing faster than its three rivals combined.

New Zealand's "four main centres," as they are known locally, are Auckland and the capital, Wellington, in the north island, and Christchurch and Dunedin in the south island. Dunedin, though smaller than the others, retained its position in the past as the foremost financial and educational centre.

Now, however, Auckland has shot ahead to a commanding position in population, wealth and speed of growth. Before the war it was not much larger than the others, but today its population is 308,000, compared with 193,000 for Wellington, 171,000 in Christchurch and 91,000 in Dunedin.

The drift to the warmer north island, Auckland's position as an international sea and air terminal and important traffic base, the ample room existing for continued growth, and many new industries recently established in the district, have all contributed to the rapid increase.

Ernest Hemingway Spends 21 Months On New Novel

By BEN F. MEYER

SAN FRANCISCO DE PAULA, Cuba (AP).—"When When I die," says Ernest Hemingway, "it will be from writing cheques."

"Not," he added, "that anyone will string me up for writing hot ones, but from some sort of ailment growing out of over-exercise of the wrist. It seems that that I write cheques most of the time."

Actually the novelist must have over-emphasized the labor of paying bills, for he has been very busy for almost two years on his new novel, "Across The River And Into The Trees," which was published this week. Its setting is Venice.

"I'm crazy about the new book," he said. "I read the book 206 times, to try and better it or correct errors, and it is as good as I can make it . . . I really fired all the barrels on this one."

On Another One

And what's he doing now that the new novel, first since "For Whom The Bell Tolls," is out of the way?

"Oh, I'm on another one already. As a matter of fact, I started it a long time ago, and put aside for this new one. No, I can't work on two at the same time. The one I'm doing now is a very long book. In fact, it's so long the doctors wonder if it may not be too long for me."

His appearance, however, does not suggest that his 51 years are weighing on him. At first glance, he does seem older, but that's because of his moustache, and a full greying beard.

He leads an active life, at times working on his farm. His writing day runs from dawn until just past noon. After lunch there is usually a fishing trip on his yacht, Pilar, and, if luck is good, he spends the afternoon and part of the night fighting marlin. Other days he goes hunting, or to a nearby trap shoot range, or does odd jobs around his place.

The novelist stands just over six feet and, as he says, "I grew out a little on the side." He is a big, barrel-chested man.

He spent 21 months on "Across The River And Into The Trees." He put the scene of the new book in Venice because "I sort of grew up around there as a kid. I couldn't go there while Mussolini was around, but I went back soon after he wasn't. I like the place."

Designs Furniture

Trees and tropical shrubs and flowers almost hide the house from the street. He lives there with his wife, the former Mary Welsh of Bemidgi, Minn. Both enjoy fishing. Mrs. Hemingway recently won first prize in the Havana international marlin fishing tournament with a 100-pounder. His wife designs furniture, and Hemingway helps his carpenter carry out her ideas.

Hunting trophies appear in several rooms of the large, airy house. They include a buffalo head, several antelope and other trophies.

He writes where the notion strikes him. Some of it is done in longhand — "the scenery and the descriptive stuff. For conversation, I use the typewriter, so it doesn't get too far ahead of me."

He speaks little of his books. He picked up the jacket on his new book, looked at the picture of himself on the back cover. "It's a good picture, even if it makes me look like the devil. It's the only picture, though, that shows very distinctly the three places where my nose was broken."

That seemed to please him.

CHAMPION JAKE LAMOTTA

The NBA convention notified champion Jake Lamotta and challenger Laurent Dauthuille of France Monday that if the winner of their Wednesday night championship bout at Detroit's Olympia must face Robinson within six months.

Both fighters were told they must "disregard any previous contracts" that might call for a return match. As such a contract is supposed to exist, there may be a hitch in the Robinson match.

22-YEAR-OLD HALFBACK

Bill Gregus, 22-year-old halfback with Hamilton's powerful Tiger-Cat Football Club, has been drafted by the United States Army. Officials of the Big Four club said he left late Monday for Toledo, O., for a medical test.

Coach Carl Voyles said it would be "a big loss" if Gregus was drafted. "They sometimes give them 90 days before they have to go," he said.

Harrow Voters Turn Down Liquor By Glass

HARROW, Sept. 12 — (CP) — Harrow voters Monday turned down, with five separate "no" votes, legal sale of liquor by the glass in this Essex county community.

Answering five questions on a referendum ballot, voters defeated proposals for men's and women's beverage rooms, a dining room with beer and wine licence, dining lounge and cocktail lounge

However, officials counting the votes said there was a possibility of a recount of one or more of the question.

In May, 1947, Harrow voted itself a beer and liquor store. Monday's vote was for public sale of liquor.

A total of 757 persons cast ballots from about 900 on the voting list—about an 80-per-cent turnout.

Voting Close

Voting was close on every question. Sixteen more "wet" votes would have completely reversed the decision. Closest was the vote for women's beverage rooms, which lost by only two votes.

Voting totals on the five questions:

Men's beverage room: For, 427; against, 305; defeated by 12 votes.

Women's beverage room: For, 439; against, 296; defeated by two votes.

Cocktail lounge: For, 422, against, 308; defeated by 16 votes.

Dining lounge: For, 420; against, 300; defeated by 12 votes.

Licensed dining room: For, 424; against, 296; defeated by eight votes.

There was little campaigning before the vote, although the issues drew such a heavy ballot. No public meetings were held either for or against the proposals.

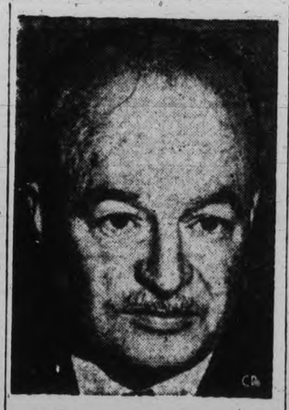
Civil Servants Reinstate Their Executive



TORONTO, Sept. 12 (CP) — The Ontario Civil Service Association Monday announced reinstatement of its nine-member executive.

The association has been without officers since last July 1st when the executive board resigned over refusal of Premier Frost to admit Secretary Don. G. McMaster to a meeting with association officers. Mr. McMaster is an aid official of the assiciation and not a civil servant. The meeting was held to deal with the associations complaints that the joint government-civil service advisory board had failed to function.

Mr. McMaster said Monday that membership had unanimously passed a vote of confidence in the executive.

The association said in a prepared statement that it was "more than pleased" with recent personal intervention of Mr. Frost to adjust their grievance.

Two meetings of the joint advisory council, with a third scheduled for Tuesday, Sept. 12, is clear evidence that the government intends that the functions of this intermediate body will continue in the future to the benefit of all concerned," the statement said.

Ontario Senator RapsGrowing RCMP Power

OTTAWA, Sept. 12 (CP).—A former attorney-general of Ontario sparked a Senate debate over Canada's Mounties Monday by saying he hopes they never take over the police responsibilities of Ontario and Quebec.

He has nothing against the Mounties, Senator Arthur Roebuck (L. Ontario) told the chamber. He thinks they're fine. But he's against centralization of police authority and the fact that RCMP authority now embraces eight provinces was centralization enough for him.

Senator Roebuck spoke as a reformed advocate of police centralization. He said he once introduced a measure to establish a central police authority in Ontario and was talked out of it by the Conservative opposition. Their arguments were so good, he said, he withdrew the bill and has opposed centralization ever since.

His remarks were based on a $2,000,000 item in the $850,000,000 government rearmament bill. The item covers expenses connected with extension of the RCMP's authority to British Columbia and Newfoundland.

Good Service

Senator John Haig, Progressive Conservative leader, declared Manitoba has had such good service from the Mounties he thinks every province should use them.

Senator Roebuck disagreed. He wasn't so much interested in increased efficiency and economy as he was apprehensive of the tendency to put power in a few hands. He had an abiding faith in the local police force. He was against centralization either in Toronto or Ottawa.

Senator Thomas Reid (L. British Columbia) chimed in that B.C. "is not entirely satisfied" about its switch to the RCMP. Some people thought something had been put over on them and not enough details had been given to clear away this suspicion. He personally figured certain authorities in Ottawa engineered the deal in a search for power.

That brought two old political foes—Senator Felix Quinn (PC, Nova Scotia) and Gordon Isnor (L, Nova Scotia)—together in defense of the Mounties' record in their province.

"You," snorted Senator Quinn, "are talking of the best police force in the world." Senator Isnor agreed.

That was the end of it in the Senate, but the issue was renewed in committee with Commissioner S. T. Wood of the Mounties as witness.

To Senator Reid's queries, he said the agreement with British Columbia is the same as with other provinces. It runs for six years, can be terminated at a year's notice, the province is assessed $1,400 a man out of a total cost of $3,500 a year per member.

Police Call Off Hunt For Wilkie

ORANGEVILLE, Sept. 12 (CP) —Police Monday night called off their hunt for Melville Wilkie, 40-year-old convicted killer who escaped from a mental hospital two months ago.

The search stopped after police scoured bush and farm land in Caledon township, a few miles southeast of Orangeville. It is believed Wilkie slipped through the cordon Sunday night and may be in the Guelph area. An Owen Sound woman told police Sunday she had seen Wilkie on a street here.

The fugitive, who burned his wife and child to death in their home near Owen Sound 16 years ago, fled from the Ontario hospital for the criminally insane at Penetanguishene with another patient—Herman Woodcock—who later was captured. It was Wilkie's fifth escape.

F. I. Ker, of the Hamilton Spectator, said Mr. Bassett's career from his press gallery days to his directorship in CP had been one of honor and devoted service. The resolution, moved by Mr. Ker, was seconded by Arthur R. Ford, London Free Press, one-time press gallery colleague of Mr. Bassett.

Directors of The Canadian Press Monday opened their fall meeting to discuss affairs of the National News Co-operative. Herve Major, of Montreal La Presse, CP's president, presided.

Goodbye To Child Then Aged Man Shoots Himself

TRENT RIVER, Sept. 12 — (ENS)—Shortly after he bade goodbye to a neighbor's child Monday afternoon, 76-year-old Jack Garneau of Trent River blew out his brains with a 12-gauge shot gun.

He had been in failing health for the past few years and recently complained of severe headaches.

It was not until after the shooting that three-year-old Jean Stephens, a neighbor, told how the elderly man had earlier given her 10 cents, kissed her goodbye, and then told her he wouldn't see her again.

Garneau's brother, Napoleon, who lives in the second half of their semi-detached house, found the body slumped in a kitchen rocking chair. Garneau used a forked stick to release the trigger while he held the gun between his knees and he had received the blast on the right side of the head.

Nobody Heard

Napoleon Garneau had been talking to a neighbor and then went to his brother Jack's house to ask if he wanted anything from the store. Nobody heard the shot.

The shotgun was borrowed a year ago from Jack Stephens, father of the little girl who was a friend of the elderly man.

Chief Constable B. Bell of Havelock and Provincial Constable Donald Erskine of Campbellford investigated. The coroner is Dr. W. K. Baker of Campbellford. There will not likely be an inquest.

Surviving are two brothers, both of Trent River—Napoleon and Oliver; and two sisters — Mrs. James Cook, Trent River and Mrs. Mathew Greenly, Smithfield.

Mr. Garneau was born in Trent River, the son of the late John Garneau and Mary Ellen Dunn, and has been a lifelong resident of that community. His wife, the former Eliza Jane Covert, predeceased him 15 years ago.

He was a well known guide and trapper and spent several years as a riverman on the Trent River. He was also noted in the community for his kind and generous character. Mr. Garneau was a member of the Trent River United Church.

The funeral service will take place from the Curtis funeral home to Victoria United Church, Havelock, Wednesday, at 2 p.m., the Rev. F. R. Vanderburgh officiating. Interment will be in Victoria Cemetery.

JUDGE AT RENFREW

Local Regiment Begins Training, Need New Men

Peterborough's two reserve units, the 50th Heavy A.A. Regiment, R.C.A., and the 28th Technical Squadron, R.C.E.M.E. (last year the 37th Heavy A.A. Workshop, R.C.E.M.E.), will begin fall training period today at the armouries.

Lt. Col. M. E. Clarke, E.D., commanding officer of the 50th Heavy A.A. Regiment, expects to have about 100 men on parade tonight. Some of last year's strength has been lost to the active and special forces during the recent recruiting drive, and Colonel Clarke hopes that other young men interested in the anti-aircraft and radar work would fill any gaps in the ranks of the regiment.

The training this term will be similar to last year's: gunnery and radar work, as well as the usual army footwork. Once a month the unit will hold a sports night. Other entertainment such as smokers and dances will be held periodically through the season.

The dental office, set up last year as a special service for the reserve force members, has been completed. Capt. Harvey Ball will be in charge of the field equipment on parade nights to inspect new recruits' teeth and to attend to any emergency cases. Any member of either unit may have his teeth inspected from time to time if desired.

The trumpet band, formed last year under Warrant Officer I Albert Croasdale, has been training throughout the summer. It now has a strength of 27.

Milk Goes Up Cent A Quart Price Rise Follows Trend

Some of Peterborough's housewives were faced with a rise in the cost of milk this morning and the remainder will have to pay one cent more a quart, to-morrow morning. The price of a quart has risen from 18 to 19 cents. However, the price of pints and half pints of milk and the price of cream will remain the same.

[illegible] of the city dairies put this price rise into effect today and the rest will start charging the extra cent a quart, Wednesday morning.

This price rise is expected to come into effect in most of the centres of the province according to T. E. Weir, manager of Silverwood's Dairy. Negotiations are now taking place with producers to determine if milk will go up in other centres. "It is a live discussion in very market in the provinces," stated Mr. Weir. "This rise in price for the consumer is the result of the cost of labor as well as the price of raw milk."

Silverwoods and Mohan-Hunter dairies raised their prices today. Sunshine, Whitfield-Morrison, Moncriefs and Campbells will boost theirs tomorrow.

4 Youths Given Prison Terms

BELLEVILLE, Sept. 12. — (Special to Examiner).—Magistrate T. Y. Wills of Belleville handed down sentences today to the four youths captured by Provincial Police on Aug. 21 after robbery of a Madoc service station and who faced a total of 18 charges. Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan, KC, prosecuted. The sentences were as follows:

Thomas Henry, 22, of Toronto, three years in Kingston Penitentiary for attempted armed robbery, one year concurrent on all other charges, except Reid's service station robbery and the theft of car marker plates in Toronto on which he received six months concurrent on each.

Orville King, 18, of Toronto, was sentenced to two years less one day definite and one year indeterminate in Ontario Reformatory, Guelph, for the attempted armed robbery charge at Madoc. One year was to be concurrent on all other charges with the exception of the Reid robbery and the car marker theft on which he received six months concurrent for each.

John DeSeno, 18, of Oshawa, received the sentence of two years less one day definite and nine months indeterminate, to the Ontario Reformatory, for attempted robbery. The one-year concurrent sentence, as applied to the two others above, applied to him also.

William C. Bailey, 18, of Kingston, was sentenced to two years less one day definite and three months indeterminate for attempted armed robbery, and one year concurrent on all the other charges except the Reid robbery for which he got six months. Bailey was not involved in the Toronto car theft nor the licence plate theft charges.

Magistrate Wills said he sentenced Henry to three years because he was considerably older than the others and that he had a longer criminal record.

"The maximum sentence for attempted armed robbery is seven years," the magistrate pointed out.

Only Watchmen Left At Old Civic Hospital

Apart from watchmen who are looking after what is still a valuable piece of property, the old Peterborough Civic Hospital is deserted. It is up for sale.

The new hospital is now a self-contained unit. Last Thursday 61 student nurses moved into the new nurses' residence, the last group to do so. There still is some furniture and other equipment to come but it is being quickly cleared out of the old building.

First patients were admitted in July although the hospital was officially opened by Prime Minister Louis S. St. Laurent in May. There are 240 beds and 50 bassinettes.

With Beef On Hoof Valuable Rustlers Busy In Otonabee

Two steers have been butchered and the meat taken from farms owned by Percy Williamson and Alex Tate both of Otonabee, within about two weeks.

Provincial Constable Roy Feeley, who is investigating, is closing in on suspects, and expects to have them in a few days.

In both cases one of the rustlers was an expert butcher. The men picked out a good steer from a herd and led it to a large tree with strong limbs.

They then shot the steer through the head, and using a block and tackle strung it up, skinned and cleaned it, leaving the waste there. In one case the hide was also taken.

The first incident occurred about two weeks ago. The steer owned by Mr. Tate was prime beef, and was worth about $300 to $350.

The remains of the second butchering were discovered by Mr. Williamson Monday. He thought it had been done about a week before. His steer was worth approximately the same.

City Should Plan Recreation For The Elderly

Peterborough's retired men need some place to spend their leisure time, Alex Sinclair, recreation dirctor, told the Rotary Club Monday. His topic was, "Recreation as a Community Responsibility."

In the mornings, said Mr. Sinclair, these elderly men can be seen outside the downtown stores or walking aimlessly along the streets with no place to go. Organized recreation, he explained, has uses and benefit to these men, as well as to the children and younger adults. He suggested that the provision of recreational opportunities for pensioners would be an ideal and a wonderful thing for the city. Many of the elderly have no money for commercial entertainment. Many have a worrisome amount of leisure time, being on pension and jobless after a strenuous working life.

Although he could not suggest any particular place for these men to attend, Mr. Sinclair said that churches have been considered. However, these men like to sit and smoke and some churches frown on this.

Community recreation 100 years ago was limited to the odd church social or barn-raising, there being little leisure because of long hours of labor. Modern devices today, he said, have changed the situation so that everyone has so much leisure time that the problem arises what to do with it.

"Spectatoritis"

In Peterborough, Mr. Sinclair explained, there are four main trends in the use of leisure time: "spectatoritis", commercialization, drifting and community organization.

"Spectatoritis" is a growing disease in modern society, he said, and its symptoms may be seen when thousands of people pay to watch a few star athletes perform or people line up to see a second-rate movie. "The great danger is that this disease deprives the individual of his power to entertain himself. He starts to seek ways to kill time, but rarely has any time to spend.

"There is a need for a well-planned, co-ordinated program that has as its chief concern the health and well-being of its people rather than the making of money."

In some communities, he explained, there seems to be the danger to drift away from two of the basic social institutions, the home and the church.

"Civic-sponsored playgrounds, teenage centres and sports leagues are all fine activities, but if a community drifts into the easy philosophy that it will meet all of the children's needs and that you as parents have fully met all your responsibilities when they are met, you are making a grievious error."

Mr. Sinclair asserted that communities are awakening to a sense of responsibility for providing recreational facilities and leadership, financed municipally. He believes that organized recreation is the common ground that welds together a community normally made up of mixtures of religion, economic statics, races, social position, educational of cultural backgrounds. Differences are forgotten in the joys of participation.

Thomas Taylor introduced the speaker who was thanked by Grant Miller.

Well on her way to figure skating fame in this city is Miss Arlene Ferguson, 14-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Ferguson of Parkhill Road East. Arlene has just returned home after spending eigh. weeks at the Barrie Summer Skating Club where she made outstanding progress according to C. G. Collins, president of the Peterborough Skating Club.

She was successful in passing her first and second figure skating tests and has only two more tests to complete before she will receive her bronze figure skating medal.

"Arlene has only been a member of the Peterborough Skating Club for three years and we are amazed at her rapid progress," commented Mr. Collins.

The summer's figure skating had to come to an end so that Arlene could return to Collegiate. She is in Grade X.

Order Drafting Of Bylaw For Control, Licensing Of Mobile Food Wagons

Finance committee picked up the potato chips wagon question Monday night on the bounce back from last week's council meeting and began retracing the same procedural course of drafting a regulating bylaw. A motion by Ald. P. J. Anglesey and Ald. T. D. Miller authorized Mayor Swanston to appoint a committee composed of "elected representatives of the council" to draft a bylaw for the control and licensing of mobile food wagons, and that it be submitted to the next meeting of the whole council.

The recommendation of the finance committee last week, as deleted and returned to the committee was: "That a bylaw be prepared to license potato chip wagons setting out recommended license fee, and also restrictions on the movements of the licensees in accordance with the recommendations of the special committee consisting of Alderman Weddell, Mayor Swanston, City Clerk Outram and Chief Constable Thompson."

In the meantime it was understood, Dick Ouimet would be permitted to continue stationing his potato chips wagon at the usual nightly place at George and Simcoe Streets.

"That's why I said we were simply wasting time in sending the resolution back to the committee," Ald. J. E. Gillespie commented.

Petition Presented

Gordon T. Farquharson, lawyer, accompanying Mr. Ouimet, placed on the committee room table a petition which he said was signed by some 1,800 people requesting that the license of the potato chips wagon be renewed.

Mayor Swanston opened the later discussion, mostly a repetition of previous opinions of policy, saying that there was nothing personal in the council's action. The council had appointed a committee to draw up the bylaw after asking for reports. The purpose was to legalize such mobile wagons in street business, if it was the wish of the council.

"Mr. Ouimet came into this because he was the only one operating," Mayor Swanston said. "There certainly wasn't any discrimination."

Ald. H. F. Waddell, chairman, explained that the bylaw had proposed to permit operations under a pedlar's license. "City Solicitor Huycke told us that was not the proper way to establish regulations."

Mr. Huycke said Mr. Ouimet was not a pedlar or hawker of goods and merchandise, such as would be carried on with a hawker's wagon. "In the absence of a direct statutory clause we put it under a general clause, so that anyone else coming along could apply in the same way."

Ald. E. C. Braund said he noticed on the petition the names of some people from Ida, Lakefield, Sarnia, Rochester.

Selling In Streets

"The question is do we want merchandise sold on the streets? If we do? let's have a bylaw. I think we have been charitable in offering an extension of his license for a year. If we were doing the proper thing we would not be giving him ten months grace," Mr. Braund said.

Ald. J. A. Dewart commented that if the proposed bylaw was passed it would apply to Mr. Ouimet as to anyone else, "and there is no monopoly."

Ald. Anglesey suggested that Mr. Ouimet be "given his license and put under a bylaw."

Change of Site

Mayor Swanston recalled that a year ago the question of mobile trade wagons in the streets came before the Council. "Chief Thompson recommended in his report to us that the potato chips wagon should be further down George St. We also had a report from Mr. Butcher of the parks department." (Mr. Butcher complained of paper containers of chips being thrown on the grass at parks and playgrounds)

"At the last meeting of the Council we had a report recommending that a bylaw be prepared. There was no reflection on Mr. Ouimet. He is the only one operating a wagon, and that is why some people think this is being aimed directly at him."

Mayor Swanston said there was an application several years ago from a man who "wished to put in a modern mobile unit," but he did not get one.

"If we have the bylaw, I do think Dick would get a license," Mayor Swanston said.

"About the paper containers in the parks," said Ald. Miller. "There are also pop bottles, popcorn boxes and cigarette boxes. There is no suggestion that the Council wants to stop them. The reason for my stand in Council was that Mr. Ouimet carried on his business four years, and he hasn't hurt anyone that I know of.

"If there is a bylaw, that's all right, but I wouldn't like to see him restricted to some place where he couldn't do a profitable business. There has been some suggestion that he be relegated to the market. That would practically put him out of business."

"If there's a bylaw you'll get another application pronto," said Ald. Braund.

Ald. Burrows: "There is no doubt Mr. Ouimet has thousands of friends, as the petition indicates. If this question were put to a vote there is no doubt he'd be backed up, even for sentimental reasons."

Are Facts Known?

Ald. Braund: "If the facts were known — that he is not paying business tax, and no real estate tax where he carries on business?"

Ald. Burrows: "I'd like to make it clear that the name R. S. Burrows on the petition is not myself or any member of my family. If you went carefully over that petition, you would find 1,900 names directly concerned with Peterborough."

Ald. Burrows said there was nothing personal in the council's action. "Unfortunately a personal angle has come into the question, drummed up possibly by the newspapers."

"There are enough people clamoring for it," said Ald. Anglesey. "No one in the streets is saying anything against it."

Ald. Dewart: "Did we not set up a special committee to prepare a bylaw for this business?"

Ald. Waddell: "It was sent back to this committee at the council meeting last week."

Ald. Dewart: "Well, we've wasted a lot of time."

Ald. Anglesey: "And a license hasn't been issued to Mr. Ouimet up to now. We should give him the same kind of license that he had."

Ald. Doug Miller: "If the council had renewed the license we'd never had this fuss at all."

Mayor Swanston: "He's operating now. Nobody wants to turn him down when he applies under a bylaw."

Ald. Dewart: "We took the position we intended to legalize the business that has been carried on. I don't think we should be stampeded in our action by a series of letters in the newspaper."

Secured Information

Ald. Waddell: "It took some time to get the information we wanted. The city clerk wrote to various municipalities, and finally we had certain facts before us, and were in position to discuss in committee."

Ald. Braund: "Remember, in legalizing this street business, you are legalizing every other kind of business to operate in the same way."

Ald. Dewart: "We don't want people saying we are maintaining any monopoly. Mr. Ouimet's interest will be cared for."

Ald. Miller said he was in favor of drafting a bylaw, and also of extending Mr. Ouimet's licence to the end of next June, the time sought. Then when the bylaw was adopted, Mr. Ouimet would come under it.

Ald. Young: "You could give him a temporary licence until the bylaw is passed."

Ald. Sands: "Why worry about a licence? Prepare the bylaw and have all come under it."

As to the type of license, Mr. Huycke said Mr. Ouimet was not "a hawker, peddler or petty chapman. What are you going to do?"

Ald. Gillespie: "Give him a used car licence."

That was the comic note in the discussion. In the matter of licencing mobile wagons, Ald. Braund said: "What about selling dresses? It shouldn't be just for selling food."

An Anglesey-Miller motion was adopted by a vote of 5-4. The ayes appeared to be Aldermen Anglesey, Miller, Young, Burrows and Sands.

Ald. Waddell was non-voting chairman, and Ald. Dodds was not present. The motion provides for drawing up a regulating bylaw and having it examined by the council in committee of the whole.

Normal School Enrolment Largest Since '34

Peterborough Normal School opened this morning with the largest enrolment since the two-year course in 1933-34, Principal Leo W. Copp reports 130 registered. Of these 29 are men. There were 32 last year.

Says Aggression Merging Canadian-US Production

By FORBES RHUDE

BANFF, Alta., Sept. 12 (CP)—Canada and the United States are being forged into one great North American production machine under the threat of Russian aggression.

A short time ago Canada thought it was a big accomplishment when the United States agreed to $25,000,000 of reciproca! defence purchases. Now that is regarded as small potatoes.

Defence Minister Claxton expressed his belief Monday night that there will be a renewal of the Hyde Park agreement under which in the Second World War the two countries virtually pooled their resources in making war material.

He said it addressing the annual meeting of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce and in thanking it and its American counterpart, the United States Chamber, for their efforts towards breaking down the trade barriers which have retarded common defence production in the post-war period.

Must Be Intelligent

It only makes sense, said Mr. Claxton, that the resources of the two countries should be used in the most intelligent way possible for the defence of Canada, North America, the Commonwealth, and for freedom wherever it has to be defended.

A common effort in defence production is commonly understood to mean that the United States will place orders in Canada for things that may be efficiently produced here; that Canada will buy from the United States things that should be produced there; and that both of them will produce for the re-armament of the western world.

One of Mr. Claxton's quotes Monday night was:

"Business as usual is not good enough; we must have more business than usual on all fronts." Freedom, he said, must be preserved at home and aggression met abroad. "We have to do a lot of complicated things at the same time," and it would mean sacrifices.

Liveliest Topic

Common defence production by Canada and the United States, and the demands which it will make upon the industries of the two countries, is about the liveliest topic at this annual meeting, though most of it is being discussed behind closed doors.

The joint committee of the Canadian and United States chambers are studying it here, and today Mr. Claxton will meet in what is scheduled to be a closed session with the full chamber membership.

"No Reason For War"

DENVER, Sept. 12 (AP)— Albert Einstein told the 46th annual convention of the International Union of Mine Mill and Smelter Workers (Ind.) # Drop Charges In Bombing At Petawawa

PEMBROKE, Sept. 12 (CP). — Charges of criminal negligence and theft against an army officer and three members of the RCAF were withdrawn in magistrate's court here Monday.

The charges were in connection with the injury of two young children at near-by Petawawa military camp on Aug. 12 as a result of a smoke bomb explosion.

Involved were Capt. Joseph Liston, 30, and LAC's Gordon Hunt, 29, Albert J. Peters, 26, and Willard Payette, 26.

They were arrested and charged after the children picked up the bomb in a civilian area near the camp. The bomb immediately detonated. It was alleged that the bomb had been left there the previous night by military men.

Charges were withdrawn by Crown Attorney H. B. Johnson for lack of evidence. The matter was turned over to the army for any further action.

Objection to the withdrawal was submitted by defense counsel two said it was unfair to the accused. Three of them had spent 10 days in jail.

He said they should be allowed to have the charges read and enter their plea. If there was sufficient evidence produced by the Crown, the case should then be dismissed. Magistrate W. K. MacGregor, however, decided in favor of the Crown attorney's decision.

Two Transports Crash Drivers Escape Unhurt

COBOURG, Sept. 12 (ENS). — Two large transports collided almost head-on Monday a few miles east of Cobourg. Both vehicles were extensively damaged but the drivers were unhurt.

A flag was presented to the Camp from Victoria Camp, followed by the presentation of a Canadian flag from Rev. Lloyd Shorten of Foxboro, secretary of the Youth Work, Board of Christian Education.

Miss Loretta McDougal of Bridge Street United Church, Belleville, director of Christian Education, was the soloist, and prayer was offered by Rev. Dr. Bruce Gordon of Trinity United Church, Peterborough.

Appreciations were expressed to the Work Camp Fellowship; to Robert Downey, road superintendent of Huntington Township; to the property committee for plans and building promotion, and to the Rev. F. R. Vanderburgh of Havelock, chairman of the property committee.

Quin-Mo-Lac is carried on by the Bay of Quinte Conference under the direction of a board of nine directors, known as the Bay of Quinte Corporation. This is a non-profit organization set up by and responsible to the Christian Education Committee of the Bay of Quinte Conference. One of the directors is the president of the Conference Young People's Union.

Quin-Mo-Lac Camp is situated on the south-east shore and arm of Moira Lake, eight miles from Madoc, six miles from Tweed, 28 miles north of Belleville and five miles from the highway between Madoc and Belleville. It is a mile across the lake to Crystal Beach, and it in turn is just two miles from Madoc.

300-Acre Property.

The property includes 300 acres of land which was purchased from W. Brown for $3,000. It has 200 acres fronting on the lake, which gives more than a mile of water frontage. The northwest shore is rocky, with a pleasing lift above the water with many pine trees and other varied kinds of soft woods below the hill with open spaces suitable for the establishment of a young adult or other type of camp at a later date and is separate from the camp now being promoted.

The Young People's Unions of the Bay of Quinte Conference have accepted initial financial responsibility for acquiring the site, clearing the ground and establishing the first building. The early financial receipts were the results of special efforts above missionary givings and other responsibilities plus some special donations of interested people and congregations. The original objective of $7,000 has been exceeded by $400 to June of this year. A further $10,000 is needed to complete necessary work.

Huge Road, Rail System Planned For Gold District

ODENDAALSRUS, South Africa —(CP)— Large-scale and far-reaching plans, still top-secret, are being drawn up by the economic development or Orange Free State goldfields.

Plans include a huge network of roads and railways, planning of new towns and industrial enterprises, native districts and the development of water and agricultural resources.

When they come to fruition, they will leave tiny, dirty, bustling Odenaalsrus the centre of a large rural and urban economic unit.

Councillor N. Jooste said that the Regional Planning Board, the Council for the Development of Natural Resources and other organizations have held secret meetings in the area to discuss problems connected with the undertaking. Even councillors of the towns concerned were not permitted to attend.

Expect Heavy Traffic

He said that the roads, the plans for which were complete, had been designed on modern lines to cater for the expected heavy traffic. Main highways would by-pass towns and villages, but would be connected to them by minor roads.

A Bloemfontein consultant, said Mr. Jooste, had drawn up plans for the development of Odendaalsurs into the most modern town in the Union. These have been submitted to the township's board in Bloemfontein and the board's decision was expected within a few months.

The proposed town would lie in a corridor stretching two miles on either side of where the town now stands. The central section would be strictly a business area. Light industries would be situated on one side of the railway line; heavy industries on the other.

The remainder of the corridor would be residential. Housing projects now being built by the mining companies would be incorporated into the final plans

Roseneath Couple Wed 40 Years Feted by Friends

ROSENEATH, Sept. 12 (ENS). —A surprise part yof 20 near relatives gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Macklin, Roseneath, on Thursday evening, the occasion being their 40th welding anniversay.

Mrs. Macklin was Velma Wragg, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Wragg, Bethesda South (near Port Hope), and Mr. Macklin was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Macklin, Roseneath.

Following their wedding they took up residence on the Macklin homestead, two and half miles south of Roseneath, where they resided until 1949, when they retired to their present home in the village.

Of this union, two children were born: Florence, now Mrs. Louis Roberts, Port Hope, and Melville residing on the Macklin homestead. They have four grandchildren, Mary Lou Roberts, Ronald, Marie and Trevor Macklin.

Mr. and Mrs. Macklin have always taken a keen interest in the social, political and church activities of the community. Mrs. Macklin is an active member of the WMS of Roseneath United Church, and Mr. Macklin is a keen outdoor man and enjoys hunting and fishing.

Following the card games an electric toaster and a box of chocolates were presented to the bride and groom of yester-year by the guests.

All sat down to a luncheon, provided by the guests; the table was centred with a three-tier wedding cake, a gift made and decorated by their daughter-in-law, Mrs. Melville Macklin.

Included among the guests were five persons who were present at the wedding 40 years ago. They were: Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Runnells, Welcome; Mrs. Orme Beatty, Port Hope; Mrs. Frank Macklin and Mrs. Wilbert Budd, Bethesda South.

Other gnests present were: Mr. and Mrs. Louis Roberts and daughter, Mary Lou, Port Hope; Mr. and Mrs. Melville Macklin, Ronald, Marie and Trevor; Mr. and Mrs. Orme Beatty, Port Hope; Mr. and Mrs. Dwayne Cluff and daughter Marilyn and Mr. Wilbert Budd, Bethesda South.

Diplomat's Wife Flouts Protocol Stirs Iran Women

By ROBERT HEWETT.

TEHERAN, Iran, (AP). — The lively, go-getting wife of the new U.S. ambassador to Iran is stirring up a lot of trouble for husbands in this ancient eastern land.

Since the beginnings of Persian civilization the men have been top dogs. Women have been going without veils for only 14 years and even today the average wife's place is strictly in the home.

But in the last few weeks Mrs. Henry F. Grady—Lucretia to her friends—has delighted long-suppressed Persian women by scoffing at tradition.

"If you show your independence you can have the vote for women in one year," the exuberant Mrs. Gradys tells her new Persian friends.

She is making plenty of friends. Her "Thursday morning" meetings are the talk of Teheran.

Have Gabfest

Over iced tea or fruit juice, 20 to 30 Iranian women settle down each Thursday for a gabfest with Mrs. Grady. They discuss earnestly such social problems as illiteracy, woman's suffrage and ways to improve the capital's unsanitary water supply which flows to Teheran homes in open gutters.

It's a startling change from the usual round of polite teas and cocktail parties. Some Persian women were a little taken back at first by an ambassador's wife who flouts protocol to jump into all sorts of controversial subjects.

Each week different women are invited to the Thursday meetings. Most go away gossiping enthusiastically at the way an American woman operates.

Active In Politics

Mrs. Gradys is no inexperienced operator. She gets her bounce, apparently, from a long line of California-Spanish ancestors. She says she made her first speech at the age of two in the California Senate—propped on the desk by her father, the late Reginaldo Del Valle, who for years was prominent in west coast politics.

In the 1930s she was a vice-chairman of the Democratic National Committee. She has lived in many parts of the world. Her husband, who has a reputation in the State Department for getting things done in the world's trouble spots, came to Iran after serving as ambassador in Greece and India.

Not content to settle down in the traditional hostess role of an ambassador's wife, 58-year-old Mrs. Grady has taken on a full-time job of selling the American way of life as her husband's partner.

The women's vote is only one thing she is interested in (she's promoting a United Nations program for Radio Teheran, for instance). But her first action here was to stimulate the tiny woman's suffrage movement.

Gasp At Idea

"If the men won't give us the vote, then let's go on strike," was the fiery comment of one chic Iranian woman at a Thursday meeting.

Her friends gasped and giggled at such an unheard of idea. But a few minutes later they were tossing it back and forth with approval.

"Some of the husbands are in for a bad time," commented one foreign diplomat's wife.

If Mrs. Grady followed the pattern she set in Greece, some of the Iranian husbands—government ministers, businessmen, professors, etc.—will be drawn into the discussion circle before long.

Youngsters Like Modern Hymns

LONDON (CP).—The Methodist school hymn book has been brought up-to-date. New hymns now replace those with obsolete texts and words.

Written for children living in towns, they are proving so popular that even the boys are singing them.

"We often found that boys left all the singing to the girls," said the Rev. A. E. Pickard, superintendent minister of Finsbury Park (London) Methodist circuit. "Now they join in lustily."

A good example of the new hymns is No. 261:

Come let us remember the joys of the town,
Gay vans and bright buses that roar up and down,
Shop windows and playgrounds and swings in the park,
And street lamps that twinkle in rows after dark.
And let us remember the chorus that swells,
From hooters and hammers and whistles and bells,
From fierce panting engines and clear-striking clocks,
And sirens of vessels afloat in the docks.
And let us remember the life in the street,
The horses that pass us, the dogs that we meet,
Grey pigeons, brown sparrows and gulls from the sea,
And folk who are friendly to you and to me.

The new book replaces one printed 39 years ago. Already more than 270,000 copies have been sold.

Pass Resolutions At Convention Prov. Council CWL

KINGSTON, Sept. 11 (CP). — Establishment of a provincial bursary fund of $15,000 by the Ontario Provincial Council of the Catholic Women's League was authorized by one of 10 resolutions passed at the third provincial convention, here Sunday.

Other resolutions urged members to discourage the distribution of comic books; to protest lewdness in periodicals, and advertising display cards; called for sricter enforcement of liquor laws; favored the growing custom of the dual wedding ring ceremony as a tangible reminder of marriage vows; urged members to be active in unmasking such "crafty devices" used by Communists as the "ban the tomb" petition; and reiterated the stand on the rights of parents to educate their children in schools of their choice.

GETS GOOD ADVICE

After I was married, my grandmother said, "Everyone's giving you lots of advice, but they may not have told you how to keep a man's shirt sparkling white. All that is needed is a swish of Reckitt's Blue in the rinse—and that goes for all white clothes. Reckitt's Blue prevents clothes turning yellow—gives a snowy white wash every time without using anything that may damage fabric." Trust Granny to give me advice worth remembering.

JACOBY ON CANASTA

Mrs. J. W. Glaser of Detroit writes as follows:

"I have remaining in my hand three cards, two jacks and a deuce. My partner completed a canasta and my right hand opponent was able to take the pack. She discarded a jack and I was going to pick it up to add to my jacks and meld out, but she said I could not do this as it was a discard pile of only one card which could not be picked up to meld out. I argued that as I was in a position to meld out anyway, it shouldn't make any difference.

"I do not find anything in the rule books covering this point, so would appreciate it very much if it could be answered."

Mrs. Glaser is correct and her opponent wrong. The question is of a type that is asked quite often. It is answered in the Laws of Cantasta, but as with many points that cause argument, it is answered in two different paragraphs, although both paragraphs appear in the same law.

Law 18a3 reads, "After the partnership has melded, either partner at his turn to play may take the discard pile by adding the top card of the pile to a meld (a closed canasta is just like any other meld, already made by his side."

Law 18b presents the only two exceptions to this right. 18b covers the matter of the frozen discard pile, while 18c reads as follows: "A player who holds but one card in his hand may not take a discard pile consisting of only one card."

This last paragraph is what has caused the confusion in Mrs. Glaser's opponent's mind. Obviously if a player who holds only one card takes a one-card discard pile, he automatically melds out.

This law stops a player with only one card from doing that very thing. Therefore instead of realizing that the prohibition applies only against a man with one card, this player thinks that a player may never take a one-card pile and meld out under any circumstances.

However, the law is clear. The only prohibition applies when the player has only one card and the discard pile has only one card.

A player with more than one card in his hand may take the discard pile irrespective of how many cards it contains, and meld out if he can. A player with only one card may take the discard pile as long as it contains more than one card, and also meld out on the same play if he can and wants to.

600 Girls and Women Plan To Take Part in YW Program

More than 600 girls and women will be starting gym and ballet classes at the YWCA this week, according to Miss C. Littlefield, director of the health education department. "We expect to have an extremely successful year," commented Miss Littlefield. "There is a full schedule planned and the girls are very enthusiastic."

Never Too Young or Too Old might be the motto for the health education program at the "Y". Ballet and gym instruction is given to tiny tots ranging in age from two to six and also to a married women's group.

Approximately 200 have registered for the business girls' classes which will include more advanced gymnastic exercises. There will be a cadet class for older school girls. The main feature of this class will be training the girls in the military wand routine.

The five clases of ballet a week range from a simple Russian technique taught to the tiny tots to more advanced modern, creative and interpretative dancing of the senior classes. This year there will be a special class of hard toe ballet.

Plans are being made for the children's big gym rally that will take place this month and also for the business girls' swim-gym frolic to be held on September 28. Some of the colored film taken at the Princess Pageant and Ballet last spring will be shown at these events.

Badminton and basketball will also be starting this week.

The Case of the 4 Strangers

ONE MORNING four men met on the front steps of big Fred Johnson's home. They had never met one another before—and none of them had ever met Fred.

Inside the quiet house, Fred Johnson's wife held her little girl's shoulder tightly. She wondered what she could tell these men. For an instant she imagined how easily Fred would have satisfied them. But Fred was no longer there to help her.

He had always lived for today, laughing at her worries about tomorrow. But now tomorrow had come—and with it the four strangers—the four men who knew that the most tragic event in May Johnson's life, the event that had brought their unpaid bills, had brought no money to meet them.

Think. Could this happen to your wife?

Jr. Conservatives Hear D. Hueston On "Organization"

The Young Progressive Conservative Association of Peterborough held a combined business and social meeting Saturday evening at "B.K.", the home of Gordon K. Fraser, M.P., at Burleigh Falls.

Under chairmanship of president John Corkery, the meeting was called to hear Mr. Donnell Hueston, executive secretary of the National YPC Association, speak on "Organization."

Mr. Hueston prefaced his talk by remarking that this is the first constituency in which he had been asked to speak that had elected Progressive Conservative members to both federal and provincial parliaments.

"Organization can be broken down into three parts, social, educational and preparation in political policies, he stated. He emphasized that it was the work done during the months and years before an election that are important to winning an election—not just the labour expended on the ten hours of election day.

Mr. Gordon K. Fraser, after giving a brief resume of the present session of parliament, conveyed apologies of the Hon. Harold R. Scott, Minister of Lands and Forests, who was unable to atend because of a previously planned northern tour.

Added to the forty members of the local YPCA who attended were W. D. Butt, M.D., a member of the Ontario executive, Miss Fran Moss, of Toronto, and Mr Peter Bate, of Lindsay.

Own Music Used At Her Wedding

LONDON—(CP) — The music Rachel Fox composed for a Royal Academy examination held special significance for her.

Although she was pestered by fellow students asking: "What is it?" Rachel would only shake her head and say: "It's a secret."

The day of the examination dawned and Rachel Fox passed with flying colors — but the music's use didn't end there.

It was played as she and her bridegroom, Derek Hill, walked down the aisle of her hometown church in Somerset.

It was a wedding march.

"I wanted something joyful" she said at the reception, "and I always promised myself I would write my own."

Greatest Sacrifices Made By Mothers Rearing Children

DEAR MISS DIX: To settle an argument, will you answer this question: What is the greatest sacrifice that anyone can make in life?

Z.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: I don't think that your question can be answered categorically, though I suppose that the general opinion is that the greatest of all sacrifices is of life itself. Yet it has always seemed to me that it would be easier to make the one big sacrifice of life than to endure the years and years of countless little daily sacrifices that make one's life a prolonged torment.

Dorothy Dix

Among the greatest sacrifices ever made are those made by poor mothers. Every woman who bears children goes through agony for them, but to this the poor woman adds lack of the proper nursing, and so she drags herself from her bed of pain to cook and wash and sew and care for them.

Foregoes Own Needs

She goes shabby that her children may be decently dressed. Often she goes hungry that they may have food. She works beyond her strength that they may have a playtime. She is like the mythological bird that feeds its young on its own heart.

Great also are the sacrifices that many a man makes on the altar of his home. We know men who continue to come back every night for thirty or forty years to nagging and fretful wives and homes that are places of torment. We know men who are patient sick nurses to neurotic invalids, and we know that the saints and the martyrs have nothing in goodness or suffering on these men, who sacrifice their hopes and plans and ambitions, their comfort and their joy in life to their sense of duty.

But, personally, I think that the greatest sacrifice that anyone ever makes in life is that made by a young girl who gives up marrying the man with whom she is in love to stay at home and take care of her parents or to rear the orphan children of her brother or her sister. Her sacrifice is greater than that of the mother, because she has not the love for those for whom she sacrifices that would be her compensation. Her sacrifice is greater than that of a man would be in a similar case, because when the old people are dead or the children reared the man would still have a chance of some happiness in life, but the woman has none.

The greatest of all sacrifices are those that are made for one's family. And they are rarely appreciated.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: A couple of years ago I had a serious affair with a woman and only my father's logical reasoning kept me from divorcing my wife. Now I realize that I never stopped loving my wife and that my feeling for this other woman was just a passing infatuation. I have told my wife this and she says it makes her happy to know it, but I can feel her reservations and that she doesn't really believe it. Her behavior in that difficult time endeared her to me more than ever. I could stand my unhappiness, but she, too, is short of happiness that we would both have if I could overcome the fear that I see in her eyes. Can anything be done? A BAFFLED HUSBAND.

ANSWER: What's done is done, and it can never be changed. No woman whose husband has betrayed her can ever really forget it. It is always a wound in her heart that never heals, and the relationship between them can never be the beautiful, joyous thing it was when she trusted him implicity.

But when a wife does forgive her husband for his disloyalty she does herself, as well as him, a great wrong when she doesn't wipe the slate clean, and make herself forget as far as possible his offense against her. She should never let herself think of it if she can help it, and we can control our thoughts if we try hard enough.

If a woman is big enough and strong enough to forgive and forget, as the phrase goes, if she has sense enough to realize that a man's unfaithfulness is very often just the satisfying of a bodily hunger and has more significance than his eating when he is hungry, or drinking when he is thirsty, then there is no reason why her marriage should be spoiled by his having once strayed off the strait and narrow path. Often such a husband comes back to his wife more in love with her than ever because he has got a bigger measure of her character, because he compares her with a lesser woman and realizes how miserable he would have been if he had wrecked his home for a passing fancy.

And the husband who has sinned against his wife and truly repented may be trusted. He has had his lesson.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: Please solve this problem for us: Why is it that most homely men marry good-looking women?

PUZZLED.

ANSWER: Men marry any kind of women they please because they have the privilege of picking out their wives and so can choose girls who are balm to their eyes. If they are particularly addicted to beauties, it is doubtless their own lack of pulchritude that makes them especially appreciative of it in others.

STEAMING HOT SHRIMPS CREOLE surrounded by a ring of rice can be the focal point for the party buffet or family dinner.

Shrimps Can Be Served In Many Delicious Ways

Shrimps fit into so many menus —luncheons, dinners, snacks, late evening buffets—that is almost imperative to read "250 Different Fish and Sea Food Recipes," the Examiner ninth release in its series of twenty-four cookbooks, in order to feel you are adequately versed in how to prepare this always popular seafood.

The ever favorite recipe is Shrimp Creole. Its adaptability permits it to be used for heavy dinners and light menus alike and it is so easy to prepare, too.

Shrimp Creole

1 cup uncooked rice
3 onions, sliced
1 bunch celery, chopped
4 tablespoons bacon fat
2 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
2 teaspoons chili powder
2 cups water
3 cus cooked tomatoes
3 cups drained cooked peas
1 ½teaspoons vinegar
2 teaspoons sugar
3 cups cleaned cooked shrimp

Cook rice in boiling salted water until tender; drain. Brown onions and celery slowly in bacon fat. Blend in flour and seasonings and add water slowly, stirring constantly. Simmer 15 minutes, covered. Add remaining ingredients and continue cooking for 10 to 15 minutes until shrimp are thoroughly heated. Pile hot rice in center of platter and surround with shrimp. Serves 6.

But if you wish to try something much more unusual here is another idea from the Fish Book:

Baked Stuffed Avocados

3 large avocados
3 tablespoons lemon juice
1 teaspoon salt
4 tablespoons butter
6 tablespoons flour
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1½ cus milk
½ cup cup cooked sliced celery
¼ cup minced pimiento
1 cup boiled shrimp
2-3 cup grated American cheese

Cut avocados lengthwise into halves and peel. Sprinkle with lemon juice and ½ teaspoon salt. Melt butter, blend in flour, add remaining salt, pepper and milk; cook until thickened, stirring constantly; add celery, pimiento and shrimp. Fill avocados with shrimp mixture and cover with grated cheese. Place in baking pan, pour in water to depth of ½ inch and bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) 15 minutes For 6. Use crab meat instead of shrimp. Use only 3 tablespoons flour and add 1 egg yolk slightly beaten just before adding celery and shrimp.

Teach Children Early Cooking Responsibilities

By MARY MOORE.

With the young people back to school it is a time for re-organizing and re-allotting duties and responsibilities.

Each year the children are capable of accepting and shouldering more responsible chores, and they blossom and mature as they carry them out.

Never have I known an instance when a child has not improved by being given definite duties that he must execute without being supervised.

If yours are young, as mine used to be, you might be thinking of letting them make the tea or coffee for you, or cocoa for themselves. I am assuming that they have been making beds and drying dishes for years.

You should give these tasks some smart promotion to make them glamorous.

If yours are about ten years old, and tall enough to handle boiling water in the kettle, they will love to have the responsibility of making your tea or coffee for you. (This is a brilliant idea—for they often have a chance to show their training in front of your guests.)

Of course the thrill of making cocoa for themselves and their friends is obvious.

I found it was a popular idea to buy those stackable plastic cups and saucers and a tray for their own private snacks.

When you do come to the actual teaching of making tea or coffee do not lift your finger to do one movement yourself. If you are the eager-beaver type (like I am) it is such a temptation to take the lid from the tea or coffee canister or some such simple operation. Do not do any of these things. Let your child go through the complete operation himself.

Pehcolated Coffee

For safety's sake I think percolated coffee is advisable. It is is a little more dangerous to teach them to make drip coffee, for at the stage where they pour the boiling water into the top of the dripolator I think the pot is very top heavy and tippy. I know percolated coffee is not supposed to be as good as drip, but you can stand that little disadvantage for the sake of teaching your little one a new skill.

Teach them to measure exactly: 2 level measuring tablespoons percolator grind coffee to each cup (measuring cup) cold water. (You know, some coffee connoisseurs think coffee is improved if always started with cold water—the theory being that it is slightly pre-soaked and more flavor is noticed from it.)

Elementary Steps In Making Tea

For tea (1) water should be freshly boiling; (2) pot should be rinsed with hot water; (3) tea should be measured into pot—1 teaspoon tea for each cup to be served is a rough guide; (3) carry the pot to the kettle—not the kettle to the pot — this insures actually boiling water striking the tea first—which gives a more delicate brew. You have to decide between a 3 and 5-minute brew. Be sure your child learns to watch the minute hand on the clock and time his tea brew.

I will make room for the detailed recipe for cocoa to be made by children next week.

Closed Season For Lake Trout Too Much Fishing

Department of Lands and Forests specialists have found that lake trout populations in many of the Haliburton lakes are greatly reduced, and due to increased fishing pressure through the winter, are in a precarious position. They have decreed, therefore, that when the open season for lake trout closes on October 5th it will remain closed until May 1st, 1951, in Haliburton County.

Fluctuating water levels, poaching on spawning beds and little hatchery stock available for replantings have caused this ruling. Townships of Hastings County also affected by this ruling are: Bangor, Carlow, Cashel, Dungannon, Faraday, Herschel, Limerick, Mayo, McClure, Monteagle Wicklow and Wollaston.

Summary of other fish closing days are speckled brown, rainbow, Aurora and Kamloops trout, Sept. 15th. Muskies closed on Oct. 1st and bass and pickerel on Oct. 15th.

Seasons For Grouse

There will be two open seasons for ruffled grouse (partridge), spruce grouse, sharp-tailed grouse and ptarmigan north of Highway 7 this year, from Oct. 7th till Oct. 28th and Nov. 6th until Nov. 18th. The first of these seasons will apply only south of Highway 7 in Hastings and in non-regulated areas of Huron, Wellington, Simcoe, Ontario and Durham Counties. The bag limit will be five birds per day in the aggregate with a possession limit of 15 birds, in the above areas.

The season on black, grey and fox squirrels will last two days on Nov. 10th and 11th. The bag limit: five per day in the aggregate, of all kinds.

Warning hunters to exercise great care in the woods, the department points out that four small fires occurred in Peterborough County over the week-end. Three of these in Cavendish Township and the fourth on a small island on Sucker Lake, Anstruther Township, were extinguished, the largest of them reaching half an acre before being brought under control.

Railways Testing New Advances In Cooling Refrigerator Cars

OTTAWA —(CP)— Canadian scientists have been working with the railway people to make cold cars colder.

They've come up with some really chilly cars, too, but there will have to be high-level decision on railway policy before any changes can be effected.

"There are... economic and operating problems that are a matter of policy," said the fisheries department in releasing the results of the tests. The National Research Council and Fisheries Research Board co-operated with the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways in performing the experiments.

The tests were made to meet demand for refrigerator-car temperatures below 15 degrees Fahrenheit for transportation of frozen fish and quick-frozen fruits and vegetables. Two experimental cars and a standard refrigerator car were used in the transcontinental tests.

The standard Canadian car is cooler with ice and salt in overhead bunkers extending from end to end of the car. These provide uniform cooling and, even in warmest weather, temperatures of 15 degrees can be maintained on long hauls.

In one test, however, one of the experimental cars maintained zero temperatures throughout. It was a CNR car remodelled internally and equipped with two gasoline - driven refrigeration units.

Although the car was a success, one big problem involved the replacement of the gasoline engines by a different type of engine to meet fire regulations.

Other problems included the matter of maintenance crews and costs and the acceptability of such mechanical equipment on United States routings were Canadian cars must be operated and serviced.

The other experimental car was a CPR standard model, cooled with ice and salt, but with new bunkers designed by the NRC.

The CPR maintained a temperature approximately five degrees lower than that obtained with the standard bunker. In a test from Prince Rupert, BC, to Toronto, this car kept its load below 10 degrees.

The fisheries department in its report said that previous tests had shown that the addition of 20-per-cent ammonium nitrate to the salt and ice in the bunker lowered the temperature a further five degrees.

Analysis showed that the new bunkers would involve a slight increase in capital expenditure, while the motor-driven system not only would involve an increase in capital costs, but also an "appreciable" boost in operating costs.

Low Price Sale Of Surplus Goods Disturbs New Zealand Dairymen

By J. C. GRAHAM

WELLINGTON, N.Z. (CP). — Despite reassurances from the United States, New Zealand dairy produce interests are concerned about American plans to sell surplus produce at low prices to members of the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization.

The U.S. has stated that the countries which purchase the commodities will be required to establish adequate safeguards to ensure that their use supplements, and does not substitute for, normal imports.

Nevertheless, W. Marshall, chairman of the New Zealand Dairy Products Marketing Commission, says that the sale of American dairy products at low prices may well have an indirect effect in every market in which New Zealand sells its supplies.

"Unquestionably, these goods, if sold under this offer, will ultimately pass through ordinary trade channels, and the quantities are sufficiently serious to depress prices," he said. "The promising start which the commisison has made with sales to countries other than the United Kingdom at satisfactory prices is threatened by this proposal, and if it is continued as a policy our trade in these markets could become impossible..

Fighting Subsidies

"Unfortunately several countries are supplying dairy produce to the United Kingdom at prices which are below their cost of production, and we have already encountered in our price discussions the argument that other countries are prepared to subsidize their exports to Britain.

"This looks like the pattern of trade that is developing throughout the world and if powerful countries like the United States export portions of their production of food which becomes surplus, at prices which are ruinous to countries whose main economy rests on the export of food, the effect on such countries and world trade will be disastrous.

"As New Zealand is the largest exporting country per capita in the world, and as our exports are mostly primary products, mainly food, the effect on New Zealand could be more serious than on any other country."

Marshall said that the United States was offering butter and cheese at a quarter of the price-support rate, and at less than half the prices Britain was paying New Zealand.

2 RCN Chaplains Arrive In Japan

OTTAWA, Sept. 12 — (CP) — Two R. C. N. chaplains have arrived in Japan and have joined the Canadian flotilla of three destroyers which is operating in Korean waters, it was anounced at headquarters today.

The two men are Horatio Todd of Ottawa and Halifax, Protestant chaplain, and Richard M. Ward of Toronto, Roman Catholic chaplain.

Padre Todd was a resident of Ottawa before joining the navy in July, 1943. During the war he served on both coasts and spent a period at sea in the frigate Antigonish. He was demobilized in 1946, but re-entered the navy two years later, serving at Cornwallis, N.S., and Halifax, where his family now lives.

Father Ward, a native of Toronto, joined the navy in July, 1944, has served on both coasts and at headquarters, as well as on the aircraft carriers Warrior and Magnificent. He was in the latter as staff chaplain to the senior naval officer afloat before being appointed to the Far East.

Logs And Flat Cars Plunge Off Trestle

LONGVIEW, Wash., Sept. 12. (AP)—Dozens of huge logs and at least seven railway flat cars plunged off a high trestle Monday night a few miles north of here, crashing into a highway more than 125 feet below.

A number of other logging cars hung precariously from the badly damaged span, and it was feared several might break loose.

Wrecking crews, working at top speed to clear the debris, said that as far as could be determined no automobiles or trucks were caught beneath the rain of logs and flat cars.

All of the logging train crew were reported to have escaped unhurt.

Call Tenders In Big Project

VANCOUVER (CP)— Tenders for one of the largest home building projects in recent years—probably to exceed $4,000,000 in value — are being called by Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation.

The project will provide nearly 800 units for Vancouver Island and the mainland, some of those cancelled last June when original estimates fell below bids received.

Military homes comprise the majority of the units but 300 or more are planned for civilians. Belmont Park at Victoria will draw 280 navy homes.

There are 15 more at Esquimalt, 55 at Chilliwack and 110 more for the lower mainland—all these being previously-cancelled projects.

The tense war situation is said cause of the large military allocation.

Both campany and union had been saving to build up a fund for a doctor. Union membership chipped in weekly to provide him with a car and medical equipment.

So Many Chairborne Troops At Ottawa, They Wear Civies

By JACK SCOTT

Some final notes on the Ottawa scene:

One of the most amusing of Ottawa's subterfuges might be called "Hiding the Officer."

Story is that there are so many chairborne troops here at headquarters that an order was issued "encouraging" the commissioned gents to wear their civilian duds to work rather than their uniforms. Ottawa folks were getting a little alarmed about the number of soldiers, sailors and airmen on the government's payroll.

Military cars, too, are often camouflaged to look like civilian automobiles.

But now some of the brass is beginning to wonder if they hadn't oughta make the double switch "Mustn't let the people think we aren't prepared for the next war," one told me.

Lots of World War Three talk in these parts, particularly among the militia. I haven't met any servicemen yet who expect that Canada's special brigade will fight in Korea. All expect it to fight "elsewhere."

And a great many permanent force officers think this brigade is a disgrace as Canada's contribution to the United Nations. They will tell you so in a straightforward whisper and after your assurance that you aren't quoting anyone, really.

Glamor of Bars

All the glamor of cocktail bars has now worn away and Ottawa slips in for its Manhattan or after-dinner liqueur with none of the self-consciousness obserbed in the beginning.

Some of the place are in outrageously bad taste in decor, notably the Chateau's weird Jasper Room, but it is certainly a nice, civilized way of having a drink after the by-the-bottle method of the west.

One of the most interesting subjects for speculation in Ottawa is the fate of the National Film Board. Some of the officials of the board very kindly arranged a screening of some recent subjects for Brown Eyes and me yesterday. Sorry t say it was a sharp disappointment.

Seemed to me these pictures lacked a hard-headed objectiveness that the documentary film requires.

One on welfare problems in British Columbia, for example, was mainly interesting for its scenic shots. Tme "problem cases" all worked out as patly as a Hollywood movie, and as unrealistically. Saw also a film on the Winnipeg flood taking the same old line of men in seige against the water and nary a word of why the flood came or what's to prevent another.

Cancer Film

The much-touted Science-versus-Cancer film seemed to us a confusing montage of too-clever animation technique and symbolic effects when a simple, straightforward presentation was called for. The gorgeous, actor's voice of Raymond Massey, still playing Abe Lincoln, was typical of the mannered approach to a subject that cries out for a quiet, sincere treatment.

Seems to me the basic trouble with the film board is that, unlike the CBC, it comes too closely under direct government control. Needs complete independence to be effective in picturing this country honestly. For example, if you make a film on B.C. welfare problems that you hope will please the people in charge you accomplish nothing.

It's evident, too, that the commercial film companies have been giving the old squeeze to NFB's products so that they get limited urban distribution. Thus haven't enough of the loyalty that keeps the CBC alive and still splendidly honest.

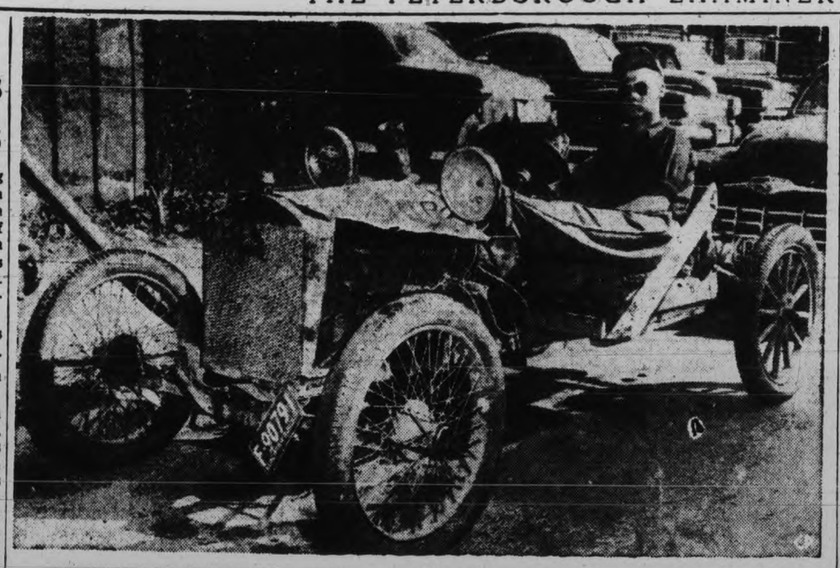
Ottawa is a rewarding place for a fellow who likes to look at pretty girls. The theory is generally held that the capital, in attracting gals from all over the country to the civil service, gets venturesome chicks and consequently, the lookers. Whatever it is, it's nice to sit out in the sun and watch 'em go by.

Prettiest gals of all are in Winnipeg. No theories on that.

✧ ✧ ✧

Had lunch three times this week with Ottawa friends in the famous Rideau Club. Once more and I'm looking for an invitation to join the cabinet. The prime minister was at a table adjoining ours the other day. Looked a lot less frail than I'd pictured him. Got a wonderful smile.

✧ ✧ ✧



Ottawa's market never looks lovelier than in early fall. It's held three times a week in a square just behind the Chateau Laurier and a mouth-watering place with its luscious field tomatoes, corn, apples, cucumbers, onions and the rest.

The flowers are eye-filling, too, and it makes a pretty picture to see the folks strolling down past the Parliament buildings with their arms full of blooms. Part of the charm of a truly beahtiful city.

I hope they keep it right there if — or when — the plans for a model capital materialize.

And now, after much too long in Ottawa, we're off to the east again. Skipping Montreal because we haven't time to do a proper job with it and we might not get out before freeze-up. So it's on to old Quebec City, land of romance.

FROM PEACE RIVER, Alta., to Winnipeg, in a 1919 Model T is the trip made by Blake Whittleton of Sanford, Man. Stranded at Peace River during the rail strike, Whittleton bought this old jalopy from his temporary employer there. A few spare parts and a good overhauling was all it needed. He made the 1,600-mile trip with only one flat tire and at a cost of $35.

Commission Upholds Union President's Act

GLACE BAY, N.S., Sept. 12 (CP)—An international commission has upheld the action of President Freeman Jenkins of United Mine Workers (CCL) district 26 in ruling his only opponent in union elections this year ineligible.

The union commission was set up after strong protests followed Jenkins' action in ruling out the nomination papers of Bob Stewart.

The commission also found unfounded charges of the New Waterford local that Jenkins had misappropriated funds of the now defunct Glace Bay Gazette, once published as a daily newspaper by the 13,000-member union.

French Girls Curbed More Than US Sisters

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 12 (AP).—Americans have the wrong idea about French girls, thinks Leslie Caron, latest gift of the Republic of France to Hollywood.

Mlle. Caron, imported to dance with Gene Kelly in "American In Paris," said Americans should not judge her countrywomen by their pictures in French bathing suits and low-cut gowns. Actually, she declared, French girls are not as uninhibited as it might seem.

"French girls have much less liberty than American girls," said the 18-year-old ballet beauty. "The French mothers keep a close eye on their daughters. The girls are not allowed to wear lipstick until they are 17 or 18 and then very little. They cannot have dates until they are 18 and then they are chaperoned.

More Freedom.

"But in American I see little girls only so high wearing lipstick. And lots of them start going out on dates before they are 14.

"The young French girl cannot dress as — can I say it? — sexy as the American. The French girl usually has straightened hair until she has grown up, and the American starts curling her hair when she is very young. The French girl wears very plain clothes, and the American has a variety of good-looking dresses."

Capsule Review

"Mr. Music" provides Bing Crosby with one of the fresher film ideas of his recent career. He plays a lazy song writer, who is goaded into writing a score by an efficient secretary, played by Nancy Olson. They form a romantic triangle with a muscle-happy collegian (Robert Stack). Crosby is in good form, and Miss Olson makes another stride in a promising career.

Greek King Requests 3-Party Coalition

ATHENS, Greece, Sept. 12 — (AP)—King Paul called Monday for a three-party coalition strong enough to govern this politically-unstable land for the next three years. Greece has had 20 governments since the liberation.

The Greek monarch conferred with Liberal leader Sophocles Venizelos, Populist (Royalist) Chief Constantin Tsaldaris and George Papandreou, head of the Social Democrats, in an attempt to avert dissolution of the six-month-old parliament and the calling of new elections.

Venizelos and his caretaker cabinet resigned yesterday, but the king rejected his recommendation that parliament be dissolved and new elections called. His regime, which succeeded the Centre Coalition of Nicholas Plastiras three weeks ago, fell before an adverse 124-106 parliamentary vote in its first test Saturday.

The king is reported to have told the three leaders that unless they could form a coalition strong enough to survive three years the only alternative would be new elections.

Republicans Get Biggest Maine Vote

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 12 (AP) — Republican Governor Frederick G. Payne and Representative Frank Fellows, Republican for the third U.S. Congressional District, swept to victory Monday in state-wide elections.

With two other Republican congressmen in commanding leads, the Republicans apparently were making a "clean sweep" of major offices.

Republicans called the election the country's first test of confidence in the Truman administration's handling of the Korean and Chinese situations.

Steals Grain Tickets

WINNIPEG, Sept. 12 (CP). — Police searched today for a man attempting to cash $29,000 worth of stolen grain tickets. Grain tickets are issued by elevators for receipt of grain under authority of the Board of Grain Commissioners. The tickets are the equivalent of cheques.

Commonwealth Mourns Field Marshal Jan Smuts

By The Canadian Press

The King expressed a feeling of "great sorrow and personal loss" over the death Monday of South Africa's Field Marshal Jan Christiaan Smuts.

In a telegram to Smuts' widow in Pretoria, sent from the Royal summer residence in Balmoral, Scotland, the King said:

"The Queen and I have heard the news of the death of Field Marshal Smuts with great sorrow and a deep sense of personal loss.

"We send our heartiest sympathy to you and your family. In peace or in war his counsel and his friendship were of inestimable value both to my father and to myself while the force of his intellect has enriched the wisdom of the whole human race."

Tributes came to the great statesman and soldier from all parts of the world.

In London, Prime Minister Attlee said: "The world will mourn, for he was not only a devoted lover of his country and a friend of estimable value to Britain and to the Commonwealth but in his large heart there was a place for all humanity."

Memory Cherished

Conservative leader Winston Churchill, who had been closely associated with Smuts, said:

"The departure of this great spirit leaves all the world poorer. His memory will long be cherished in many lands besides his own."

In Ottawa, Prime Minister St. Laurent said Smuts "had adopted the world as his nation."

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, said Monday night that Field Marshal Smuts of South Africa was "truly one of the giants of our generation."

External Affairs Minister Pearson of Canada sent a message saying "the people of Canada will share sincerely in the general sorrow at his passing, and we extend to the people of South Africa our deep sympathy in their loss."

The BBC observed a minute's silence to honor Smuts.

Train Derailed

TORONTO, Sept. 12 (CP) — One man was killed and another seriously injured Monday night when a Canadian National Railways fruit train from Niagara Falls was derailed at suburban Mimico. Fireman E. Ogilvie of Mimico was killed when the train ran through an open switch on the main tracks and entered the Mimico yards striking a switching engine on which Mr. Ogilvie was working. Yard foreman George Lesnick also of Mimico was reported severely injured. Five cars of the 10-car train were derailed.

Truman Lets Johnson Out As Defence Secretary, Marshall To Replace Him

U.S. President Will Seek Legislation Allowing General To Act; Johnson Admits Making Many Enemies

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13—(AP)—President Truman Tuesday dropped Louis A. Johnson from his cabinet and called upon Gen. George C. Marshall to succeed him as Secretary of Defense. Johnson himself, in resigning as of Sept. 19, recommended the appointment of Marshall as one who would be "an inspiration to the people of the United States and to our allies."

The White House said Truman telephoned Marshall at his home at Leesburg, Va., and Marshall agreed to accept the appointment.

The President, it was announced, will immediately seek legislation to enable Marshall to accept the post. Under the U.S. unification law, no person who has been on active military duty within the last 10 years is eligible for the post of Secretary of Defence. Marshall, a soldier all his adult lifetime, was Chief of Staff of the U.S. Army in the Second World War.

Makes Enemies

In his resignation, Johnson remarked that he had said it was inevitable that in the conscientious performance of his duties "I would make more enemies than friends."

"Somewhat ruefully, I now admit I was right," Johnson said in his letter. He has been under attack for what critics called the country's unpreparedness in the Korean crisis.

The President, accepting the resignation, told Johnson that "in the terribly regrettable circumstances which have arisen, I feel that I must concur in your judgment and accept your proffered resignation."

Earlier, Stephen Early had resigned as Deputy Secretary of Defence, effective Sept. 30.

LOUIS JOHNSON (Top) has been dropped by President Truman as U.S. Defence Secretary. He will be replaced by General George Marshall (Lower).

Will Adjourn Parliament To February 14

OTTAWA, Sept. 13 —(CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent today gave notice that when the current session of parliament completes its business it will be adjourned until Feb. 14, 1951.

Mr. St. Laurent also gave notice that legislation will be brought down at the current session providing for changes in sessional allowances and payments for senators and members of the Commons.

Both notices were given in the Commons order paper.

The practice of adjourning the session, rather than proroguing parliament, was followed during the Second World War.

Can Be Recalled

Mr. St. Laurent has already made it clear that should events require parliament to meet prior to Feb. 14, members will be recalled.

The current session, expected to complete its work either Thursday or Friday, has dealt mainly with emergency legislation.

Mr. St. Laurent gave no details of what changes are planned in the allowances paid to members.

Under parliamentary rules, members are paid $25 a day for a session lasting less than 65 sitting days. For a session 65 days or longer, they are paid $4,000. In addition, they receive a yearly payment of $2,000 to cover living expenses while in Ottawa. Their travelling expenses also are paid.

British Woman Has Quadruplets

LONDON, Sept. 13 (AP). — The commonwealth's second set of quadruplets within a month was reported "all right but premature" a few hours after their birth today.

The newest set—all girls and born within an hour shortly after midnight to Mrs. Elizabeth Coles—were placed in oxygen incubators.

Last month's quadruplets — two boys and two girls — were born during a 50-hour period to Mrs. Betty Sara in Australia.

A nurse described the Coles' babies as "tiny things." One weighed three pounds, four ounces. Two more were each an ounce heavier. The fourth was three pounds, 15 ounces.

The 27-year-old mother, a London housewife, was "quite comfortable," hospital officials said. The possibility of four babies had been predicted, but they were not expected until November.

David Coles, 31, the father is a brewery maintenance engineer. The couple has one other child, a fiveyear-old son.

Learn 20 Killed In Two Crashes

RIO DE JANEIRO, Sept. 13 — (Reuters). — At least 20 persons died today in two plane crashes in widely-separated parts of Brazil.

On the north-east coast, near Fortaleza in Ceara State, a B-25 transport crashed in the mountains killing 15 athletes returning from contests in Pernambuco, Brazil.

There was no immediate word as to how many athletes were aboard the plane or how many crew members there were.

The second crash was near Nictheroy, capital of Rio de Janeiro State on the south-east coast. Seven air force men died in this crash when their B-25 transport exploded in mid-air.

Nude Photographs Cause Campus Furore

SEATTLE, Sept. 13 (AP). — Full-length nude photographs of girls who are entering the University of Washington caused a campus furore today.

The photographs were made for a research laboratory of the Columbia University Medical School, New York.

Parents raised a storm of protest, and university authorities said the picture taking would be stopped immediately.

The young women complained they had not been told why they were being posed during routine medical examination.

The women were photographed one at a time in a room where they were alone with the woman photographer and the woman who was posing them.

McAuliffe Case Goes To Jury

SIMCOE, Sept. 13 — (CP). — The fate of Joseph Herbert McAuliffe, accused slayer of two men, was placed in the hands of his murder trial jury at 12:50 p.m. today.

A few minutes later, Mr. Justice R. W. Treleaven recalled the jurors to instruct them on a point raised by defence counsel W. E. Ross after the judge had concluded his charge.

Mr. Ross claimed it was left open to the jury to determine whether self-defence entered the case even though excessive force was used by accused. He quoted a law report case to support his claim that a verdict of manslaughter in such a case was possible.

Mr. Ross also claimed there was a "conflict of opinion as a matter of law" as to whether one of the citizens slain had authority to pursue and arrest a bandit which held up the Imperial Bank of Canada at nearby Langton on June 21.

When the jury filed back into the courtroom, Mr. Justice Treleaven told them Arthur Lierman, one of the slain men, was justified in attempting to effect the arrest of the robber but was not entitled to "kill or harm" him.

"Is there any evidence that Arthur Lierman was trying to kill the robber?" he asked. "If it was in the robber's mind to do bodily injury, then (the argument of) self-defence is not available."

In his charge, he told the jury he found no evidence in the case to justify a manslaughter verdict.

Court of Appeal Orders New Trial For Fosbraey

TORONTO, Sept. 13 — (CP)— The Ontario Court of Appeal today ordered a new trial for James Fosbraey of Napanee who had been convicted and sentenced to be hanged Sept. 21 on a charge of murder in the knife-slaying of his wife.

Mr. Justice W. T. Henderson, who gave the decision of the five-man court which heard the appeal last week, said that in his opinion the trial judge erred in withholding from the jury the question of provocation in the slaying.

Fosbraey, 29-year-old R. A. F. veteran who comes from Sittingbourne, Kent, England, was convicted June 17.

He surrendered to authorities the night of last Nov. 28, a few minutes after pretty Mrs. June Fosbraey was fatally stabbed in a Napanee street. Fosbraey, estranged from his wife, had returned from a visit to England two days previously.

In letters read at his trial, Fosbraey accused his wife of having an affair with Stainslaw Steinbach, a Polish army veteran who came to Canada after the war, Steinbach, a crown witness denied the accusation.

The crown called Mrs. Fosbraey's death premeditated murder and said the letters Fosbraey wrote from England were filled with hate for her. Chief Justice J. C. McRuer, the trial judge, ruled out a defence contention that an alleged confession of adultery by the slain woman might be regarded as provocation enough to warrant reduction of the charge of murder to manslaughter.

General Says GI's About Get Chance

Allied Forces Snap Trap Shut Around Enemy Force

AT U.S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Sept. 13 (AP)—Lt.-Gen. Walton H. Walker today told his Eighth Army it will "take the offensive in a very short period of time."

In a fighting talk to his front-line troops, Walker said:

"Soon we are going to give up the attitude of defence which the delaying action has forced on us. As soon as we start forward and break the crust in front of us, the enemy will fold.

"We can feel a weakening of the enemy now.

"And in some positions they actually are pulling out."

The commander said there have been weeks of "agony and suffering" for the army in the long—but necessary—stalling and holding while power was built up to take the offensive.

Snap Trap Shut

United Nations task force rammed shut a trap today on 3,000 North Koreans on the northeast front.

The secret sweep by a composite force of Americans and South Koreans was led by Brig.-Gen. Gar Davidson, former West Point football star.

Davidson's speedy end run across what he called "billygoat" terrain—or worse—sealed the southern gate of a mountain corridor northwest of Kyongju. It lifted a major Communist threat to important Pohang airfield on the Korean east coast.

It was the highlight of the day's action on the whole 125-mile front, which was whipped by the fringes of a typhoon.

To the west, the South Korean 8th Division punched several miles ahead in their drive east of Yongchon. It has thrust 12 miles in three days.

Units of the division wheeled as much as nine miles north of the Yongchon-Kyongju road.

Haven't Solid Line Yet

Gen. MacArthur's headquarters said the Allies still do not hold a solid line along the northeast front. It was breached last week by the Reds. But United Nations forces can throw fire on any point, MacArthur's spokesman added.

North and northwest of Taegu, the situation was described as "continuously fluid."

Associated Press Correspondent Jack MacBeth said U.S. 1st Cavalry units launched another attack Wednesday morning against an important Communist-held hill eight miles due north of Taegu. This was in the immediate area where the American troops stormed and won a peak Tuesday in a bitter day-long battle.

Red Koreans pushed U.S. 1st Cavalry Division troops off a hill nine miles northwest of Taegu near the Waegwan-Taegu road. 1st Cavalry elements, MacArthur's communique reported, seized high ground "north of the Waegwan area" Tuesday night.

Tug Of War

"They make gains and we make gains," a spokesman said. "They push us and then we push them."

Sure Windsor Getting Good Defence Man

WINDSOR, Sept. 13—(CP) — Mayor Arthur J. Reaume, returning from Ottawa meetings with civil defence authorities, said Tuesday night that Windsor is 'almost assured' of getting a well-qualified man to conduct civil defence planning in this border city.

He said results of a talk with Maj.-Gen. F. F. Worthington, civil defence co-ordinator, were "very good." Further instructions would come from Ottawa in the near future.

The person being considered for Windsor's civil defence had been a defence director during Second World War air attacks in Britain, Mayor Reaume said. He is now living in Montreal.

The mayor said that Maj.-Gen. Worthington will visit Windsor Sept. 28 to meet civic and industrial leaders and discuss ideas for over-all defence in Canada.

KEAYS ARRESTED—Ontario Provincial Police hold J. E. (Ernie) Keays, second from left, shortly after his sudden appearance in County Court at Ottawa. Keays was dismissed from the OPP in 1949 following a Royal Commission hearing into his allegations of malpractices at Belleville, Ont.. He rushed into the courtroom and told Magistrate Austin O'Connor he was subject to arrest, and then brandished a .32 calibre revolver. He was charged with illegally wearing a police uniform and carrying a concealed weapon. A mental examination has been ordered.

Dr. C. Nicholson New Moderator Of United Church

TORONTO, Sept. 13 — (CP)— A Cape Breton coal miner's son, who says he comes from good, Scot-Presbyterian stock, is the new moderator of the United Church of Canada.

Dr. Clarence M. Nicholson, principal of Pine Hill Divinity Hall, Halifax, won election to the church's highest post at opening sesssions Tuesday night of the general council's 10-day meeting.

At 46 one of the youngest men ever elected to office, Dr. Nicholson received 219 of the 336 votes cast in a second ballot. He succeeds the Very Rev. Willard Brewing, of Toronto, who had been moderator since 1948.

Four other leading clergymen in the church were nominated. They were the Rev. Gordon A. Sisco, council secretary from Toronto, the Rev. Douglas H. Telford, Vancouver, the Rev. G. D. Kilpatrick, Montreal, and the Rev. John M. Mutch, Hamilton.

Worked In Coal Fields

The new moderator was born in the shadow of a colliery in the little town of Dominion, N.S. He was educated in Cape Breton schools, and prior to entering Dalhousie University he had worked two years in the coal-fields for his tuition fees.

At Dalhousie he spent his summers doing mission work for the United Church.

Dr. Nicholson became principal of Pine Hill Divinity College, oldest of the eight United Church training schools, more than four years ago. Previously he held pastorates at four churches in Nova Scotia.

He is married and has two sons, aged 12 and nine.

Attends Conference

In 1948 he went to Europe as United Church delegate to major church conferences. He attended the Modern Churchmen's Conference of the Alliance of Reformed Churches holding the Presbyterian system, and the first meeting of the then-newly-formed World Council of Churches.

Following his election, Dr. Nicholson told reporters he feels the issue of materialism, secular as well as Communist, to be the great church problem in the immediate future.

He had no step-by-step program mapped out for his two-year period of office but he saw in the moderatorship an opportunity to provide inspirational leadership.

Feel New 'Quake

DIBRUGARH, India, Sept. 13 (Reuters)—An earthquake shock, stronger than that which rocked upper Assam a month ago was felt here today. Preceded by a cannon like booming, the shock lasted 90 seconds, 2½ minutes less than the earthquake of Aug. 15. A church here, slightly damaged in the earlier quake, collapsed today and other buildings also were wrecked.

Abbott Ready To Study Civil Service Pay Boost

OTTAWA, Sept. 13—(CP)—Finance Minister Abbott today said he proposed to recommend an immediate study of salaries within the civil service with a view to granting general pay boosts to meet the rising cost of essentials. At the same time he told a Civil Service Federation delegation that ways of increasing the efficiency of the Civil Service also will be studied.

He intimated there was the possibility of a cut in staff in prospect for some departments.

In a half-hour conference with the 17-man delegation, Mr. Abbott agreed living costs have climbed since April—the last time he was approached on the subject of increases.

He felt that when living costs increased government workers should not find themselves in poorer positions than persons working for private employees.

The Federation, representing 60,000 of Canada's 108,000 government workers, asked for a pay increase of 23.5 per cent.

Headed by Fred Whitehouse, president of the Federation, the delegation called on the Cabinet.

They presented an 800-word brief saying Civil servants are considerably worse off than they were in 1939, and calling for increases in the average salary of $360 a year. They sought the increases retroactively, but did not specify to what date.

"Extreme difficulty is being experienced by federal civil servants," the brief stated, "in obtaining even the bare necessities of life."

Told Not Necessary

Federal civil servants last got an increase in October, 1948. The federation sought further increases in a brief last December, and finally was told by Finance Minister Abbott that circumstances since October, 1948, had not changed enough to warrant further increases.

At that time, the federation brief said, Mr. Abbott said it was fully expected that prices would level off and that there might even be a slight recession. The Finance Minister had said that if these circumstances were not fulfilled, "further consideration would have to be given."

The brief said the cost of living since then had risen to "such an alarming extent that large industrial concerns and others have found it necessary to raise wages materially, and in many instances with retroactive effect."

Widow To Get $157 Monthly

OTTAWA, Sept. 13— (CP) — George Fulford (L, Leeds) announced in the Commons today that Mrs. Margaret Oprey, veteran's widow, of Portland, Ont., is to receive a pension of $157 a month for herself and her six children.

He rose during the budget debate to comment on a Portland dispatch Tuesday which said the 29-year-old widow, whose veteran husband died in July, was trying to support herself and her children, including triplets, on $31 a month.

The pension, including $75 a month for life for Mrs. Oprey and $82 for for her children, will be made retroactive to a date not specified by Mr. Fulford.

He said that when the Oprey triplets were born earlier this year, a Veterans Department officer investigated and the hospital bills were paid by service benevolent funds. Later, after Oprey died in July, Mrs. Oprey received two cheques—one for $201.37 and another for $251.65—to cover expenses resulting from her husband's last illness and his death.

Though Oprey's death did not result from war service, the Canadian Pension Commission investigated and approved a pension. In addition, she receives $31 a month in family allowances.

Find Polio On UK Carrier Ship May Skip Exercises

LONDON, Sept. 13 — (CP). — The possibility that Britain's 32,000-ton aircraft carrier Indefatigable may be withdrawn from the autumn exercises of the Home Fleet was raised today after discovery that five crew members have been stricken with infantile paralysis.

The men, all ratings, were removed to hospital with another suspected case. They had just returned from leave in various parts of the country.

Although none was dangerously ill, doctors and sick-bay attendants were conducting routine examinations to ascertain if any others among the ship's company of 1,400 had been infected.

The carrier was due to leave Portland Friday for Gibraltar.

In all, more than 20 ships will take part in the autumn cruise, including a squadron from the Royal Canadian Navy. It is not thought likely plans involving any of the other ships will be altered.

The Canadian squadron comprises the light carrier Magnificent and the destroyers Huron and Micmac. They will join the fleet in the Mediterranean early in November.

Canadian ships at present are carrying out exercises at the joint anti-submarine training school at Londonderry in Northern Ireland. Before sailing for Gibraltar they will visit ports of several North Atlantic Treaty countries.

Say Claxton Hurrying To Ottawa

Hint Allied Pressure For Division Cuts His Trip Short

OTTAWA, Sept. 13—(CP)—Defence Minister Claxton returned to Ottawa by air from the west today, ahead of his planned schedule, as Canada's delegates prepared to leave for New York and a vital aid-for-Europe meeting of the Atlantic Pact's foreign ministers.

Mr. Claxton's arrival came as Winston Churchill's call for two or three Canadian divisions in Europe was talked about in parliamentary corridors and as reports continued that Washington would like Canada to send at least a division to that theatre.

Cabinet sources said, however, that Canada under present circumstances has no intention of sending army units to Europe and that the government feels the defence program already mapped out is about all Canadians will take unless the world situation darkens.

Mr. Claxton had intended to [illegible] from Winnipeg and Banff, but flew back to Ottawa this morning with Lt.-Gen. Charles Foulkes, Chief of the General Staff, who left shortly after for New York and the vital meeting of the Pact's council.

Pearson on Way

External Affairs Minister Pearson will leave this afternoon to lead a top-line delegation that includes his deputy, Arnold Heeney, as well as Dana Wilgress, Canada's envoy in London and the man who laid the groundwork in Europe for Canada's $300,000,000 arms- for - Europe program.

Mr. Claxton's return stirred speculation about the possibilities of a meeting that, Mr. Pearson has said, will tackle the question of defining specific military obligations of the Pact nations. Mr. Pearson has also said Canada may have to do more in the military field than present war plans call for.

Despite a call from Gordon Higgins (PC-St. John's East) last night for Parliament to continue sitting until the troops-for-Europe question is clarified, there was no sign that the government intends to do so. But Prime Minister St. Laurent gave notice that the House will merely be adjourned, and that it can be recalled at any time.

90 MPH Chase Ends In Crash

ORANGEVILLE, Sept. 13 (CP) —A two-car crash climaxing a 90-mile-an-hour chase by police Tuesday night sent two Winnipeg youths to hospital here with severe injuries. Orangeville is about 35 miles northwest of Toronto.

Attendants said Ed. Chudzik, 18, is not expected to live. They described the condition of George Shaw, 17, as serious. Chudzik suffered a fractured collarbone, skull fracture and internal injuries. Shaw suffered a collarbone fracture and spinal injuries.

Robert E. McDermott of Toronto, driver of the second car, suffered minor injuries.

Police said both cars were stolen.

New 'Rocket Shower' Wrecking Red Tanks

TOKYO, Sept. 13 (Reuters).—United Nations fighters firing a new "rocket shower" make North Korean tanks "first jump up and then fall apart," an American squadron commander said here.

Map.-Gen. Earle E. Partridge, American Fifth Air Force commander, claimed that the fighters firing eight armor-piercing rockets simultaneously were destroying tanks completely.

Formerly fighters made a series of strafing runs, firing one or two rockets each time.

Liner Sails Following Short Strike

Company Reports Settlement Made "Amicably"

MONTREAL, Sept. 13—(CP)—The 20,000-ton liner Canberra slipped out of harbor early this morning with 130 passengers bound for Southampton and Cherbourg—a few hours after a noisy strike by the ship's crew had been settled "amicably."

The strike, which started Monday, involved an international incident of sorts. Although she has an Australian name, the Canberra sails under Panamanian registry, and half a dozen European nationalities are included in her 100-man crew.

The strike grew out of demands for higher wages. Main grievance was said to be that Greek crew members were paid more than Spanish, Italian and French sailors.

The Panamanian consul-general here agreed with the crew members. He said the vessel's operators violated four articles of the Panamanian Labor Code and on Tuesday he went aboard to confer with the captain and officials of the March Shipping Agency, Ltd., agents for the ship.

Police On Job

Although there was no violence connected with the strike, shipping officials twice called on the city police to send down the riot squad. Three police vans and several radio cars patrolled the piers and sheds near the ship's berth and 23 seamen were taken into custody in police wagons on the pier.

The ship's sailing was delayed when the crew Tuesday morning refused to obey orders to cast off.

Company officials would not disclose the nature of the strike settlement, except to say that it was "amicable."

Only One Ship Still Missing

HALIFAX, Sept. 13 (CP). — Only one vessel remained unaccounted for early today as a stubborn Atlantic hurricane appeared headed for sea after lashing the Nova Scotia mainland with high winds and torrential rains Tuesday.

Of the four ships reported missing along the coast during the height of the storm Tuesday, only the Sir Echo was still lost somewhere at sea today, with a crew of six.

Two of the vessels, the Afeneth and Emma Marie, made port safely at Wood's Harbor after hours of battling through mountainous seas and high winds with all hands bailing with buckets. All aboard the vessels suffered minor cuts and bruises.

Meanwhile the third ship, the Nickerson, was located early today by a United States coast guard cutter and the Canadian freighter Vagabond Prince about 50 miles west of Seal Island. It could not be learned immediately whether any of the six crew members aboard had been hurt.

The Sir Echo has not been heard from since the storm started, but search and rescue headquarters reported early today that it is believed the vessel is in the same area where the Nickerson was found.

House Speeds Its Work For Prorogation

OTTAWA, Sept. 13—(CP)—The Commons, driving towards a prorogation or adjournment which may come Thursday, is expected to vote today on two motions of non-confidence in the government.

They were introduced Tuesday by the Progressive Conservative and CCF parties as the Chamber opened debate on the stop-gap "baby" budget introduced last week to provide interim financing for Canada's expanding defence program.

The Progressive Conservative motion came from J. M. Macdonnell, opposition financial critic, and charged that the government had "failed to take effective steps to curtail non-essential expenditures and improve the general efficiency of government."

James Sinclair (L—Coast-Capilano), parliamentary assistant to Finance Minister Abbott defended the budget and said it was obvious the opposition faced the task of criticizing an accounting which was highly acceptable to the Canadian people.

Gets Final Reading

Earlier, the Chamber gave third and final reading to the Government Bill authorizing the use of controls on essential materials and services needed for the defence program.

The Senate, keeping pace with the Commons, approved the government's plans to limit consumer credit and heard Senator Salter Hayden (L-Ontario) suggest there would be more restrictions in the "very near future" if defence needs continued to drain the consumer market.

In the Commons Mr. MacDonnell introduced his motion with the statement that the government was handling the cost-of-living problem with a "feather duster" and that Moscow would smile at Canada's "complacency and self-satisfaction" in her defence preparations.

Mr. Sinclair said the government had avoided an increase in personal income taxes because it felt this would be "wrong at this time." A price control program, as suggested by the CCF, would be "doomed to failure" because the people would refuse to support it.

Apple Growers' Plight

Mr. Nowlan drew attention to the plight of Nova Scotia apple growers, now without overseas markets, and suggested the apples should be processed and shipped free, if necessary, to the depressed countries of Europe. The growers needed some advice and leadership from the Federal Government.

Mr. Gillis suggested Parliament should have enacted stand-by legislation which would have permitted Mr. Abbott to impose price controls if the cost of living went out of hand.

Mr. Cruickshank urged the government to place a 50 per cent tax "on the axle grease that is sold under the name of margarine" and said margarine should have been taxed instead of candy, chocolate bars and chewing gum. The margarine industry had put 500,000 dairy farmers out of business.

Mr. Blackmore said Canada never would accomplish what she was financially and physically capable of doing, on the basis of her wealth and natural resources, until her financial system was altered.

Regiment Revolts

TAIPEI, Formosa, Sept. 13 — (AP)—The Defence Ministry said today a regiment of Chinese Communist troops in southwest China revolted last month and joined Nationalist guerrillas. The Ministry reported the revolt occurred south of Kinming, capital of Yunnan province, a hotbed of anti-Communism.

General Says

The Naktong River and southwest fronts were relatively quiet.

In the northeast sector, the Red thrust last weekend threatened Pohang airstrip. The Communists drove a wedge five miles deep and three miles wide into the Allied line between Pohang and Angang, nine miles southwest.

"We watched the penetration and it gradually grew worse," said Davidson.

Maj.-Gen. John H. Church, commander of the trail-blazing U. S. 24th Division, sent Davidson into battle. Davidson led a flying column of South Koreans and Americans. They struck west from the Pohang area in a sweeping "end run."

A column of South Koreans already had sealed the northern gate of the mountain corridor northwest of Kyongju in which the regiment of Red troops was massed.

A series of three ridges dominated the southern pass.

When the task force arrived, South Koreans already had taken the first ridge.

Terrain Terrible.

The task force rolled on and seized the second but then found two Red battalions dug in on the bare and flinty slopes of the third.

The terrain, said Davidson, "was strictly something a billy-goat would have trouble climbing."

Davidson called for air support.

A flight of Allied planes sowed theridge with jellied gasoline fire bombs and machine-gun fire.

"They did a magnificient job," Davidson said.

The task force stormed the last ridge. The Reds broke and ran. About 150 Communists, remnants of a group of 700, were squeezed into a pocket from three sides.

"I don't know how many we killed," said Davidson. "But we did get a large quantity of personal weapons —machine-guns, rifles and burp guns."

Fled Northwest.

The Communist remnants fled to the northwest. The task force moved up the corridor in a drive to pin the Reds against the South Korean wall at the north gate.

The Reds were faced with the task of scrambling over the peaks to their own lines or running the risk of capture or death.

The Davidson manoeuvre gave a lift to the whole northeast front, which had been in desperate peril last week when the Reds drove a wide gap in Allied lines.

The Allied drives northeast of Yongchon and northwest of Kyongju marked the biggest United Nations offensive since U.S. Marines drove the Reds from the Naktong River bulge in late August.

At the high-water mark of the Red drive Sept. 1-3, the Communists twice entered Yongchon and battled to the outskirts of Kyongju.

The U.S. Eighth Army said a firm Allied line now runs 12 miles east from Yongchon.

A MacArthur spokesman said "to the best of my knowledge every entry (on the northern front) is stopped."

A South Korean regiment launched an attack in driving rain northwest of Kyongju Monday. It pushed back more than one mile the north Korean 15th Division which has lost much of its artillery in the last three days.

Major Mystery

Associated Press Correspondent Bem Price said the Red failure to exploit the break-through on the northeast front is "one of the major mysteries" of the war.

He described the U.N. situation there Sept. 3 and 4 as "desperate."

Once again the mobility of reserves under Lt.-Gen. Walton Walker's command appears to have turned Red opportunity into defeat and confusion.

But on the extreme east coast flank, the North Korean 5th division still has vigor and fire power.

Price reported heavy Red mortar and artillery fire plastered South Korean positions protecting Pohang airstrip.

An American officer said the field was "secure." Nevertheless, it remained within Red mortar range and was being used only for emergency flights to evacuate wounded.

On the Naktong river front, North Korean forces withdrew on Tuesday night from hill positions they had won Sunday 3½ miles southwest of Changnyong. An American spokesman said it is not known why the Reds withdrew. Americans had not attacked.

On the southwest front, the North Koreans threw mortar and artillery fire at U.S. 25th division lines three miles northwest of Chindong.

A British spokesman said the 27th Brigade's sector remained quiet during the last 24 hours with no change in the lines along the Naktong river southwest of Taegu.

Prices Climb Steadily On Broad Front

TORONTO, Sept. 13—(CP) — Prices climbed steadily over a broad front as the session progressed on the Toronto stock exchange today. Leading industrial stocks paced the upturn, climbing to new peak price levels.

Volume for the first three hours was 1,208,000 shares.

Gains ranged from fractions to a point over a wide list of lead industrials. The group has been held in a comparatively narrow price path in previous sessions this week following a strong advance last Friday.

Base metals chalked up a fourth successive session of advance but the climb encountered some resistance. Mild profit-taking at times reduced gains but fresh bursts of demand again boosted the list into new high average price territory. Key stocks like Consolidated Smelters, Hudson Bay, Noranda and Quemont paced the upturn.

Leading junior gold producers chalked gains ranging to 15 cents in brisk dealings. Seniors added fractions.

Rotary Clubs Operate Around World Says Governor Ferguson

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 13 — (ENS).—"Rotary, with its devotion to service, provides a common ground for some 342,000 business and professional men throughout the world, regardless of nationalities or political or religious beliefs," said Arthur R. Ferguson of Gravenhurst, Governor of District 247 of Rotary International in addressing the Campbellford Rotary Club at a luncheon early this week.

The address followed a conference with the local Rotary officers, directors and committee chairmen.

Mr. Ferguson said that Rotary Clubs in 83 countries are united to promote international understanding, goodwill and peace. Russia and Turkey, he said, are the only two countries in the world where Rotary clubs do not exist.

In the addition to the activities of Rotary's 7,100 clubs in their own communities to promote the objects of the organization, Mr. Ferguson explained that over a three year period Rotary International is spending $50,000 to create better understanding among the peoples of the different nations.

Scholarships

One of the principal ways in which this money is being spent is on Rotary Foundation Fellowships which enable outstanding graduate students to study for one year in countries other than their own, as ambassadors of goodwill. Since this program was established in 1947, 195 fellowships have been awarded to students in 35 countries with grants totalling nearly $500,000.00.

"Rotary possesses the only facilities in the world capable of exerting an influence throughout its entire surface," he said.

The speaker was introduced by past president N. Alex. MacColl, and was thanked by W. A. Kingston. Prior to his address, the Governor read the initiation charge to Rotarian Oscar Mason.

Casa Loma Story Is Told WI

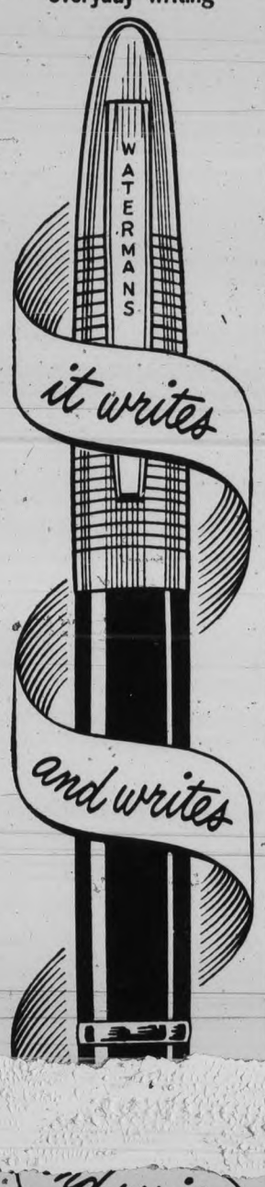
BETHANY, Sept. 13—(ENS)—The opening fall meeting of the Bethany Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Clarence Page and Mrs. J. C. Cummiskey, with Mrs. H. L. Challice presiding. Mrs. Page, who is the historical research convener for this branch gave a most interesting talk on "Casa Loma," the famous castle built in Toronto by Sir Henry Pellatt in 1911 and which is today one of the top tourist attractions on the continent. "Castles were a hobby with Sir Henry and from his many ideas and plans submitted to E. J. Lennox, the architect who built Toronto's city hall, the Castle as it stands today was finally designed and built at a cost of $1,700,000 in the 1911 era, when master carpenters worked for 35 cents an hour. It took 300 men three years to build Casa Loma. It was abandoned by its owner in 1922, his dwindling fortune making the upkeep no longer possible. For 15 years the castle was left empty and neglected . . . a white elephant, popularly known as "Pellatt's Folly." In 1934 its ownership passed into the hands of the city. Various organizations undertook to run it, but it's huge upkeep was beyond ordinary circumstances. Finally in 1937 the Kiwanis club of West Toronto undertook to run it as a tourist attraction with the understandjng that 25 per cent of the gross take would be handed over to the city. Any profits over and above expenses and the city's share would be used in the Kiwanis' work for underprivileged children. It is now known also, that for three years during the war, unknown to Toronto's citizens, even to the city council itself . . . part of Casa Loma housed a war plant. Casa Loma is paying its way. During a ten year period the Kiwanis management turned $94,000 into the city treasury and has guided more than 2,000,000 tourists from cellar to turret and through the huge stables. Apart from being a top tourist attraction, it is also open three nights a week for dancing for high school and college students. Sir Henry Pellatt died in 1939."

Mrs. T. Jennings gave a report of the 50th annual district convention held in Cavan earlier in the summer, which eight delegates had attended.

"Brighten Your Home With Color" was the District Co-operative short course chosen at that Carnival of Toronto, a guest of the evening, gave two piano selections.

During the business session it was decided to sponsor a Junior Homemakers' Club with Mrs. Mansell Finney as the leader. Mrs. Challice and Mrs. C. Page will attend the leaders' school in Bowmanville. Mrs. Hope Rayson was appointed as convener for community activities and public relations. Further fire protection was discussed for the village and it was decided to call an open meeting in the Town Hall on the evening of Monday 18 to make further plans.



The hostesses were assisted in serving lunch by Miss L. Thompson, Mrs. Wm. Phillips and Mrs. Preston Neals.

Mrs. Ona Thorndyke moved a vote oof thanks to Mrs. Page and Mrs. Cummiskey for the use of their home.

The October meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Mansell Finney.

A Philosopher Statesman

Plato's ideal of the philosopher-king has never been realised on earth; in the late Jan Christian Smuts, however, the world saw a philosopher statesman. He was a man of independent, capacious and far-ranging intelligence. He received his early education privately, and much of it was the outcome of his own wide reading; it may be wondered whether the sharp edge of his intellect was not a result of this unconventional early training. Smuts did not have to go to school with dullards, and he did not have to follow a routine devised for ordinary minds. Whatever the reason, he astonished his university when the time came for higher education, and he became one of the intellectual, as well as one of the political, leaders of the world.

• • •

His chief intellectual enthusiasm was a philosophical system called holism. No attempt can be made to outline it here; it must suffice to say that it includes a belief that any unity is something greater than the sum of its parts—that unification itself adds an extra quality. Smuts carried this belief outside the philosophic sphere into the realm of politics. The Union of South Africa realised one dream of his; the British Commonwealth of Nations was another; and it was he, as much as Woodrow Wilson, who devised the League of Nations; after the Second World War it was Smuts who was one of the principal architects of United Nations. To few men in history has it been given to make an idea a reality upon so large a scale.

• • •

Smuts' greatness, which the rest of the world has taken for granted for thirty years, was always in debate in his native Africa. He was known to thousands of his political opponents there as 'Slim Jannie'—an Afrikaans term which implies more than a little dishonesty. The Boers, from which stock he sprang, never fully trusted the man who sought to lead them to the fullest co-operation with the British. Nor did they like his attitude toward the African natives; though firm in his belief in white supremacy, Smuts was comparatively liberal toward the Negroes. But the Boers did not want unity; they wanted what Dr. Malan is now giving them—the rigorous and tyrannous and isolationist policy which they call "apartheid". When Malan defeated Smuts, he said, "This is the end of holism". Time, we believe, will show Dr. Malan to have been mistaken, but it may be decades and even centuries before that comes about.

• • •

It is not difficult to understand why Smuts, who shone so brilliantly in world politics, was often at odds with his countrymen in South Africa. He lacked the politician's art of working successfully with men who were not in full agreement with him, and if a man who disagreed with him was (in his opinion) a man of inferior intellect, Smuts might be tactless enough to say so. "I have neither tact nor patience," he said of himself; the man who hopes to carry South Africa with him needs plenty of both.

• • •

In Commonwealth matters Jan Smuts and Mackenzie King met often, and often supported one another in matters of Commonwealth policy. Externally and in temperament the two men could scarcely have been less alike, but there was a resemblance at root: both were men who came of stock which having rebelled [illegible] rule, late- of difficulties, and both desired nothing for themselves. They were of a generation of statesmen who expanded British imperial rule into a genuine Commonwealth of nations, and as they recede from us in time we shall develop a truer realization of what they were, and what we owe to them.

The Real Hub Of Ottawa

Looking through an American magazine yesterday we came upon a picture of a girl in a pretty dress, posed in front of a building which seemed familiar. We looked again and saw that it was the Dominion Parliament Building which had been used as the background for a fashion photograph. And in small type, above the picture, was this caption: "Posed before the Canadian Parliament Building which adjoins the Chateau Laurier, Ottawa, Canada."

"Which adjoins the Chateau Laurier . . . ." That certainly puts Parliament in its place.

G.B.S. And A Bad Leg

George Bernard Shaw has had several lives, which is proper to a man of his great age. Now, at 94, he has the life of an old, old man, but, we suspect, with enough spunk left in him to throw barbed words at the bone-setters who this week will attempt to repair his fractured thigh. It is often forgotten that before the turn of the century the great playwright made his living as a critic of music and drama. We give below a stray specimen of his dramatic criticism, from The Saturday Review of 1898.

Shaw had seen a performance of Romeo and Juliet given by the O.U.D.S. His sharp pen may have been whetted by the strop of his unacademic training, for he is not a graduate of either university.

"It is characteristic of the authorities at Oxford that they should consider a month too little for the preparation of a boat race, and grudge three weeks to the rehearsals of one of Shakespeare's plays. The performance of Romeo and Juliet by the Oxford University Dramatic Society naturally did not, under these circumstances, approach the level of skill attained on the Thames . . . .

"Let the members devote two nights a week all the year round to reading Elizabethan plays, and let it be a rule that no member shall be allotted a principal part without a very high average of attendance. A tradition of skill and practice in what is one of the finest of physical accomplishments will soon be established; and the O.U.D.S. will in course of time become popular as a club of artistic athletes instead of being ridiculed, as I fear it is at present, as a set of unrepresentative aesthetes . . . .

"The company was under-trained and under-rehearsed to a degree of which, I think, it had no suspicion . . . Mercutio, when illustrating Tybalt's accomplishments as a fencer, fell and put his knee out. He rose, with his knee-cap visibly in that excruciating condition, and continued his performance with undiminished dash."

Does G. B. S. now, with his own maimed leg, recall the Mercutio of Oxford of more than fifty years ago?

You Are One In Eleven

Every day, on this whirling globe, one person in every eleven receives, and presumably reads, a newspaper. You, dear reader, are one person in eleven. About 218,000,000 copies of the world's many newspapers are printed and distributed every day.

We receive these figures from UNESCO, which is deeply interested in the distribution of news. And UNESCO has also done an interesting job by discovering the ratio between the circulation of daily papers and the population of the following countries. Here are the figures:

Britain—570 copies per thousand inhabitants.
Norway—472 copies per thousand inhabitants.
Luxembourg—445 copies per thousand inhabitants.
Australia—438 copies per thousand inhabitants.
Denmark—403 copies per thousand inhabitants.
Sweden—382 copies per thousand inhabitants.
New Zealand—374 copies per thousand inhabitants.
United States—357 copies per thousand inhabitants.
Soviet Union—161 copies per thousand inhabitants.

We regret that Canada is not upon this list. However we have done some rough figuring, and estimate that Canada comes rather far down the list, with New Zealand and the U.S.A.

This is an interesting calculation. We tend to think of the press of the U.S.A. as the most widely circulated and most influential in the world. Apparently it is not so. And apparently the American people are not so eager to inform themselves of what is happening as we might suppose.

These figures do not tell the whole story, of course. It is not entirely the number of newspapers read, but the quality of those papers, which determine [illegible] are perhaps the best in the world, but neither leads in circulation by any means.

Justice's Time Out

Last week Chief Justice McRuer of the Ontario Supreme Court presiding in Peterborough County Court house, complimented the district on its lack of crime, heard the only two civil action suits, and was able to get back to Toronto days ahead of schedule. There he decided to preside at Number 3 Court, of Criminal Assizes for which Mr. Justice Schroeder was gowning himself. Mr. Justice Schroeder was given Number 2 Court, to try civil actions. Mr. Justice Schroeder and Chief Justice McRuer had some words together in private, and Mr. Justice Schroeder left court and went off to his downtown office. What a pity that the good behaviour of Peterborough county should interfere with the rendering of justice in Toronto. It's a good wind that blows nobody ill.

ON THE MARGIN:

About Criticism

BEFORE we plunge into another season of book reviewing, let us take stock of what we are trying to do. Why do we review books at all? There are literary papers and magazines which do it better; why not leave the work to them? The answer is that we feel that a newspaper ought to have an opinion on literary and artistic matters and should express it. Books are news, just as war, sport, murder and tea parties are news. A newspaper which refuses to say anything about the arts is dodging one of its responsibilities. It need not consider that its opinion is final, but it should have an opinion. What does it matter if only a few hundred of our subscribers read the book reviews? We cannot expect everything in the paper to appeal to everybody, and those who like books must be served, just as faithfully as those who like sport or teaparties. They must have their column a week, nine months of the year.

✧ ✧ ✧

WE are in a particularly happy position when it comes to writing reviews. We need not be in any special hurry, and if we do not get around to reviewing a book until it has been in the bookshops for a few weeks, what does it matter? The big literary papers are obliged to review books in a hurry, for they must be always up to the minute, or a little before it. We labour under no such obligation. The publishers who send us books receive copies of our reviews, and in the course of time we presume that these copies reach the authors, but we do not suppose that the authors attach much importance to them. We are free to say what we like, for our word will neither damn a book nor make its fortune. We can afford the supreme luxury of an honest opinion.

✧ ✧ ✧

FRANKLY, we feel that too much importance is attached to the opinions of book reviewers. Who are they, after all? Some of them are people like ourselves, who like books and read a good many of them, but who do not pretend to weighty judgement. If we say to a man in private conversation that a book is good or bad, we do not expect him to swallow our opinion whole, and make it his own. Why should our opinion, set down in print, carry any more weight? The people who contribute to this column are people of experience as readers, and people with reasonably good taste. That is all.

✧ ✧ ✧

WE do not, of course, earn our bread as critics. It is the people who do so who exalt criticism to the skies. We think that these professional critics are rather dangerous folk. They are constantly—whether they realize it or not—engaged in the impossible task of trying to make critics more important than creators. Now a great critic is a very great man. His word carries weight because he has special qualities of appreciation which are very rare and constitute in themselves a kind of genius. His praise is precious, and he has the ability to call forth better work from a writer than the writer thought himself capable of doing. But critics of this stamp are rare. There are not more than half a dozen of them on this continent at present.

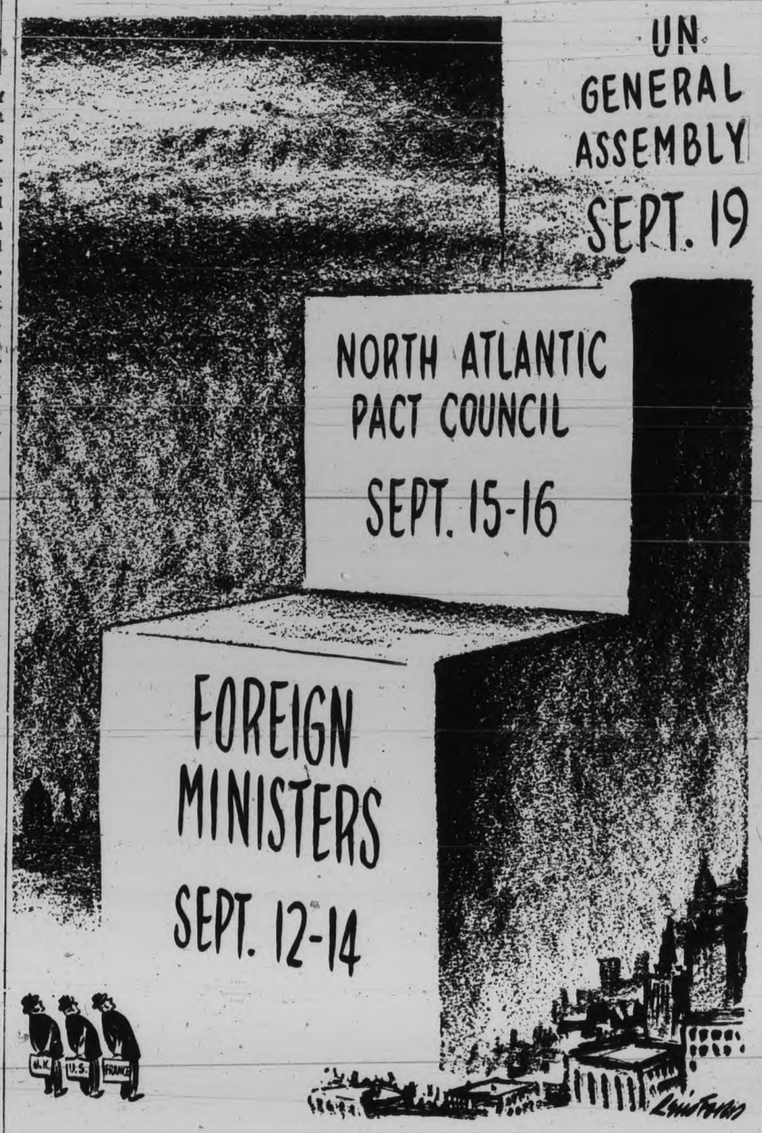
✧ ✧ ✧

WHAT about the others? Well — at best they are honest men and women, expressing honest opinions; at worst they are envious, needy hacks, who eke out a living by passing judgement upon the creations of their betters. Many of them have axes to grind and all of them have reputations to make and maintain. The easiest way for a critic to make a reputation is to be hard to please; so long as he can find some fault in the work of a writer he can continue to feel superior to that writer. It does not matter if the critic is himself a wholly uncreative, dry, barren creature; so long as he can find flaws in the work of others he can gather about him some tattered rags of superiority. And he is tempted to look upon books as critic-fodder, rather than as works of possible merit.

✧ ✧ ✧

THIS is not written to discredit criticism, but to put it in perspective. It is a sheepish public which has made some modern critics what they are. There are, unhappily, considerable numbers of people who wish to seem acquainted with current literature, but who will not take the time to read it and form opinions of their own. Canada has its full share of this reach-me-down intellectualism. Such people do not read books; they read reviews. And the knowledge that great numbers of such people exist tempts every critic to play the role of dictator, and to strive to make and break reputations.

✧ ✧ ✧



IN this column there will be no such striving. We know ourselves for what we are—newspaper reviewers, whose opinions carry no more [illegible] those of any of our bet- many another critic cannot—we can afford to enjoy a book now and then without fearing that we shall fall off our critical perch by doing so. And in this spirit of carefree humility and independence we embark upon another season of agreeable, leisurely work which we hope will also give some weekly pleasure to our readers.

Warning

(Bennett Cerf in The Saturday Review)

A nine-year-old girl became so enamored of adventure tales and tabloids that she neglected everything to concentrate on reading. Her room became an unholy mess, and all of her mother's exhortations fell on deaf ears. One afternoon, however, the mother returned home to find her daughter's room as spic-and-span as the operating theatre of a big hospital. Not one thing was out of place. "How wonderful!" she exclaimed. "What got into you?" "I've realized how important housework is," the daughter informed her. "I read in the paper where two ladies got a year apiece in jail—just for keeping a disorderly house."

BIG THREE

A Warrior of Peace

(By THOMAS JONES, C.H.)

(From 1916 to 1930 Assistant and later Deputy Secretary to the British Cabinet)

"PERSONALITY is the great signpost of the universe" wrote General Smuts in his book on Holism and Evolution. "It is the key and measure of all things. It is 'the whole' of our most intimate experience." This was the first draft of his life's teaching as set out in an early essay on Whitman which George Meredith rejected when reader for Chapman and Hall in 1895. It has never been published. Smuts saw the world as an ascending hierachy of wholes, from the atom to the person. He suggested Personology as a name for the science of biography but neither it nor Holism caught public favour.

✧ ✧ ✧

SMUTS was himself a shining example of the subject of his own study. If Botha was the more massive character, gifted with intuition, radiating goodness, Hertzog a man of feeling, steeped in farming and Dutch conservatism, Smuts was a man of reason, liberal outlook and ready tongue. He had an alert flexible intellect, trained at Cambridge in his early twenties by Maitland, the legal historian, and by Sidgwick, the analytical philosopher. Starting as Attorney-General he soon displayed a Churchillian versatility in numerous ministerial offices. He trekked over the plains with his commando reading the Greek New Testament and the works of Kant in the intervals of guerrilla fighting, and after three years of conflict he and Botha met Kitchener and Milner at Vereeniging in 1902 and made the great compromise with the English.

HENCEFORWARD Botha led in the task of healing the two peoples, in removing bitterness, in promoting bilingualism and a common patriotism. Smuts quickly came into line and for the rest of his life he stood for racial conciliation and union in South Africa, for the trusteeship of the natives and the advancement of their health and education, for loyalty to the King of England, within the British Empire, as an alliance of free States. He lived to be acclaimed an Elder Statesman, to be appointed to the Order of Merit, to preside over the University of Cambridge to be an outstanding figure in committee which settled departmental war priorities. He was a first-rate chairman of Cabinet Committees—patient as a rule, courteous always, clear-headed and decisive. In the Cabinet Policy Committee of 1917 Smuts sided with Haig and Robertson as against Milner and Bonar Law.

He was offered and refused the Palestine Command but visited Allenby to discuss his campaign in February, 1918. He became, in fact, the Prime Minister's emissary-in-chief. He was frequently in France. He was sent to South Wales to settle a miner's strike, and, after an auto-intoxication of choral singing he told his audience that the trenches were as much in Tonypandy as in France; they agreed, and went back to work. Smuts paid a secret visit to the Republican leaders in Dublin in July, 1922, and it was he who had drafted the appeal to Irishmen which King George V made on June 22 when opening the first session of the Parliament in Belfast. On July 10 Generals Macready and Mulcahy signed a formal truce.

The World War ended suddenly in 1918. Botha and Smuts were again together at the Paris peacemaking. Smuts condemned the Treaty of Versailles as too harsh to the Germans. He pleaded with President Wilson and Lloyd George. "Human goodwill appeared unequal to its task." Lloyd George hit back. Was Smuts prepared to allow German South-West Africa and German East Africa to be returned to Germany? Was he prepared to forgo the claims for pensions and separation allowances which Smuts had induced Wilson to insert in the reparations bill sent to the Germans?

Smuts's greatest service was the founding of the League of Nations with Cecil and Wilson. He presided over the committee which framed the mandate provisions of the Covenant. When the time came to table the proposals excitement was at fever-pitch, but so tactfully modest was Smuts, so apologetic for the "poor production" and yet so firm against disturbing one jot or tittle of the draft, that his appeal for "prayerful consideration" succeeded.

✧ ✧ ✧

AT the close of the second war it was he who was entrusted at San Francisco in [illegible] labours for local unity and world peace he enjoyed more respect than affection or gratitude. His country is riven with races, factions and hatreds. Smuts found his match in Gandhi. It is not many years since he was publicly hooted, when, as Lloyd George with Wales, he had to protest that South Africa was not too small for him. His towering personality and ability, his superiority wounded the vanity of surrounding mediocrities. It may be some time before his real greatness is appreciated within his native country as it is without.

SUSPICIOUS

The young wife was heartbroken.

"What's the matter?" asked a friend.

"Oh, my husband is so absent-minded. After breakfast he left a tip on the table, and when I handed him his hat he gave me another tip."

"Well, that's nothing to worry about. Just force of habit."

"That's what worries me. He kissed me when I gave him his overcoat."

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Thus saith the Lord, Cursed be the man that trusteth in man, and maketh flesh his arm, and whose heart departeth from the Lord . . . Blessed is the man that trusteth in the Lord, and whose hope the Lord is . . . .

O Lord, the hope of Israel, all that forsake thee shall be ashamed, and they that depart from me shall be written in the earth, because they have forsaken the Lord, the fountain of living waters. Heal me, O Lord, and I shall be healed; save me, and I shall be saved: for thou art my praise.

Behold, they say unto me, Where is the word of the Lord? let it come now. (Jer. 17: 5, 7, 13-15.)

✧ ✧ ✧

And it came to pass, when he was in a certain city, behold a man full of leprosy: who seeing Jesus fell on his face, and besought him, saying, Lord, if thou wilt, thou canst make me clean. And he put forth his hand, and touched him, saying, I will; be thou clean. And immediately the leprosy departed from him . . . .

And it came to pass on a certain day, as he was teaching, that there were Pharisees and doctors of the law sitting by, which were come out of every town of Galilee, and Judaea, and Jerusalem: and the power of the Lord was present to heal them. (Luke 5: 12, 13, 17.)

Unconsidered Trifles

Teacher—Haven't you finished washing that blackboard?

Betty—The more I wash it, the blacker it gets!

✧ ✧ ✧

Boss—What are you doing here I thought I fired you weeks ago?

Office Boy—I know. I just came back to see if you were still in business.

✧ ✧ ✧

"Why are you here again?" asked the prison chaplain.

"Because of my belief," replied the convict.

"Your belief?"

"I believed the policeman had gone."

✧ ✧ ✧

"What an interesting mountain. There must be stories about it."

"Sure are. Once two people went up there and never came back."

"Goodness! What happened?"

"Went down the other side."

✧ ✧ ✧

Entering a chemist's shop a girl asked how to take a dose of castor oil without tasting it. The assistant said he would look up some suggestions, but meanwhile would the young lady like to try a new lemonade powder they had just got in. The young lady would, and when the glass was finished the assistant asked, with a smile: "Well, did you taste it?"

"Good Heavens!" gasped the girl. "Was the castor oil in that lemonade? I wanted it for my small brother."

✧ ✧ ✧

Two bitter rivals were playing in the finals of their country club golf championship. One of them talked constantly as they played their match, much to the annoyance of his opponent. Finally the latter burst out: "Look here, Smithers, if you don't stop your infernal chatter, I'm going to hit you over the head with my mashie."

"Go ahead," replied Smithers, "but if you do, it'll cost you a stroke."

[illegible] to change their designation to "racehorse researchers," and to form a protective professional body to be known as the Honourable Democratic and Peace-Loving Union of All-Japan Racehorse Researchers.

"We propose to raise the dignity of our profession, which is highly skilled and essential to the profitable conduct of the great democratic sport of horse racing," said Mr. Inoga, a editor of the Tokyo racing sheet, "Sincere Advice on Current Racehorse Performances." He is president of the H.D.P.U.A.J.R.R.

"In this manner and with the great strength that comes from unity and a good cause we can better hope to prevail against the government's vicious Fascist move to abolish our livelihood and perhaps force us into other and less desirable forms of employment."

A government spokesman angrily declared: "Whatever they choose to call themselves, these rogues and parasites must go. At least two Cabinet Ministers have told me that they lost heavily this year following the lying and misleading propaganda in "Sincere Advice on Current Racehorse Performances."

Suddenly All Signs Speak Other Tongue. Vive Quebec!

By JACK SCOTT

QUEBEC CITY, Que.—Suddenly all the signs along the highway are speaking in another tongue.

Ne stationnez pas sur le pavage. Arretez! Biere et vin. Traverse du chemin de fer! Lentement! Legumes a vendre. Creme glacees. Repas legar. Guardez le droit! Chambre et pension. Buvez Coca-Cola.

Well, you didn't expect them to be in Hindustani. But still you're not prepared to find French Canada so very French. If you are coming this way by motor for the first time you feel as if you've passed a frontier into a foreign land and this inevitably sharpens your response to atmosphere.

The 300-odd miles today from Ottawa here to fabulous Quebec—down the Ottawa Valley, paling with autumn, and around the rim of Montreal and on down the north bank of the broad St. Lawrence—has been by far the most stimulating hop in our coast-to-coast grass-hoppering.

To come suddenly around a bend and see ahead of you the high white hulk of a freighter steaming up river past squat lighthouses, to look down in a rolling green valley at villages so reminiscent of the real France with silver spires standing in thick foliage, to see so much activity along the borders of the road, after thousands of miles of an apparently empty land—all this (and a suddenly bilingual car radio) is a travellers' tonic.

You lightly ponder the age-old arguments of "French" versus "English" Canada and on the evidence of mood alone favor history with a happy nod. Unity, hell. Vive la difference!

Wedding Bells

We had a late start from Ottawa, perhaps because we felt a reluctance about leaving. No city of myac quaintance, except possibly Paris, reacts as girlishly to a crisp, early autumn day as the capital and, rolling past the Parliament buildings, we felt bound to pause for a last lingering look.

Then across the bridge and through the red brick town of Hull (no longer the Casbah of Ottawa since Ontario introduced its cocktail bars) and then we were truly in Quebec.

It was Saturday and it seemed that half of French Canada was being married. In our first hundred miles we passed a dozen wedding parties, the cars bedecked with white ribbons and with heavy hands on their klaxons. In many cases they were disobeying the signs and definitely "stationnez sur le pavage," toasting the bride or groom in beer from green bottles and waving gaily at the passers-by.

For us it was a delight to see so much animation and vitality along the way.

On we rolled through the tall corn fields, past the white crosses standing on the shoulders of the road, swinging north into the furry green foothills of the Laurentians, then down by the river where a half dozen cars stood up to their running boards in the St. Lawrence, like cattle, while their owners washed them, now climbing through the narrow streets of a town.

These towns are a constant delight since the highway narrows through them, as it must, and the traveller gets a close-up of people living as he does nowhere else in Canada.

The low, open porches of ancient, orderly houses are like orchestra seats virtually overhanging the pavement and the driver passes through rows of spectators answering stare for curious stare until his car squirts out the other side into open country again.

In such a dash you come no nearer to getting a real feeling for French Canada than you would in an aircraft, but it will leave an affection that is the basis of friendship.

On A Ledge

We're parked tonight at Ste. Foy, just a couple of miles outside of Quebec and looking across a long valley in which the lights of five small towns are twinkling.

It was dark when we arrived and the proprietor of the auto camp we selected spoke about as much English as we speak of his language. I could tell the fellow I was feeling very well in the garden of my aunt, but when it came to a discussion about finding a place for the trailer we had nothing between us but good will.

After much hilarious talk and sign language he got us down on a small ledge of grass overhanging the valley, but with absolutely no way of ever getting out short of turning the caravan about by hand. Still it is so pleasant to be here and to know that the wonders of Quebec are waiting to be explored. I will cross that bridge when we come to it.

Ah, Quebec! Ah, biere et vin! Ce'st la vie!

Dynamite Blast Kills 8 Workers

ELDRED, Pa., Sept. 13. (AP)—A mighty dynamite explosion which splintered a building at the National Powder Co. Tuesday, killed eight men and rocked homes for miles around.

Some of the victims were blown to bits as the blast destroyed a steel and frame house where dynamite and nitroglycerine are mixed. The coroner's office reported difficulty in identifying bodies and withheld names until relatives had been notified.

Five or six other employees suffered slight injuries which were treated at the scene while armed guards kept newspapermen and photographers off the plant property.

Residents 10 miles away heard the booming explosion. Windows were shattered within a two-mile radius.

Everybody knew at once what had happened. This little community near the New York border in Northwestern Pennsylvania is ever conscious of the powder plant danger. National Powder is the town's biggest industry and employs 65 of its 2,000 inhabitants. Blasts there in 1939 and 1944 killed several workers.

"We have no idea what caused the explosion," said company Secretary T. T. Cook.

Eject 3 Distributors

MONTREAL, Sept. 13—(CP)—Three distributors of mimeographed pamphlets from the Canadian Peace Congress were ejected Tuesday from a ninth-floor hotel corridor by officials of the Trades and Labor Congress The three—two women and a man—were seen passing out the pamphlets calling for banning of the A-bomb and asking labor to "join in rescuing Canada from involvement in war."

Night courses in advertising start October 3rd at the University of Toronto. There are 20 lectures—one a week. Fees are $12.00.

DINNER MENU—"Can you suggest a dinner menu for a hundred men and the cost? Our church is serving dinner to one of our young men's clubs. We do not expect a profit but do want to make our expenses. What should we serve? What should we charge?"

Here is a menu we think the men will enjoy. Tomato or apple juice, crackers, braised short ribs of beef, oven browned potatoes, buttered squash, tossed salad, rolls, lemon chiffon pie, tea, coffee.

Cost of food will average about 63 cents a plate. Why not charge 75 cents per plate so that you will have a little extra for flowers, napkins, etc.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

With our senior lacrossers off to Owen Sound for a do-or-die struggle, the good wishes of their several thousand followers go, too. Win or lose, they gave many fans some fine gutted-stick action here this past summer. Though they lost in Civic Arena the other eve, they weren't disgraced. Nor did the fans ride the refs. They apparently like Joe Murphy and Lou Vipond better than any other OLA officials. Odd how time changes things. We can well recall when Lou—scrappiest of the three Vipond brothers of Whitby—was a hated opponent here in hockey and lacrosse. A good player but he'd swing fists at the drop of a syllable. And now Peterborough players and folks like the guy!

* * * * * *

Red Creighton, the Vitarelli boys and others had many a fight with Lou and his brothers, who played for Whitby, Oshawa and Toronto teams up until a few years ago. And we recall a scrap several winters ago in the crowded penalty box of the Omemee rink betwixt Lou and Honey Tompkins. Chased for roughing it, Lou accused Honey in the box of starting trouble and then acting innocent. Honey replied: "You don't win games in the penalty box." That did it—Lou swung and they mixed hard while the timers and your scorer duck violently away from fists and skates. Other players arrived to break it up. Once a stormy figure, Lou is now a sedate ref penalizing players for rough stuff. Ah, time

Hockey Not Afar Off

Speaking of hockey, the junior "B" Oddfellows are getting reorganized, the senior "B" Petes are making big plans, and the ex-Legionnaires are doing ditto. Manager Bob Parnell repeats: "Sponsor or not, we'll be back in OHA senior 'B' play this winter and we'll ice a winning team again in the group." They're still dickering over sponsorship and checking on equipment, but want to assure their followers that they'll be back as a unit, though with some lineup changes. Meantime, they're running a dance at the Aragon a week from this Friday as a start toward financing the club. Senior "B" hockey costs money.

* * * * * *

Coach Harv Bamforth of the Orfuns in ORFU senior "B" play feels he has a better club now than the senior "A" Orfuns he handled in '39. And we think the present grouping is nearly as strong as that "A" setup just before the war. Every club has bolstered plenty and the grid game in Canada has improved a whale of a lot in the last decade. The Big Four now is really terrific, with the best USA pros available. This leaves top Canuck talent getting "seasoning and conditioning" in senior "B" ranks. Peterborough has been fortunate in obtaining eight fine players from Rough Riders, as well as having some nifty home huskies. They open against Oshawa Raiders here Friday night.

Mutuals Come Through

While our other Orphans—of the softballic variety—were being eliminated 17-2 in OASA junior play last night at Oshawa, the local Mutuals came back to knock out New Toronto 5-1 in two straight. That's in OASA intermediate "A" playdowns, perhaps the quarter-finals. George Hunter hurled a nifty number and had fine support afield and at bat. Menzies, Pryde, Crowe, Dalton and Leether led the stickers against two twirlers. New Toronto apparently protested the game here last Saturday as they figured the pitching distance wasn't right, but no more has been heard of that. Nothing yet on the resumption of the city finals. Oshawa claims East City defaulted to Pedlars and should pay all expenses.

* * * * * *

Puck rumors persist in popping up here to indicate colder weather ahead. Rotary are bringing in Toronto Maple Leafs on Oct. 6 with proceeds going to help crippled children of the city and district. And Dit Clapper is having the Boston Bruins come here on Oct. 12 with money raised going to the Peterborough Minor Hockey Association. Good stuff, and folks will see these NHL-ers really hustling as they're out to clinch high-paying jobs early. Baldy Cotton was in town the other day and remarked that Ray Douglas looked pretty fair in the Bruins' workout camp at Barrie. Percy Kilingbeck has been lining up a pre-season city and district puck loop to go at Civic Arena. So, the hockey season rapidly approaches.

Midgets Beaten In First By Green Gaels

Dootch Vitarelli's midget lacrosse squad lost the opener of the quarter-finals at Miller Bowl, last night, to West Toronto's Green Gaels before a small crowd who nevertheless enjoyed the lively though one-sided struggle. Final score was 23-7 for the Gaels. The return game of the home-and-home series, goals to count, will be played in Toronto, possibly Saturday at the Sunnyside Bowl.

Art Batley scored for Peterborough at the one minute mark in the first as the teams started on fairly even terms but Gaels came back with four, though the period was pretty even at that.

Toronto boys, a heavier and more experienced team, came much stronger in the second to outscore the Vitarelli boys 7-2, though the latter fought hard and peppered Green from every angle. The latter played brilliantly all through and was the big thorn in the side of the locals The team as a whole worked well both ways. Dennie Mackintosh with seven points was the big sticker for Gaels while Ludlow, Murphy, Petroff, Cunningham and Morgan with the Chase Brothers were all good.

The Peterborough boys far from disgraced despite the score, all tried hard and Art Batley, Bob Delahay, Lionel Bloom, John Cupoli, the Hobart boys, "Tiny" Hunt, Bob Allen and Laverne Jones were outstanding in defeat.

Toronto: Goal, Green; defence, Murphy, Smith; centre, Mackintosh; wings, McGee, Ludlow; rover, Morgan; Alt. P. Chase, D. Chase, Petroff, Barclay, Cun-Davenport.

Peterborough: Goal, Chapman; defence, Cupoli, Delahay; centre, Batley; wings, Allan, B. Hobart; rover, Bloom; alt. Hunt, Muffen, Jones, Scriver, Sutherland, J. Hobart, Kearns, Simmons.

Referees: Bun Hill, George Sandford.

WHEN McGILL OPENS its football schedule against the powerful Sarnia Imperials in Montreal on September 23, they will be looking at fellows like the above. Seen about to crash through the opposition is big Ken Wagner, hard-charging fullback of the Redmen. Doing the blocking are Ron Sharpe, left, star of last year's club and Tom Keliher, highly rated newcomer from the intermediates.

Riot Takes Place In Mexican Ball Game

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 13 (AP) —The foreign players in Mexico's major baseball league Tuesday night defeated the Mexican players 12-6 in the annual all-star game.

The game was called after the first half of the eighth inning when irate fans invaded the field in one of the most riotous scenes in Mexican baseball history. The park management said fans unable to buy tickets broke down the gates to the field and rushed in. The fans said more tickets were sold than there was space in the stands.

Mutuals Grab 5-1 Win For The Series

The Peterborough Mutuals downed New Toronto 5-1 at Islington Park, last night, to take their OASA intermediate "A" playdown series (possibly the quarter-finals) in two straight games. A total of 13 hits by them along with six New Toronto miscues proved more than enough as the Russelle squad had fine hurling. George Hunter pitched six-hit ball and fanned seven, being superb in the pinches. He also had almost perfect support from his mates.

Venner lasted till out in the eighth inning on the New Toronto slab, though bingled freely, with Natawary finishing up. Al Menzies, Bob Crowe, Phil Pryde, Howie Dalton and Reg Leether each had two safe hits for the winners, the latter getting a triple. Coon was tops for the losers with three blows, one a double. He also played a good defensive game.

There was some talk, last night, of New Toronto having protested the game they lost Saturday in Peterborough, claiming the diamond measurements were not correct. Nothing further has been heard of this matter from the OASA.

Orphans Drop Series In OASA Play

The powerful Oshawa junior squad defeated the Peterborough Orphans 17-6 in the Motor City last night to sweep their OASA junior "A" playdown series in two straight games. They had won earlier in Peterborough by an impressive score, and now continue along the provincial playdown path, while the Orphans are finished for this season.

The winners last night collected 16 safe blows, including five homers—two by Myles—and had but one error while Orphans were held to eight safe blows (Hall and Thompson getting two each) as they booted four. They got two runs in the first and one each in the third, fourth, fifth and sixth. Oshawa tallied five in the first, three each in the next two heats, four in the fourth and two in the sixth. Teams:

Orphans: Thompson, 3b; Evans, 2b; Bigford, 1b, p; Floyd, cf; Hall, p, 1b; McGrath, c; Casey, ss; Sullivan, lf; Pammett, rf.

By The Canadian Press

The Battle of Broda's Bulge — one of the sideshows of the last National Hockey League season—is on again and this time there's money involved.

Last winter, pudgy Walter (Turk) Broda, Toronto Maple Leafs' goaltender, was benched by managing director Conn Smythe with orders to get his weight down if he wanted his job back. The Turk reduced his poundage after missing one game and returned to the lineup.

This year, the Brandon, Man., veteran's semi-monthly pay cheque will depend on his avoirdupois. Before reaching for his pay, Turk will step on the scales. If he weighs 190 pounds, his contract, signed Tuesday, stipulates that he's receive an unannounced amount.

For every excess pound above 190, the Turk will lose $1. If he can get under the weight, he'll get $1 extra a pound.

A comparatively-svelte 194¾ compared with last year's pre-season poundage of 201, Broda announced Tuesday that he'd be down to 190 before the Leafs report at their St. Catharines training camp Sunday.

William Aytok of Skytop, Pa., competing in his first tournament for blind golfers, was an upset-winner of the Canadian championship in Hamilton Tuesday.

He carded an 18-hole total of 106 to edge Charles Bobswell of Birmingham, Ala., the United States champion and pre-tournament favorite, by one stroke.

Dr. W. H. J. Oxenham of Toronto carded a 70-58 for 128. Canada's best showing was made by Phillip E. Ledderhouse of Prince Albert, Sask., who put together nines of 59 and 63 for a total of 122.

The field of 13 play another 18 holes today and the international championship will be decided by the lowest 36-hole total.

Philadelphia Phillies have called up three pitchers from their Toronto farm club in the International League.

Reporting to manager Eddie Sawyer were right handers Jack Brittin and Paul Stuffel and southpaw Jock Thompson.

The National Boxing Association has cleared the way for Sugar Ray Robinson to get a shot at the middleweight championship within six months.

Reversing its vote Monday to nullify a return bout contract, the N.B.A. convention at Detroit agreed to permit Laurent Dauthuille of France or champion Jake Lamotta to fight Robinson after a return bout. Such a return bout will be held only if Dauthuille upsets favored Lamotta in tonight's title fight at the Olympia Stadium.

Lamotta already had agreed in a signed contract with the International Boxing Club to face Robinson at Chicago Stadium during the second week of February if he still is champion.

Smarting For Revenge Indians Clout Yanks 8-7

By RALPH RODEN,
Associated Sports Writer.

With Luke Easter as the ringleader, the smarting Cleveland Indians are moving back into the American League pennant race in the role of "spoilers."

Knocked out of contention and blasted by their bosses, the Indians are out to redeem themselves at the expense of the three remaining contenders — Boston, New York and Detroit.

They began to reap revenge on Tuesday night by defeating New York Yankees 8-7 on a dramatic three-run homer by Easter in the ninth inning.

The defeat sent the Yankees reeling into second place, half a game back of Detroit Tigers, who scored a 3-2 afternoon triumph over Washington Senators.

Cleveland has one more game with the Yanks, six with the Tigers and two with the third-place Boston Red Sox. The Red Sox, still moving relentlessly forward, climbed within a game of the lead by edging Chicago White Sox 2-1.

"Stuped Baseball"

The Indians brought the wrath of their general manager, Hank Greenberg, down on their heads by losing five straight games, including four to the lowly St. Louis Browns. He said they played "stupid baseball."

For a while Tuesday night it appeared that the Indians' losing string would extend to six games.

Home runs in the first two innings by Joe DiMaggio, Phil Rizzuto and Yogi Berra shot the Yanks off to a 6-0 lead. The Indians began their comeback with a run in the second against Allie Reynolds. Larry Doby cut the disadvantage to 6-3 with a two-run homer in the third and Easter socked his 23rd to shave the deficit to 6-4 by the end of the fifth Steve Gromek was touched for a run in the eighth and it appeared that the Yanks had the game in the bag when Jim Hegan grounded out to open the Cleveland ninth.

Blows Up

But Reynolds, who had allowed only four hits, then blew up and walked the next two batters and was hurriedly lifted for relief ace Tom Ferrick. Bob Kennedy greeted Ferrick with a run-scoring double. Doby struck out, but Easter then slammed Ferrick's first pitch over the right field fence to break up the game.

The Tigers had rough sledding before squashing the Senators. Old Diz Trout went all the way for the Bengals and permitted eight hits, while his mates collected only five off Gene Bearden and Mickey Harris.

Lefty Mel Parnell turned in a neat five-hitter in recording his 16th victory and eighth straight for the Red Sox under the lights in Chicago. The Sox now have won 24 out of their last 27 games

The Browns, behind the three-hit pitching of Al Widmar, blanked Philadelphia Athletics 6-0 in the other American League game

Move Step Closer

In the National League, Philadelphia Phillies moved a step closer towards the pennant by nosing out St. Louis Cardinals 1-0 behind the five-hit pitching of Robin Roberts, who attained his 19th victory. The Cards' Max Lanier surrendered only three hits but one was a fifth-inning homer by Andy Seminick who celebrated his 30th birthday.

The victory kept the Phils 6½ games ahead of the runner-up Brooklyn Dodgers, who collected only one hit in beating Ewell Blackwell and the Cincinnati Reds 3-1. Blackwell lost the game in the eighth inning when he hit a batter, committed an error and wild pitched home a run that broke a 1-1 tie.

New York Giants came up with another well-pitched game as Sheldon Jones blanked Pittsburgh Parites 3-0. The shutout was the 17th turned in by the Giant staff this year.

The Jones triumph moved the Giants to within half a game of the third-place Boston Braves who dropped a 3-1 night game decision to Bob Rush and the Chicago Cubs

Home, School Association Learns Vocational Guidance

MILLBROOK, Sept. 13 (ENS). —The first meeting of Millbrook Home and School Association since its organization last spring was held in the school Monday evening, with almost 90 present. The public had been invited to see the classrooms for the first time since their redecoration in pastel shades during the summer vacation. The pupils had brought baskets of gladioli, asters and zinnias for the occasion. Each teacher was in his or her own room to receive the visitors at 7:30 before the meeting commenced at 8 o'clock.

Howard Moebus of Peterborough, director of vocational guidance at the Collegiate was the special speaker. He told of the work he and five counsellors who help him do to assist students in choosing their life work. He stated that by the use of tests it was possible to determine a pupil's IQ, his mechanical ability, and to judge his personality quotient. The one thing which it was not possible to determine was his dynamo, or driving power. They were able by their records of progress and tests to help students decide in which line of work they would be more happy and successful.

Mr. Moebus was introduced by the Rev. A. A. Chote and Dr. M. E. Hobbs moved a vote of thanks.

Reg. Polen, pulse of Peterborough, sang a group of tenor solos, accompanied at the piano by George Ingham.

Mrs. Henry Gray, publications convener, gave a brief talk on the literature to be found on the display table arranged by her committee.

Mrs. Ed Nattress, secretary, read the minutes of the organization reported that at a committee meeting held last week it was decided to hold a fall tea in the school October 21. At this tea there will be also a home baking table, under the care of Mrs. H. Perkin, a children's fish pond supervised by Mrs. M. E. Hobbs. A children's fashion show has also been suggested. Mrs. Guy MacKay wil be in charge of the decorations.

At the close of the meeting, Mrs. S. Snelgrove, the treasurer, received fees from 19 new members.

Mrs. Henry Gray's Room, the Primary, received the prize for having the most parents present.

The next meeting is to be held on October 16, instead of the second Monday of the month, the regular day, because of Thanksgiving Day.

Plan Plebiscite

SAULT STE. MARIE, Sept. 13 (CP) — City Council decided Tuesday to hold a Sunday sports plebiscite in conjunction with the next municipal election. City council several times previously had turned down motions that the question of Sunday sports be put to the electorate.

Jersey City Nips Red Wings 5-4, Royals Clipped

By The Associated Press.

Jersey City Giants and Baltimore Orioles have drawn first blood in the International League's semi-final playoffs.

Manager Joe Becker's underdog Giants nipped the pennant-winning Rochester Red Wings 5-4, and the Orioles clipped Montreal Royals 6-2 last night in the opening games of best-of-seven series.

The Giants used four pitchers to stop the Red Wings, 10-7 favorites to take the series. A Rochester crowd of 7,688 watched the Giants choke off repeated late-inning rallies after taking a 4-3 lead with two runs in the seventh.

Veteran righthander Russ Bauers limited the Royals to three hits before 4,371 fans at Baltimore. The crowd was held down because of a threat of rain

The Orioles nicked Omar (Turk) Lown for single runs in the third and fourth innings. After the Royals tied it up with two in the sixth, the Orioles locked up the decision with four in the last of the sixth. Clyde Kluttz drove in three runs on a pair of singles to lead Baltimore's eight-hit attack.

Ralph Wood Honored Moving To England

BETHANY, Sept. 13 (ENS)—At the close of the Sunday evening service, members of St. Paul's choir and congregation gathered to say farewell to Ralph Wood and to present him with a steamer rug and a pipe.

Robert Reid, warden of the church, read the address. Roy Jarvis presented the rug and Miss Laura Morton the pipe.

Mr. Wood has been a member of the choir and taken an active part in the work of the church since he and his wife moved here from Newfoundland several years ago.

On the previous Thursday, Mrs. Wood was presented with a life membership in the Women's Auxiliary.

Mr. and Mrs. Wood are leaving for England this week, making the trip by plane, and will make their home with their two daughters, who have been there for some time.

They leave four sons on this continent: Rupert and Noel in Bethany; John in New York and Rev. Shirley Wood at Thornhill.

Hastings Beaten

HASTINGS, Sept. 13—(ENS)—in the first game of the TVL semi-finals, played at Trenton, Trenton Chevs spotted Hastings Legion seven runs in two innings, then came back to take a 13-7 verdict. It was a loosely played game, with the breeze off Lake Ontario making it seem more like hockey weather.

Crawley was on the mound for Hastings and started off in fine style, but his support let him down time after time when the chips were down.

Farr twirled for Chevs, and after a hectic two innings, settled away, and set the Legion batters down in monotonous style. Beavis pulled off the play of the night, going into centre field to take a ball and rifling it to first for a double-play. Next game is slated for Hastings Wednesday under the lights.

Legion—Fife rf, Spencer cf, Mackness 1b, Beavis ss, Scott c, Crawley p, Scriver 2b, Phillips lf, Morrow 3b. Richardson batted for Morrow in 9th.

Chevs—Istead rf, Flynn 2b, L. Istead cf, Scott ss, Carswell cf, Curtis 3b, Jeffrey lf, Farr p, Whitley c.

176 Pupils Enrol In Havelock

HAVELOCK, Sept. 13 (ENS)—Principal R. D. Buchanan reported an enrollment of 176 pupils in the public school in his report to the Board of Education at their meeting on Monday night. This was an increase of 23 over last June.

Three pupils, he said, had been promoted from grade IV to grade V.

The public school field day will be held on October 4 and the Board made a grant of $10 for prizes.

Mr. Buchanan also made a request for a grant for the library and the board made a donation of $50 for this purpose.

Caretaker S. Southward reported the arrival of the car of coal and also listed repairs required on the property.

The truant officer gave his report for June as follows: total enrollment 153; actual aggregate attendance 3,068; perfect aggregate attendance 3,326; percentage of actual to perfect aggregate 92.24; lost days 258. The school was open 20 days during the month.

Accounts totalling $2,035 were passed. This included a payment of $500 on the contract for wiring the school.

gerial board, said the Frenchman would post a $10,000 bond to guarantee a Robinson fight.

The Japanese government has decided to ban cycle racing a sport which has caused nearly 30 serious riots since it was introduced into Japan only a year ago.

Immediate cause of the ban was last week's riot at Naruo race track, near Kobe. Police shot and killed one spectator and rioters severely injured a policeman and three girl ticket sellers when fans who thought a race had been fixed stormed the ticket window.

Ever hear of women boxing? Well they did in West Virginia and want no more.

At the request of the West Virginia Athletic Commission, the National Boxing Association at Detroit Tuesday recommended a ban on women boxing.

Patrick J. Beacom of the West Virginia Board framed the resolution which was passed.

One of the points raised by Beacom was that "such bouts. . . may cause such physical harm to the women boxers as to do great injury to the already sick boxing game."

Natives Gamble With False Teeth

SYDNEY, Australia. (CP) — The mobile dental unit touring the Northern Territory is destroying all extracted teeth as a safeguard against aboriginal medicine men.

An extracted tooth here has great power in the hands of a native other than the man to whom it belongs.

A native possessing such a tooth would, it is believed, have power of life and death over the original owner — power to "point the bone."

So, every tooth is destroyed immediately after extraction.

Dental plates also are being issued to native, but only the cheapest types.

It is hoped that this will discourage the natives from using their dentures as gambling stakes.

Record Litter

EDMONTON, Alta. (CP). — Believed a world record, a litter of six chinchillas was born at the Edmonton ranch of Dr. J. Shinners, vice-president of the National Chinchilla Breeders of Canada.

No One Agrees On Man Caruso Was

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 13 (AP)—The movie-makers have found one trouble in filming the life of Enrico Caruso—no one can agree on what kind of a man the great singer was.

"The man has been dead 30 years," said Joe Pasternak, producing the picture. "But nobody can agree on him. Take four people, all of them who knew him intimately, and each will have a different idea of what kind of person he was.

"We are not going to try to show his whole life. To do that would take 74 hours on the screen; we have only two. We are filming a story based on his career. It will be a story of a young Italian boy who found fame and wealth in the United States. I think it should be a film that will help sell the American way of life throughout the world."

Little Opera

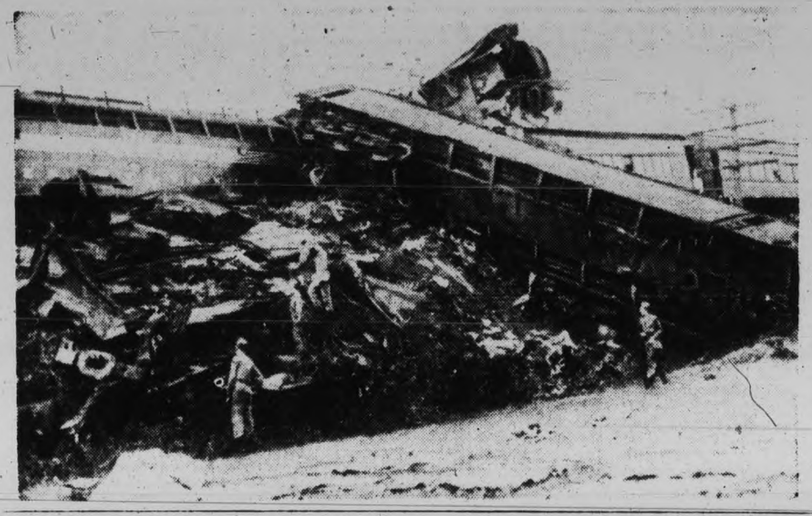
The film, said the producer, will not try to "cram opera down the public's throat."



"We are not in competition with the Met," he said. "We will have a lot of singing, but it will be familiar and melodic—like the sextette from 'Lucia' and the quartet from 'Rigoletto.' And we will have some pop stuff, too. One of Caruso's biggest selling records was 'Because.'"

Some of the more famous aspects of the tenor's life will not be touched, Pasternak indicated. Mario Lanza, who will play the lead and has a lusty appetite himself, will not be seen eating one of the tremendous meals Caruso used to consume.

Caruso will have only two loves, his Italian sweetheart as a boy, and his wife, played by Ann Blyth. His death (in 1921 at the age of 48) will be suggested but not actually pictured.

Smuts Family Declines State Funeral

JOHANNESBURG, Sept. 13. — (CP) — The family Tuesday declined Prime Minister Daniel F. Malan's offer of a state funeral for Field Marshal Christiaan Smuts.

Instead, the former prime minister, who died Monday at the age of 80, will be given a military service Friday at Pretoria's Dutch Reformed Church, Groote Kerk.

The body will then come here by special train for cremation. The family had not yet decided where the ashes will be placed.

The whitewashed gates of Smuts' farm near Pretoria remained wide open Tuesday. No crowds gathered, only the closest friends. But telegrams of condolence flowed in from all over the world.

Flags were flying at half-mast on all South African buildings and on private premises in the cities, towns and villages of the Union. Radio stations opened their morning programs with sacred music. All the newspapers printed lengthy tributes to the Field Marshal as politician, soldier and world statesman.

Great Figure Gone

Die Transvaler, Smuts' sharpest critic of all, said: "With his passing one of the greatest and most controversial figures has gone from public life in South Africa."

His physicians said death was due to a heart collapse following dislodgement of a blood clot which settled in the brain.

Though Smuts was taken ill four days after country-wide celebrations of his 80th birthday, May 24, doctors had withheld from the public and Smuts himself the knowledge that he was suffering from coronary thrombosis — a blood clot in the arteries of the heart.

The fact was known only to a few newspapermen who were not privileged to disclose it because Smuts read all their stories about his health.

Only a few hours before his death, he went for two drives. After the evening meal he went to lie down. He collapsed on the bed and died in the presence of his two daughters.

Malan, in a broadcast Tuesday, said Smuts' death meant a loss to all the world.

"Both in the public life of our own country and in the wider field of international relations, his departure leaves an emptiness it will not be possible to fill," he said. "Smuts is undoubtedly one of South Africa's greatest and most renowned sons."

UAW Has Rejected 10-Cent Increase

CHICAGO, Sept. 13 —(AP)— The United Automobile Workers (C.I.O.) have rejected a 10-cent hourly wage increase offer by the strike-bound International Harvester Company.

Tony Connole, U. A. W., International representative, termed the offer "two wooden nickles wrapped up in a future 50-cent wage cut."

The company had proposed a 10-cent hourly general wage increase for 50,000 striking workers in 20 plants. Harvester said its plan would boost the pay of some workers 14½ and 18 cents.

Harvester's earlier offer of seven cents had been turned down by the U. A. W., representing 23,000 workers, and the striking Farm Equipment-United Electrical Workers, representing 27,000.

The unions have asked a 15-cent hourly boost.

Pair Found Guilty

BC Boy Scout Realizes Dream

LONDON —(CP)— Bhagwan Singh, 11-year-old Boy Scout from Duncan, BC, has realized a long-cherished dream.

He spent a weekend aboard the "Discovery" the rugged vessel in which Captain Scott sailed on his Antarctic expeditions.

"Captain Scott has always been one of my great heroes," said Bhagwan. "I never dreamed I should ever actually sleep on his ship."

Bhagwan's British visit is his first stop-over on a world tour expected to last a year. The trip, meant to widen the lad's knowledge of countries and their peoples, is his father's idea. It repeats a similar voyage made by himself in his own youth.

His dad, once a doctor, now operating a trucking business in Duncan, sold one of his three houses to finance the trip.

In mid-October, Bhagwan sails for India to attend the wedding of his brother, Amri. The two have not yet met as Bhagwan was born in Canada and Amri remained in India.

So far, the next port of call is not decided, but Bhagwan is keen on seeing Australia and New Zealand, returning to Canada via the Pacific.

TLC Throws Out Several Red Resolutions

MONTREAL, Sept. 13—(CP)—The Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, laying down a strongly anti-Red foreign policy for its annual convention, Tuesday threw out a group of intrnational affairs resolutions.

Several of them Leftist-inspired, the resolutions had been expected to spark a hot debate but the Congress heaved them out with no objections at all from its Left-Wing delegation.

That group already had taken one severe beating at Monday's oening session of the T.L.C. when it was able to summon only about 25 votes against a declaration of full support for the United Nations' police action in Korea Around 600 supported the declaration.

The convention already having taken its foreign policy stand, its resolutions committee moved nonconcurrence today in the new resolutions and the convention assented without objection.

Goes On Record

On other issues, the convention put itself on record today as calling for: 1, Cheaper prices for optical goods. 2, Two week annual vacations with pay for all workers. 3. Payment for workers on statutory holidays. 4 The five-day 40-hour week. A resolution from the resolutions committee proposing a 75-cent-an-hour minimum statutory pay was rejected by the convention on the ground this figure was too low. A number of delegates suggested a one-dollar minimum, and the resolution was sent back to the committee for re-drafting.

Chinese Reds Curbing Social Evils

LONDON, Sept. 13 (AP)—The spiritual head of the Church of England said Tuesday the Communist government of China is bringing "a release from social evils too long and unheedingly accepted."

Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, archbishop of Canterbury, assailed "atheistic and imperialistic communism," and accused the Roman Catholic Church of making impossible a common Christian front against Communism. He spoke before a meeting of the synod of the convocation of Canterbury.

In reference to Communist China he said that Chinese Christians "acknowledge that the present regime is morally and socially preferable to the corruptions and inefficiency and exploitations of the regime it replaced." He added:

"One must not dismiss the tensions created by Communism merely by denunciation. We who can see the black tyranny of its creed fully revealed naturally denounce it. But we must frankly realize that in the Far East it can easily be seen not as tyranny but, at present, as a liberation.

"It does indeed offer certain conditions, and bring about a release from social evils too long and unheedingly accepted."

"The Roman Catholic Church," he declared, "takes its own line and does not stand as an ally toward other Christian bodies in the cause of freedom.

"For there are parts of the world in which the Roman authorities permit without protest —and even encourage—the use of political compulsion in their own favor against Christian bodies not of their obedience, and sometimes with the design of ending their existence."

Dr. Fisher said the new Catholic dogma that the Virgin Mary ascended bodily to heaven will lead to "increasing division among Christians."

"It leads only to the confusion of Christian truth," he added, when Roman Catholic theologians drew inference from inference, far removed from any evidence historical or otherwise."

Plan Public Inquiry In Thames' Disaster

LONDON, Ont., Sept. 13 (CP) —A public inquiry into the boat disaster on the Thames river which claimed four lives and sent three other passengers to hospital on Aug. 13 will open next Monday.

Dr. A. R. Routledge, coroner, announced that the inquest into the death of Robert Wilbur Jenkins, 22, will be held on that day.

Earlier Dr. Routledge announced that any inquiry into the accident would be related to the death of Jenkins. The findings in his death will apply to the other three fatalities.

Nine passengers and the driver, Carl Ryan of London, Ont., were on the 17-foot power boat when it capsized in the middle of the Thames.

The other deaths were Mrs. Agnes Prudence Klein of Mitchell and Mrs. Elizabeth McElroy and Andrew McLelland, both of Seaforth.

Says Canadians Should Defend Germany As Owr

TORONTO, Sept. 13 —(CP) — James S. Duncan, president of the Massey-Harris Co. Ltd., said Tuesday North America should be prepared to defend Germany's Elbe river line "as if it were our own . . . soil."

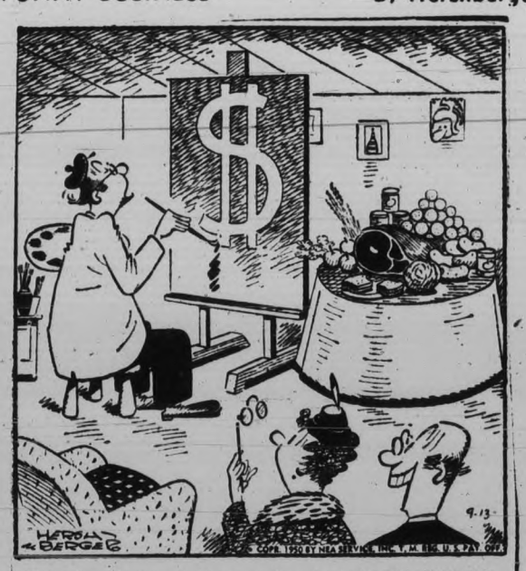
North America should send at once additional combat divisions to Europe to meet the Russian threat to Germany he said in an interview on his return from a three-week tour of Europe.

He also advocated that Western Germany be granted authority to build up a federal police force as strong as the Russian police force in Eastern Germany.

Asked about problems of maintaining the position of the western allies in Europe, the Toronto industrialist said:

"Armament and money are not enough. . ."

He urged that the western allies "fill without delay what Winston Churchill described in his recent broadcast as the 'hideous gap' in the defence of the west, by helping to bring into being at the earliest possible moment a . . . striking force of between 25 and 30 divisions, including units from western Germany. . ."



He said the western allies cannot afford to have western Germany, its skilled and martial people and vast industrial potential fall into Russian hands."

He said North America now has an opportunity to restore the faith of the Germans by sending really substantial armed forces.

"We should be prepared to defend, with them, the line of the Elbe as if it were our own North American soil."

He said if western Germany were to fall to Russia, the western world, including the United States and Canada, would be imperilled.

Few Restrictions Prisoner Says

CHICAGO, Sept. 13—(AP)— A young former prisoner of the Cook county (Chicago) jail was reported to have told a grand jury Monday that she had intimate relations with another prisoner there in the warden's office.

Assistant state's attorney James Brown said the witness was Mrs. Mary Ryan Gregory, a 22-year-old blonde. She was called before the grand jury in its investigation of reports that privileges in the jail were granted for a price.

Brown told state's attorney John Boyle that Mrs. Gregory related a story of virtual free access to the jail after her release last Jan. 1. He said she told the jury she frequently went to the jail of evenings to meet a prisoner, Edward Leonard, 28, who since has been released.

Brown said Mrs. Gregory also told the jury that men and women prisoners often met on a stairway between their quarters for "smooching" parties. Before her own release, she said, she and Leonard had met there, too, for the same purpose

PETERBOROUGH EXAMINER

VOL. CI. No. 61 — WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 13, 1950

Foreign Carpets Affecting Local Industry

Competition from British and Belgian carpet firms has hit the Brinton-Peterborough Carpet Co. hard. At present 70 of a normal staff of 240 have been laid off.

"The textile industry is in an alarming condition," conceded David Leether, manager. "There is an unsettled market. Some of the prices asked for raw wool, say from Australia, are out of reason."

Hardest hit in the local plant is the Axminster carpet section which is almost closed down entirely. Cheaper foreign carpets have captured the market; at one time a comparable English product was selling at half the price of an Axminster.

Since then, however, the increased cost of raw materials has caused the foreign carpets to go up more than 30 per cent. This has helped to relieve the discrepancy in prices.

The more expensive rugs—the Wilton and Jacard Axminster—have not been seriously affected.

To recapture the cheaper market the Brinton-Peterborough plant is experimenting with synthetic materials. And it is unlikely that full employment at the plant will be resumed until a satisfactory substitute product has been produced and the public shows a willingness to accept it.

Two of the synthetic fibres being experimented with are rayon instead of wool for the plush surface and a paper composition replacing jute.

NO FOOTBALL WORRIES—Apparently neither the coach nor the executive are unduly worried at this stage over the Orfuns' grid prospects for the season. Nor is husky middle John Lynch, formerly of Winnipeg Bombers and Ottawa Riders, looking sad as Coach Bamforth, at left, examines a minor knee bruise. ## Civic Arena Ice In Big Demand For 1950 Season

Requests from hockey teams and other organizations for time on the ice of the Civic Arena were received on Tuesday night by the board of directors. Two delegations, the Peterborough Figure Skating Club and former Legion Hockey Club were heard and a request was received from the CGE Shop League.

Robert Parnell, manager of the hockey club, outlined the club's financial position, saying "we're starting from scratch."

Play In Lindsay

A proposition to play hockey in Lindsay has been made to the 1951 OHA finalists. Lindsay businessmen have offered to back the club and the Lindsay rink would take a 60-40 cut in the gate receipts and give free practice time.

Mr. Parnell said the club played there successfully during the years Peterborough was without an arena. The Lindsay arena has a capacity of 1,600 while Peterborough's is 2,300.

Mr. Parnell argued that the team can't operate unless some assurance is given about ice-time. The largest gate receipts, he declared, were from the Legion club's games last year and they felt they should obtain some privileges.

Figure Skating

Ralph Standish, representing the Peterborough Figure Skating Club, asked that the association be given "a square shake on time." He added that they would like eight hours this year instead of six.

Besides time at the Civic Arena the figure skaters have ice-time at the curling rink alternate Saturday mornings, all day Sunday and Wednesday afternoons. Last year at the Civic Arena they received two hours each Tuesday and Thursday night and Saturday afternoon.

The CGE shop league asked that the league be given the same time as last year, Saturday morning from 9 a.m. until 1 p.m.

The board told the delegations that all the requests would be received and then the manager of the arena, Walter Smillie, would draw up a schedule.

MAIN ST. TOPICS

APPOINTED ANOTHER YEAR

Walter Smillie was re-appointed manager of the Civic Arena for the coming year by the Board of Directors Tuesday night. Mr Smillie's first year at the arena will be completed September 30.

FUNERAL SERVICE AT 11

Funeral service for the late Miss Mina Ross of 191 A Murray St., will be held at the Comstock Funeral Home on Thursday at 11 a.m. The Rev. C. G. Boyd of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church will officiate and burial will be at Barrie cemetery about 4 p.m.

Drew Insurance While Employed

Arthur W. Phillips, Young St., was fined $25 and costs in police court today when he pleaded guilty to a charge of drawing unemployment insurance for 10 days in October while he was working.

In the 10 days, Phillips drew $28.50 from the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

Asked for an explanation, Phillips said, "I needed the money and figured I was only doing it for a couple of days."

Magistrate W. R. Philp, K.C., said there was no difference between that and going into a store and robbing it.

"The public must realize," the magistrate said, "that this act must be scrupulously obeyed, lived up to, otherwise its whole purpose breaks down."

Cobourg Company Building 25 New Homes In West End, Laying Out New Streets

Cobourg Lumber Company, Ltd., has begun construction of 25 of the 62 houses for which they bought in the spring the Cecil F. Hayes property west of High St. and lying between Frank St., Western Ave. and the Peterborough-Port Hope Highway. These houses are of brick veneer with full basements and oil heating furnaces, hardwood flooring, tiled floors in kitchens and bathrooms, and other details of modern domestic construction.

Four Types of Homes

Harry Campbell, foreman, who was in charge of similar projects for the company in Cobourg and Port Hope, hesitated this morning in estimating when the first units would be completed and ready for occupation. They are built for sale, not for rental.

J. W. Burtt of Cobourg, head of the company, informed the Examiner that these houses are in four types,—two and three-bedroom bungalows; storey and half and two storeys. Sales agents are Braund and O'Toole.

The storey and a half type, comprises kitchen, dinette, living room, and two bedrooms on the ground floor. There is also space for two additional bedrooms on the upper floor which will be left unfinished, for completion when required by the purchaser.

The two-storey house is designed for three bedrooms and bathroom upstairs; kitchen, dining and living rooms on the ground floor, and the basement has the general equipment of oil-burning furnace and laundry tubs.

Bathrooms are equipped with three pieces and showers. This Cobourg Lumber subdivision consists of 64 lots. Mr. Burtt said that eventually all of them would be occupied. The property is the last undeveloped knoll in the city. On the western border of the city, it rises to an altitude that affords a broad view to the south and east and also to the west.

New Streets

Several new streets are being laid out, with existing approaches from the highway, (Western Ave., High St. and Frank St. There is a convenient bus line down Western Ave., and another, a block away, on Monaghan Road.

Concrete footings for basement walls are already finished on some of the lots. For these walls the company is using sectional, collapsible forms that are being set up for the pouring of concrete.

Big Ice Revue Scheduled For Civic Arena

A new International Ice Review headed by Eileen Seigh, brilliant United States Olympic Skating star, makes its debut in Canada this month preparatory to a Canadian tour.

This latest of ice shows, combining all the color and glamor of brilliant skating, gorgeous lighting and magnificent costumes opens at Cobourg on September 26 and 27 and then moves on to Peterborough for a three day stand, September 28, 29 and 30. The engagement here will be a feature of the Centennial week.

"International Ice Review" is a fast-moving, colorfully-produced show that is bound to be a sensation. Jerry Rehfield, who comes from Hollywood, was a skating partner of Barbara Ann Scott in the colorful "Show Boat" number.

The opening of the new Ice Review brings together a company of skaters who are artists in their field. After their first engagement in Cobourg and Peterborough the troupe moves across Ontario, Quebec and the Maritime provinces and will later head to Western Canada. It will visit all the major skating venues in the country and also bring the skating stars to a number of smaller cities and towns in Canada.

The elaborate production is produced and co-ordinated by Dorothie Littlefield, who has played a leading part in the development of ballet productions on the stage and the ice. Miss Littlefield's sister, Catherine, has for many years been chief supervisor of the famous Sonja Henie ice productions. Dorothie, herself, has produced lavish ice extravaganzas.

Eileen Seigh as the headliner is acclaimed far and wide as one of the most beautiful and brilliant skaters to ever appear before the public. Runner-up to Barbara Ann Scott for the North American championship a few years ago she starred in the Olympics as a member of the American ice team which swept the boards in Europe. On her return from the Olympics Sonja Henie and Arthur Wirtz signed her to star in their ice revues.

Prisoner Confesses To Stealing Watch

Waiting in county jail to be transported to the Guelph Reformatory for an 18-month term on three charges of theft, two from cars and one from a house, Jack Billingsley, 20, 555 Douglas Ave., confessed to taking a watch Aug. 31.

He was sentenced to five months to run concurrently with the other sentences.

Billingsley admitted taking the watch from a fellow workers, Edmund Patrezk, as well as a wallet containing about $10 while they were both employed by a tobacco farmer in Hope township in Durham county.

Provincial Constable William Bailuk told the court Billingsley was wearing the watch when arrested by city police on charges of stealing from cars.

Automobiles Collide At Busy Intersection

About $150 damage was done to a car driven by Oswald Phillips, 494 Charlotte St., when his car met in collision with a car driven by Wilbert Harrison, 459 King George St., at Lansdowne and Lock Sts. at noon today.

Harrison, driving east on Lansdowne turned right to go south on Lock St., and collided with Phillips' car which was almost completely stopped on Lock St. He told Constable Harold Andrew, who investigated, he had turned out wide to go around some bicyclists.

Shaw Out Of Bed Reported Doing Well

LUTON, England, Sept. 13 — (AP) — George Bernard Shaw got out of bed briefly today only three days after he fractured his left thigh.

The 94-year-old playwright's doctors issued this bulletin:

"Mr Shaw had a good night and his condition this morning is satisfactory. He is able to move his injured leg freely and stood for a few seconds, taking his weight on the sound leg."

Shaw fractured his thigh when he slipped while pruning fruit trees.

Open Air Service To Climax Civic Sunday

Next Sunday is Centennial Sunday in Peterborough.

The Ministerial Association will mark the occasion with an open-air service of worship at Exhibition Park grandstand Sunday night.

The program includes music and songs by a massed choir of 200 trained voices and the Salvation Army Band. An anthem to be sung is that composed by F. G. Mann, organist, and choirmaster of St. John's Anglican Church for his own church's centenary in 1927.

Dr. George B. Gilmour, chancellor and principal of the faculty, McMaster University, will give the address. Major C. Everitt of the Salvation Army, president of the Ministerial Association, is in charge of the service.

Morning Service

Mayor Max Swanston, city council and members of the city boards will attend St. Paul's Presbyterian Church for the morning service. The Rev. T. Scott Mackenzie, moderator of the general assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, will give the address.

Other visiting ministers and principal speakers at morning services include:

Dr. Gilmour, who will speak at Murray Street Baptist Church.

J. A. Edmison, K.C., principal's assistant at Queen's University, at St. Andrew's United Church.

The Rev. George Forsey, M.A., B.D., of Central United Church, Moncton, New Brunswick, at Trinity United Church.

Similar services will be observed in other churches.

Prelude to Exhibition Grounds service will be the open-air band concert by the Salvation Army Band from 7 p.m. to 7.45. This will be followed by the service of worship arranged by the Ministerial Association.

Guest soloist will be Albert Marson, Toronto-born Negro tenor. Mr. Marson is a graduate of the Royal Conservatory Senior School. He has been soloist with the Toronto Mendelssohn Choir and the Toronto Symphony Orchestra several times during past seasons.

No Sitting Police

City police officers found it dangerous to sit down today at headquarters. Earl Hope, caretaker of the city buildings, cleaned the large glass jug of the office water-cooler this morning. On putting it back the thing slipped and crashed into 1,002 splinters, more or less. Police officers are finding out most of the pieces are invisible to the naked eye but sharply pointed to the clothed seat.

Cities Regulate Sale Of Chips

Kitchener and St. Catharines, companions with Peterborough in population, do not issue permits for the sale of potato chips from wagons in their streets.

This information is quoted from the file of replies which City Clerk Outram received from city clerks to whom he wrote on instructions of the council. St. Catharines had one wagon in operation three years ago at a licence fee of $125. It has been taken out of circulation.

Oshawa issues pedlars' licences to potato chip men (Mr. Huycke says they do not rate as chipmen) at $10 a year fee for residents and $50 for non-residents.

Brantford has a bylaw regulating the operation of mobile potato chips units, which seems to be working satisfactorily. "The licence fee is $75, and may be $100 next year. They are not allowed to operate in streets which have parking meters. That eliminates them from business streets. They can move to streets outside this area, but seldom do so. They confine their locations to the market square in the centre of the city. In addition to the licence fee, they are charged a market fee of 50c a day. Not more than four such licences shall be concurrent at any one time."

Girl's Strong Kick Drives Off Robber

WINDSOR, Sept. 13—(CP)—A well-placed kick Tuesday night by a 19-year-old domestic servant routed a youthful would-be robber who entered her employer's home in suburban Riverside.

The girl, whose hands were still tied when police arrived, said a young man had entered the house, gagged her and bound her to a chair in the basement. She said he fled when she wrenched one foot free from the rope and kicked the man in the stomach.

Police said the only thing missing from the house was a change purse containing $1.

Equalize Coal Prices

PARIS, Sept. 13. — (AP). — Prices of coal will be equalized over a four-month period and prices of steel over an eight-month period under an agreement being worked out here by the six western European countries participating in the pool plan proposed by Foreign Minister Robert Schuman, French officials said Tuesday. France, western Germany, Italy, Belgium, Luxembour and the Netherlands are taking part in the talks. Britain has not joined, but is being kept informed of the work.

Workers Ratify Cobourg CGE Wage Offer

Workers in the Cobourg plant of Canadian General Electric on Tuesday night ratified the terms of the new agreement between the International Union of Electrical Workers and CGE.

Chief gains by the 175 production workers are a 12-cents-an-hour increase, and a reduction of the work week to 42 hours. The 12-cent package includes the extra money needed to maintain the same take-home pay for the shorter work week plus a straight wage increase.

The workers will be in pocket an average of three to six cents an hour.

Adam James, president of Local 534, IUE (CIO-CCL) told the membership meeting that there would be plant-wide seniority, and in the event of a transfer the worker will have 60 days to learn the new job.

The secret vote for ratification was described as "overwhelming." Only 10 ballots were cast against it.

It is expected that the contract will be signed immediately after two or three minor points are cleared up.

The Conciliation Board seeking to settle the labor dispute recently recommended a 42-hour week and a 12-cents-an-hour increase.

Most Soft Drinks Up To 7c

Soft drinks, with the exception of Coca Cola, bounced up another cent to seven cents Tuesday. Word was received by one retailer that some makes of chocolate bars are going up another one and two cents without any change in size.

This would make some chocolate bars eight and nine cents. Most brands have been selling since Monday at seven cents. Bars which before recent new taxes sold for 10 cents still continue to sell for the old price.

Washed-up Body Still Unidentified

COBOURG, Sept. 13.—Identity of the body of the man found washed up on the shore just west of here last Saturday is still a mystery. Port Hope police speculated that he was a transient who came to Port Hope on occasions and that he had been in the town hall transient lock-up on the night of Sept. 5.

A man answering somewhat his description had been doing odd jobs for a Port Hope clergyman but the housekeeper after looking at the body said she did not believe it was the man in question. The name of the transient who had been working for the clergyman was Joseph McAleer.

Provincial Police have sent the dead man's fingerprints to the RCMP, Ottawa.

Two People Killed In Head-On Crash

SAULT STE. MARIE, Sept. 13 —(CP)—Two persons were killed and three severely injured Tuesday in a head-on automobile collision near here.

Killed were Raymond Elmer Tadgerson, 29, of Raco, Ont., and Mrs. Thomas McCarry of Eckerman, Mich. Injured are reported in critical condition are Berthat McCarry, 20, Natalie Mosher, 25, and Vernon Mosher, 4. An infant, 22-months-old Margo McCarry, was the only passenger to escape injury.

Tadgerson, father of four children and a well-known baseball and tennis player, was alone in his car when it collided with one driven by Bertha McCarry.

Third Westerner To YM Staff

The all-western cycle of staff changeover will be completed this weekend when Fraser Wade arrives from Moose Jaw, Sask., to begin his duties as physical director. The announcement was made today that Mr. Wade, a well-known all-round athlete in the Western provinces and physical director of the YMCA in Moose Jaw, has been appointed to fill the vacancy left by A. B. (Al) Clark, appointed general secretary of Ingersoll YMCA.

Prior to moving into YMCA work at Moose Jaw Mr. Wade was physical director at the Sir George Williams College in Montreal and before that held a similar position in Picton.

Charles Forsyth, general secretary of the YMCA, said that Mr. Wade has a fine record in sports, participating in baseball, hockey, and basketball. He also has a rich background in track and field events.

"Fraser is a natural athlete," said Mr. Forsyth.

Three Westerners

The resignation and retirements of G. H. Roper, Donald Duncan and Mr. Clark have brought three westerners into the employ of the local YMCA. William McFarlane, of Saskatoon, is the boys' work secretary, and Charles Forsyth, the new general secretary, has done most of his YMCA work in Winnipeg.

Sunday Court Causes Furore

TORONTO, Sept. 13 —(CP)— Attorney-General Porter of Ontario said Tuesday that persons fined at a Sunday court hearing at Guelph may appeal their convictions because court cannot legally be held on Sunday.

He was commenting on the action of A. S. Mitchell, Justice of the Peace, who convened what was termed an "informal" court sitting in Guelph for minor offenders.

Some legal observers however, suggested it would be cheaper for offenders fined 'on Sunday' to accept the judgment. If a Court of Appeals ruled they were fined invalidly, they would be subject to another trial on a week-day, complete with all legal trimmings.

Mr. Porter said he has issued instructions that the unorthodox court must not be repeated.

Dismiss Case Of Disturbance

A charge of causing a disturbance against Elgin Boyer, 221 London St., was dismissed today in police court on the grounds there was no one in the vicinity to be disturbed.

In giving his verdict, Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, said "I accept the evidence of the officer that the accused was making a loud noise by swearing and shouting."

He said he didn't believe court should draw an inference, when there was no evidence to support it, that Boyer's shouting was disturbing anyone.

Boyer's wife was found guilty Monday of causing a disturbance and fined $10 and costs.

Constable John Conlin, testified he and Constable Sherman Keliele, went to London St. Thursday in answer to a phone call. Boyer "was feeling sorry for himself" over relations with his wife.

Police Warning

The police officers warned Boyer not to cause any disturbance out on the street. They drove a block away to Bethune St. and turned around to go back to the station. As they were coming back, they saw Boyer coming out on his lawn and he began shouting and swearing.

They put him in the police truck and at this point Mrs. Boyer came out of the truck and tried to prevent their taking her husband. She struggled, shouted and swore at the top of her voice. By this time there were several people and children on the street watching the affair. They arrested her too.

Textile Workers Elect Officers

Mrs. Belle Rathburn was Tuesday night elected president of Local 1112, Textile Workers' Union of America (CIO-CCL). The local consists of 46 employees of Fanning's Launderers and Dry Cleaners.

Following is the slate of officers for 1950-51: Mrs. Bella Rathburn, president; Tom Cox, vice-president; Pearl Robinson, recording secretary; Millie Lush, secretary treasurer; and the stewards in the three departments—delivery, Mr. Cox; dry cleaning, Charles Padgett; and laundry, Misses Robinson and Lush.

The Fanning employees became a certified local of the TWUA early this year and signed their first contract with management July 3. Until Tuesday's election all offices held in the union were temporary.

Citizens Of Scottish Ancestry Plan To Mark Centennial With Music Festival

Celebrative events of Peterborough's centennial year are now extending into November.

Citizens of Scottish ancestry are planning a music festival for late in that month. Details of this undertaking are not yet arranged.

Mr. Robert Donnell, Canada's premier bell-ringer, carillonneur of the Peace Tower, Ottawa, has written the centennial committee that he finds it impossible to accept an invitation to Peterborough for a centennial year program on the chimes of St. John's Church.

Plans are nearing completion for the community church service Sunday evening Sept. 17 at Morrow Park.

F. Bruce Sargent has been authorized by the committee to go ahead with all necessary arrangements for a street dance, Sept. 19 or 21; that he is to keep expenditure within $250, and report from time to time to the secretary, City Clerk Outram, on progress.

Members of the committee have accepted an invitation to attend the special centennial year service at St. Paul's Presbyterian Church Sunday morning next at which the Moderator of the church in Canada will be the speaker.

For the IOOF affair, Ancient Mystic Order of Samaritans, the committee will supply the Citizens Band through the recreation commission, and also include their visit here in the centennial publicity, but that otherwise their event is not within the sphere of activity of the committee.

The committee is drawing upon its fund for a cheque for $300 to be paid to the Recreation Commission to help defray the cost of sports week, Aug. 28-Sept. 2, which the committee considered quite successful.

W. G. Ovens presided over this recent meeting of the committee with James Hamilton, Robert Bolton and Ross Dobbin present.

Army Throws Open A-B-C Warfare Course

OTTAWA, Sept. 13—(CP) — The army has decided to throw open its restricted "A-B-C" warfare course at Camp Borden immediately to selected civil defence personalities from across the country, a defence official disclosed Tuesday.

The letters "A-B-C" are those used to designate defence against atomic, bacteriological or chemical attack.

The official said municipalities are being asked, through the provinces, to nominate officials they would like to send to the course, previously open to service personnel only.

The move is part of co-ordinated effort to get civilians trained quickly to meet any possible national emergency.

Social Service Described To Havelock WI

HAVELOCK, Sept. 13 (ENS). — The meaning of Social Service as defined by Mrs. F. R. Vanderburgh, guest speaker at the meeting of the Havelock Women's Institute on Monday, is to rescue precious lives, to minister to the needy, to promote justice, to overcome vice and harmful influences, and to abolish racial and class distinction.

Towns Escape

Those who live in smaller towns do not have the larger scope of social service work, Mrs. Vanderburgh said, for they have no districts where six or more live in one room with poor or no sanitary conditions and in the utmost poverty.

When material resources are at a low ebb people are poverty striken and their health is poor, then it is easier to let go spiritually and morally.

Spiritual Help

But material help is not as important as spiritual help, Mrs. Vanderburgh said.

The liquor question, she said, also comes under social service and pointed out that Canada spent $48 per capita last year for alcohol compared with $28.50 on medical care and death expenses. People do not realize social cocktail can lead to misery and wrecked homes, she said.

New Canadians

Next she described the services rendered to the new Canadians coming to our land. The Children's Aid she said was another part of social service work and quoted a report from the Peterborough society to show what had been accomplished in this district.

H. Lewis of Peterborough addressed the society in the interests of the Kawartha Hospitalization for Peterborough county.

Salvage Drive

Members decided to hold a salvage drive the last week in September, the date to be announced by the distribution of hand bills after the dealer had been contacted.

A draw is to be held some time this fall for the quilt the society exhibited at the district annual meeting her in June.

The October meeting will be held on the first Tuesday of the month instead of the first Monday.

An invitation was read from the Warsaw branch to attend their bazaar on September 21.

A TANK IS UNLOADED from the shipload of 600 tons of USA war supplies brought to Antwerp, Belgium, in the SS American Counselor. The bulk of the shipment was tanks for France and Belgium.

Reeve of Cardiff Township Takes Rural Life After City

MARMORA, Sept. 12 (ENS).— Meet the 1950 Reeve of Cardiff Township — Ralph Walker. Resident of the township since 1945 he has lived an industrious life throughout, farming on an 125-acre property skirting Brough Lake and for five seasons operating the Brough Lake Lodge.

Though born and spending his early years in the agricultural town of Harriston, between Guelph and Owen Sound, he at first turned aside from agriculture to follow other pursuits. After 20 years' residence in Toronto, he decided to add another tourist resort to those already established in South Haliburton. His choice fell upon Brough Lake, one of a cluster of small lakes to the north of Paudash. Brough Lake appeals to those who favor a restful holiday. It bears similarity in size and contour to its neighbor, Farrell Lake.

Ralph grows a fine stock of vegetables for the table and to other fruits obtainable, there is abundance of wild fruit on the property. Bass are fairly plentiful in the lake, the best catch for the season now closing being one taken by Gary Greatrix, 11-year-old boy of Toronto, which weighed four pounds. The much-used phrase of today "Nature Unspoiled" occurs to one visiting this sylvan retreat. The nucleus of a museum with exhibits of pioneer days is to be seen in the dining room of the lodge. Three exhibits especially attract the eye.

"Jack Lights"

There is what is known as a Jack light. It was used by the earliest pioneers in Ontario to carry fire from brush pile to brush pile while forest clearance was in progress and accumulation of brush had to be disposed of These Jack lights were necessary because of the scarcity of matches in those days. The lights served another purpose — they were used by hunters to attract the deer at night in the woods. With good pine knots available, the fire in the Jack light would last about three hours.

Another relic is one of the angle lamps which succeeded the tallow dip and candle. This particular one was used with others in the old Methodist Church at Richvale on Highway 27, before the advent of the Hydro.

Century-Old Holder

A century-old lantern holder is the other interesting exhibit. It served a triple purpose — the illumination of the log cabin — an aid to necessary outdoor work at night — and a light unto the paths taken by the settlers in visiting neighbors.

So well planned was the construction of this holders that the light within could be trusted not to blow out in the stiffest wind.

The reeve hopes to be able to add to his curios from time to time, so as to prove the more entertaining to his guests. In addition to his municipal duties, he is keenly interested in the welfare of the new Paudash Lake United Church whose building he supervised and of which congregation he is an elder.

In his wife, he has a loyal partner in all his undertakings both making their guests to feel that they are at a home away from home. They have two children: Joan who enters Bancroft High School this term, and Ronald who will continue studies under the Department of Education by correspondence.

Charge Invasion

CAIRO, Egypt, Sept. 13 (AP).— The British-controlled Arab News Agency said Tuesday night that Israeli troops have "invaded" Hashemite Jordan and seized a vital area near the Ruttenberg hydro-electric project south of the Sea of Galilee.

Motorist Fined $5 For Failing To Stop

Admitting that he had driven through a stop sign north of Burleigh Falls, but protesting he "certainly didn't do it on purpose," H. G. Ward, 695 Cameron St , was fined $5 and costs in police court Tuesday.

Ward was charged with failing to stop before entering Highway 36 from Highway 28.

"The sign used to be the other way," Ward said.

Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, said in considering the charge, the court could not take into consideration why he had not stopped, but simply whether he had stopped or not.

3 Violate Act

EXETER, Sept. 13 — (CP) — Three Grand Bend concessionaires were fined Tuesday for operating in violation of the Lord's Day Act. They appeared in Huron County magistrate court. John Lauman, who pleaded guilty on July 2 and 9, was fined $20 and costs for each offence. Raymond C. Nichols was fined $20 for one offence, and George Knapp was fined $20 for each of three of-

More Swine Produced

OTTAWA, Sept. 13—(CP)—The swine population is growing in Canada. The number of Canadian farms, excluding Newfoundland, on June 1 was two per cent over the same date last year. This brought the population to 5,247,100 from 5,162,900, the Bureau of Statistics reported Tuesday.

Bryce Completes His Year Chamber Head

By FORBES RHUDE, Canadian Press Business Editor.

Robert A. Bryce has been walking up and down across Canada so long that his colleagues finally decided they would sentence him to a year of it in real earnest.

Now his year is up, and every one who knows him will be sorry; as will he, for he has enjoyed every moment of it.

He is, of course, the retiring president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce.

He walked up and down Canada so long—and indeed the United States and into Mexico—because he was one of the men bent on uncovering the mining wealth of the country, and that he has done well.

He was born in Toronto in January 1881, studied at the University of Toronto and graduated as a mining engineer in 1904.

In 1907 he went to Ontario's Cobalt country, managed several mines, and finally set up as a consulting engineer in Toronto in 1915. In this he was a developer of new properties rather than an adviser on old ones.

By 1930 he decided to put together something of his own and he bought the claims which now are Macassa Mines, Ltd., of which he is president. To do that he had to raise $1,000,000, and he did it himself.

Yes, he's a rugged individualist, but one who can think of others when they deserve a hand. For instance, he has fought for increased wages for school teachers. Says he in effect:

"How can you expect your children to be taught right if their teachers are driven into Communism by hunger?" He has been a governor of the University of Toronto for 15 years, and his duties there are chiefly concerned with youth.

Gets Idea In U. S.

He got the idea of Chamber of Commerce work during the war when he attended a meeting in New York of the committee on Economic Development of the European Recovery Program, decided that something similar should be done in Canada and that it could be best done through the Chamber.

He became national vice-president in Vancouver in 1948 and president in Montreal last year.

He steps down at the present meeting at Banff, Alta., but in the meantime, through the last year, he has been in every part of Canada and to Washington and London.

Says he, looking forward to some of the leisure denied him in the last year:

"There are more opportunities in Canada than ever before, if you will work hard. It still is a pioneer country. The only thing it lacks is more people to pay for its government and the opening up of its resources."

JOE RYAN, the man who in 1938 visited the Laurentian Mountains in Quebec for a weekend and stayed to build a $4,500,000 ski empire atop the famed Mount Tremblant, jumped, or fell, to his death from the 7th floor of the Warwick Hotel in New York. He was 45 years of age.

Trapped By Kiln

GRIMSBY, Sept. 13 — (CP) — William Sharpe, 46, was killed Tuesday and two other men severely injured when a section of the top of a brick kiln collapsed and buried them. Injured were W. Froese and E. Loft, employees of the Grimsby Brick and Tile Company here. Workers dug for five minutes to free the men from the six-to-eight-ton bricks which

NZ Radio Shuns Imported Accent

WELLINGTON, N.Z. (CP). — Anybody with a "standard" English voice without accent or mannerisms can be sure of a job as a radio announcer in New Zealand.

The biggest headache of the National Broadcasting Service is to find announcers whose voices do not offend listeners. Out of 140 who applied when the latest appeal for announcers was made, only seven reached anywhere near a satisfactory standard.

The difficulty is that a large number of people object to "imported" accents and claim that the voices of BBC announcers sound affected under New Zealand conditions. At the same time people who do not mind the drawl and vowel distortion of much New Zealand speech in ordinary conversation, find that it jars on them when used by an announcer.

Consequently the broadcasting authorities are searching desperately for voices which strike a golden mean, but they are finding that such voices are very few.

Special Wednesday Menu Let Us Try all the Tricks

By MARY MOORE.

The reader who had to lower her standard of Sunday cooking from expensive roast beef to just a common old roast chicken still leaves me gaping.

If we are going to have to resort to this chicken cookery (and I, for one, could live happy from now until my dying day on that diet) let us try all of the tricks:

Appetizer: Cream cheese Stuffed Celery — Sardines on Tiny Crackers— Chilled Blended Fruit Juices.

Crusty Fried Chicken (see below), Apple Jelly — Cream Succotash (see below) — Glazed Carrots — Epicure's Green Salad (see below).

Chilled Compote of Plums ((see below) — Crackers and Blue Cheese — Coffee (could be Cafe Noir in living-room).

Directions

Steam a fowl which has been cut up for serving, in a steamer until tender—about 3¼ hours. (If chicken is used steaming will take only one hour.) To 1 cup bread flour add 1½ teaspoons salt and ½ teaspoon pepper and dredge the steamed chicken in this, then dip in 2 beaten eggs which have been diluted with 3 tablespoons cream. Let drain, then roll each piece in corn flakes which have been rolled until they are very fine. They should cover entire surface. Let stand to dry out a little on buttered plate or wax paper, turning over once. Deep fry at 360 degrees Fahr. until golden. These brown quickly, so watch and turn often — it only takes about 5 minutes frying time. Drain on rough paper towels and serve as quickly as possible.

The Cream Succotash could take two forms: Fresh corn cut from the cob added to nearly cooked fresh limas with about ¼ cup cream, and salt and pepper, and simmered about 4 minutes to just cook and heat the raw corn, or 2, finely cut boiled green beans added to corn which has been cut from cob and simmered in two tablespoons each cream and butter for about 4 minutes, and salted and peppered to taste.

The Epicure's Salad is tossed greens such as pulled lettuce, slices of cucumber, and radish, shreds of cabbage and a few shavings of tomato and leaves of cress. The whole thing is dressed with garlic-flavored French Dressing at table.

After the Crusty Fried Chicken this is the recipe I want you to try:

Chilled Compote of Plums

Prepare a sugar syrup by mixing ¾ cup sugar with one cup water, 4 whole cloves, grated rind of half lemon and simmer 2 minutes. Add 6 or 8 pricked Lombard plums which have been washed but not stoned. Simmer over very low heat, turning over once, for about 8 or 10 minutes. If more plums are needed, skim out the first ones that are done and add more. This syrup is sufficient for 8 plums, but may be increased.

Note: A good combination is half pears and plums in a compote. If pears are used they require longer stewing than plums, so add them first. Also add one tablespoon lemon juice. Peaches are good in compotes, but require less sugar, and are good with stick cinnamon added to the syrup.

Note: The chilling of compote is important and essential to their success. I like them for they may be made the day before needed and are improved if kept covered in refrigerator for 24 hours.

JACOBY ON CANASTA

The other day I received an indignant letter from Portland, Maine. Fortunately, I wasn't the subject of her ire. It seems that she had recently played with some people who had their own conception of Canasta partnership. These people played that partners could show each other their hands, ask each other to put down melds or complete canastas and in general do anything they felt like.

Needless to say, the lady knew that this procedure was wrong, but she wanted to know just what conversation was permissible.

As a starter, a player is entitled to protect his partner from committing an irregularity and may also warn him of his rights. Thus, you may tell your partner he has forgotten to draw for a red three or remind him that he needs 120, 90 or 50, as the case may be, when he starts to make an initial meld. If he takes the discard pile and you see that he is forgetting to take all the cards in the pile, you can tell him to pick up the cards he is forgetting.

If you are keeping the melds and he adds enough cards to some meld to make a canasta, you may close the canasta then and there, or if he is keeping the melds, you may tell him to close a canasta. However, you may not make such a statement as "We have six queens" or when he takes a big discard pile say to him "There is a natural canasta in fives in it."

In general, you can ask any legitimate question at your own turn to play, but not at your partner's turn to play. Thus, at your own turfn to play, you may inquire about the score or ask any player how many cards he has. This latter question must be answered.

Furthermore, if you ask this question, any player has the right to ask any other player how many cards he holds. If you ask your partner's permission to go out, he has the right to inquire as to how many cards any player holds before making his decision.

You are never allowed to count the cards in the discard pile, but are privileged at your own turn to play to count the cards in the stock pile.

Finally, at your own turn to play you are privileged to announce that you have melded down to one card. This is a privilege; you don't have to announce it.

Liquor Shampoos In South Africa Enrage Husbands

JOHANNESBURG — (CP) — South African husbands shouldn't get too mad when they find their wives raiding liquor cabinets, they're not going off on a midday drinking party.

Nope, they're going to rinse their hair in it. And they're not particular whether it's whisky, brandy or even beer.

Hairdressers confirm that the newest rage in hairdressing circles here is liquor shampoos. Beer is the most popular rinse, but the women often have to be content with more potent drinks.

"All alcohol is equally effective," said one operator. "It took women here some time to get used to the idea, but they love it now."

Raises Spirits

"There is no direct odor given off from the rinse," she continued, "and it gives the hair a glowing sheen. Besides making the hair soft, glowing and inviting, the liquor rinse raises the woman's own spirits."

Commenting on a New York report that champagne-shampooed blondes were fast turning American heads, she said: "We have never used champagne. I don't suppose South African men would be very pleased if we did, for beer is just as good."

The beer rinse is used satisfactorily with dark and fair hair alike.

Clients have to provide their own liquor, as hairdressers are not licensed to keep or sell alcohol on their premises.

"SWAN SONG."

WINDSOR — (CP) — When police were called to investigate a "rowdy" party at a local roadhouse, they found the noise was coming from a group of teenagers having a last fling before school reopened. The proprietor said: "I guess they can get as noisy on soft drinks as most people can on hard drinks."

Believes Women Anxious To Rejoin CWAC

WINNIPEG, Sept. 13—(CP) — Canadian women who served in the armed services in the Second World War, are feeling the itch to get "back into harness."

At least that's the impression Mrs. Mary Dover of Calgary says she gets from stacks of fan mail she's been receiving lately.

Mrs. Dover—as Lt.-Col. Dover —was the chief recruiting officer for the Canadian Women's Army Corps during the Second World War

"If and when Canada needs the services of the C.W.A.C. again she won't find the women lacking in their desire to pitch in and do their bit," she says "There are ever so many wanting to get back into uniform."

Mrs. Dover, a trim and efficient-looking woman is mother of a 16-year-old son—and an alderman in Calgary city council. Second vice-president of the Alberta Command, she's here attending the Canadian Legion convention.

What does she reply to the girls who write urging her to "start the C.W.A.C.?"

Under Consideration

"I can only tell them . . . the defence minister has said the enlistment of women is under consideration."

She confided in an interview that "I called up Ottawa and offered my services" but was told "there was nothing doing yet."

She said women could prepare to be of service, "if and when we are again recruited," by learning a trade. All three services would need typists, stenographers, accountants, cooks, drivers.

"Any emergency can be answered by women in their own place. We certainly don't want to mobilize but if we are needed I believe there will be a terrific response."

VENEZUELAN INDUSTRY

Employment in the Venezuelan oil industry totals about 47,000.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN G. FLETT of Peterborough —Garfield Studio Photo.

Flett-Moncrief Nuptials

In Fraserville United Church Friday afternoon, Greta Cairine Moncrief became the bride of Mr. John Graham Flett of Peterborough in a ceremony performed by the Rev. B. Heywood. The bride is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Moncrief of Fraserville and the groom is son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Flett of Oshawa.

The church was beautifully decorated with gladioli and banked with ferns. Mrs. Bertha McClenaghan played the wedding music and Mrs. Lawrence Winslow sang two solos, "Because" and "Through the Years."

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a gown of star white slipper satin, fashioned with a fitted basque and scalloped portrait neckline trimmed with seed pearls. The long lily pointed sleeves and yoke were of frosted shadow lace. The very full skirt falling in deep folds, featured side paniers of the lace forming a soft bustle effect above the sweeping train. From her satin and lace bonnet which was trimmed with seed pearls a veil of tulle illusion net fell to fingertip length. She carried a bouquet of Better Time roses.

Maid of honor, Miss Grace Killingbeck of Campbellford, was frocked in mauve taffeta and wore a hand-beaded tiara in matching tone, carrying a bouquet of gladioli. Bridesmaids Miss Eleanor Whitfield and Miss Lorraine Pue of Fraserville were gowned in yellow and lime green taffeta, also wearing matching hand-beaded tiaras and carrying bouquets of gladioli.

The groom was attended by his brother, Mr. Ronald Flett of Oshawa. Neil Huggins and Orville Moncrief were ushers.

A banquet and reception was held at the Kawartha Country Club where the bride's mother received, attired in navy faille crepe with navy accessories and corsage of pink roses, assisted by the groom's mother, in figured green crepe with green accessories and corsage of pink roses.

The couple left on a motor trip through the Adirondack Mountains of Old Orchard, Maine. For travelling the bride wore a navy English tricotine suit and navy accessories, carrying a three-quarter length grey whip-cord coat. Her corsage was of white gardenias.

Out of town guests were present from Toronto, Oshawa, Brooklyn, Fenelon Falls, Bobcageon, Port Hope, Trenton, Campbellford, Keene and Bethany.

Guests, Talent Inspirational To Circle Meeting

A friendship meeting to which invitations had been sent to all women of Murray St. Baptist Church by the Mary Nicholls Mission Circle was a pleasing event of Tuesday evening in the church parlors. President Mrs. T. W. Johnson was presiding.

Three ladies of the Salvation Army were special guests. Mrs. Cyril Everitt gave a fine inspirational address, choosing as her text the "incident of Paul being let down over the wall of Damascus in a basket" and enlarging the theme to show significance of every seemingly unimportnat detail in daily living.

Mrs. Everitt also gave interesting information regarding some special missionary endeavours of the Salvation Army.

Mrs. Mendell Braund sang a beautiful solo, "He smiled on me." Mrs. Ben Smith was her accompanist.

The Rev. Ivan C. Morgan gave a very helpful devotional talk, his subject "Moses the law giver." Mrs. A. Haddow offered prayer for missionaries and their work.

Appreciation of the help and inspiration of the SA members was expressed by Miss Clara Doughty.

The meeting was followed by a social period with Miss Margaret Eastwood and members of group five in charge.

Stark-Hunt Two-ring Rites

The Lakehurst United Church, decorated with gladioli and asters and banked with ferns, was the setting Saturday afternoon for the wedding of Shirley Mary Martha Hunt to Mr. James Robert Stark of Peterborough. The bride is the second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Hunt, Lakehurst, and the groom is son of Mrs. Robert Stark of Keene and the late Mr. Stark.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. E. W. Rowland of Peterborough. Mrs. Wm. J. Stockdale played the wedding music and during signing of the register Mr. Kenneth Stewart sang "O Perfect Love."

A gown of white brocaded taffeta with bustle-effect skirt which fell into a long train was the bride's choice. The bodice, with "little boy" collar, was buttoned to the waist at front with tiny covered buttons and finished with long pointed sleeves. She wore the traditional vail in fingertip length caught to a pearl-studded crown and she carried a shower bouquet of red roses. She was given in marriage by her father.

Two sisters of the bride were in the wedding party, Mrs. Alex. T. Clark as matron of honor and Miss Joan Hunt as junior bridesmaid. The groom's sister Mrs. Jack Mose was bridesmaid and the little flower girl was Marlene Boulter of Peterborough. All wore gowns styled with bustle-effect skirts and slight trains, the waists finished with tiny sleeves and off-the-shoulder bertha collars. The lovely colors of the taffeta were American Beauty, worn by Mrs. Clark, lime green by Mrs. Mose, golden yellow by Miss Hunt, and twilight mauve for the flower girl's miniature model. The attendants wore matching half-hats and the flower girl a bonnet each trimmed on the sides with rosettes. They carried bouquets of gladioli and roses in shades to match their dresses.

Of Interest to Women

DOROTHY DIX

Wife Must Be Worth Trust To Be Treated as Partner

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: In regard to your recent article about husbands telling their wives about their business affairs I desire more light. It was my idea when I married to make my wife a real partner in my business and tell her all about my affairs, but within three years she began being bored and lost all interest in the subject. Futhermore she blamed me for all unprofitable investments, even though we had previously talked it all over and agreed upon what to do, and she twitted me with every mistake. Also she confided all my business secrets to her friends. Necessarily I had to quit telling her anything about my affairs, so I have concluded that the more a wife ness, the more harm she can do.

Dorothy Dix

BEWILDERED HUSBAND

ANSWER: You have to deal with a wife according to her folly and if you have one who has no real interest in business, no sense of values and no discretion you cannot treat her as a reasonable human being and make her a partner.

When I advocated husbands telling their wives about their business affairs and discussing their hopes and plans with them, I had in mind the practical, commonsense, ambitious woman who is just as anxious for her husband to succeed as he is himself and who could be a very real help to him if he would let her. I felt that the man was depriving himself of something of value that he might get out of his wife's co-operation, and that they would both be drawn closer together by having a mutual interest and striving for the same end, and that a closer companionship would come from their talking over all their problems together.

But there are women who seem unable to grasp the simplest business proposition. There are others whose knowledge of their husbands' affairs furnish them with subjects for nagging. There are still other's who blab everything. Plenty of women have lost their husbands good jobs by telling office secrets. Plenty of others have ruined their husbands' credit by telling that their husbands were in financial straits.

Obviously a man is a fool to confide his business affairs to a wife who is loose-tongued or who does not take a real heart interest in what he is telling her. Also many men refrain from talking over their business affairs at home because it brings up all the knows about her husband's busiunpleasant incidents of the day and makes them relive all of its worries and anxieties, and they want to forget them in order that they may be better able to grapple with their problems.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: What is your opinion of home and family life?

MARTHA

ANSWER: They are the two most important things in the world. They are the foundation upon which all civilization rests. They form the character and set the life pattern of every one of us.

Every man and woman of us are stamped indelibly with the print of the homes out of which we have come. We are what our family life has made us. No matter how far we go, no matter what culture we take on, no matter how much we belive we have changed and how much we think we have gotten away from the teachings of our childhood, they still subconsciously color our every thought and act.

Our mothers and fathers shaped the clay and fired it in the oven of home, and we are what they made us. In the great crises of our lives we do not calmly reason things out. We are actuated by the principles that we draw in with our mothers' milk. We stand or fall. We are weak or strong according to the habits that our parents bred in us.

That is why the making of a home and the rearing of a family are the biggest jobs that any man and woman undertake, because the children that they send out into the world are going to be a blessing or a curse to it according to the way they have done their work.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: The girl to whom I am engaged is slowly becoming bald. Should I go on and marry her, or should I break off the engagement?

GEORGE

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: If the girl is all that you wish in other respects, you should not let her falling hair come between you in these days when transformations are so beautifully and artistically made. And why not be just? You know very well that your sweetheart wouldn't consider giving you the air just because you were losing your hair. Every day you see women marry men who are as bald as parrots; women have enough sense to rate a man by what is inside of his head, not what is on the outside.

FOR A TASTY FISH MEAL try one of the many suggestions included in the newly released Fish Book, ninth in the series.

Vary Your Meals With Ideas From the Fish Cookbook

Just like the eight preceding books in the series—Snacks, Leftovers, Cakes, Poultry, Pies, Soups, Salads, and Meat, "250 Different Fish and Seafood Recipes," the ninth in the series of twenty-four cookbooks available to readers of the Examiner, is full of all sorts of ideas, photographs, and step-by-step instructions to make the preparation and eating of fish a delight to homemaker, family or guests.

Have you ever wondered how the New Englanders make such good codfish balls? Here is the answer:

Codfish Balls

1 cup flaked cooked fresh cod
1½ cups mashed potatoes
1 egg, beaten
1 tablespoon butter, melted
¼ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon onion juice

Mix ingredients and beat until smooth and fluffy. Shape lightly into balls or cakes. Saute or fry in hot deep fat (375 F.) until browned. Serve hot with tomato sauce. Serves 4.

To use salt cod instead of fresh cod, freshen cod and simmer until tender, 30 to 35 minutes per pound. Use as above.

Add 1 teaspoon dry mustard and 2 teaspoons lemon juice

Salmon, halibut, pike perch, freshened salt mackerel and other fish may be used instead of cod. Boil uncooked potatoes and fish together until tender, drain thorough, dry over low heat and beat until fluffy and smooth Add remaining ingredients and proceed as above.

Add ¼ cup cheese to the tomato sauce.

Codfish Puffs—Use 2 eggs instead of 1. Beat mixture 2 minutes with rotary beater. Drop from spoon into hot fat.

The large variety of recipes and the imagination used in compiling this Cookbook give ample reason for owning it Not only is it full of clear instructions for making standard preparations such as the proper way to boil fish, broil it, or fry it, but it is also full of suggestions for unusual sauces and fancy dishes such as oysters Rockefeller, devilled crabs, scallops en brochette, and many others.

To obtain the Fish Book just clip a coupon from page 2 of any issue of this newspaper and present it with 25c at the Examiner office or from your Examiner carrier or at Braund's Home Food Markets. If you wish to obtain your copy by mail send 30c (5c additional for postage and handling) to Cookbook Department. Examiner, Peterborough. And since the coupons appear in all issues of the paper, in the same manner you can easily catch up on the previous numbers you might have missed.

Prize Blankets Used Since '63

VANCOUVER (CP).—A pair of blankets in continual use since 1863 won first prize in the Hudson's Bay Company's contest to find the oldest blankets still in use.

The Hudson's Bay "point" blankets, which travelled the Cariboo Trail of '63 are owned by Mrs. Louise Brunton, of White Rock, B.C.

The blankets were bought by her father, William Brunton, and used when mules and oxen travelled what is now the route of the Cariboo Highway. They covered their owner when marauding Indians invaded his lonely prospector's cabin.

Later the blankets protected Mrs. Brunton when her motorboat transport broke down as she was on her way to take a teaching job at a remote northern coastal point.

RCMP COUNTERPARTS

Policemen in Australia's northern territory have beats as large as 168,000 square miles.

THE "PLAN"

MONTREAL — (CP) — Airport technicians here have constructed Canada's first "plan." The half-plane, half-car is used to test airplane engines. It speeds from plane to plane, the engines are lifted onto its back and the driver tests them by checking instruments in the cab.

Widow Declines Ontario Aid

TORONTO, Sept. 13 (CP) — An official of the Ontario Welfare Department said today public assistance from the Province has been declined by a war veteran's widow reported to be keeping herself and six children on $31 a month.

A report Tuesday from Portland, 20 miles south of Smiths Falls said that neighbors of Mrs. William Oprey, 29, had appealed on her behalf to the Provincial and Federal Governments for assistance.

Mrs. Oprey, who came to Canada as a British war bride, said the monthly $31 —her family allowances cheque— is all she has.

The official here said she wrote the department declining public assistance and saying she was waiting word on a Federal pension as a veteran's widow.

He said in the meantime she is getting some assistance from the Township of Bastard and Burgess, fuel from neighbours and has a $500 bank account.

The maximum Ontario Mother's Allowances 100 monthly; the widow's allowance, $70.80.

Length Of Skid Marks Fails To Prove Case

Because the court could not infer excessive speed from the length of marks on the shoulder of a highway which indicated a car was almost out of control, a charge of careless driving against Earl Carveth, 479 Sherbrooke St., was dismised by Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, in police court Tuesday.

Provincial Constable J. C. McKendry testified that July 4 he investigated an accident in which Carveth's car went off the pavement of Highway 7 east of Peterborough for 72 feet and while arching back toward the pavement rolled over twice in a distance of another 66 feet.

The provincial constable said the accident had happened for "no apparent reason." He added Carveth had been drinking, but was not drunk.

Carveth denied he had anything to drink that day, but he said his companion had been drinking. He explained as he was driving along the highway, he met an approaching car whose lights blinded him. He touched his brakes and felt the car go off the pavement. He turned it back to the pavement and then rolled over.

In view of the explanation given by Carveth, and the distances involved, the court could not infer there had been excessive speed which might constitute careless driving, the magistrate said in dismissing the charge.

Lindsay Policeman Goes To Oshawa Job

LINDSAY, Sept. 13. — Ross Endicott, holding the second longest record on the Lindsay Police department, resigned Monday. He is leaving police work on September 23 to accept a position in Oshawa.

Chief Webster, Ald. Ferguson and Reeve Kingsborough commented on Mr. Endicott's excellent record as a police officer and citizen at this week's meeting of the council.

The department was authorized by the council to advertise for a new constable. Applications will be accepted until September 30 and until then a temporary replacement will be hired.

Mimico Rail Victim Belongs To Lindsay

LINDSAY, Sept. 13.—Gordon Bailey, one of the victims of the Mimico rail accident Tuesday, is a former resident of Lindsay.

For the past few years Mr. Bailey has made his home in Lindsay and only recently moved to Toronto. During those years he has worked in the New Toronto area.

Believed jammed between the boiler and the tender Mr. Bailey's injuries included a broken leg and a badly crushed foot. His son, Bud, and his wife went to Toronto Tuesday to be with Mr. Bailey.

Three Badly Hurt In Truck-Train Smash

TIFFIN, O., Sept. 13 (AP) — Three persons were reported in serious condition today from injuries received when a tractor-trailer truck and a New York Central passenger train collided yesterday.

The accident, seven miles west of here, injured eight others and resulted in four of the train's 11 cars being derailed.

County police said the truck evidently rammed into the side of the train bound for Cincinnati from Detroit with about 115 passengers aboard.

5 Miners Killed

PRAGUE, Sept. 13.—(Reuters). —Five Czech miners were killed in an explosion in a coal mine at Handlova in Central Slovakia Sept. 6, it was reported today.

Charge Places Accident In Wrong Area

A charge of leaving the scene of an accident against R. E. Brown, 262 McDonnel St., was reserved for judgment by Magistrate W.R. Philp, KC., in police court Tuesday.

The magistrate wanted extra time to consider whether the scene of the accident as written on the charge could be legally changed from Smith township to Lakefield. Defending Brown, T. J. Carley, KC, argues that such a change actually resulted in a new charge being laid against Brown and it was too late at that time to lay a charge. A charge must be laid within 10 days after an offence.

Both the Crown and the defence presented their evidence in the trial although this point had not been decided.

Andrew Comfort, Hamilton, testified that about 1.30 a.m. Aug. 19, while driving west on the east bridge in Lakefield his car was sideswiped by a car approaching him from a road to the south, between the two bridges at Lakefield.

He said he shouted to the driver of the other car and the other car came almost to a stop and then drove on. His cousin, Clifford Heal, said he yelled out, when he saw the other car start away, for someone to get the licence number of the other car. His wife sitting in the middle of the back seat turned around and took down a number which was traced by police to Brown.

Provincial Constable Fred Rawlings testified he interviewed Brown about 8 a.m. the same day. Brown admitted he had been driving his car in the Lakefield area that night, but had been in no collision with any car.

In police court Brown testified in his own behalf he had not been on the road south of the bridges. He said he went to see Mr. Heal the following Monday and offered to pay about $10 it would take to fix the paint on Comfort's car rather than pay a lawyer $20 or $25 to defend him in court.

"Well, you're too low on that," Mr. Carley interjected.

Brown said he had crossed the bridge only twice that night, once about 10.30 p.m. going into Lakefield with friends and once coming back sometime after one a.m. Passengers in his car, Mr. and Mrs. John Lenard, 164 Charlotte St., and Miss Verna Radley, 154 London St., corroborated his evidence.

The case was adjourned to Sept. 19.

Will Honor Graduates In Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 13 — (ENS)—Rev. A. E. Toombs of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church will be the guest speaker at the first meeting of the Home and School club, to be held on Wednesday, Sept. 20 in the Parish Hall.

The 1950 graduating class will be the guests of honor, and a special program has been arranged.

Robert Fulton Buried

Funeral service for the late Robert (Leon) Fulton, 21, of Buckhorn was largely attended on Tuesday at the family residence. The Rev. C. G. Shantz of the Gospel Hall Church, assisted by Mr. Samuel Wood of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, Buckhorn, officiated. Pallbearers were Francis Edwards, Donald Morris, Allen Ireland, Rae McPhee, Ray Fulton and John Barr. Flower-bearers were Mrs. Vera Flood, Mrs. Otha Scriver, Miss Mary Fulton, Vincent and Russell Graham, Eldon Montgomery, James and Garry Fulton. Burial was at Lakefield Cemetery.

Driver Freed On Two Counts

Two charges of careless driving and leaving the scene of an accident against Ross Dulmage, 485 Donegal St., were dismissed in police court Tuesday.

The charge of leaving the scene was dismissed when evidence showed Dulmage's car in the early hours of July 24 had struck a parked car on the used car lot of the Bell service station on the River road. The Highway Traffic Act reads that an accident occurring on private property need not be reported.

In answer to the careless driving charge, Dulmage said his hydraulic brakes failed just before he started to follow a turn on the River road nearly a mile south of Highway 7. He got part way around the turn when his wheels hit some loose gravel. The rear end of his car shot around on the gravel and his car headed across the road, through a shallow ditch and struck the parked car.

Provincial Constable Russell Pollard, who investigated in connection with the charge of leaving the scene of the accident, testified marks on the road traced Dulmage's car 190 feet on the pavement to the curve and 40 feet across the shoulder and ditch to the point of impact.

The front left fender, bumper and front left wheel of the parked car were all damaged. He said his headquarters had received no report of the accident. He found Dulmage fixing his car at a house a short distance from the scene of the accident.

Don Russell, 298 Braidwood Ave., testified he had driven Dulmage's car the day before the accident and the brakes had worked satisfactorily then. A passenger in Dulmage's car, Fern Beatty, testified she had noticed Dulmage pump his brakes before they entered the curve and the next thing she knew they had hit something.

Drunk Fined

Pleading guilty in police court today to a charge of being drunk, Evelyn McCain, Water St., was fined $10 and costs or 10 days.

YWCA Opening New Cafeteria

A new cafeteria restaurant will be open to the public in Peterborough next Monday. The dining-room at the YWCA has been completely redecorated and converted into a cafeteria and is open to the public, both men and women.

The redecorating included newly painted chartreuse walls and mushroom pink ceiling and window wall. The stylized window drapes are of burgundy, teal blue and chartreuse on mushroom pink. Fluorescent lights have been installed.

New chairs of natural birch and new bleached mahogany finished tables are expected to arrive sometime this week.

Behind the fully equipped cafeterian counter a new electric dishwasher, slicer and mixer have been added to the kitchen.

A lounging and reading waiting-room will also be provided.

Warn Standard Of Living Likely To Drop

OTTAWA, Sept. 13 — (CP) — The Senate heard warnings Tuesday that if threats to world peace continue, Canadians can expect a reduction in their living standards with the probable return of price and wage and other of the wide range of controls they knew in wartime.

Senator Salter Hayden (L-Ontario) said a government bill to control consumer credit was "only the beginning." He predicted that if defence necessities kept biting into the consumer market, there would "be a lot more in the way of restrictions and control in the very near future."

In fact, he believed it would "lead directly to price control and to wage control and all the controls we had in full bloom during the war."

Don't Realize Facts.

Senator John T. Haig, Progressive Conservative leader, said he did not think Canadians yet realized the magnitude of the situation. It might well be that they would have to "reduce their standard of living."

Senator Wishart Robertson, Government leader, said Canada's present rising cost of living could be traced to the fact Canada's economy was "moving more and towards integration with the United States." The prices Canadians paid for most goods were the United States prices, plus 10 per cent— the amount of the devaluation of the Canadian dollar in relation to the U. S. dollar.

Senator Arthur Roebuck (L-Ontario) and Senator W. M. Aseltine (PC-Saskatchewan) also spoke in the debate before the Consumer Credit Bill was given second and third readings. It will give the Government power to control credit.

STRIKERS ARRESTED — Policemen snap handcuffs on one of 150 picketing members of the Civic Employees' Union preventing householders from dumping garbage in Hamilton's dumps. Several trucks attempted to get past picket lines but were halted and turned back. Eight pickets were arrested in two days.

Germany Strives To Restore Scientific Work

By JOHN EARLE

BONN, Germany, Sept. 13 — (Reuters)— West Germany is striving, with limited means, to restore German science to the pre-eminent position it once occupied in the world.

The general disintegration of national life which followed the Second World War dragged science into a state of stagnation. Trade and research came to a standstill. Priceless equipment was destroyed and valuable patents confiscated by the victors.

To focus public attention on the present resurgence, a "Week of German Science" was held at Bonn early in August. Scientific associations, rectors of universities and professors from all parts of West Germany took part.

To Avert Breakdown

Prominent among the associations was the "Emergency Society of German Science," re-established in January, 1949, "to avert the danger of a total breakdown of scientific research in Germany."

Its members are a cross-section of national scientific life and include the universities of the Western Zones—it is not represented in the Soviet Zone.

During "Science Week" it was announced that the United States, through the Marshall Plan, would give directly to West German agriculture 20,000,000 marks ($5,136,000). This money is not only to be used for specific scientific research projects but also for long-term plans to build new agricultural institutes and schools. It will also largely be applied with a view to benefitting West Germany's export trade.

Britain Now Drawing Heavily On Cold Storage Military Reserves

By E. S. JOHNSON

LONDON, Sept. 13 — (CP) — Britain is drawing heavily on her military reserves—consigned to "cold storage" after the second world war—in strengthening her defences to meet the uncertainties of the mounting international crisis.

Already orders have gone out from the Admiralty to thaw out 89 units of the country's so-called "frozen fleet," sealed scientifically since 1945 but kept ready for action on short notice.

Hundreds of planes have been taken out of mothballs, while reserve tanks, funs and other armaments are being refitted and reconditioned for service.

These are among measures taken by the Defence Department under the emergency program approved late July.

Some For Korea

Much of the reserve has been earmarked to bolster Britain's increased commitments in Korea and other Far-Eastern trouble spots, but some of it will be retained to buttress Western European and home defences.

In its announcement, the Admiralty made known that among the ships to be recommissioned are 35 minesweepers, 24 landing craft, nine frigates, seven destroyers, five boom-defence ships and some miscellaneous vessels.

The refitting job has been allocated to private yards in 10 different areas. Immediately after the present schedule is completed it is understood other groups will be assigned so that most ships in the reserve fleet can be brought to a high state of readiness.

Apart from this program, work is being speeded up on completion of four aircraft carriers. Laid down toward the end of the war, each has a displacement of 18,000 tons, speed of 30 knots and is equipped to carry 50 planes. It is thought they will not be ready before the end of the year.

Kept Secret

Actual strength of Britain's armament reservoir has been cloaked in secrecy for security reasons. It is common knowledge, however, that vast stores of aircraft, tanks, armored cars, and fighting ships of almost every category were put away for safekeeping after the war.

But before being placed in reserve, the 'ghost fleet" and other costly armaments were scientifically treated and stored in plastic "cocoons" against the ravages of time and weather.

The cold-storage reserve is being tapped only as an emergency measure to tide Britain over the present pressure period. A great volume of modern arms, beginning to flow from the nation's arsenals, will ultimately take its place.

Ontario's Feudin' Judges Still At It Nobody Knows How To Settle Tiff

By GEORGE RONALD.

TORONTO, Sept. 13 —(CP) — Ontario's feudin' judges are still at it. They're saying nothing to each other —and not much more than that for publication.

Most of the verbal jabbing on Tuesday— second day of the McRuer-vs.-Schroeder Battle — was outside the ring, among the spectators. Many weren't very sure just what to say.

Judicial silence started Monday with no advance billing—although it might have been heralded: "Who's going to try whom?"

Chief Justice J. C. McRuer, thin, 60-year-old top man of the Province's Supreme Court, got back to town earlier than expected after presiding at the Fall Assizes in Peterborough.

Mr. Justice W. F. Schroeder, suave, 49 and a former top-flight Ottawa lawyer, was here already scheduled to take charge of criminal cases when the Toronto Assizes started. But didn't. The chief justice did, apparently acting on the tradition whereby senior men get the criminal proceedings, juniors the civil actions.

Mr. Justice Schroeder declined to preside over the civil actions and adjourned hearings indefinitely although litigants, witnesses and counsel were waiting.

It happened again Tuesday.

They made progress on the criminal cases, with Chief Justice McRuer presiding. Nothing happened in civil court.

Mr. Justice Schroeder stayed home. Said a bored witness outside the empty courtroom: "Looks like the Judge is on a sitdown strike."

Then Mr. Justice Schroeder went to the law library at Osgoode Hall.

Then he went into his own office. A reporter caught up with him there. Mr. Justice Schroeder's "no comment" went like this:

"I hope you'll not think me discourteous, but I feel it would not be quite right for me to comment."

He regretted "all this publicity —but of course it can't be helped," and added:

"I understand the Chief Justice is not commenting either."

Others Were Talking

The Chief Justice wasn't. Others were:

Attorney-General Porter: "It's up to the Chief Justice; he can assign another judge to the civil court."

A lawyer: "I think Mr. Justice Schroeder had a perfect right to be mad at being overruled by the Chief Justice."

The same lawyer (later): "However, I think the Noble Judge should have sat and voiced his objection later before the Judges' Council."

There apparently was no rule on how to settle a tiff between judges, because nobody ever expected two judges would start tiffing.

Wins Acquittal

WELLAND, Sept. 13 — (CP) — Cecil Carver, 28, of Ridgeway, was acquitted Tuesday of a charge of manslaughter after he had testified that he "blacked out" before his truck crashed into the rear of a hay wagon, killing 12-year-old Roy Bean, Jr. The Ontario Registrar of Motor Vehicles was instructed not to issue a licence to Carver. Carver testified that he had suffered from fluctuating blood pressure since returning from overseas after the second world war.

Legion Opens To Conscripts Ranks

WINNIPEG, Sept. 13 (CP). — The Canadian Legion has opened its ranks — although only after tempestuous debate — to conscripted soldiers of the Second World War who served in war theatres.

Delegates to the Dominion convention here debated the controversial change in the Legion constitution for 90 stormy minutes Tuesday before it was approved 764 to 428 in a secret ballot.

Legionnaires who spoke strongly in favor of the move included Hon. C. Rhodes Smith, Manitoba's Attorney-General and chairman of the Legion's Constitution and Laws Committee, and H. A. Newmark of Montreal, spokesman for the Quebec Command.

Mr. Smith, who introduced the motion, said the move was designed to unite all those who bore arms in the service of Canada. Men conscripted in the First World War were Legion members and in other Commonwealth countries, many conscripted for service were admitted to Legion membership.

He said men conscripted under the National Resources Mobilization Act who refused to change their status but served in action as conscripts were "just as much volunteers" as those servicemen who waited until they knew they were going overseas and then volunteered.

Mr. Newmark charged that the delegates opposing the move were being inconsistent. Monday they had urged the government to implement conscription.

He claimed NRMA men had "exhibited appalling ignorance of what the law required" and were provided with little opportunity to get this information.

"If they had understood they would have been prepared to do their duty," he said.

Those who went overseas and saw action were "not less resolute" in facing the enemy than volunteers.

T. Poolton of Kapuskasing, said he did not want "men who lay around Canada for 3½ years admitted to the Legion."

Ray Mann of Brantford said the Legion "will invite disintegration by accepting to membership men who dishonored their country by failing to offer the same sacrifice as those now buried in foreign soil."

An amendment proposed by Bob MacNicol of Gibson, BC, asking a secret ballot be taken of the entire membership, was voted down.

UN Bombing Has Wrecked Supply Lines

Red Communications Knocked Out MacArthur Declares

TOKYO, Sept. 14—(CP)—Heavy bombing by United States superfortresses has wrecked Communist communications and the Reds now are cut off from their sources of supply in North Korea, Gen. MacArthur said today.

The United Nations commander said bombing has "just about completed" the job of cutting Red communications southward.

Meanwhile, a North Korean broadcast—badly garbled in reception — appeared to be saying that an Allied amphibious landing was attempted today on Korea's west coast near Red-held Seoul.

There was no confirmation from Allied sources.

The U.S. Navy announced earlier that British and American warships' guns and carrier planes pounded the area from dawn to dusk Tuesday and Wednesday.

Informed sources said they believed the Reds were trying to save face on the shellacking they took in the bombardment by calling it a victory in a landing effort that was repulsed.

Associated Press field correspondents in Korea said there was no word of any activity there to support the Communist reports of an Allied landing attempt.

The Red broadcast, from the North Korean capital of Pyongyang, reported a landing attempt began at 8 p.m. (7 a.m., EDT, today). It said the effort was repulsed and six American vessels —mostly destroyers—were sunk.

Commando Control

Islands flanking Inchon have been seized by South Korean marines in commando raids. This served the double purpose of throwing a wrench in the Reds' seaborne supply lines to the battlefront—and preparing a possible avenue for an offensive.

The U.S. Navy said American and British cruisers and destroyers blasted two whole days at Inchon, port of Seoul, which is 22 miles inland.

Carrier planes went after airstrips, troops and gun emplacements there and along a 210-mile western coastal strip.

The strikes were disclosed as Allied ground forces, more than 150 miles to the southeast, either

Believe Pearson To Confer With Big Three

NEW YORK, Sept. 14 (CP)—L. B. Pearson said today Canada enters talks among Atlantic Allies with an "open mind" on questions of Western defence.

Canada's external affairs minister emphasized, however, on his arrival in New York that Canada's present plans do not include dispatching ground troops to the continent.

Pearson said he expects to confer today with Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin of Britain and State Secretary Dean Acheson of the United States to learn what has been discussed among Acheson, Bevin, and Foreign Minister Robert Schuman of France in the big-three meetings.

Tomorrow Pearson plunges into a two-day round of meetings among the 12 Atlantic Pact countries, continuing work on plans to stem Communist aggression.

May Head Group

Pearson said it is possible that a Canadian may be appointed to head a proposed information group which would be set up by the Atlantic Pact to help member countries inform the world about the aims of the defence organization.

Plans for the information unit will receive further consideration at the coming meeting, he said.

On the question of rearming Western Germany which also will be discussed here, Pearson said Canada feels this is essential "because the Eastern Germans are already rearmed."

He expressed the opinion that "the best way to neutralize (Western) Germany" is to integrate her in a European system of which her armed forces would form a part.

Called In?

Pearson's arrival one day before the Atlantic Pact meeting raised speculation he has been called in by the Big Three foreign ministers to present Canada's views on some top problems. The Big Three representatives are ranging in their talks over almost all pressing problems of the East-West conflict.

The External Affairs Minister is accompanied by a large staff of advisers including A. D. P. Heeney, his deputy; L. Dana Wilgress, Canada's High Commissioner in London and representative on the North Atlantic Council of Deputies; and Lt.-Gen. Charles Foulkes, Chief of the General Staff.

Safecrackers Grab $23,000 In Keswick Bank Raid

KESWICK, Ont., Sept. 14—(CP)—A gang of safecrackers escaped with an estimated $23,000 early today after blowing the safe of the Canadian Bank of Commerce branch here. Provincial and municipal police are hunting for a gang who stole a large quantity of dynamite from a Nobel, Ont., plant a month ago was responsible. Keswick, 40 miles north of Toronto, is some 80 miles south of Nobel.

It was the second large-scale robbery of the same bank in a week. The Canadian Bank of Commerce branch at Binbrooke, Ont., near Hamilton, was robbed of $14,000 in cash and $10,000 in bonds a week ago when its safe was blown.

Doors Blasted

The double doors of the Keswick bank safe were blasted by nitroglycerine believed produced from dynamite, Count Constable William Hill said. As at Binbrook, residents of Keswick who felt their homes jarred by the blast thought nothing of it. The crime was not discovered until a cleaning woman arrived at 7.30 a.m.

Money was spilled on the bank steps by the thieves as they fled. Straw, used as packing around the safe to deaden the sound, was blown about. Police said they believed a pass key may have been used to obtain entry to the bank.

Safe Left With Money Near Open Store Door

FORT ERIE, Sept. 14 (CP). — Police are holding five Hamilton men for questioning in connection with a break-in at the Robert Simpson branch store early today.

A police patrol discovered a rear door to the Simpson store open, and a large safe wheeled to within a few feet of the open door, which faces on an alley. The safe contained considerable money.

Held on charges of possessing burglary tools, and for questioning in connection with the attempted robbery are George C. Stevens, Antonio Codispodi, Nicholas Froel, James Albert McGahey, and Leonard Depodesta, 56 Clyde Street.

Police were notified an unsuccessful attempt had been made to remove a safe at Hebert's Garage in Welland earlier. They are investigating a possible tie-up in the two cases.

23 Pickets Held In Scuffle

HAMILTON, Sept. 14—(CP)—Twenty-three men were arrested Wednesday on charges of obstruction as police scuffled with massed picket-lines at Hamilton's east-end garbage dump.

As the strike of municipal workers entered its sixth week, both police and strikers reinforced their ranks at the dump, where police attempted to clear passage for garbage trucks to unload.

Six men were arrested as the picketers blocked the first attempt. Police arrested 17 more as they breached the line to allow a car to pass.

Negotiations between the city and the workers will re-open today with conciliation officer A. C. Dennis.

US Plane Missing Near Watertown, NY

TRENTON, Sept. 14 (CP). — A United States F-86 jet fighter has been missing since noon Wednesday while on a flight in the Watertown, N. Y., district, RCAF officials here said today.

Three aircraft and para-rescue team at Trenton are standing by to take part in the search for the fighter. However, RCAF officials said the U.S. Air Force has made no request for aid and "appears to have the situation well in hand."

The plane, based at Rome, N. Y., was last seen 10 miles east of Watertown when it dropped out of a formation flight with other planes.

Lost At Rooming House Mother Finds 6 Children

NEW YORK, Sept. 14 (AP). — Six children whose mother thought she had lost them somewhere in Brooklyn or Queens were located today in the Bronx

Mrs. Ruth Stevens, 39-year-old widow from Bladensboro, N.C., arrived with her family Sunday. Monday she appealed to Travellers' Aid, saying she had taken the children to a rooming house but couldn't find it.

All she could remember was a neighborhood with a lot of funeral parlors and a dime store reached by a bridge with trains on it, at a taxi cost of about $2

The frantic mother spent two nights in a city shelter while the apparently-hopeless search continued.

But Wednesday the bus-depot porter who suggested the address was found. The house was in the Bronx.

Mrs. Stevens' plight brought her a quick introduction to the ways of the city.

A radio station planned it so would take place in the studio and be broadcast on a country-wide hook-up.

Britain Sends Reinforcements

LONDON, Sept. 14—(Reuters)—British troop reinforcements for Korea are to be flown to the Far East almost immediately, the Air Ministry announced today.

Transport planes, each carrying about 35 men, will leave an RAF station in Wiltshire, taking about eight days to reach Japan.

From there the men will be moved to Korea under United Nations arrangements.

An Air Ministry spokesman said the number of the troops going could not be disclosed for security reasons.

The War Office said the despatch of the troops was in conformity with Prime Minister Attlee's announcement in Parliament that Britain would send "a self-contained force" to Korea.

BULLETIN

PHILADELPHIA — (AP)— The discovery of tritium, the hydrogen bomb explosive, in water was announced today at the research institute of Temple University. Tritium presently costs nearly $500,000,000 a pound as it is made with atomic reactors. This natural tritium is the rarest element in nature. There is one atom of tritium for every sextillion— 1,000,000,000,000,000,000 —atoms of hydrogen in ordinary water.

Rousing Battle Over TLC Reds

MONTREAL, Sept. 14 (CP).—After a rousing convention-floor battle over the issue of Communism in unions, the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada today upheld its leadership's action in barring six Red suspects from the annual meeting.

At the end of a tumultuous scrap over the question, the convention backed up by about 30 to 1 the executive decision keeping out the six, who are among 20 banned originally by the conventions Credentials Committee.

The case of the other 13 did not crop up today because up to this point they had not sought formally to be admitted.

Those whose disbarment was upheld by the convention were: Mrs. Helen Weir, Toronto hotel and restaurant worker; Reginald Wright, Toronto head of the Chemical Workers' Union; Jack Phillips and Donald Guise, Vancouver Civic Workers' Union; Sam Lapedes of Toronto, national representative of the United Garment Workers of America; and Alexander Gauld, Montreal plumber.

The hour-long debate over the alleged Reds was punctuated by boos, jeers and other interruptions as the overwhelmingly-strong anti-Reds battled it out with the left-wing minority of about 25 delegates.

Gov't Fires Attorney For Crown

Accept Resignations Of 2 Members Of Police Commission

TORONTO, Sept. 14—(CP)—The Ontario government today fired Crown Attorney E. C. Awrey of Windsor and accepted the "gracious" offer of two police commissioners who believe their resignation will help speed reorganization of Windsor's police force.

The decision, announced in a statement by Attorney-General Porter, came on the heels of a report which said vice has "flourished" in Windsor and that police officials must be aware of its existence.

The report was by two provincial police inspectors who made a seven-week study of law enforcement in the border city.

Decided To Retire Him

The statement said that "in the light of the report," the government decided to "retire" Mr. Awrey.

It said that Judge A. J. Gordon and Magistrate A. W. MacMillan, members of the three-man police commission, "offered to retire" and that the government accepted their offer.

The third commissioner is Mayor Arthur Reaume.

"By statute," said Mr. Porter, "so long as he holds that office, (Mr. Reaume) must remain as a police commissioner, so that his retirement is out of the question."

Named to replace Judge Gordon and Magistrate MacMillan are Judge A. Cochrane of Brampton and Roland Harris, general manager of the C. H. Smith department store in Windsor.

"In order that Mr. Harris may be qualified to be designated as a police commissioner," said Mr. Porter, "he has been appointed a magistrate ad hoc (special appointment) without remuneration as such."

Report To Be Submitted

The Provincial Police report, which contains six recommendations in the light of the study by inspectors W. H. Lougheed and Frank C. Kelly, will be submitted immediately to the new commission.

M. A. C. Hall, Crown Attorney at Whitby, will take over Mr. Awrey's duties until a permanent successor is named.

Mr. Porter's statement was made following a cabinet meeting at which the inspectors' report was discussed.

He said today's moves were "a first step" toward reorganization of the Windsor police set-up.

Judge Gordon, the attorney-general said, is among the most highly-esteemed county jurists in Ontario and is repected by the legal profession for his integrity and legal judgment.

Offers To Co-operate

"He has graciously offered to co-operate with the government in any new policy that may improve the condition. . . . It is obvious that the reorganization of the police force will require a great deal of special attention for the next few months, which would unduly encroach upon the time that the senior judge must devote to his judicial duties.

"He has, therefore, offered to retire from the commission to make such changes possible. The same may be said of Magistrate MacMilan. He also has agreed to retire from the commission to make way for a new appointment."

Drowns In Milk

TAYSIDE, Sept. 15—(CP)—Yvon Richie, 2, drowned in a can of milk in this village 40 miles southeast of Ottawa. The accident occurred Tuesday. Yvon had been watching his mother, Mrs. Roch Richie, and a hired man milk the cows when he apparently lost his balance and tumbled into the can, half-filled with milk. Mrs. Richie discovered the child's body in the tank and immediately called for help, but the boy failed to respond to artificial respiration.

Badly Guarded

LONDON, Sept. 14—(AP)—The Daily Express said today an American air base here is so badly guarded that one of its staff examined six United States bombers without molestation. If he had been a saboteur, the writer said, he could have destroyed the planes easily.

Judge Sentences Langton Killer To Be Hanged

SIMCOE, Sept. 14 — (CP) — Joseph Herbert McAuliffe, 32-year-old bandit who murdered two men who chased him after a June 21 bank holdup at nearby Langton, was sentenced today to be hanged Dec. 19.

Mr. Justice R. W. Treleaven pronounced the sentence, less than a day after an Ontario Supreme Court jury adjudged McAuliffe guilty of the machine-gun slaying of Arthur Lierman and William Goddyn.

It was the first time Mr. Justice Treleaven had ordered a man hanged.

McAuliffe, who was from North Bay, and lived recently in Windsor, was apparently calm as the mandatory death penalty was imposed.

Asked by the judge if he had anything to say before sentence was passed, the convicted murderer said: "No, my lord."

McAuliffe's sister, Mrs. Irene Reynolds of North Bay, saw McAuliffe briefly Wednesday after the jury announced its verdict. She embraced him in a jail corridor.

Throughout his trial, McAuliffe, auburn-haired former Army small arms expert, remained tense and tight-lipped.

The jury returned its verdict after three hours' deliberation. It considered only the evidence pertaining to the Lierman slaying but the circumstances paralleled those of the death of Goddyn, who was in Lierman's car chasing the bank bandit when both men were cut down by machine-gun bullets.

Nab Ft. Erie Man Over Currency

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Sept. 14—(CP)—John H. Cruise, 36, of Fort Erie, was arrested by the RCMP Wednesday night and charged with dealing in $15,000 to $16,000 in United States currency, contrary to the Foreign Exchange Control Act.

Cruise was arrested immediately after his trial on an additional charge of illegal possession of jewellery and other articles imported from the United States with a total value of $5,637. Decision on the possession charge, in which George S. Simpson, of Fort Erie, was charged jointly, was reserved.

Police testified that they found paint marks on a carton in which some of the articles were found, which matched the green paint on a boat of which Simpson claimed ownership. The Crown claimed the goods were smuggled from the United States in the boat.

Cruise will appear in magistrate's court today on the currency charge.

2 Inspectors Say Force Quite Aware Of Gambling, Other Crimes

Morality Squad Receives Most Blame, Stress Dangerous Tie-Up With Notorious Detroit Gambling Syndicates

TORONTO, Sept. 14—(CP)—Two Provincial Police inspectors reported today that vice "flourishes" in Windsor and that they must assume Windsor police officials know about it. It includes bawdy houses "in close proximity to the police station" and "wholesale betting and gambling," they said. Some of it was connected with the "big-time gangster syndicate" in neighbouring Detroit. In a hard-hitting, 8,000-word report, Inspr. W. H. Lougheed and Frank C. Kelly told what they saw and heard during a seven-week study of law enforcement in the border city.

They were assigned to the job last May after the Windsor police commission asked provincial Attorney-General Porter to make an investigation. This followed repeated newspaper criticism of Windsor police methods and a suggestion by Magistrate J. A. Hanrahan that local police had such [illegible]

Morality Officers Trouble

The inspectors' report, addressed to Provincial Police Commissioner W. H. Stringer, was made public today by Attorney-General Porter.

Among its highlights is a statement that most "troubles" of the Windsor force can be laid at the doorstep of the officers assigned to morality cases.

"It seems queer," the inspectors wrote, "that disorderly houses could operate in close proximity to the police station without the knowledge of the police department."

Recommendations included enlargement of the force and setting up of a permanent morality division.

Wholesale Betting

The report said:

"Perhaps the worst aspect of the Windsor situation lay in the many evidences of wholesale betting and gambling that could not have been carried on without the knowledge of all members of the police department."

Two cases involving Detroit persons "show conclusively the dangerous tie-up between the Windsor bookies and the big-time gangster syndicate in Detroit." There was other evidence in the files of the Detroit police

Rule Against Montreal In Telephone Hearing

OTTAWA, Sept. 14 (CP)—The board of Transport Commissioners today ruled against the city of Montreal which attempted to delay hearing of a Bell Telephone Company application to issue $42,700,000 worth of new stock.

Assistant chief commissioner Hugh Wardrope said he could not agree with the contentions of Montreal counsel Claude Prevost and Claude Choquette that the company was trying to "prejudice" a final decision in a rate-increase case by calling for approval of the stock issue.

Acting On Mounties' Tip FBI Smashes Lottery Ring

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14 (AP) —Acting on a tip by Canadian Mounties, the Federal Bureau of Investigation Wednesday arrested 10 persons to smash what was described as a $2,000,000 international lottery ring.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover announced the arrests following a series of pickups extending from California to New York.

Nine men were named in Hoover's announcement, and the FBI in Los Angeles later announced the arrest of the 10th, identified as the son of one of the principals.

In Miami, special FBI agent Edmund Mason described how the FBI closed in on the suspects after two weeks of investigation touched off by a tip from the RCMP.

The Mounties, Mason said, picked up a taxi driver carrying lottery tickets at the Canadian-U.S. border. The FBI then traced the tickets to Miami, where the scheme was uncovered.

Mason said: "The FBI has smashed this ring before it got started; agents throughout the United States and authorities in Jamaica and Canada have worked on the case for two weeks."

Mason said the first tip came from the RCMP when a taxi driver carrying lottery tickets was picked up at the Canadian-American border.

The Buffalo, N.Y., FBI office tracked the tickets to Miami. Agents in Miami traced the tickets to the Franklin Press, a commercial printing firm.

Mason said "we just let them go ahead so that we could find out the entire operation—where the tickets were being sent, who was receiving them and how they were being transported."

UK To Go Ahead With Steel Nationalization

LONDON, Sept. 14 (Reuters). —Prime Minister Clement Attlee announced today the Labor government is going ahead with its plans to nationalize the British iron and steel industry.

Attlee also stated in the House of Commons that appointments to the steel board which will run the industry would be made Monday, Oct. 2.

Winston Churchill, opposition leader, at once gave notice that the Conservatives would put forward a motion tonight condemning the government's action.

The motion would "regret that at this most critical period in our national safety and affairs abroad" Britain by this act of the government should be "plunged into the fiercest political controversy at home."

Churchill asked for a debate on the question next Tuesday.

Predict Big Row

Today's development means the hitherto calmly-conducted emergency session of parliament called to discuss defence will probably blow up into one of the biggest rows yet staged between government and opposition.

Herbert Morrison, leader of the house, agreed to a debate Tuesday.

In the opposition view, if the Churchill motion is carried, the government would be obliged to resign.

Government supporters do not agree.

Some political quarters predicted the government decision to proceed with steel nationalization immediately may cause an autumn general election.

Thieves Rob County Office

KINGSTON, Sept. 14.—Thieves are no respecters of locations for burglaries. The most recent theft to be reported to the city police was that of the loss of $770 from the vault in the treasurer's office at the courthouse, next to the Frontenac County jail.

Some unknown person or persons entered the office of the treasurer, Frank Purdy, while he had gone to the corner to post a letter and departed with the money. The safe door was unlocked.

Handcuffed Prisoners Jump Train Into Bush

BARRIE, Sept. 14—(CP)—Two prisoners, hand-cuffed together, jumped from the rear coach of a train at nearby Midhurst early today and vanished into bushland.

Police identified the two men as Patrick Bernier and Wallace Godwin, alias Wilson, both 18. They were in a group of 16 prisoners being taken from Sudbury to Kingston via Guelph.

A provincial policeman spotted them and gave chase as they made their break but lost them as they made for the bush.

Shortly afterward a posse of 12 provincial policemen started beating through the bush at Midhurst, 10 miles north of here.

Unified Force Agreed On For Europe

Say Prospects Good US-France End 2nd World War

NEW YORK, Sept. 14—(AP)—The Big Three Foreign Ministers drove today toward basic decisions on western German political and security problems with apparently-good prospects of agreement on these points:

1. The United States, and France should take practical measures as rapidly as possible to end the state of war which still exists between them and the West German government.

2. Germany should be given a larger, more-mobile and better-equipped police force to meet the Communist challenge of internal subversion and sabotage.

3. West German security against outright Red aggression continues to be primarily a responsibility of the three occupation powers, but at some future time provision must be made for the Germans to share this responsibility.

May Leave Decision

On the specific proposal that German military units should be formed as part of a unified western defence force, some diplomats believe no firm decision may be made for the time being.

Foreign Minister Schuman of France, for whom this issue presents tough political problems back home, is understood to have raised objections about action now, in advance of the actual formation of European defence forces under the North Atlantic treaty.

The conference went into its third day with Schuman, State Secretary Acheson of the United States and Foreign Secretary Bevin of Britain scheduled to get together at 10:30 a.m. EDT for another six hours or so of round-table negotiating.

This was originally supposed to be the last day of the three-power talks. But so many problems, including all those of the Middle East and Far East, have had to be pushed back in the interest of European defence and German political and security issues that it now seems likely the three will meet again next weekend.

Their meetings will give way Friday to two days of sessions of the 12-country North Atlantic treaty council.

Acheson, Bevin and Schuman were understood to have reached substantial agreements by Wednesday night that the armies now being built up in western Europe should be combined into a unified force under a single command staff, eventually to be directed by a commander-in-chief.

Mild Profit-Taking On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO, Sept. 14 — (CP) — Mild profit-taking appeared in mid-session on the Toronto Stock Exchange reducing early gains. Market leaders advanced strongly in early trading continuing yesterday's gains but were pushed back by later selling. Volume for the first three hours was 1,158,000 shares.

Heavy buying in the first hour pushed a wide list of industrials strongly ahead into new high ground. The mid-session selling wiped out some of the smaller gains and reduced the better advances. However, the majority of issues showed moderate gains.

Base Metals suffered their first setbacks in five sessions. Profit-taking depressed leaders of recent advances to the highest average price levels since 1937. Consolidated Smelters, International Nickel and Quemont were down fractions.

Gold stocks bounced up from easiness. Junior Producers were in moderate demand for gains ranging up to 10 cents.

Western Oils held firm on small gains in market leaders.

Non-Confidence Votes Lost For Opposition

OTTAWA, Sept. 14 (CP).—The Commons, on the eve of adjournment, packed more action into its sitting Wednesday than into almost any other meeting since the special emergency session opened Aug. 29.

Angry, cross-floor verbal spats erupted, first in a discussion on the role Canada should play in the defence of Europe and then again when George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, rose to the defence of one of his supporters.

The developments came as members defeated two opposition motions of non-confidenee in the government, concluded the debate on the budget and began study of legislation that will give legal effect to the tax changes in last Thursday's budget.

The legislation is the last major item of business on the agenda. When the work is completed, parliament will adjourn.

Bitter Exchange

In a brief and sometimes bitter exchange with Mr. Drew, Prime Minister St. Laurent said no allied government has asked Canada to send troops to Europe and that his cabinet is not considering such a move.

He said the dispatch of army divisions to Europe in peacetime is not the best way for Canada to play her over-all role under the Atlantic Pact, that it is better for all the pact powers if Canada provides arms for the surplus manpower already available on that continent.

Mr. Drew accused the Prime Minister of putting "politics first" and said the government has not been taking the opposition into its confidence in defence matters.

It was not a question so much of how many men Canada would send to Korea or Europe. The important question was how many men Canada was going to train for active service at home as part of collective preservation of peace.

Second Battle

Mr. Drew was the centre of another verbal battle when he rose to defend Maj. E. D. Fulton (PC-Kamloops) over his don't-enlist-for-Korea statement.

The Progressive Conservative leader told the house he doesn't agree with Maj. Fulton's advice to Canadians not to enlist in the army's special force until the government has imposed conscription.

He did, however, intend to reply to an attack on Maj. Fulton by Sqdn. Ldr. James Sinclair, parliamentary assistant to Finance Minister Abbott. He said "it comes with very bad grace for anyone who has not seen combat service to reflect on the loyalty" of a man who had seen plenty of service as an infantry officer in Italy and western Europe.

(Sqdn. Ldr. Sinclair was adjutant of an RCAF squadron in England and Africa.)

Sqdn. Ldr. Sinclair had referred to Maj. Fulton as an isolationist and had said his statements were parallel to wartime statements that led one Canadian — Mayor Camillien Houde of Montreal—to be sent to an internment camp.

No Law Broken

In that other case, said Mr Drew, the government had alleged that a law was broken. In this case, whether one agreed with Maj. Fulton or not, no law had been broken. In that other case, the government had said the war effort was being hindered. Here Maj. Fulton was seeking a greater military effort.

J. L. Gibson, (Ind.-Comox-Alberni) and George Cruickshank (L-Fraser Valley) called for withdrawal of Mr. Drew's remark that Sqdn. Ldr. Sinclair had not seen combat service. Mr Drew declined to withdraw.

Jean Francois Pouliot (L-Temiscouata) entered the discussion and said Maj. Fulton had a brilliant war record but that did not prevent a man from making mistakes in life. Everyone was aware of the mistakes that had been made by Mr. Drew.

In calmer moments, members voted 152 to 56 against a Progressive Conservative motion of non-confidence in the government. A similar CCF motion was defeated 147 to 53.

held or punched out gains on the beachhead perimeter.

Offensive Coming

The U.N. ground forces commander, Lt.-Gen. Walton Walker, told his troops Wednesday—while the Inchon attack still was in progress—that an allied offensive is coming soon.

There are signs, the General said, that the Red thrust on the 125-mile beachhead in the southeast perimeter is breaking. This was noted particularly on the northern front where American and South Korean forces continued to hammer out gains. Elsewhere the line was generally unchanged.

The warship and carrier-plane blows struck at the area repeatedly blasted by far-ranging B-29s from Japan and Okinawa bases. But where the Superforts concentrated on heavy industry and supply lines, the naval targets were airstrips, troops and gun emplacements on the seaside and inland.

Cities all the way from the 36th to 39th parallel were attacked by Skyraider bombers, Panther jet fighters and Corsair fighter-bombers. These targets included Pyongyang, the Korean Communist capital, Taejon, Sinmak, Haeju, Ongjon, Kaeson, Cherwan Suwon and Pyongtaek.

The planes also attacked Red installations on Wilmido Island, a few miles off shore.

South Koreans Advance

On the northern front—more than 150 miles to the southeast of the naval air strike—the South Koreans pushed on against Red dug in north and northwest of Kyongju.

Kyongju is 15 miles southwest of the fire-blackened east coast port of Pohang, which fell for the second time 11 days ago in a Red offensive. The objective of the South Korean drive is Angang 10 miles north of Kyongju.

South Korean troops swam a rain-flooded creek to carry out the attack. With them swam Associated Press correspondent Bem Price. They were under artillery and mortar fire.

Gen. MacArthur's spokesman said that on west of that sector the Reds were withdrawing so fast northeast of Yonchon the South Koreans had difficulty keeping patrol contact with them.

A Red lieutenant, among 62 prisoners taken in the Yongchon area, said there probably were not more than 300 survivors in his regiment of 2,000.

Battle For Hill

On the central front before Taegu, U.S. 1st cavalry division troops battled for commanding hill positions north and northwest of the vital communications and supply hub.

MacArthur's spokesman said an American counter-attack regained some of the high ground lost to the Reds Wednesday. AP correspondent Jack MacBeth reported that the Americans took four hills Wednesday but later lost two of them.

MacArthur's spokesman said back-and-forth action on the Taegu corner of the front was the only real pressure being maintained by the North Koreans.

He added that the Reds were holding close to Taegu "but they can't go farther and there's no cause for excitement," On the other fronts, "they show no willingness to mix."

On the 1st cavalry's left flank, along the Naktong river, the British 27th brigade called for artillery fire against Red pockets behind its lines.

British patrols, working with South Korean police, cleaned out several North Korean groups of from 30 to 50 in the hills about 10 miles southwest of Taegu. A British spokesman said 12 prisoners were taken.

Won't Send Men Now P.M. Declares

Tells House Arms More Vital At Present Time

OTTAWA, Sept. 14—(CP)—The government feels that Canada's best contribution to the defence of peacetime Europe is arms, rather than manpower—"at this time."

That point was made clear in a Commons session Wednesday by Prime Minister St. Laurent shortly before External Affairs Minister Pearson left for New York as Canada's spokesman at a vital meeting of the Atlantic Pact foreign ministers on the defence of Europe.

After John Diefenbaker (PC—Lake Centre) raised Winston Churchill's call for two or three Canadian divisions in Europe, Mr. St. Laurent entered the budget debate to make these points:

1. The government "at this time is not considering the raising of Canadian forces to dispatch to Europe . . . and has not before it any such suggestion from any part of the pact governments."

2. Those 11 Allied governments are not apt to suggest that the best value to be obtained from Canada's contribution would be by sending men to Europe and maintaining them rather than using them here to help produce arms and equipment for Europe's surplus but unequipped manpower.

Up To Government

3. Mr. Churchill is Britain's leader of the opposition and leaders of the opposition don't lay down the pact powers' defence policies—their governments do.

4. Canada's $300,000,000 arms-for-Europe program will do more for the over-all defence of Europe than if that money was spent to raise an overseas Canadian contingent which would have to be drawn from the men now engaged in productive pursuits.

But there were qualifications to Mr. St. Laurent's statement. He said Canada has not been asked for troops and is not at this time considering such a move. Washington reports have indicated a U.S. request for a Canadian division for Europe might be made this weekend.

Immediate Contribution

Mr. St. Laurent said arms are Canada's most effective "immediate" contribution. He said Mr. Pearson goes to New York with an open mind and that the government will consider any proposal. The policy he enunciated was the policy "at this time."

In the prime minister's wake came George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, to charge that the government has refused to take opposition members into its confidence on defence although Mr. St. Laurent himself had praised their spirit of co-operation.

He renewed his call for a secret session so members could be taken into the government's confidence and so all members could go into the country as a team to urge the people to get behind the defence effort.

As Mr. Pearson listened, Mr. Diefenbaker brought the issue into focus by quoting Mr. Churchill and reports from Washington, and saying that members deserve a statement on the government's attitude.

Farmers Want Some Voice In Price Ceilings

FREDERICTON, N.B., Sept. 14 (CP)—Canadian farmers want some say in any future imposition of price ceilings and economic controls, the semi-annual meeting of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture resolved Wednesday.

The resolution urged that if such controls became necessary that the federation be consulted by representation on any committee set up to consider the matter.

The meeting also endorsed a proposal that the federal government set up a commission to study the various segments of their national economy and recommended to the government the proper levels at which controls should be imposed.

Federation president H. H. Hannam and other speakers said that when controls were imposed during the war, agriculture found its products frozen at semi-depression price levels.

Feed Supplies

Most of Wednesday's session was taken up with debate on the long-standing problem of feed grain supplies from Western Canada for eastern livestock producers.

F. W. Walsh, Deputy Minister of Agriculture for Nova Scotia, urged action to get rid of a marketing system that permitted fluctuations in prices for feed grains.

Debate centred largely around a proposal that some central buying agency be set up on a co-operative basis in the eastern provinces to make bulk purchases of the feed grains on behalf of eastern farmers.

No decision was reached. The subject will be discussed again at a meeting of the federation's board of directors.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14 (AP)—The United States has loaned Cuba, one of the world's biggest sugar producers, 25,000 tons of its own product. Cuba needs the sugar to supply its own consumers, and will replace it as soon as next year's crop is harvested.

GUTENBERG
Father of Printing

Before Gutenberg, who was born in the year 1397, every book had to be copied laboriously by hand. In the days of ancient Rome, there existed what were called scriptoriums where copyists worked duplicating the manuscripts of great writers.

After Roman civilization disintegrated, such work was carried on in the monasteries of Europe. Books were regarded as great treasures, and many were beautifully wrought with illumination in gold and color. But these handwritten books were immensely expensive. So valuable were they, that in the universities they were ordinarily chained to the library tables.

Gutenberg may not have been the first man to invent printing. Yet he was undoubtedly the greatest among those who advanced this art in its earliest beginnings. Today a copy of Gutenberg's Bible, printed on vellum, would cost $300,000 or more.

Yet thanks to his achievement, it is now possible to buy classic books for as little as twenty-five cents. The invention of printing has revolutionized civilization. In a world without newspapers and books most people would be submerged in ignorance and superstition. That is the kind of world that existed before Gutenberg first operated his famous presses.

Few things give more pleasure than a good book. Reading puts an extra burden on the eyes, but it need not be exacting or wearing if your vision is good.

Mrs. N. Southern Dies Suddenly

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 14 — (ENS)—A resident of Campbellford for the past 37 years, Mrs. Nellie Southern died at her home in Campbellford after a sudden heart attack on Saturday last. She was 62 years of age.

The daughter of the late John and Sarah Drinkwater, Nellie was married to H. Ernest Southern in her native town of Levenshulme, England, in 1907. They came to Canada shortly after the wedding. Her husband predeceased her many years ago.

Surviving are four daughters: Mrs. John M. Herd (Dorothy) of Campbellford; Mrs. Earl Wood (Elsie) of Healey Falls; Mrs. Howard Wilson (Hilda) of Sharbot Lake, and Mrs. Jack Macoun (Evelyn) of Campbellford. There are three sons, J. D. Southern, Herbert G. Southern and Walter G. Southern, all of Campbellford. Also surviving are a sister, Mrs. F. Leach, of Vancouver, B.C., and a brother, Herbert Drinkwater, of Manchester, England.

Funeral services were conducted on Tuesday afternoon, when a large number of relatives and friends gathered at Christ Church in Campbellford to hear the Rev. John McKibbin conduct the service.

Three sons and four sons-in-law acted as pallbearers. They were: Walter, Douglas and Herbert Southern, John Herd, Howard Wilson, Earl Wood and Jack Macoun. Flowers bearers were John Herd, Jr., Geoffrey Mills, Fred Peake, Oscar Mason, Franklin Linton, Joseph Wilson, Don Montgomery, W. J. Cochrane, George Shaw, Fred Macoun, Francis Long, Douglas Locke, Floyd Blake, Basil Robinson, Don Meyers and William Macoun.

Burial was at Mt. Pleasant cemetery.

School Health Program For September

COBOURG, Sept. 14—(ENS)—The emphasis is on school health at this time of the year, for the Northumberland and Durham Counties Health Unit. There are 222 school buildings in the United Counties to be inspected and there are approximately 11,000 pupils in attendance.

The health unit nursing staff examines every child soon after they start school in order that any with suspected communicable disease may be excluded. Special examinations are done at a later visit. The sanitary inspectors inspect the school buildings and grounds and make recommendations for improvements. Lighting, ventilation, drinking water and toilet facilities are some of the points which receive special attention.

Major aspect of the school health promotion plan is to ensure that all pupils are free from physical or other defects which might handican them. The unit staff regards this as doubly important for beginners. An examination of this type is considered best done by the family physician who can arrange to correct whatever defects are found to exist.

Last year a plan was devised by the Health Unit, in co-operation with the Northumberland and Durham Medical Association, whereby the Health Unit would pay for such an examination by their family physician in the hope that all beginners would be examined during their first year in school. The programme is being continued this year and the Health Unit is urging parents to take advantage of it when they receive their child's medical card from the school.

The fall immunization programme will cover Murray, Brighton and Darlington townships, where clinics will be held in the schools. These clinics are for infants and pre-school children as well.

Significant U.S. Resignation And Appointment

The American government has a remarkable device for getting rid of cabinet ministers no longer wanted. It is simply this: at the moment a man is appointed to a cabinet position, he also hands in his resignation. Therefore, whenever the President wishes to unload the man, he has merely to accept the resignation formally handed in at the time of the appointment. Thus President Truman accepted the resignation of Defence Secretary Louis Johnson on Tuesday.

* * *

Mr. Johnson was ousted by circumstances rather than by any personal disqualifications. He was head of the American department of defence when the U.S. sent troops into Korea. He has been its head during the Korean campaign which has not gone at all well for the U.S.A. Mr. Johnson is the scapegoat, as are generals who do not win battles, even though he had little to do with the condition of preparedness in Korea before the war began, and even though the U.S. went into Korea primarily at the insistence of the State Department. A year ago the U.S. military had already written off Korea as an untenable battle area. The political situation and the State Department forced the Defence Department to underwrite what it had written off.

* * *

The imminent appointment of General Marshall, the United States' greatest administrative soldier, indicates the malaise of the American people over Korea and the Far East. They have gone back to the man who organized the successful American war effort from 1939 as Chief of Staff, and who drafted the post-war plan for European reconstruction—the Marshall Plan—as Secretary of State. They have also put their dependence and faith in a man, now in his seventieth year, whom war-time responsibility and post-war international crises drove to exhaustion.

* * *

The warlike atmosphere in the United States is strikingly revealed by the appointment of General Marshall as Defence Secretary. Special legislation will be necessary to ratify the appointment, for the Constitution, aiming to prevent the United States from ever being run by a military junta, prohibits the appointment of a Defence Secretary who within the last decade has been in the active army. Thus the constitution seeks to provide that government defence policies will be directed by a civilian, not by a soldier. That a soldier has been named to the post emphasizes the present military tenor of the American executive. The appointment is being greeted by most Americans with deep relief.

Telling The Troops Why They Are Fighting

There has been considerable dismay in the United States that the American soldiers in Korea or destined for Korea, or duty in Germany and elsewhere, seem to have no flaming conviction of the cause for which they are called to bear arms. Canadian troops likewise do not seem to be imbued with patriotic fervour. In 1914-18 the western world was made safe for democracy. In 1939-45 it was rescued from dogs of dictators. In 1950 it is fighting the menace of Communism. So the slogans go. We doubt if any of them ever really give soldiers much impulse to do or die.

It is very difficult to give Americans, Britons, Canadians and others on the Western side a neat, compelling reason for their bearing arms in Korea, Germany or elsewhere. Americans in Korea are finding out that the natives of the south whom they have come to save consider them to be interlopers and destroyers. And when the call goes out for troops to fortify Europe, they will wonder why the unemployed Germans, Italians and Frenchmen do not do their own guard duties. There is the further perplexing business of arming the Germans. It was only five years ago that the same Germans were being forcibly disarmed by Americans, British and Canadians. And they had fought a long while before they were able to do that. Now are the Americans, British and Canadians forcibly going to try to re-arm the Germans?

Men enlist and are brave in battle for a hundred reasons. It is always useful to feel that they are fighting for the right, in a good cause, but we really do not believe that the chief reason is fiery personal conviction that they are saving democracy, frustrating dictators or saving their women from Communist bears. Men enlist for pay, for excitement, for travel, for companionship, for social security, and because everybody else is enlisting. They also enlist when the law says they must. They fight well or poorly depending on their training, their equipment, their leadership, their personal pride, their tempers and their fears. Slogans and faith in the righteousness of the cause are secondary. We believe that Canadians should not be unduly alarmed if the Special Service Force men cannot say with patriotic conviction why they enlisted.

United Church On Its Knees

The General Council of the United Church of Canada is now in session in Toronto. It is of general interest that the new Moderator elected on the opening Tuesday night for a two-year term is a Maritimer and a comparatively young man for this chief post in Canada's largest Protestant church. He is the Rev. Dr. (now, by virtue of his new office, the Very Reverend) Clarence Nicholson. His age is 46. We were especially interested in a communion service held the opening day. Photographs show the retiring Moderator at the chancel steps of Timothy Eaton church, offering a communion chalice to two other dignitaries of the church, who are on their knees. All three reverend gentlemen are gowned and hooded.

The situation as pictured in the photograph strikes us as remarkable. Has the United Church completely deviated from the practices of its three chief constituents—the Presbyterian, the Methodist and the Congregational churches? Has it adopted Church of England forms and observances? The style "Very Reverend" with which the United Church designates its Moderators past and present, is the style used to refer to Bishops, but it has been employed by the United Church for many years now. There is the chancel in the church, for instance. (Thirty years ago few Protestant churches in Canada had a chancel.) There is the formal attire of the ministers, particularly the wearing of their colourful academic hoods. There is the common communion cup, proferred to the lips of communicants by the officiating clergyman, instead of the individual glasses passed around in trays to a seated congregation, which is the usual practice in other than Roman or Anglican churches. Has the communion "table" been ousted? And there is the kneeling at the chancel rail. Did not Methodists and Presbyterians of a generation ago consider that kneeling should be done only at private bed-sides, and not in public in churches?

In drawing attention to the trend toward ritual and ceremony which the United Church seems to be taking, we do not, of course, condemn it. But we wonder, as we think of the simple United churches in their thousands at country cross-roads and in smaller cities across the land, whether the leaders of the United Church as they appear in Toronto this week, are not in advance of the practices of most of their membership?

The Weatherman Cheated

Autumn is on the way in, alas. Ordinarily we hail the arrival of Fall with joy—it is such a gorgeous season for us here. But this year we are somewhat put out. Summer never really came. It was a promise made periodically by a few continuous days of heat and sun which was not kept. Now, with only a week more to run, summer has definitely been mislaid for this year. The ivy is turning on St. John's church, grass is becoming sear and tired. Asters, those sturdy, brave blooms of summer's end, are flaunting the cool nights and gentler flowers are giving up the ghost. It is little more than three weeks to Thanksgiving.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A motorist in Michigan is in trouble for running over a deer. He should have passed the buck.

An agricultural news service carries an item headed "Soft Water Increases Milk Yield". Just what we have always suspected.

A hair specialist warns that the modern girl is in danger of going bald. Don't worry; beauty specialists will immediately market brilliant lacquers, like nail polish, to cover the naked noggins.

The girl who won the Silver Jubilee beauty contest in North Bay had an answer ready when asked to state her ambition. Said she: "I want to get married". And a splendid ambition for any girl, particularly a beautiful one.

Several Canadian papers have been carrying editorials advising their readers to sleep out during the warm weather, in order to refresh their acquaintance with the sky and the great outdoors. Strange: civilization just gets us nicely broken to the custom of sleeping under cover and a group of irresponsible newspaper fellows want to drive us out into the weather again. There is nothing whatever to be said for sleeping out unless it is to save rent.

American Plans For German Army

From NORA BELOFF
In Washington

THE American Government has now placed military considerations above economic and political recovery in its plans for Germany. New proposals, all aimed at switching Germany away from its present status of "ex-enemy" towards its future status as a member of the Western military alliance, will be discussed at the Foreign Ministers Conference in New York this week.

◇ ◇ ◇

THE shift in American policy is a direct result of the crisis in Korea and the increased expectation of military upheavals on other sectors of the Soviet periphery. This week in Washington both the Secretary of State, Mr. Acheson, and the U.S. High Commissioner for Germany, Mr. John McCloy, spoke out in favour of giving the German people the material facilities and political liberty to defend themselves in case of attack. Further details on the timing, method and costs of this decision will not be officially disclosed until Mr. Acheson has had a chance to exchange views with Mr. Bevin and Mr. Schuman and find out how far they are willing to go. The type of German rearmament which the American Government advocates is quantitatively and qualitatively restricted. It has little or nothing to do with speeches from some American politicians calling aloud for vast German armies to lead Europe in an anti-Communist crusade. The authorities are well aware that, given the limited amount of material and military equipment immediately available, the rush job of making the Atlantic Powers into a military force adequate to resist Soviet aggression must be based on strengthening and enlarging existing armies, rather than creating new ones.

◇ ◇ ◇

THE official American objective, on which the experts are now working, is to make Germany strong enough to fight the German forces assembled, organized and equipped by the Soviet Union in the Eastern zone of Germany. Then, if the Russians try to repeat the Korean trick of committing only puppet forces in the German conflict, Dr. Adenauer (West German Chancellor) will be able to present stiffer resistance than his unfortunate opposite number, Dr. Syngman Rhee.

◇ ◇ ◇

SOME confusion has arisen over the proposed military forces now under discussion, owing to their deliberate misnomer—for political or psychological reasons—as a "constabulary" or "police force". Senior American officials believe nothing is served by prolonging this bluff. Reports arriving in Washington show that the present German police force, possibly with slight reinforcements under federal control, could easily withstand any potential riots or disturbances organized in Western Germany. They point out that there are already twice as many policemen per civilian in Germany as in the United States and no indication of imminent disorders. What is needed now, in the American view, is not policemen for keeping order but soldiers for repelling an armed external attack.

◇ ◇ ◇

THE new army would be equipped with light weapons. Most probably they would include tanks, since according to military opinion here, Korean experience has proved again the old thesis that "the best anti-tank weapon is another tank". The forces would be under the command of the Bonn Government and would be at least comparable in size to the 50,000 or 60,000 strong armed forces in Eastern Germany.

◇ ◇ ◇

THE Americans believe this departure from the established treatment of Germany since the end of the war demands a new psychological approach. Although they believe a separate peace treaty is impractical at the present time, they favour the prompt ending by proclamation, of the now anarchronistic "state of war". Although this would have no legal effect whatever on the Occupation Statute, the Americans would also like to see some radical revision of the way in which the Allies exercise their veto and control powers. Last May, before the Korean crisis, it was planned to revise the Occupation Statute formally at this autumn session of the Foreign Ministers' Conference and the experts have been working in London preparing recommendations. In the American view, however, though they would be willing to consider French and British opinions, events are moving so swiftly that the formal revision of the Occupation Statute now might be outstripped by events before the signatures on the new documents were dry. After a few more months, and probably another look at Eastern Germany after its October elections, they hope a fundamental and lasting revision of the Occupation Statute will be possible.

◇ ◇ ◇

THE American Government discounts any danger of revised German militarism or nationalism in the immediate future. Privately they are doubtful whether restrictions on the size, weapons and organization of the proposed Army will survive long in the face of the growing Soviet threat.

◇ ◇ ◇

THE only effective long-term limitation to a threat from Germany itself is seen in the incorporation of the new German forces as quickly as possible into collective Western defences under a single inter-Allied High Command. Apart from the international advantages the Americans believe the German general staff is much less likely to develop its traditional political ambitions if it is made responsible to an international and democratic agency.

REALLY DEAF

"I'm sorry to learn that your wife is rather deaf."

"Rather deaf! Do you know, we used to live close to a big munitions factory, and one night there was a terrific explosion."

"Good gracious! I bet your wife heard that all right."

"Yes, she heard it, turned restlessly in bed and said to me, 'Georgie, you'll have to get something for that cough of yours'!"

Letters To The Editor

WANTS A OUIMET FAN CLUB

Sir: Now that the rail strike has been more or less settled, the lights in the ball park practically paid for, the Mutual Benefits within sight of the softball pennant, and the price of Cokes up to 6 cents a swig, let us revert to the more important business of the future of Dick's Rolling Lunch.

One of your readers complains that Dick is probably working elsewhere during the day, and is thus not totally dependent on the lunch wagon business. So what? Some of the restaurants which turn out evil looking, soggy masses of potato pulp in place of chips, are also working all day and most of the night as well.

Dick Ouimet is enabled to remain in business because the public support him and because he is performing a useful service to the community. Aldermen could, of course, remain in office for the same reason.

Finally, if our Civic Fathers have no more pressing business to take up their valuable time, no doubt the citizens could think up quite a few chores for them, and for those aldermen who can read and write I suggest that they sign Dick's petition without delay.

For those who are sufficiently interested, I am perfectly willing to become treasurer of a Dick Ouimet fan club, and for those who could not afford to buy an Examiner on Monday I will repeat the final score—Peterborough 3, Oshawa 18.

Yours, etc.,
J. G.

FIRM FOR OUIMET

Sir: Re F. A. Dainton's letter published September 8. His main objection to Dick Ouimet operating his chip business seems to be that people eat odorous chips on the buses and throw empty containers on the floors. That's hardly a sound reason for wanting the man put out of business. Others in town sell chips as well and their chips are taken on buses. Going on that basis all chip establishments should close—but I for one disagree.

Dick merely sells his chips, it's up to the bus company to lay down conduct rules inside the buses. As for him starving to death through lack of business, if that is so as F. A. Dainton appears to think, why the mad desire by a few to see him off the street?

"Janus" in his letter of the same date comes up with a peach of a reason, one that even the council itself didn't think of uttering—that the council merely wants to protect the taxpayers! Wow!

To my knowledge, Mr. Ouimet has been at his location on Simcoe St. for four years or more, was located there with the Council's and Police Chief's permission, and now, all of a sudden the present Council wants to protect the taxpayers by giving him the bum's rush—still without reason. If they don't want him there why did they let him set up shop in the first place?

"Janus" supposes that Mr. Ouimet pays a business tax like other business men, then goes on to say that he perches in the very centre of the business section, on the city's roadway, all for free. Is that his idea of "free"?

Dick Ouimet pays for a motor vehicle licence, therefore he has as much right to be on the roads as well as other vehicles. Fear not, the man doesn't park there scot free!

Going by the Janus standard of unfair competition, then a clothing store that pays $200 a month rent is unfair competition for a similar store that pays $300 rent? Holy smokes! Then that means half the stores in town should close shop. Farmers who use the Market Square for a nominal fee, but pay no high rents or land taxes to the city would also have to pull up stakes and go, for they, by Janus standards are in unfair competition with fruit, vegetable and flower shops. What are you trying to do fellow—close the whole city up?

Perhaps you should have rewritten the last paragraph of your letter before having it published, for in none of the letters printed to date on this subject has anyone said that the Council are dirty so-and-so's. I, for one, have never written about high taxes and rent, though this is my second letter about Dick Ouimet. The first one was signed with my name and address, as this one shall be. Some may choose to use nom de plumes, and under the Examiner's policy of publishing Letters to the Editor, are quite within their rights.

Few people, if any, think that Dick Ouimet should get his site free, but the majority I'm sure, believe that he has as much right to be in business as the next person, and shouldn't be put out of that business without a genuine reason, which no one has come up with yet.

Thanking you.
Yours,
N. J. THOMAS.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And Saul and the men of Israel were gathered together, and pitched by the valley of Elah, and set the battle in array against the Philistines. . . And there went out a champion out of the camp of the Philistines, named Goliath, of Gath, whose height was six cubits and a span. And he had an helmet of brass upon his head, and he was armed with a coat of mail; and the weight of the coat was five thousand shekels of brass. And he stood and cried unto the armies of Israel, and said unto them, Why are ye come out to set your battle in array? am not I a Philistine, and ye servants to Saul? choose you a man for you, and let him come down to me. If he be able to fight with me, and to kill me, then will we be your servants: but if I prevail against him, and kill him, then shall ye be our servants, and serve us.

And David said to Saul, Let no man's heart fail because of him; thy servant will go and fight with this Philistine. . . And he took his staff in his hand, and chose him five smooth stones out of the brook, and put them in a shepherd's bag which he had, even in a scrip; and his sling was in his hand: and he drew near the Philistine.

And when the Philistine looked about, and saw David, he disdained him: for he was but a youth, and ruddy, and of a fair countenance. . . . Then said David to the Philistine, Thou comest to me with a sword, and with a spear, and with a shield: but I come to thee in the name of the Lord of hosts, the God of the armies of Israel, whom thou hast defied. . . .

And it came to pass, when the Philistine arose, and came and drew nigh to meet David, that David hasted, and ran toward the army to meet the Philistine. And David put his hand in his bag, and took thence a stone, and slang it, and smote the Philistine in his forehead, that the stone sunk into his forehead; and he fell upon his face to the earth.

So David prevailed over the Philistine with a sling and with a stone, and smote the Philistine, and slew him; but there was no sword in the hand of David. (I Sam. 17: 2, 4, 5, 8, 9, 32, 40, 42, 45, 48-50.)

Unconsidered Trifles

A Scottish surgeon, a man of few words, met his match — in a woman! She called at his surgery with her hand badly inflamed and swollen. The following dialogue opened by the doctor, took place:—

"Burn?"

"Bruise."

"Poultice."

The next day the woman called again, and the dialogue was as follows:—

"Better?"

"Worse."

"More poultices."

Two days later the woman made another call.

"Better?"

"Well. Fee?"

"Nothing. Most sensible woman I ever met."

Revolt

(Nancy Mitford in The Sunday Times, London.)

I said to a nice woman in the train that surely the English put up with too much. "You ought to revolt," I said, "against such horrors as the National butter — if nobody bought it the government would be obliged to supply something else."

I told her how the French government had tried to foist frozen meat on the public because it is easier to distribute. Fresh meat disappeared from the shops and awful stuff called Frigo took its place. The housewives revolted, nobody bought any meat for a fortnight, and that was the end of Frigo. She pondered over this and then said, with pride, "We revolted once, you know, over tinned beetroot."

Labor Congress Holding Quiet Convention

MONTREAL, Sept. 14 (CP)—in years of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada Wednesday endorsed a batch of standard resolutions and underlined its tough new anti-Communist policy with a few flourishes.

It was learned that a United Textile Workers' delegate from Brantford had been sent to Toronto on assignment after a speech to the convention Monday. Anthony Valente, president of the International Union in Washington and a fraternal delegate here, sent William Stewart out of town.

At the same time, the TLC Credentials Committee cut off 20 delegates suspected of Red leanings. Among them is R. Kent Rowley of Montreal, Canadian director of the TWU.

Flood Control Measure

The convention also asked for Federal and Provincial action on long-term flood control measures.

Another resolution called for implementation of the Petitcodiac and Passamaquoddy tidal power projects in the Maritimes and the digging of the long-talked-of Chignecto Canal.

All have long been advocated by Maritime leaders.

Another major project advocated was the St. Lawrence River ship canal and the convention asked for completion of the Trans-Canada highways.

All resolutions follow normal TLC programs.

Another resolution called for legislation against discrimination in employment on grounds of race, creed or color and banning of restrictive covenants in real estate transactions.

The program Wednesday was heavy on demands for public works and for subsidized low-rental homes for workers.

The convention is expected to complete its main business by Friday night, although it is possible it may stretch through over Saturday.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Next time we're born we'd like to have a frame which would grow into a footballers' size. At present we're some 50 pounds too light, and never did any pigskin toting past junior high school. With rare exceptions, you've got to have the weight in this rugged game. Plus, of course, savvy and other requisites—not the least of which is perfect conditioning. It's a he-man's game with hard body contact on every play for the linemen and usually for the backfield. Hence the heavy pads worn, and even then injuries are fairly common. But it's a great game and has a big following of old grads, kids at school and folks of either sex and all walks of life. A colorful sport.

As the schedule is short, every game is of utmost importance, there being no playoff at the end. Top team takes it all. Coach Harv Bamforth and a real strong executive headed by Dr. Chenoweth have lined up the best team to represent Peterborough on the gridiron in several decades. Eight players on loan from Ottawa Rough Riders, plus the pick of local talent. We look for a fine opener, after a parade, and an exciting football season.

Loucks Came Through

Memory carries one back to some exciting grid games just before the war. When more than 3,000 fans saw the senior "A" Orfuns fight it out for two seasons against Sarnia Imperials, Montreal Nationals and Toronto Balmy Beach. A lot of close frays but our squad was a bit over-matched and just thrilled the home crowd by taking one game — that memorable one in '38 with Sarnia. When Mike Loucks kicked a long field goal in the dying minutes of play for a 3-2 upset. The present Orfuns are unlikely to be overmatched this season and senior "B" play today is just about as good as the senior "A" calibre of 11 and 12 years ago.

It's still a hot race in the American Baseball League and our Tigers really have to dig into finish in front. Lot of Detroit ball fans here, as it's the closest major league centre to us, it has always been one of the best on the continent for baseball, and there's quite a sizeable Canadian population in the big motor city. It is said the average fan there spends half a dollar a game at the concessions where he may view the game via television while he eats and drinks at refreshment booths and bars inside Briggs Stadium. We wouldn't mind getting over there this fall to see a few World Series games.

City Softball Finals

Prexy Pat Calladine of the men's City Softball League announces the resumption of the final playoffs tonight at 7.30 in the Bowl, weather being right. It's Mutuals vs. East City, the latter trailing the best-of-seven serial two games to one. All these playoffs have been real tight, and this next clash should be another close one, rating a big crowd. Ted Sullivan and his mates will be [illegible] effort to square the sawoffs with the Russelle crew and anything may happen. Softball will soon be over in Peterborough for another year, and followers of the game should cash in now. It's later than you think.

'Twas trail's end last night in Owen Sound for the senior lacrosse Petes as they went down 13-4. Lost the series four games to one. No disgrace at all, as the OLA champs were good all season. A rough joust with Bill Allum and Don Crowe mixing once, and then Grant Gillespie and Don Ashbee staging a whale of a fist fight ere being banished. Gillespie and Jack Foote led the winners in the sniping department, while Ralph Speck shone in goal even though his side lost out. Thus, endeth the 1950 edition of the Petes, and their many followers will read this with regret. They put on a fine show all the long season and deserve credit for going so far.

Jake Lamotta Retains His Crown With Last-Gasp Knockout Victory

By JACK HAND.

DETROIT, Sept. 14 (AP). — Sugar Ray Robinson is next for middleweight champion Jake Lamotta after his dramatic 15th-round knockout Wednesday night of challenger Laurent Dauthuille with only 13 seconds to go.

But for a savage closing rally that snatched victory from defeat, the well-tamed Bronx Bull would be worrying about a return with Dauthuille, not Robinson.

Trailing on the cards of all three officials and just about all the working press, Jake Barely saved his title. It was a heart-breaking defeat for the game Frenchman who just missed avenging the late Marcel Cerdan. After it was over the 11to 5 underdog sat in the dressing room with tears streaming from his eyes.

There will be long debates why the Frenchman didn't play it safe in the final round. All he had to do was stab at Lamotta's nearly-closed left eye and stay away. He would have won back for France the championship that Lamotta wrested from an injured Cerdan in the same city 15 months ago.

Strategy Ideas Split

The last-round strategy brought a wide split in Dauthuille's camp.

Trainer Heinie Blaustein said "he was way out in front on points and I think he shouldn't have taken any chances."

Andre Barraut, his French manager, said "my boy is a fighter and he was going to swap punches with Jake all the way. If Lamotta is a sportsman he'll give Laurent a return bout very soon."

Over in the other dressing room Lamotta didn't talk about a rematch. In his leopard skin robe, squinting through his battered left eye, Jake talked Robinson.

"Sure I'll fight Robinson," he said with a grin, "if he doesn't run out—and I'll eliminate him too."

Jake will fight Sugar Ray or else risk a National Boxing Association ban. He already is signed to fight Robby in the Chicago Stadium during the second week of February.

Lamotta said his handlers told him he was behind in the 12th, but he told them "you're full of baloney."

"I knew I had him when he dropped his hands in my corner. I was waiting for him to drop his guard for 15 rounds."

Almost Too Late

Jake almost waited too long. Critics wondered when the old, swarming, never-stop Lamotta was going to make an appearance. Most of the time he tried to win with his stinging left jab. Seldom did he throw his right hand until the final flurry. Still he had the Frenchman bleeding from cuts around the nose and eyes during most of the scrap. Lamotta weighed 159½, Dauthuille 160.

Dauthuille almost beat the count. He was up on one knee at nine and just was getting up as referee Lou Handler tolled "ten." Handler had Dauthuille ahead 72-68 after 14 rounds. Judge Joe Lenahan had it 74-66 and judge Jack Aspery 71-69 for the Frenchman.

Tigers Wallop Brampton 15-9

By The Canadian Press.

Owen Sound Crescents, who walked away with the Ontario Lacrosse Association senior league, have waltzed into the league finals. They blasted Peterborough Petes 13-4 in Owen Sound Wednesday night to take their best-of-seven quarter final series 4-1. That qualified them for the finals.

Down 7-5 at half-time, Hamilton Tigers clawed their way back to a 15-9 victory over Brampton Excelsiors to win their quarter-final series 4-1, qualifying for a semi-final spot.

George Masters belted four goals for Hamilton with three by Norm Shortridge and two each by Tommy Love, Merv McKenzie and Scott. Cruickshank, Steele, and Gowland each got a pair for Brampton.

In the battle for the other semi-final berth St. Catharines Saints blasted Mimico Mounties 20-6. It was the fifth game of their best-of-seven series. Saints now lead 3-2.

Saints rolled in eight fast goals near the end of the first period. Leo Teatro led with four and Ken Croft and Tony Damico got three each. Don McPhail got two for Mimico.

LAWN BOWLING

By HERB MARTIN

The club singles were called off last evening, that heavy rain being responsible; no doubt the committee will set aside another evening at once.

Tonight, if the weather is fit, we play the postponed games of Aug. 9, with J. Kemp in charge.

The ladies trebles open tournament is set for Friday morning—they intend to play one game before the noon hour and two immediately afterwards. They will be finished in plenty of time so that the men will have the greens for their night tournament.

A number of our bowlers motored down to Port Hope yesterday, hoping that the weather would clear up so that they could play in the mixed rink tournament, but it was no dice—too much rain.

Breaks Record

VANCOUVER, Sept. 14 (CP)—The Canadian amateur swimming record for the half mile was smashed Wednesday night by Jerry McNamee, of the Vancouver Amateur Swimming Club. His time was 10:57.5, 11.3 seconds faster than the previous record, held by Jim Portelance, of Ocean Falls, B.C.

Ontario Team Takes Junior Lacrosse Title

VANCOUVER Sept. 14—(CP)—British Columbia's two-year reign as the stronghold of junior lacrosse was snapped Wednesday night by a fighting bunch of youngsters from St. Catharines, Ont.

St. Catharines All-Stars, a team well named, took the Dominion junior lacrosse championship and the Minto Cup in three straight games from Vancouver Burrard juniors.

Score of the game that ended it all was 17-8. The final followed the pattern of the two previous frays, with the invading easterners supreme in speed and strategy.

Even the scores were similar, and the outcome was not unexpected. The visitors established themselves as favorites Saturday night by taking the first game 18-9. Then they consolidated their gains Monday night with a 14-9 victory.

With the Minto Cup in eastern possession for at least another year, the St Catharines players leave tonight by train for their homes. Presentation of the cup was made by Bill Easterbrook, vice-president of the Canadian Lacrosse Association.

Leading snipers for St Catharines Wednesday night were Derry Davies, 19-year-old 175-pounder, who potted four goals and took an assist, and Max Wooley and Ted How, with three goals each. Al Frick scored one goal and was credited with two assists.

King Outpoints Mell In Bout

TORONTO, Sept. 14 (CP). — The one-time kinky-haired kid who fought preliminary bouts at Toronto's Massey Hall came back home Wednesday night.

Lo'l Arthur King, the local boy who made good, was not the same windmill-swinging youngster as he outpointed Gus (Pell) Mell of Montreal at Maple Leaf Gardens. The tutelage of Blinky Palermo of Philadelphia, which shot him to the top of the lightweight division, has left its mark.

It was a smooth-working King who handled his heavier opponent with ease in the 10-round main event Wednesday night. Weighing 140 to Mell's 148, King piled up an authoritative margin, dropping only one round to the hard-trying Montreal veteran. It was his 23rd straight victory since he left Toronto two years ago.

Mell opened cautiously and stopped a steady parade of left jabs in the early rounds, but jarred Li'l Arthur in the sixth as he launched a two-fisted attack. Then King regained control, opening a cut over the Montrealer's right eye and drawing blood from his nose. There were no knockdowns.

Marcel Lachappelle, 127¾, of Montreal, and Davey Mitchell, 127¼, of Toronto, battled to their second successive draw in a rousing eight-round semi-final.

Owen Sound Winners, 13-4 As Petes Finish OLA Season

By DON GRANT

Red hot knuckles were the specials on the Owen Sound menus Wednesday as the Petes bowed out of the 1950 Ontario lacrosse playoffs to the Crescents in the best of seven series four games to one, losing 13-4.

Tempers were short, very short. Players on both teams throughout the game needed only one little knock to start the sticks flying high. Several times players duelled without much success.

In a close-checking first period Don Crowe and Bill Allum started shoving each other around after Crowe had completed a rush. A half minute later they again met, this time in the centre of the floor. Allum clipped Crowe on the head with his stick before Crowe finally caught him with a bear hug. Both players then applied the same hold for a minute until separated by the referees.

Second Bout

Grant Gillespie caught Don Ashbee along the boards in the fourth to start the second bout of the game. Ashbee rebounded with gloves and stick dropped to the ground and the bare fists flying. At first Gillespie clung to his stick but after several hard raps into the face dug into Ashbee.

Referees Rusty White of Fergus and Milt Burrows of Brampton tried to separate the pair but with little success. For two minutes they battled. Finally after Ashbee landed several blows while holding Gillespie with a headlock, the teammates parted them.

With five minutes remaining in the game both players were thrown out. Ashbee, a former Crescent, was booed loudly as he left the game.

A slump by the Petes in the second quarter cost them the verdict. They missed rebounds around their net and didn't get their share of the draws. The Crescents then opened the scoring and had a 6-goal lead at the half. The first period was scoreless due to the stellar net minding by Ralph Speck and the rugged checking of the Crescent defence.

Started To Go

After the Crescents slapped home three more counters to open the second half, the Petes awoke and started to get back in the game. The score at the end of the third was 11-2. Both teams counted early in the fourth but, after the Ashbee-Gillespie fight, resorted to a mass slaughter of each other. At one time the teams were playing five aside and Peter-

Tigers, Yanks Score Wins Tune Up For 3-Game Series

By RALPH RODEN,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

Two world series veterans, Hal Newhouser and Vic Raschi, are on the firing line today as the league-leading Detroit Tigers and the runner-up New York Yankees clash in the opener of their three-game series at Detroit's Briggs Stadium.

While the Yanks and Tigers go at each other, the surging Boston Red Sox clash with the seventh-place Browns at St. Louis.

Here's the American League pennant picture at a glance:

| | W | L | Pc | Games Behind | To Play |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Detroit | 87 | 49 | .640 | ... | 18 |
| New York | 87 | 50 | .635 | ½ | 17 |
| Boston | 86 | 51 | .628 | 1½ | 17 |

Newhouser, who has contributed 14 victories to the Tigers' scant half-game lead, has beaten the Yanks only once and lost to them three times.

Raschi, who will be seeking his sixth straight and 20th victory of the season, has split four decisions with the Bengals.

Boston has won eight straight games in St. Louis thus far, but the Browns of late have been flexing their muscles. The Browns are riding the crest of a seven-game winning streak that includes four triumphs over Cleveland.

Score Victories

Detroit and New York tuned up for their important meeting with victories Wednesday. The Tigers stopped Washington Senators 6-1 while the Yanks smeared Cleveland Indians 10-3. The Red Sox were not scheduled.

Fred Hutchinson, with help in the eighth from Ted Gray, gained his 16th victory for the Tigers.

Three Cleveland errors, along with some lusty hitting by Yogi Berra, allowed the Yanks to breeze to victory in Cleveland Berra rapped out his 22nd homer, two singles, drove in two runs and scored four. The miscues helped the Yanks to score six of their runs.

Ed Lopat received credit for his 17th victory. Bob Lemon opened for Cleveland and suffered his 11th defeat against 20 victories.

Luke Easter of the Indians, who won Tuesday night's game with a ninth-inning homer, poled a terrific 463-foot blast off Lopat in the sixth for his 25th of the season.

The Browns edged Philadelphia Athletics 5-4 on Ken Woods' ninth-inning homer. The Browns' seven-game winning streak is their longest since they won the pennant in 1944.

Whip Pirates

The big news in the National League was the end of New York Giant righthander Sal Maglie's consecutive scoreless inning streak at 45. The skein came to an end as the Giants beat Pittsburgh Pirates 3-1. The game was called after seven innings because of rain and the scheduled second game also was rained out.

Rookie outfielder Gus Bell ruined Maglie's spell with a cheap home run in the seventh inning. The ball hit the screen bordering the rightfield foul pole, 257 feet from home plate.

Maglie, who had four straight shutouts under his belt, was gunning for the National League record of 46 1-3 scoreless innings turned in by Carl Hubbell of the 1933 Giants. Maglie now has won 11 straight and has a 16-3 record for the season.

Boston Braves remained half a game ahead of the fourth-place Giants by downing the Chicago Cubs 5-2. Warren Spahn stopped the Cubs on four hits to gain his 19th victory.

Scheduled games between Cincinnati and St. Louis and St. Louis and Philadelphia were rained out.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Sir Strome, Toronto-owned entry, won the 21st running of the Canadian Derby at Winnipeg on Wednesday.

The three-year-old chestnut, from Joe Holbeck's Double Blue stable, won the $5,000 Western Canada classic by eight lengths.

Sir J. R., owned by Dr. E. G. Kemp of Vancouver, was second. Storm Bell, owned by F. M. (Tiny) Holden of Midnapore, Alta., was third.

The race was marred by a spill. Onwitch, owned by E. T. Myers of Rosetown, Sask., and one of the leading contenders for the biggest purse in Western Canada racing, fell in front of the Polo Park grandstand on the first time round. Jockey Tony Licata was taken to hospital.

Onwitch was leading the five-horse field at the time. Storm Bell was forced to sidestep the fallen horse.

Time for the 1¼-mile run over a muddy track was 2:24 1-5, far short of the record for the Derby distance set in 1947 when Sir Berril romped in in 2.07.

Sir Strome, the favorite, paid $3,05, $2.60 and $2.10.

Three players have signed NHL contracts with Montreal Canadiens so far this year. Their names, announced by Frank Selke general manager, are centre Bill Reay, defenceman Butch Bouchard and centre Elmer Lach. Selke said Maurice Richard probably will sign today.

Dave (Sweeney) Schriner will return as coach of North Sydney Victorias of the Cape Breton Senior Hockey League this season, it was announced Wednesday night.

---

Billy Bell, who quarterbacked briefly with Toronto Argonauts several seasons back, checked in at the Queen's University football training camp Wednesday. He played with Queen's in 1948.

His arrival brightened coach Frank Tindall's hopes for the exhibition game against Toronto Balmy Beach this Saturday. Bell is rated tops at punting and pass defence.

Outfielder Garland (Butch) Lawing of Quebec Braves has been voted the most valuable player of the Canadian-American League by the circuit's Baseball Writers' Association.

Lawing finished the regular season with a batting average of .345 in 134 games to lead the class-C circuit.

Arthur and Bruce Dorman of Hamilton, who just missed the Ontario parent-and-child golf championship last year, came through Wednesday by defeating R. H. and R. J. Amell of Toronto in a playoff.

The Dormans and the Amells were tied with 75s at the end of regulation play over the par-70 Toronto Rosedale course. The Dormans won the playoff hole.

Five strokes behind were Ray and Doug Schlicter of Kitchener Westmount.

Centennial Service

At Civic Arena

The Ministerial Association has arranged an open-air service of worship at Civic Arena for this Sunday evening, September 17th, as its contribution to Peterborough's program of centenary celebrations.

The program includes music and songs by a massed choir of 200 trained voices and the Salvation Army Band.

Dr. George B. Gilmour, Chancellor of McMaster University, will give the address.

The service proper will commence at 7.45 o'clock but the band and its songsters have a special program starting at 7 o'clock.

Plans are completed to accommodate thousands at this service.

You are invited to attend.

THE LUCKY WINNER — Jake LaMotta retained his middleweight boxing title last night over Laurent Dauthuille of France, but it was a close squeak. The Frenchman gave Jake quite a pasting but failed to follow up his advantage toward the finish and the champion got the decision in Detroit's Olympia. So now Sugar Ray Robinson will get a crack at LaMotta.

Hastings Triumphs

HASTINGS, Sept. 14—(ENS)—Hastings juniors tossed another team with the discard last night defeating Tweed 19-3 in a wild scoring spree, and now go into the semi-finals against Gravenhurst.

West went all the way for Hastings, and although hard pressed for four innings, was finally handed a lead that put him on easy street.

The game had the makings of a real pitching duel for 3½ innings, as Manion, on the mound for Tweed, had perfect control and gave the Hastings boys no time to get set.

However, in the bottom of the fourth, with the score tied at 2-2, his control started to slip, and Hastings combined a hit, two walks and an error for three runs, and in the fifth everything blew apart as Hastings ran wild and pushed across 12 runs to put the game on ice. In the midst of it, Manion retired to short and Maynes came on to put the fire out. Manion returned in the sixth and appeared to have regained his control. Richardson and West hit two long homers to help the Hastings cause.

Lineups:

Tweed—Plue rf, Sherry c, LeSage 1b, Reid cf, Cassidy lf, Maynes ss, Manion p, Hulme 2b, Rochette 3b.

Hastings—Fife rf, Spencer cf, Oliver c, Holmes 1b, Kelly 3b, West p, Richardson lf, Thomas 2b, Stevenson ss, Morrow, batted for Stevenson in the eighth.

Jack Foote, a former Pete, and Grant Gillespie, shared the scoring honors with four points each. Gillespie had four counters and Foote two goals and two assists. Doug Gillespie notched a pair. Peterborough counters were by E. Creighton, Bob Thorpe, Don Crowe and Dootch Vitarelli.

Ralph Speck came through with one of his best games this year. He saved the day for the Petes in the first as he batted, caught, smothered and kicked the ball away from the net. In the other periods he kept up the good work but the Petes' defence offered him little protection.

Lineups:

US Army Seeking Ideas On Snow-Track Remover

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14 (AP) —Technical problems of military operations in Arctic areas seem to be giving the US Defence Department considerable concern.

It wants, for example, some way to erase the tracks men and vehicles leave in the snow and a device to burrow large holes in snow or ice, leaving the surface flat and camouflaged.

This was indicated Wednesday by a list of problems made public by the Defence Department's scientist-advisers in the hope of getting solutions or good ideas from anyone.

Of 21 technical problems compiled by the National Inventors' Council with the co-operation of the armed services, at least 16 were plainly connected with military difficulties under extreme cold.

The council appealed for ideas on such problems as:

An extra lightweight, low ground-pressure, gasoline-operated oversnow vehicle usable as a prime mover for sleds or men equipped with snowshoes or skis. The weight, combat loaded, should approximate 1,000 pounds.

A device capable of burrowing a large vehicle-sized hole or tunnel through hard snow or solid ice to produce rapid storage and protection.

Ideas were sought on simpler problems, too. For example, the council would like to have communications regarding:

Practical methods of destroying tell-tale tracks of men on foot or vehicles across snow fields.

Inexpensive methods for rapidly converting snow and ice into drinking water in quantity.

At least one p seemed nicely adapted to the talents of people who know nothing about machinery.

The council would be happy to get good suggestions on materials which can be used as substitutes for down and feathers in sleeping bags.

"Down and waterfowl feathers for use in mountain and Arctic sleeping bags are critical materials in time of emergency," the council explained.

Delay Judgment On Adoption

TORONTO, Sept. 14 — (CP) — Ontario Court of Appeals Wednesday reserved judgment on the application of Mr. and Mrs. James Keuhl, of Sudbury, to have quashed an adoption order affecting their three-year-old daughter.

Legal argument centred on the point that the child is being reared in the Protestant faith by foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. Palmer Gibeau, of Pembroke.

The parents, both Roman Catholics, sought custody on the grounds they wished their daughter to be brought up in their faith.

Juliva Yvonne Lesieur was born out of wedlock to Adele Lesieur—now Mrs. Keuhl—at Sudbury Jan. 29, 1947. In March of that year, the mother signed a consent to adoption and also consented to the child being raised as a protestant.

Subsequently, the mother married Keuhl, who later adopted the Roman Catholic faith. The Keuhls then sought the return of their child.

Mr. and Mrs. Gibeau, who cared for the girl virtually from her birth, filed adoption papers in Renfrew County Court Aug. 29, 1949. But Judge T. Mulcahy declined to sign the order. In his written refusal Judge Mulcahy said he felt the mother's rights to the child should be tested in the courts.

United Church Needs 135 Buildings

TORONTO, Sept. 14 (CP). — Leaders of the United Church of Canada were told Wednesday the church needs 135 new church buildings—at an estimated cost of $1,500,000—during the next five years.

Dr. M. C. Macdonald, associate secretary of the board of home missions, said the new churches are needed mainly in large cities.

He told the church's 14th general council: "As the frontier of home missions work now is in the nation's largest cities and not in the outlying provincial district, most of this money must be spent in the densely-populated communities of the country."

Dr. G. Bromley Oxnam, head of the Methodist Episcopal Church in the United States, told the council the most outstanding social fact of our time is the yearning of the common man for a more abundant life, coupled with his belief that only selfishness and ignorance are keeping him from it.

Bishop Oxnam said that formerly there just wasn't enough of everything to permit such a life. Now people believed there was enough.

He told the 400-odd delegates that "the rights of man, derived from the love of God, belong to man absolutely because he is the son of God. The state does not confer such right, it merely confirms them."

Income Two Million

The report of the church treasurer, Dr. Victor Mooney, showed the church's income last year was $2,700,000. Before the depression of the '30s, it had been nearly $3,000,000. It was only since 1942 that it had started to increase and "we hope this year that it will again be in the region of $3,000,000."

He also reported that the pension for retired ministers will be increased 25 per cent. The ministers' pension fund now was solvent for the first time in 10 years.

WARSAW, Sept. 14 —(ENS)— The WMS of Warsaw United Church held its monthly meeting in the Sunday School room with 11 ladies present. Mrs. Wm. Darling presided.

Mrs George Taylor rendered a solo and Mrs. Harold Payne had charge of the program. Mrs. John Gallaher of Cottesloe gave a splendid paper on "The Cross." Mrs. Harold Ray, temperance secretary, read a paper.

A delicious lunch was served by Mrs. Dyson and Mrs. William Darling.

ON HIGH SEA RESCUE MISSION—The tanker Amtank, itself tossed by high seas in the Atlantic, speeds to the rescue of the sinking Danish freighter, Paris. ## Screen Writers Like To Use Favorite Jokes

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 14 (AP)— Time now to give a few thoughts to that species of Hollywood life known as the screen writers.

The movie scrivener is a much-maligned gent. He is branded as everything from a soul-selling hack to heaven knows what, and is often pictured as having wild hair, loud shirts and two swimming pools.

Actually, the screen writer is a craftsman who works hard at his profession. Take Ranald MacDougall. He wears neat suits with white shirts and owns but one swimming pool. He is good-looking enough to be an actor. Which he was until he discovered he could make more money with a typewriter.

Pet Jokes

Like actors who have their favorite performances, writers have pet wisecracks. MacDougall was telling me his favorite, which was born in Joan Crawford's house.

MacDougall, producer Jerry Wald and director Mike Curtiz were visiting the actress to discuss "Mildred Pierce." They were ushered into a beautiful den with walls and furniture of leather.

"Mmm," said the writer, "that must be like living in a wallet."

Nobody laughed. MacDougall tried to put the line in the script and was told it wasn't funny. He tried to inject it into three other scripts, but it was always tossed out. Finally he managed to slip it into "June Bride." "It got a big laugh," he added happily.

And Private Ones

Another MacDougall favorite came in "Mildred Pierce." Eve Arden observed Jack Carson giving her an all-inclusive glance. "Leave something on me," she said, "I'll catch cold."

Film writers also cherish their own private jokes which don't get in the script. One of MacDougall's pets was a comment on a moth-eaten film script about an old squaw. Borrowing an old cliche, he said: "You can't send the boys up in that script; it's murder."

More Law Suits Filed In Noronic Deaths

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 14 (AP) —Additional law suits seeking $4,909,527 from Canada Steamships Lines, Limited, were filed Wednesday in federal court in behalf of heirs of 85 persons killed last Sept. 17 in the Noronic ship fire at Toronto.

Judge Rules Act Violated

BOSTON, Sept. 14 — (AP) — Federal Judge Charles E. Wyzanski, Jr., ruled Wednesday that six abrasive manufacturers violated the Sherman Anti-Trust Act by combining to manufacture coated abrasives in foreign countries.

The court ordered the companies to end their joint ownership of factories in Great Britain, Canada and Germany.

The concerns named are the Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Company, St. Paul, Minn.; Behr-Manning Corporation, Worcester; Carborundum Company, Niagara Falls, N.Y.; Armour and Company, Chicago; Durex Abrasive Corp. and the Durex Corporation, Jersey City, N.J.

Judge Wyzanski found that in 1929 the companies controlled four-fifths of all coated abrasives exported from the United States through an export association.

When exports to the foreign countries were hindered by the tariff, currency and discriminating regulations, he said, they jointly established and operated factories for the manufacture of abrasives in the three countries. Coated abrasives, commonly called sandpaper, are widely used in industrial plants.

Judge Wyzanski found that the joint operation of the foreign factories reduced exports from the United States.

2 Inspectors

to definitely prove this assertion.'

"It is a matter of grave concern and this set-up would probably never have existed if the Windsor police had taken vigorous action on the bookies some five years ago."

There was a "decided lack of confidence by citizens of the existing law enforcement agencies in Windsor."

The public feeling included not only the police themselves, but also the crown attorney's office, and, to a lesser degree, the court. Windsor recently had become divided into two "camps"—persons wanting a stiffer law enforcement and those who believe Windsor "is no worse than some other cities.'

The inspectors lauded the work of the Windsor detective and fingerprint departments, but said discipline in the force in general is slack' and "the morale is not of the highest order." They said Windsor's 170-man force, is 'undermanned."

Six Recommendations

They made six recommendations:

1. A permanent morality division should be set up as soon as possible. It should be directed by an inspector and be big enough "to provide for a rigorous round-the-clock invstigation and raiding party."

2. Morality-division personnel should be carefully selected and should be rated "equally in status and pay" with those men in the detective division.

3. The police building should be "greatly enlarged" and "a precinct with a sub-station" should be established in the southeastern section of the city.

4. Fifty men should be added to the force.

5. The chief constable and his deputy should be required to "give an accounting of their stewardship" periodically to the police commission.

Revamp Beats

6. Windsor's business sections, now drafted into beats for police-protection purposes, should be revamped "so that a constable patrolling on foot may properly be held responsible for the locked up property."

The inspectors said their examination of police commission records showed Windsor had a full-time morality squad at one stage. The peak number of men on the squad was seven, in 1946.

"On Feb. 3, 1949, the matter of maintaining a separate morality squad was discussed by the commissioners and the chief and the deputy chief. It may or may not be significant but the morality squad was abolished forthwith and this morality work was carried out subject to the directions of the chief constable or the deputy chief. . ."

The inspectors referred to the case early this year of Joseph Assef, a convicted bootlegger.

"It developed that Assef was peddling liquor in Windsor and surrounding districts in a very extensive manner."

Stumble On Names

When provincial police charged Assef, "interest focused on the names which appeared in an address book of customers which included members of the Windsor police department."

"Assef appeared before Magistrate J. A. Hanrahan and the matter became public and was carried in detail in the press."

(The magistrate's accusation of "laxity" in city police enforcement led to a public inquiry conducted by Crown Attorney Douglas Bell of Chatham as special counsel for the Windsor Police Commission.)

The police commission, the inspectors wrote, concurred with Mr. Bell's finding that the hearing disclosed no specific instance of maladministration by anyone connected with the Windsor police department.

"Mr. Bell also indicated that it was his opinion there was a lack of esprit de corps in the Windsor police department."

Of the operating of disorderly houses "in close proximity" to police headquarters, the inspectors said:

"It is common knowledge that there was plenty of traffic to many of these places which operated openly and, in some instances for considerable periods without being molested by the police.

"It is true there were what might be termed 'abortive raids' on some of these places where some 'fall guy' would take the 'rap.'

"There have been many ugly rumors about members of the morality squad ever since Sgt. A. Innes (now retired) took charge, which have continued down through the years up to the present time."

The inspectors referred to a man they identified only as "A" who "has been in charge of betting and (horse-race) wire service in Windsor for almost the last decade and is still reported actively engaged in the racket."

"Recent developments also show that there are handbooks operating in Detroit which are under the sponsorship of 'A'". This becomes a most serious matter since the gambling interests in Detroit are vested in notorious gangsters."

The attempted murder of a man identified as "C," for which "B" got 20 years, and the mysterious disappearance of "D" and "E" are connected with "A," the Windsor gambling kingpin, the inspectors said.

More Tie-Ups

Later, men identified as "H" and "J" were arrested in Detroit for operating a handbook and "H" had said he was working for "A" and got his pay in a Windsor hotel.

"These two cases show conclusively the dangerous tie-up between the Windsor bookies and the big-time gangster syndicate in Detroit."

Records for the last five years "indicate that the few officers engaged in this (anti-gambling) duty have been fairly active and perhaps tried to stamp out this type of crime, but, at the best, they only succeeded in placing a check on some of the many violators."

"In spite of all their efforts, bawdy houses, betting houses, hand-books and bootlegging establishments continued to flourish."

The report said: "Authorities in Detroit blame Windsor for permitting the wire service to operate, claiming that the betting results emanate from Windsor, and it must be admitted that they might not be far wrong.

"Two of the leading Detroit newspapers have covered the Windsor set-up and know quite a few of the answers. It is claimed that the local paper, the Windsor Star, has given the police department an 'unfavorable press'. That is a question.

Blame Morality Department

"As may be expected, there can be inaccuracies in their stories, or blame may be foisted on the police department when not at fault, but for the most part their criticism is mostly on the theme of injustice. The matter of inequality in sentences meted out to offenders may lay outside this survey but much of the grief at Windsor rests with their morality department. . .

Windsor police salaries in general compared "very favorably" with those of other police forces.

Although discipline and morale did not seem up to scratch, the force had "many fine men and officers who have been doing a good job under trying conditions and in time their services will be recognized."

Finish — Casings are finished in durable baked enamel. The pleasing brown finish with gold veiling and smooth streamlined appearance, make these heaters attractive pieces of furniture.

Constant Level Oil Valve — This ingenious device is standard equipment on Findlay Oil Burning Heaters. It ensures a steady even flow, no matter what the level of the oil in the main tank. It also prevents flooding of the burner in case the burner flame should accidentally go out.

Water Pan — An efficient water pan provides the healthful humidity which is so often lacking in Canadian homes in cold weather — keep the water pan filled and you'll have a healthier atmosphere.

Oil Tanks — Each heater is regularly equipped with an oil tank of the capacity indicated in the specification given elsewhere. The heaters may, however, be connected to large storage tanks, according to directions in the manual which accompanies each heater.

Nickel Workers Ask Increase

PORT COLBORNE, Sept. 14—(CP)—International Nickel Company employees here and at Sudbury want a wage increase to supplement their pay under existing contracts, union officials said Wednesday.

The announcement was made jointly by Michael Kopinak, president of Local 637, and Nels Thibault, president of Sudbury Local 598 of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (Ind.).

Similar action is under way at the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company plants at Trail, and Kimberley, B.C., the announcement said. INCO management has been requested to reopen wage talks on contracts negotiated early this year.

Mr. Thibault, secretary of the union's national wage policy committee, said the action has been under discussion several weeks. A substantial wage increase is viewed as a matter of emergency due to a sharp rise in the cost-of-living index, he said.

The amount of increase sought was not disclosed.

BELIZE

The capital of British Honduras is Belize, with a population of 21,886.

IT STILL RUNS, TOO! — Manufacturers of early model automobiles boasted their products would last a lifetime and at least one of them has lived up to the claim. Shown here, a 1901 Oldsmobile, owned by Albert Garganigo of Princeton, Mass., chugs along Montreal's midtown Sherbroke Street at a comfortable pace. The car, taking part in an annual tour from Lake Placid, NY, to Rochester, NY, has held its own on the trip with shiny new models accompanying the veterans.

Raps Grading System On Canadian Hogs

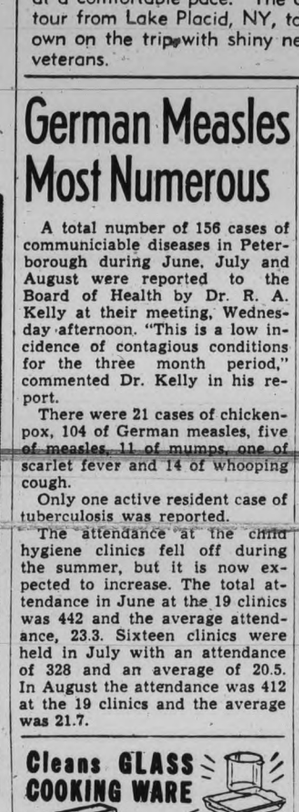
OTTAWA, Sept. 14 — (CP) — Senator R. B. Horner (PC, Saskatchewan) told the Senate Wednesday that the grading system used in the marketing of hogs ought to be abolished—then farmers wouldn't have to run their pigs around the pens to bring them down to weight.



He said the system whereby top prices were paid only on hogs that scaled between certain weights was an antiquated method that had hung over from the days when Canada was trying to please the British bacon market. As it had turned out any trouble Canadian bacon had had on the British market was not the fault of the hogs at all, but in curing methods.

German Measles Most Numerous

A total number of 156 cases of communiciable diseases in Peterborough during June, July and August were reported to the Board of Health by Dr. R. A. Kelly at their meeting, Wednesday afternoon. "This is a low incidence of contagious conditions for the three month period," commented Dr. Kelly in his report.

There were 21 cases of chickenpox, 104 of German measles, five of measles, 11 of mumps, one of scarlet fever and 14 of whooping cough.

Only one active resident case of tuberculosis was reported.

The attendance at the child hygiene clinics fell off during the summer, but it is now expected to increase. The total attendance in June at the 19 clinics was 442 and the average attendance, 23.3. Sixteen clinics were held in July with an attendance of 328 and an average of 20.5. In August the attendance was 412 at the 19 clinics and the average was 21.7.

34 Policemen Get Long Service Medals

TORONTO, Sept. 14 (CP)—Marking the first occasion in the history of Ontario that such service has been honored, 34 officers and constables of the Provincial Police force will be decorated with long service medals Wednesday.

The presentations, made by at-Attorney-General Porter, also will mark the official opening of the new police college on Sherbourne Street, the former home of the late John Ross Robertson.

Formerly located at Ajax, the College trains police officers for both provincial and municipal police forces. It was established by legislation to provide adequate training in all branches of police work, under provincial-municipal agreement.

OTTAWA, Sept. 14 —(CP)— A new block of Canada Savings Bonds, through which the government hopes to raise $300,000,000 or more, will go on the market Oct. 16.

The finance department said Wednesday that the new issue, fifth in a series, will be dated Nov. 1, and will bear the same interest rate as previous issues—2¾ per cent for 10 years. The bonds are redeemable on demand.

Lawyer Argues Car Stuck In Snow, Not Car

TORONTO, Sept. 14— (CP) — A lawyer argued Wednesday that a car stuck in a snowbank isn't a car at all.

Not within the meaning of the Criminal Code anyway, Charles L. Dudin told the Ontario Appeal Court. He asked that the conviction and seven-day sentence given Isaac Williamson for drunk driving be quashed.

Williamson, 45, was convicted in Whitby last Jan. 3 by Magistrate Frank Ebbs after police told of finding the motorist drunk in his car his car in a snowbank. County Judge D. B. Coleman upheld the magistrate's ruling.

The Appeal Court reserved judgment.

Killed By Train

TORONTO, Sept. 14 (CP)—Mrs. Mary Ravenscroft, 31, of nearby Alderwood, was killed Wednesday when she stepped in front of a Canadian National Railways passenger train at level crossing. Police called it suicide.

Last 3 Homes Completed By Contractor

Reynolds Construction Company has figuratively driven the last nail of their contract for building 326 houses for Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation. They have moved on to Barriefield and another contract for 207 Army housing units.

The last three houses of these final projects in Peterborough were turned over to Central Mortgage yesterday. There are some odds and ends of finishing touches still remaining, but they are of small account. The Reynolds Construction job is done.

The first project they undertook was for 226 houses, mostly in the south end of the city. Council then applied for another 100.

Problem Reduced

John W. Wocker, district supervisor for the Crown corporation, said today there were still on file applications for houses, but as reflected by that list Peterborough's housing problem of two years ago has been greatly reduced.

Reynolds Construction have closed their work yard on Monaghan Road and are also clearing out the similar headquarters in Ashburnham. The office on O'Connell Road will probably be closed within the next two weeks.

The last houses of the concluding project have been built in Ashburnham, on Ludgate St., in a new neighborhood of McFarlane St. which has been largely created by Central Mortgage.

See Big Change In Restaurants

"The impression of a general trend towards improvement in the city restaurants" was reported to Board of Health at their meeting Wednesday afternoon by Sanitary Inspector R. M. MacPherson.

"Regular visits to restaurants revealed no gross violation of the sanitary code. This general improvement is borne out by the fact that a number of proprietors are interested in obtaining our High Standard Certificate and are consequently renovating their premises so as to merit same," stated Mr. MacPherson.

Mr. MacPherson told the board that there had been a number of recommendations made regarding painting of kitchens, washrooms and care of garbage, and these suggestions had been carried out.

All food booths at the exhibition and at the two travelling shows were checked to guard against any outbreak of food poisoning or any nuisance being created.

Truck Turns Over Parked Car Damaged

A skidding truck toppled over on its side Wednesday afternoon striking a parked car as it did so. Damage to the two vehicles totalled $550.

The accident occurred on Highway 7, four and a half miles west of Peterborough, when the eastbound truck, driven by George Henderson, Ajax, skidded on the slippery road surface.

Henderson broke over a hill and found cars parked in a line along both sides of the highway. Another truck was approaching so he applied the brakes. As the Henderson truck toppled over the rack struck the front of a parked car owned by James W. Robertson, Bobcaygeon.

About $350 damage was caused to the truck and $200 to the car The accident was investigated by Provincial Constable A. C. Russell.

Centennial Service To Honor Edmisons

John Edmison, Jr., one of the five young men who made their way from Port Hope in May, 1818, to the eventual site of Peterborough, will be gratefully remembered in the centennial year service at St. Andrew's United Church Sunday morning Sept. 17. A bronze plaque will be dedicated in his honor as one of the original elders and a devoted member years before Peterborough's municipal incorporation in 1850. In co-operation with the minister, Rev. M. J. Aiken, and the membership of St. Andrew's, grandsons of John Edmison have been assigned principal parts in this ceremony of remembrance and tribute. It is expected that forty members of the Edmison family will be present from far and near.

A notable figure in the early history of Peterborough and its countryside, John Edmison will return in spirit next Sunday to St. Andrew's congregation in association with them and as representative of the men and women who built the church for the worship of God when this city was only a struggling backwoods settlement.

The inscription on the memorial plaque is as follows: "To the glory of God and in memory of John Edmison, Sr., 1790-1887. A Smith Township Pioneer (1818), one of the Founders of this Congregation (1833) and Elder for over half a Century.

And of his son, John Edmison, 1836-1894, an Elder of this Church.

And of his grandson, Rev. John Hall Edmison, B.A., D.D., 1871-1928. Secretary of the Board of Home Missions, United Church of Canada, whose widespread Church service commenced here."

To expand the personal aspect of this felicitously commemorative event at St. Andrew's, there is this record of the young man, John Edmison, when he first set foot on the townsite of Peterborough. It is quoted from the church history, written by the late E. Bruce Fowler.

In May 1818

"In the month of May, 1818, five young men crossed Rice Lake, their faces turned northward. They paddled up the Otonabee River and landed at nightfall at Spauldin's Bay. One of them made a fire by catching in some dry leaves a spark from his flintlock gun.

A supper, plain but nourishing, was eaten and all lay down under the spreading oaks and maples. Being weary, they did not dream nor see visions that night. But their position was significant. One of them, Adam Scott, was destined to be the founder of a city which should be built near the site where he was sleeping. Another of them, John Edmison, was to be a leading spirit on the formation, 15 years later, of St. Andrew's Church. Therefore, the roots of the congregation are firmly interwoven with those of the city and county of Peterborough."

Property of Great Grandson

John Edmison cleared a farm for himself as one of the earliest settlers of Smith township. It is in the third concession of Smith, and is now the property of his great grandson, Alex Iverson Edmison, clerk of the township. Associated with him in the management of the farm is his son, John Edmison, an active member of the Junior Farmers Club of this county.

Descendants of John Edmison have been given prominent parts in next Sunday's service. The plaque will be unveiled by his grandson, J. P. Edmison of Indianapolis, Ind., with remarks by another grandson, Rev. George A. Edmison, DD, of South Orange, N.J.

The Peterborough centenary address entitled "A Goodly Heritage" will be delivered by J. Alex Edmison, K.C., assistant to the Principal, Queen's University, Kingston, following prayer led by Rev. A. K. Edmison, Brighton, Ont.

These are items in the order of the service which will be conducted by Rev. Mr. Aiken.

Hymns selected for this memorial occasion are: "All people that on earth do dwell," which was the opening hymn May 2, 1886, when the new St. Andrew's Church was dedicated. Also "For all the Saints who from their labors rest" and "O God Our Help in ages past."

Biographical information of the family participants in the service follows:

Rev. George A. Edmison, DD, is a grandson of John Edmison, Sr., and a son of the Rev. Henry Edmison (1839-1924). He is a retired Presbyterian clergyman living in South Orange, NJ, and a graduate of Queen's University.

J. P. Edmison is a grandson of John Edimson, Sr., and a son of Percy Edmison (1844-1924). He is an editor of The Indianapolis Star, and a graduate of Yale University.

Rev. A. K. Edmison is a son of the Rev. T. J. Edmison (1835-1895), whose father, Thomas Edmison (1806-1895) was a brother of John Edmison, Sr. He is a retired United Church clergyman, now residing at Brighton, Ont., and is a graduate of the University of Toronto.

J. Alex Edmison, KC, is a son of Rev. J. H. Edmison, DD (1871-1928), and a great-grandson of John Edmison, Sr. He is a graduate of Queen's University, where he is now assistant to the Principal. He is also executive secretary of the John Howard Society of Ontario, an agency of prisoner rehabilitation.

After the service at St. Andrew's Church, the assembled members of the Edmison clan will have dinner at the old homestead of John Edmison. The occasion will be a reunion of the family in the present generation.

2 Nephews of Local Teacher Reject Protestant $10,000

When Miss Ambia Lila Going, A.O.C.A., art teacher at the Peterborough Normal School, died in June, 1937, her will set up a $5,000 trust fund for two young nephews, John David and Brian Michael Bradley, sons of her sister Mrs. John Dean Bradley of Toronto. This fund is now worth approximately $10,000, and John and Brian have come of age. John is 23, Brian 21. They may now enter into their inheritance if they fulfil the terms of the bequest, which is that they become "members and adherents in good faith and standing of a Protestant church".

If only one brother should qualify, he will get the entire fund. If neither qualifies, the money is to go to the United Church of Canada.

Won't Change Religion

This afternoon it was reported from Toronto that the two nephews have decided against changing from the Roman Catholic religion to the Protestant faith to obtain the bequests. Both John David Bradley, an employee of an oil company trucking department in Toronto, and his younger brother, Brian Michael Bradley, a first year medical student at the University of Western Ontario, say they do not intend to change their religion.

"What I never had, I won't miss," Brian said. "However, I'd like this to pass off as quietly as possible. I have no desire to stir up animosity among relatives who are not of my church."

The money will go to the pension fund of the United Church of Canada, in keeping with the alternative provision of the will.

To City In 1928

Miss Going's father, the Rev. A. H. Going, was a retired United Church minister when he came to Peterborough with his invalid wife in 1928 upon Miss Going's taking up the appointment of instructor in art at the Normal School, and supervisor of art training in the Peterborough Public Schools.

Last May an executor of Miss Going's estate applied to Chief Justice J. C. McRuer of the Ontario Supreme Court for direction, saying that neither nephew had qualified for the money. J. J. Robinette, counsel for the Bradleys, said the stipulation was invalid and asked that the money be paid without reference to their aunt's provision.

Wednesday the Chief Justice ruled that the terms were valid and suggested that the executors give the Bradleys the "fullest opportunity to comply" with the terms of the bequest. That gave them until December 31.

Talented Painter

Miss Going was a talented painter and a gifted teacher. She was an Associate of the Ontario College of Art. She came to Peterborough in January 1928, after a period of instructional work in the West. Her elderly parents moved to the city with her and took up residence on Dennistoun Avenue. Mrs. Going died some years later, and in 1936 the Reverend Mr. Going died suddenly. He had not been active in the ministry of his church while in Peterborough, though he occasionally supplied in local pulpits. Miss Going took ill in the late summer of 1936, and entered a Hamilton hospital in October of that year, where she died early in June 1937.

The family were members of Trinity Church.

By another of the terms of her will, all her paintings were left to the Toronto Art Gallery. She stipulated that a painting called "Old Bible and Candlestick", the work of her mother Margaret Hamil Going, be hung in the Toronto Gallery as part of her own gift collection.

The terms of Miss Going's will were made public in the Examiner 13 years ago, after it was probated in 1937.

Attempt To Rob Hall Store Fails

An elaborate attempt to rob the Richard Hall Ltd. department store on George St. failed when thieves were unable to crack open a safe in the basement.

The only loot they got for their trouble was a flashlight.

The thieves didn't try to break directly into the store building. They went into the Grand Central Apartment building and broke into an apartment by forcing a hall door. The occupants were spending the night at Chemong Lake.

From a bedroom of the apartment they climbed out through a window onto the roof. They then walked across the roof to the elevator tower of Hall's store. Climbing up a ladder to a door in the tower, they pried their way in and got down into the main part of the building through the elevator shaft.

They went to the safe in the basement where they knocked off the dial, but got no further.

Constable John Conlin carried out a preliminary investigation and Detective-Sergeant W. A. Clarke is conducting the inquiry.

Woman Injured Crossing Street Driver Charged

Mrs. Sarah Edwards, 62, Claraday P.O., was knocked down by a taxi on George at Brock St., about 10.25 p.m. Wednesday, but is not considered seriously injured by St. Joseph's Hospital officials today.

Taxi driver Floyd Michael, 690 Frank St., was charged in police court today with careless driving. He was remanded without plea on $1,000. bail to Monday. Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw told the court he was waiting to learn the extent of Mrs. Edwards' injuries.

Mrs. Edwards was walking in the cross walk on the north side of Brock St. from the west side of George St. to the east. When she had crossed the centre line of George St., she was struck by the taxi travelling south on George St.

When police arrived she was lying on the wet pavement near the curb. Blood from a cut in her scalp formed a pool of blood at a spot eight feet from the east curb. She also had scrapes on her forehead and arms.

Kaye's Ambulance was called and the woman taken to St. Joseph's Hospital.

Traffic Officer Claire McGillen and Constable Donald Jones investigated.

Family Of 12 Escape Burning Home

NORTHBROOK, Ont., Sept. 14 (CP)—Mr. and Mrs. Almonte Spicer and their 10 children, ranging in age from three-year-old twins to a 13-year-old girl, were left homeless early today when fire gutted their home. Northbrook is about 50 miles northwest of Kingston.

The fire, which started shortly after five a.m., is believed to have been kindled in pipes leading to the attic. Mr. Spicer first rushed to the well and tried to extinguish the flames. But as the fire spread he aroused his wife and children and rushed them from the house. All escaped without injury.

Mr. and Mrs. Spicer, aided by the children, barefoot and in night attire, managed to drag out a stove, washing machine, refrigerator and separator but were unable to salvage any clothing or other belongings.

An immediate campaign was launched in Northbrook to help the stricken family. Clothing was being gathered and temporary accommodation sought.

CHURCH LIT UP

Trinity United Church board has decided that the church building is too dark on week-nights when it is not being used. This week an automatic relay switch was put in operation, and now four lights on their pedestals in front of the church beam every night from the head of Simcoe Street from 7.30 to 10 o'clock. 'Twill be festive in winter snow.

Gets Fast Lesson

BRIGHTON, Sept. 14.—An official of the Argentine Government, in Canada to study police methods, received a start to his education on the subject Wednesday. A Belleville provincial police cruiser chased the Argentinian from Belleville to the outskirts of Brighton Township on No. 2 Highway. The South American was driving at a sped in excess of 50 miles an hour.

The case was settled out of court when the Angentinian appeared before I. B. Solomon, a justice of the peace, and paid $10 and costs.

City Employees Plan To Form New Labor Union

Employees of four city departments are drawing up plans to form an independent labor union.

About 140 from Sanitation, Board of Trade, Parks and Sewage Disposal are involved.

The immediate goal is a 10-cents-an-hour wage boost, but a spokesman said today that the employees are out for "a general improvement all around."

"We don't anticipate any friction with the city council," the spokesman commented. "We're still organizing and the men are all out for a shop union."

Committees have been formed in each of the departments and there will be a general meeting next Tuesday in the city building committee room. In the meantime the men are collecting data on similar unions, wage rates and general working conditions in comparable Ontario cities.

Liquor Store Shut On Wednesdays

From now on the Ontario Liquor Control Board store will be closed all day Wednesday.

Brigadier J. G. Spragge, Liquor Control Board Comptroller, announced today that beginning on Monday all liquor stores will remain open only five days a week. Choice of Wednesday or Thursday closing depended on the municipality. As Wednesday is a half-holiday for Peterborough merchants that was the day chosen here.

At present the stores are open six days.

Brigadier Spragge said the change results from difficulty in arranging for daily help in stores where employees work a five-day week.

"Daily help was necessary to allow employees a full day off during the week and the situation was greatly aggravated by sickness, other time-off emergencies, and holidays," the Comptroller said.

Bursary Winners Named Tonight

The three winners of the Board of Education $500 bursary will be announced tonight at the first meeting of the board since July.

In 1949, two students divided the $500 but this year it will be shared by three. Last Monday the Accommodations Committee and board members were scheduled to meet to review preliminary plans for the new collegiate. However, the architect, J. B. Parkin, Toronto, was ill and the meeting was postponed to Sept. 19.

City council has tenatively approved the expediture of $550,000 for the two-storey collegiate to be built on Monaghan Rd. S. A by-law authorizing this amount is being prepared and it will be submitted later this year to the ratepayers.

Immediate plans call for a collegiate accommodating 550 students but eventually there will be 1,000. As the city grows, rooms will be added.

'Shot At 30 Times' Charged As Mischief

George "Bud" Collins, north Water St., was charged in police court today with creating a public mischief by telling provincial police he had been shot at 25 or 30 times in Methuen township last June.

Collins, a prospector, pleaded not guilty to the charge and it was adjourned to Tuesday.

Collins was wounded, not seriously, and said someone had shot at him while he was in the bush. He spent a short time in the Apsley Red Cross Hospital.

CHOIR REHEARSALS

Members of all choirs participating in the special centennial service next Sunday evening are urged to be in attendance at their respective rehearsals this evening.

Volume of Retail Business Well Above City's Quota Sales Total $33,896,000

NEW YORK, Sept. 12—(Special to the Examiner)—Peterborough stands out as a rich market, with income and spending at a level above that of most other cities in Canada. This is brought out in a new, copyrighted survey of buying power, prepared by Sales Management, covering all sections of Canada and the United States.

The high standard of living prevailing in Peterborough is indicated by the volume of retail business done in the past year. The local stores registered a sales total of $33,896,000, which was well above the city's quota. On the basis of its population, it should have accounted for only .2605 per cent. of Canada's business. Actually, however, it did .3897 per cent.

This $33,896,000 sales record was a gain over the volume of business done the previous year, $30,675,000.

The ability of local families to spend more was made possible by better incomes. The 10,000 families in Peterborough attained a gross income of $36,116,000 in 1949. Dividing the one by the other yields a per family income of $3,612, which was higher than the $3,443 figure for Canada as a whole.

After analyzing Peterborough as to population, income, sales and other significant factors, the survey assigns to it a "quality of market" index of 124. This rating sets it 24 per cent. above the nation as a whole in sales potential.

Month In Jail For Stealing Scrap Metal

John Thompson, Bell Ave., was sentenced to one month in the county jail when he pleaded guilty in police court today to a charge of stealing a small quantity of scrap metal from the Outboard Marine Manufacturing Co. of Canada, Ltd. in August.

Detective - Sergeant W. A. Clarke testified he had received a complaint from the company that scrap metal, not exceeding $25 in value, had been taken from its lot west of Monaghan Rd.

Checking junk yards a few days later, Sergeant Clarke discovered the metal and learned it had been brought in by Thompson. He said employees of the company identified it as being metal belonging to the company.

He said Thompson had once before been found on company property, but had pretended to be drunk. The detective said pilfering from the scrap metal yard had been going on for some time.

Thompson told the court that although he had pleaded guilty to the charge, he had not actually stolen it. Children had taken it, he said, and brought it to his brother-in-law's home to try to sell it.

His brother-in?law refused to buy it and the children abandoned the scrap in a ditch. It lay there about a week before Thompson picked it up and sold it.

"But you pleaded guilty to the charge," Magistrate W. R. Philp said.

"I pleaded guilty because it is a fantastic story and I knew it wouldn't be believed. But that's exactly what happened," Thompson replied.

SERVICE IN ARENA

Next Sunday evening's special centenary service, scheduled to be held in the open air at the Exhibition Ground, has gone indoors. The week's cold and wet have led officials to arrange holding the mass service in the Civic Arena, Park St. South.

CONDUCTS NURSERY SCHOOL

Miss Janie Lauchlan, a former school teacher in Scotland, will conduct the Recreation Commission's nursery school this year at the Dixon House. Mrs. Joyce Taylor resigned the position recently. The school opens Monday.

Plan New Work In Improving Health Of City

"This is the first time that the Department of Health has had an adequate staff and satisfactory office accomodation," stated Dr. R. A. Kelly, medical officer of health in his report to the Board of Health Wednesday afternoon, at their first meeting in the new quarters at 515 Water St.

"I have no hesitation in saying that within the next few months the Board will witness, not only increased activity in our own program, but also in the introduction of new endeavours. This will result in increased health and happiness for the citizens of this municipality," continued Dr. Kelly.

The department staff was congratulated by chairman Ald. J. A. Dewart for their efficiency. He also expressed the appreciation of the Board for the overtime work done by the staff. The total moving expenses amounted to $316.

Pre-Natal Classes

A new venture on the part of the department will be the holding of pre-natal classes. These classes are expected to commence at the end of the month and will be held in co-operation with the YWCA. Members of the staff will make a trip to Oshawa, on Monday to study records and classes in that city.

At the close of the meeting the members were taken on a tour of the new quarters. The new members of the nursing staff who joined the department during the summer were introduced.

These nurses are Miss Francis Blue of Madoc, Miss Marian Van Exan of Smiths Falls, Miss Dorothy Walker of Galt and Mrs. Phyllis Pyburn of Peterborough.

Claiming Steel Shortage To Spur On Red Workers

By THOMAS HARRIS

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 14 —(Reuters)— The Kremlin-controlled Russian press is claiming a steel shortage to explain the scarcity of metal consumer goods such as farm machinery, bicycles and vacuum cleaners.

Inefficiency in the industry, the press says, is a main cause for the shortage.

Observers here believe, however, that steel output has not dropped but that steel is being diverted from civilian manufacture to production of war material.

It is believed that a recent conference called by the metallurgical industries ministry—ostensibly to see that this year's steel plan is carried out—was actually aimed at frightening steel leaders into forcing up production for the war industries.

Needs More Steel

Russia needs more steel if she is to match the western war potential. Her newspapers regularly spur the industry by criticizing it for inefficiency.

The trade union organ Trud blamed low output on costly breakdowns, bad "technological discipline" and dishonest bookkeeping which resulted in a factory's books showing a higher output than had actually been attained.

Moreover, there is too much "storming"—failure to work at a regular tempo at the beginning of the month, then rushing—and often spoiling—the goods in the last week, to turn out the scheduled monthly quota, Trud said.

Need Engineers

Observers here believe, too, that Russia is suffering from a shortage of fully-trained engineers. This belief is borne out by the increasing importance which the Russian press is giving to the work of "practicians," skilled craftsmen with a minimum of theoretical knowledge promoted to engineer's posts.

Finally, observers here believe that factory leaders are "hiding" production—a charge already brought against Armenian farmers by Isvestia. The farmers, Isvestia said, report a smaller production than they have actually attained so that their quota in the following year may be smaller.

First British Marines Training In Tokyo

TOKYO, Sept. 14 —(Reuters)— The first of Britain's Korea-bound Royal Marine commandos went straight into hard pre-battle training today within a few hours of arriving here by air Tuesday.

More of these rugged Marines, Britain's toughest fighters, came today. Their specific mission in Korea is secret.

They looked incongruous in their civilian clothes—worn to avoid frontier complications when their aircraft landed at foreign airports.

"We are getting on fine with the Yanks," said one Briton. "Marines are Marines everywhere, I suppose."

Blind Electrician Councillor Too

MONTREAL (CP) — Ivan Hunter, who climbs poles and wires homes as a professional electrician and still finds time to act as a councillor in Gooderham, Ont., doesn't have to worry about getting dirty looks from his customers.

He has been totally blind for 16 years.

Hunter, a delegate at the Canadian Institute of the Blind convention here, said he was pretty discouraged when he first lost his sight in 1934. However, he managed to learn electricity from Braille books and texts his wife Eileen read to him.

For a while he studied in automobile plants, bending pipe and setting up oil lines. Then with the help of the Canadian Institute he set up his business.

Although things were slow to begin with, his neighbors soon found the extra-sensitive fingers and good memory he had developed were sufficient to overcome his handicap. Now he's the busiest man in town.

Suggests Laurier House Be Used For Receptions

OTTAWA, Sept. 14 (CP).—The will of the late William Lyon Mackenzie King discloses that the former prime minister made a suggestion with regard to the use of Laurier House, his home left to the government as a historic monument and centre for research into Canadian history.

"While being made generally accessible to the public," Mr. King wrote in the will filed today in county surrogate court, "the residence might on occasions be used for official receptions or dinners or to provide for the entertainment of distinguished government guests."

This suggestion, inserted in the will, was written in pencil. The will, listing the various items Mr. King held in Ontario, disclosed that the largest item in his estate was a block of bonds totalling $547,432.

Total estate of the statesman who died July 22 amounted to $750,000. Of this, holdings in Ontario amounted to $681,252. The remainder was the value of his holdings in Quebec, including his summer home at near-by Kingsmere.

Details of Ontario holdings: Bonds, $547,432; Laurier House, $29,925; household goods and furnishings, $29,681; divers' securities, $25,678; insurance, $22,464; cash in bank, $22,043; automobile, $3,400; overpayment income tax, $299; clothing and jewelry, $200; dividend on Shawinigan water stock, $92; cash on hand, $32, and other personal property, $3.

Kentville Plant Refugees Open

KENTVILLE, N.S. —(CP)— A plant that was shut down here for about two years has been reopened by a couple of Czech immigrants and their first job is to pickle 1,000,000 pounds of cucumbers.

Validimar Fejtek, former owner of a large fruit and vegetable processing plant in Czechoslovakia, is manager of the pickling division of the plant—Canada Foods Limited. Ladislav Koldinsky, expert in the manufacture of pectin, a pickling ingredient, is the other member of the team. They are refugees from Communism.

Beginning Oct. 1, they plan to manufacture apple products, including pectin and apple juice. Koldinsky will be in charge of that operation and it is planned to run the plant—which will employ about 100—on a year-round basis.

Some 20 acres of cucumbers were raised by local farmers for Canada Foods. Many are canned as fresh cucumbers and others are pickled. The whole supply was produced within 20 miles of the plant and it is the first time in Nova Scotian history that a substantial acreage has been devoted to growing "cukes."

Believes Alberta Oil To Service All Canada

BANFF, Alta., Sept. 14 (CP). —Alberta's production of oil will equal requirements of all Canada in three or four years if the present rate of development can be maintained, Premier Ernest Manning of Alberta said Wednesday night.

Addressing the annual dinner of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, he told what oil has meant to Alberta and to Canada. Fourteen years ago the province had a debt of $160,000,000, on which interest alone took more than half the province's revenue of $16,000,000.

Today provincial revenues are more than $80,000,000. The public debt has been reduced by more than $56,000,000 and has been amortized so that it will be cleared off in 23 years.

Board Refuses To Touch Judges' Tiff

TORONTO, Sept. 14 — (CP) — Toronto Board of Control decided Wednesday it wants no part of the squabble between Mr. Justice W. F. Schroeder and Chief Justice McRuer.

Controller Allan Lamport, describing the three-day-old tiff as a "sitdown strike," wanted the city to ask the Ontario Attorney-General to intervene. Lamport's colleagues voted down the proposal.

Meanwhile there was no action in the civil actions section of the Provincial Supreme Court fall assizes, where 120 cases await action by Mr. Justice Schroeder. He still hasn't shown up.

Mr. Justice Schroeder had been scheduled to handle the criminal section of the assizes, which started Monday. Chief Justice McCruer, returning earlier than expected from Peterborough, took over, apparently because of a tradition whereby criminal cases are handled by senior judges.

There apparently were words between the two men. Mr. Justice Schroeder has spent his time at home, at the law library and his office. He's having nothing to do with the civil court.

Happy Quebec, Magic City Leaves Writer Goggle-Eyed

By JACK SCOTT

QUEBEC CITY, Que. — This ctiy is completely captivating. For our wandering family, whose appetite for new impressions has been dulled somewhat by too much travel, whose thoughts are turning more and more to home, Quebec has been a sparkling adventure.

I've written nary a line since we arrived two days ago, bringing myself perilously close to the deadline for this copy. The reason for this is simply that I cannot bring myself to confront the typewriter when that wonderful town waits but two miles away from the trailer's door for our exploration.

For the past two mornings we've arisen at an uncommonly early hour, rushed through breakfast, got into our best clothes and sped along the Chemin St. Foy, under the St. John Gate and into the heart of the city.

In other stops along our route its been the drill to look for stories, to find interesting people or situations that will feed the hungry mouths of a daily column.

Here, in Quebec, after two full days, I can only make the happy croak of the satisfied tourist and hope that it may have some contagious effect on those of you who've never been within the stone walls of this old and beautiful city.

So much for the days. As for the nights they have been occupied by a display of aurora borealis, or Northern Lights,, the heavens' evening performance to complete our day.

We set up the deck chairs on our private little ledge of grass overlooking the wide valley of the St. Charles, wrap ourselves in blankets against the cool of the September night and settle back for the indescribable show. Over the black silhouette of the Laurentians the sky is filled with a pale swirling ectoplasm, changing in color now from delicate orange to green to blue.

We sit, looking down into the town below with its narrow streets and gabled roofs and there the gracious little church of Notre Dame des Victoirie fronting on the 17th century market place. The heavy bells are ringing. The sound of children laughing comes up from the ancient town below.

Your eyes look beyond to the river where the squat, snub-nosed ferries shuttle through the white caps on the St. Lawrence to the town of Levis. Off to the east is the graceful span of the bridge to Ile D'Orleans. The river is alive with activity and its interesting to speculate on the scene as it must appear in winter.

The terrace and the square in front of the chateau, where you may rent a Victoria or Caleche with yellow-spoked wheels, is aswarm with tourists. So, too, is Cape Diamond, crowned by the citadel and, beyond, the Plains of Abraham. But a stroll in any direction will take you into the old and authentic cobblestoned alleys where you can feel that you are in another age.

Then it will be time for lunch and an introduction to snails, which no one will dare admit are a disappointment.

Regret, Desire

The essence of Quebec's charm is age. A modern city, even on such a magnificent site, could never have this deep an appeal for the outsider.

This is especially true for the great many New Yorkers who come this way and it is true for us, too, coming from a part of Canada where an old building is generally an eyesore and not a subject of reverence.

But it is more than that. Against this historic and very European backdrop there moves a population of such vivacity and outward charm that the visitor is enchanted.

"People look so happy," our 10-year-old observed yesterday and this is no more than the truth. On the other hand, maybe people are saying that about us.

Only one thing stands in the way of complete enjoyment of this environment and that is the language gap and we have made a solemn pact that before we come this way again something will be done about that.

A pamphlet on the city that I picked up yesterday had these words: "May the stranger leaving Quebec have only one regret: to be unable to stay here longer; and anyone desiring to be able to come back."

It sounds like a perfect description of these four strangers if we'd found Aladdin's Lamp.

Seats for Four

The past two days have been bright and blue with a stiff breeze that whips at the Union Jacks and Duplessis' flag of Quebec with its white cross and fleur de lis. The city stands under the live silk like a fortress in the sun.

It is not a city best seen from the windows of a car so we've been parking the station wagon up near the Chateau Frontenac and strolling about in discovery or merely sitting in the sun on a bench of the Dufferin Terrace.

Here, directly in front of the Chateau, there is a wide plank promenade hanging on the face of the rock, a position of great advantage for the heavy black cannon that defended these ramparts in tenser times or for today's goggle-eyed visitors.

So we sit, looking down into the town below with its narrow streets and gabled roofs and there the gracious little church of Notre Dame des Victoirie fronting on the 17th century market place. The heavy bells are ringing. The sound of children laughing comes up from the ancient town below.

Your eyes look beyond to the river where the squat, snub-nosed ferries shuttle through the white caps on the St. Lawrence to the town of Levis. Off to the

Back-To-School Days are busy days indeed for your youngsters. In and out of school, the children literally "burn up" the soles of their shoes with their activities. That's why I urge you to ask for NEOLITE soles for your youngsters' shoes. Not only does Neolite outwear leather over 2 to 1 . . . Neolite is healthy. It's completely waterproof, which means when pavements are wet — feet stay dry. And Neolite does not cause foot burning — perspiration — foot odours or itchy feet. It's more flexible than leather — truly kind to active, young feet. And you'll be glad to hear, mothers — it doesn't mark floors at all. So next time you buy shoes for the family — look for the Neolite name on the soles of the shoes you buy. It makes any shoe a better shoe. Insist on Neolite when you take shoes to be resoled.

Slays Mountie, Rossler To Die Dec. 15

MONTREAL, Sept. 14 (CP) — Husky Tom Rossler, who casually told escorting policemen how he shot down an unarmed RCMP constable, will die on the gallows Dec. 15 for murder.

He was sentenced Wednesday after one of the briefest murder trials in the history of the local Court of the King's Bench. The jury deliberated only 18 minutes before finding Rossler guilty of the slaying of Constable Alex Gamman here last May 25 during an unsuccessful bank robbery.

Rosler, 45, pursed his lips and shrugged his shoulders when the verdict was announced. He showed no other outward signs of emotion.

His attitude was similar to that he displayed when captured by a Montana sheriff in a little town south of the Saskatchewan border. While being taken back to Montreal by escorting RCMP officers, Rossler talked freely of the crime and admitted it was the end of the road for him. He had a long criminal record before the Gamman murder and his subsequent flight across the continent.

South African Mines In High Production

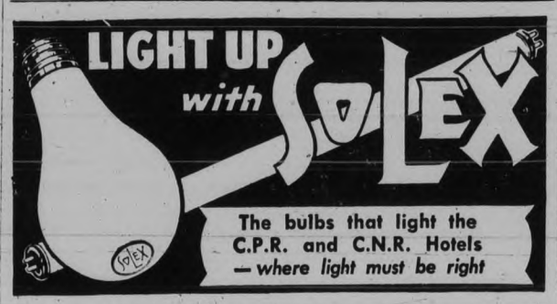
DURBAN, South Africa (CP).—Mining in South Africa is expected to experience its biggest boom in history as the flow of minerals across the Atlantic increases. The speeding up of production to place the United States on a war footing is netting huge orders for South African manganese, copper and asbestos.



Since the start of the war in Korea, there has been a steady increase in orders, and the South African Railways may grant priority for the trucking of ore to the ports. Every facility is being given at the ports to prevent delay in the loading of these valuable, dollar-earning cargoes.

The trucking of copper from Namaqualand to Capetown will be speeded up, and a suggestion has been made that Rhodesian copper exports should be shipped through Durban because of the congestion elsewhere.

The railways in general will have their work cut out for them with this extra traffic because of the increasing exports of manganese and coal through Durban.

Women's Extra Fat Not Evenly Spread

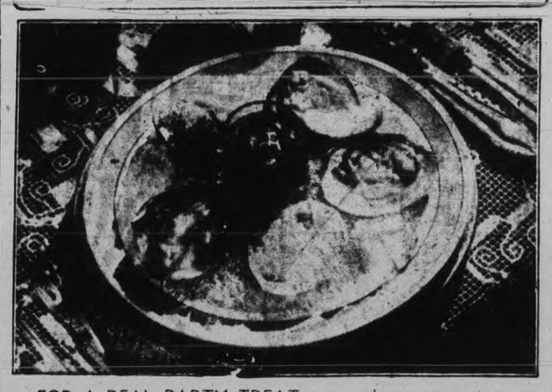
LONDON —(Reuters)— Fat women are not the shape they are supposed to be, a clothing manufactuurer said after measuring 500 outsize women at a vacation camp.

He measured women with hips from 42 to 66 inches.

"The accepted methods, handed down from grandma's day, have been to add an inch or two all round as the sizes get bigger," he said. "No-one seems to have realized that women do not all spread in the same direction, nor do they get larger all over proportionately."



Most women, he found, average 16 inches from neck to waist, with little variation. He said women's shoulders do not necessarily get wider as their hips get broader.

The manufacturer said he would use his data to prove the outside woman is not the shape the government says she is in its restrictions on the use of material in utility-style dresses.

Of Interest to Women

FOR A REAL PARTY TREAT serve clams or oysters on the halfshell with a tangy cocktail sauce.

COOKBOOK OF THE WEEK

Oysters On the Half Shell Perfect Beginning to Dinner

Have you ever wanted to serve clams or oysters and wondered just how to go about it? For the correct answer to this problem as well as the tasty serving of fish and seafood, you must see "250 Different Fish and Seafood Recipes," the ninth Cookbook released by The Examiner in its series of 24 Cookbooks being made available weekly to its readers.

Clams have a delicate, meaty flavor and should not be overlooked by the versatile hostess. Here are suggestions taken from the Fish Book on the selection and preparation of Clam Cocktail:

Clams

There are two general types of clams, the soft clams and the hard quahog clams. The latter group is divided into 3 classes: The littlenecks, small in size; the cherry stone, medium-sized; and the large chowder clams. The littleneck and cherry stone clams may be used uncooked.

When purchased the shells should be tightly closed or close at a touch as an indication of freshness. They may be opened with a knife or steamed upon

Clam Cocktail

Open clams with a knife. Arrange clams, in deeper half of shells, on a soup plate full of crushed ice. Sink small glass in center and fill with cocktail sauce. Garnish with parsley and lemon. Serve as soon as thoroughly chilled.

Both clams and oysters need to be set off with a delicious, piquant sauce and here is the proper recipe to use:

Oyster Cocktail Sauce

2 tablespoons tomato catchup
½ tablespoon lemon juice
¼ teaspoon salt
3 to 4 drops Tabasco sauce
1 teaspoon horesradish
¼ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce.

Combine ingredients, place sauce in small glass in center plate with lemon wedges. Serves 1.

If seafood is a favorite of yours, you will find many recipes in the Fish Book for cooking, baking or preparing it to suit your fancy. All you need do to obtain this Cookbook is clip a coupon from page 2 of any issue of this newspaper and present it with 25 cents at the Examiner office or from your Examiner Carrier Boy or at Braund's Home Food Markets. If you wish to order your copy by mail send the coupon with 30c (5c additional for postage and handling) to Cookbook Department, Examiner, Peterborough.

Frills Prohibited For Kilted Dancers

DUNOON, Argyllshire, Scotland —(CP)— At Cowal highland gathering here, a lassie must not wear lingerie under her kilt if competing in the highland dancing events.

Tartan pants or dark-colored "gym" bloomers are the written rule. The order followed reports that judges were occasionally distracted by the appearance of different types of frilly underwear.

Of Interest to Women

DOROTHY DIX

Sense of Humor Best Defence Against Other Women

DEAR MISS DIX: If you had proof positive that a woman with whom your husband works was manifesting more personal interest in the man than professional interest in her job, would you feel justified in using the power you possess in having her transferred from this particular job to one which she would not come into such close contact with your husband?

And have you any recipe whereby a wife's faith in her husband may be restored?

H. B. S.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: I am afraid there is no nostrum that will ever bring a wife's faith in her husband back to normal after it has once suffered an attack of the jitters. It will always thereafter be a little subject to agues and sinking spells. But I can recommend to you a good heart tonic that will pull you through if you use it as needed.

Dorothy Dix

Use your sense of humor. Tease him about his crush and about how easily he has fallen for the near-siren. Don't make scenes about it. When a wife does that it sends her husband back to the "other woman" to be sympathized with and comforted, and that is fatal.

I think you are exactly right in having the woman whom you suspect of having designs upon your husband transferred before she gets in any more of her work. Lots of men can stand anything but temptation. So the wise thing is to remove it out of their way.

Of course, wherever a man goes he is bound to be thrown in contact with attractive women, and a philanderer is going to philander no matter how much he is watched, but all the same there is no use in throwing temptation in a husband's way, or hiring Miss America for a parlor maid.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: Is it true that 85 per cent of married men are unfaithful to their wives? If so, why do the wives stand for it? Is it true that most wives are suspicious of their husbands? Is it true that 85 per cent of the wives are unfaithful to their husbands? Does a man lose his respect for his wife if she comes to his aid financially and if she waits on him a great deal?

WONDERING

ANSWER: I am afraid you will have to keep on wondering as to the number of husbands and wives who are philanderers, since there are no statistics on this subject. I can hardly believe, however, that the majority of married people are unfaithful to their mates. For most of the husbands and wives that we know give no evidence that they are treading the primrose path and conducting illicit affairs.

The reason that so many wives put up with their husbands' sidestepping is obvious. Many of them have to. Husband is the meal ticket. Without him they and their children would be homeless and foodless, and they shut their eyes to their husband's flirtations for the sake of safety. Many other wives put up with their husbands' unfaithfulness because they love well enough to forgive. They have no lives outside of their husbands and they would rather eat the crumbs of affection that they carelessly bestow upon them than starve for love away from them.

No man loses his respect for his wife if she helps him financially, or if she waits on him a great deal. On the contrary, he likes it. And occasionally he is grateful to her for it.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I know two sisters who are well educated, quite pretty and attractive, but they are extremely tall and it makes them self-conscious. They won't go with men who are not as tall as they are, because they think it makes them look "funny." Do you think their chances of being happy married is lessened by their height? MRS. L. D. J.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: I think there is something worse than being tall the matter with the girls. It is lack of common sense. For if they used their brains a little bit they would realize that their height doesn't matter a particle to anybody but themselves. Good husband material is not to be estimated by the yardage, and many little men who are short on size are long on intelligence, energy and initiative, and are the most desirable catches.

Two Barbecue Party Menus First Rate Before Snow Flies

By MARY MOORE.

You can kill two birds with one stone.

I am grateful to "Lazy Gracie" for asking me to suggest two entirely different barbecue supper menus.

It seems that she plans to have two such parties before snow flies and one couple are to be guests of honor at both of them—but the other folks will all be different at each party.

I have a similar problem so will use these menus for my parties too, and hope "Lazy Gracie" (isn't that refreshingly forthright for a pen name?) does not find them too much work.

Our family celebrates on every possible occasion—but this is the first time I ever heard of a bandtaking-off-party.

You see, Marianne, my seventeen-year-old, has had those wire things on her teeth for two years and next week they are to be taken off. Oh happy day when she can eat corn off the cob without strumming a tune. Those pearly teeth are straight though and ole hawk-eye Ma is content. I think the orthodontist should be the honored guest.

Outdoor Grill or Barbecue Menu

Blended fruit juices or apple cider; on toothpicks: watermelon cubes, olives, shrimps; bacon and egg bun sandwiches.

For the Dagwooders): sliced tomatoes, bread - and - butter pickles, sliced mild onions, corn on the cob.

Fresh fruit tray: cantaloupe wedges, ripe pears, Lombard plums, bananas; chocolate cake with orange frosting; marshmallows to toast; milk for young fry coffee.

There is nothing there that you could not do with your hands tied but I want to explain why I included some of the food.

People have to be kept entertained to be happy when a fire is being kindled and when food is being cooked over it. So we fill our red plastic glasses with fruit juice of some kind and ask two guests to keep passing the juice and the appetizers. The watermelon cubes are improved if dipped in lime juice which has been sweetened a little.

The bacon should be back, pickled or smoked. The eggs should be pan-fried longer than you would do them for breakfast —or they are too runny in the bun when you take that first big bite. Tell the Dagwood-type of sandwich lover to help himself to all of the trimmings.

To make it easier to butter the corn put a slab of butter or margarine cut lengthwise from the pound on a dish something like an old-fashioned spoon tray. One roll of a cob on that and it's buttered.

Outdoor Grill or Barbecue Supper Menu No. 2

Tray of Vegetable Juice Cocktails
Potato Chip
Frenched Beef or Pork Tenderloin or Calves' Liver and Bacon Squares and Onion Wedges on Skewers
Split Buttered Hamburg Buns
Dill Pickles Small Tomato Halves
Cole Slaw Pickled Beets
Apples wrapped in Silver Foil and Baked in or over the Fire
Baumert Cheese Gingerbread
Coffee Milk

NOTE—If the skewered meat idea is used it may be pan-fried on short wooden skewers or if you have them, long skewers may be used to cook them on and guests may barbecue their own. This is the most fun, of course.

Can Eat Meals Without Fear of Gas, Sour Acidity

Suffered Stomach Troubles For Years, Then Got Relief By Taking Syntona, Says This Woman. Now Nerves Relaxed, Free of Headache, Constipation

MRS. A. UBERIG

"For years I suffered misery with stomach disorders, but since taking Syntona I can eat most anything I want," said Mrs. A Uberig, 8 Clifford Street, West, Hamilton, Ontario, in a recent report.

"Awful gas and distress in my stomach used to be so bad I was afraid to eat. Often at night sour risings would come up in my throat making me cough and keeping me awake with a smothering sensation. Constipation, headaches, and dizzy spells were almost daily worries to me and my nerves were always on edge. I couldn't get my proper sleep. I felt rundown, and especially in the mornings I just had no energy.

"But that was some time ago, before I began taking Syntona and I have found this medicine to be so wonderful for me that I can now enjoy all my meals without fear of gas, sour risings, or any distress afterwards. It has also relieved constipation; I am free of headaches and dizzy spells and my nerves are so much improved that I sleep well and awaken mornings feeling rested and refreshed.

"I think every person who suffers this way should try Syntona. It has certainly been wonderful for me."

Yes, Syntona has helped thousands of men and women who formerly suffered from common disorders of the stomach, kidneys, liver and bowels, constipation, nervousness and rundown condition. Why not try it yourself? Today!

Syntona is sold and recommended in Peterborough at Elliott's Drug Store.—(Advt.)

Home and School Association News

HAVELOCK PUBLIC SCHOOL

"The Necessity of Margins in Our Lives" was the subject of an address given by high school principal J. H. Caskey on Monday evening when the Home and School Association resumed its meetings following the holiday season.

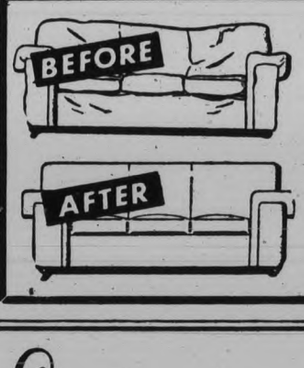
Each person has a certain sphere in which he moves, Mr. Caskey said, and when our sphere crosses another person's sphere if we do not have enough margin the result is the loss of temper, hard words and even violence. He spoke about the need for boundaries between countries and sometimes this line went through the centre of a body of water, leaving a margin on each side. There are other boundaries like the mythical lines be tween the western provinces and the U.S.A.

Uncertainty is the result of no margins, and Mr. Caskey gave the white line on the highways as a symbol.

In closing Mr. Caskey said we need margins to keep us from being doubted in the face of all; to make us persons who can be depended on; to keep us safe in life's moral, physical and spiritual emergencies and to enable us to stand and walk as free men before the whole world.

The health convener, Mrs. L. H. Cooke, spoke on "Swat That Fly." At this time of the year when cooler weather and the sweet odors of canning draws them to the doors.

George Heath of Trent River, entertained with a piano-accordion solo. The new Home and School song was sung by the gathering, with Mrs. R. Backus at the piano. The attendance shield and prize of a dollar was won by Miss G. Hunter's room.



The president, Mrs. H. J. McNeely, conducted the business session, during which she announced that the association would serve a tea for the mothers of the beginners' class on September 27, at 4.15 p.m. Mrs. F. McKay, program convener, presided for the program period. Mrs. L. H. Cooke moved a vote of thanks to Mr. Caskey for his address.

Refreshments were served at the close.
